PREFACE

This is a companion Volume to Part II-B in which Economic Tables B-I to B-IX have been presented. This contains Tables B-X to B-XVII. The scope of this Volume is similar to that of Part-II B, in that Tables will be presented with brief notes while the subsidiary Tables and inset Tables will be utilised separately for a discussion on the economic conditions of the State in the General Report.

There is, however, one basic difference between Part II-B and this Volume. Part II-B like other Tables of 1961 Census is based on individual slip using the citizen as the unit for study. In this Volume, however, the household is the unit of study. The data on which this study is based have been collected in a separate document called Household Schedule filled in during 1961 Census enumeration. The manner in which the Household Schedule was filled in and the contents will be indicated briefly in preliminary note appended to this Volume.

B series Table presented in this Volume thus relate to the economic data based on Household Schedule. The data relate to the extent of land under cultivation, nature of work in household industry and the number of persons who are employed therein as family workers or as hired workers. They represent a unique feature of 1961 Census, in that no such presentation of data has been attempted previously in Census history. In another sense, these Household Economic Tables supplement the data presented in General Economic Tables found in Part II-B.

The broad basis of economic classification is the division of the entire population into two classes—workers and non-workers. All the workers are divided into four broad categories—cultivator, agricultural labourer, household industry worker and others. The aim of allotting separate questions to cultivator, agricultural labourer and household industry worker was, as was explained in Part II-B to emphasise the importance of these classes in the economic life of the country. Both cultivation and household industry are practised to a greater extent in the rural areas as a household enterprise in this country. In order to study the economic aspects of these enterprises the Household Schedule was introduced. The Schedule consists of two parts. The first part is intended to collect information about household cultivation and household industry. The second part is the Census Population Record which seek to elicit information on the essential demographic data on all members of the household. Table B-XVII has been prepared on the basis of information collected in the Census Population Record.

Eight Tables have been presented in this Volume. They are based on the answers recorded in the Household Schedule and in the Census Population Record. B-X divides the households into important sectors of activity. B-XI and B-XII present data on household cultivation, B-XIV and B-XVI on household industry and B-XIII and B-XV on households engaged both in cultivation and households industry. Table B-XVII presents households on the basis of the number of members contained in each. Similar data based on households except for size of households have not been presented in any of the previous Censuses and no comparative study is, therefore, possible.

At the beginning of each Table, concepts used and the basis of classification have been explained. No conclusion has been expressed in this Volume which, however, can be found in the chapters devoted to Economic Tables in the General Report of 1961 Census.

PRELIMINARY NOTE

Introduction :

It is the tradition of the Indian Census to collect information on the economic activities of the people. The concept has, however, changed from Census to Census. The Tables presented from such data have given us an indication of the structure of our national economy. But the fact remains that the occupational data collected in the past Censuses have not thrown much light on those who worked in economic activities of the family but did not actually earn an income. Two such activities are participation (i) in household cultivation or (ii) in household industries. They form two main economic activities in rural India. Of the total households counted in 1961 in Madras 42% are engaged in cultivation and 6% in the household industry and 3% in both. Again out of the total workers in Madras State, 42% are engaged in cultivation and 8% in household industry. In order to get a proper picture of the economic structure, it is necessary to collect adequate data on the working force employed in cultivation and also in household industry. A new feature was, therefore, introduced in 1961 Census, i.e., the collection of economic data on the basis of the household treating it as an independent entity. From the particulars so gathered, eight Economic Tables have been prepared and will be presented in this Volume.

In addition to the improvements made on questions in the Individual Slip for the collection of economic data which have been explained fully in Part II-B Volume, a new document was introduced to collect information based on household as a unit. This document is known as Household Schedule and is reproduced in Appendix I. The instructions regarding the recording of answers to the questions in the schedule will be found in Appendix II. In the household scheduled, information on the extent of land cultivated by the household either as owned or held from Government or held from private persons or institutions on payment in money, kind or share, nature of household industry conducted by the household and the duration of an industry in a year along with the number of family workers and hired workers engaged in cultivation or household industry or in both were collected. On the back of the household schedule, a Census Population Record was prepared. It gave a list of persons enumerated in each household during the Census with the following details: age, marital status, sex and description of work if they were working.

What is a Household?

Household in 1961 Census refers to a group of persons who commonly live together and take their meals in a common mess unless the exigencies of work prevent any of them from doing so. This concept has been used from early Censuses. No departure has been made from what the concept stood for in 1951. Instructions issued in 1951 Census are as follows :

"Persons who are living together in this sense in the same building as numbered under the house numbering scheme and normally eating together at a place in the same or other building should be treated as constituting a household, if they are living under the general care and supervision, formal or informal, of one of themselves, who may be the senior most member of the family living there or the person earning the highest income in the household." It adds that a person who may have food in the same premises or eating in a hotel outside should be treated as member of the household. In 1951, the emphasis was on residence but in 1961 taking meals in a common mess was made the sole criteria. This was considered as one of the qualifications in the previous Censuses. Unrelated persons living together but taking meals in different hotels were treated as belonging to different households in 1961 Census.

It is interesting to note why the additional information has been collected on the household industry and cultivation in 1961 Census. For an analysis of the industrial structure of the nation, workers are generally grouped under broad sectors like 'Agriculture', 'Manufacture' and 'Commerce'. These categories which are followed by the advanced Western European countries are designed to be used in countries where the work tends to be highly individualised and clearly differentiated. In such countries, the farmer ploughs his field, the factory hands tend the machine, the mercer measures out cloth in his shop and the waiter serves meals in the restaurant. In India, more so in rural India, the pattern of life and work is not such that it can readily be broken into definite industrial sectors. The characteristic unit of the country is not an individual worker doing a specific job, but an entire household which may carry on a series of related activities. One family flays dead cattle, tans the hides and cuts and stitches the leather into sandals, carries sandals to the bazaar and sells them and subsequently repairs them whenever necessary. A fishing family makes its own nets, takes its boats to the sea for the catch, cures it and sells it. Among blacksmiths, brass workers, potters, and other artisans, a member of the family may both manufacture and sell. In Censuses of 1881, 1891 and 1901, these workers were recorded as "makers, sellers or makers and sellers of specified products". Whatever may be the formula employed, all suppliers of particular commodities were totalled under the industrial rather than the commercial head. As per our industrial classification "makers" include manufacture and sellers go under "trade". Similarly a typical small agriculturist is normally a cultivating and non-cultivating land-owner, tenant, farm servant and field labourer all rolled into one. It is difficult to distinguish between manufacture and trade and as such no method can be evolved whereby an individual can be classified either in Industry or in Commerce. It is, therefore, much sounder to treat household as a single entity and to compile statistics on that basis.)

Tabulation of Household Economic data:

In the past, data relating to the individual were tabulated. A beginning was made in the direction of using household for the preparation of tables by preparing a "Size and Composition" table of households in 1951 on a one in thousand sample basis, from the National Register of Citizens. But this is the first time that economic data have been collected and tabulated on the basis of households. Eight Household Economic Tables have been prepared from the Household Schedule and the Census Population Record. Tables B-X to B-XVII. Of these, B-X divides all households into three important categories of economic activity, i.e., (1) households engaged neither in cultivation nor household industry, (2) engaged either in cultivation or household industry but not in both, (3) engaged both in cultivation and household industry. Tables B-XI and B-XII present data on household cultivation, B-XIV and B-XVI on household industry and B-XIII and B-XV of households engaged both in cultivation and household industry. Table B-XVII shows family sizes of all households according to number of members.

These tables have been prepared on the basis of 20% sample of households. The Registrar General has indicated below why a cent per cent of the tabulation of the data collected in the household has not been attempted.

"The preparation of the Economic Tables for the next Census (1961) for the general population will definitely take more time and the cost is likely to be much greater than that of the 1951 Census. If tabulation of household tables is also undertaken for the entire body of Household Schedules, there will be further increases in time and cost; hence the decision to prepare the Household Economic Tables on a 20% sample basis". The 20% samples were selected on the basis of instructions issued by the Registrar-General, India which are reproduced below:

"For the purpose of tabulation every fifth household from the starting random household will be selected to make a 20% sample. The sample household will be marked continuously for rural areas of a tehsil/taluk and for urban areas of a district, i.e., households left over in a household pad should be carried over to the next household schedule pad for the selection of sample households.

Before marking the sample households, the household schedule pads should be arranged in the order of location code numbers of villages in a taluk or tehsil in the case of a rural area and in the order of the location code numbers of towns in a district for urban areas. The first sample household should be chosen randomly among the first five households in the first household schedule pad and stamped (S) as selected. This random number (random start) should be chosen separately for rural areas of each taluk/tehsil and for the urban area of the district. From the first random household every fifth household should continuously stamped as selected. A rubber stamp will have to be specially prepared for that purpose. The sample should be continuously marked for all the pads of villages in a tehsil and urban area in a district. If in a particular household schedule pad at the end, some households (these will be four or less) are left after the marking of the sample household, the households left over should be carried over to the next household schedule pad and the appropriate household in that pad should be marked as sample household".

The samples were then coded. The instruction followed for coding the sample slips is given in Appendix III. The sample slips after being coded were sent to the office of the Registrar-General, New Delhi where tables were prepared and sent to us.

The total number of households and the number of households included in the sample are given in a statement as Appendix IV. In selecting 20% samples, the institutions for which also the household schedules were filled in were left out. Institution refers to penal, charitable or mental institution, hotels, hostels, hospitals, boarding homes etc. As such the number of households furnished in the village Primary Census Abstract will not agree with the total number of households from which the 20% sample were selected. As already indicated, no comparable data have been collected in the past Censuses on the basis of sample households.

Agricultural data:

Agriculture is the main economic activity in Madras State. Approximately 60% of people in the State are engaged in this occupation. Agricultural sector consists of owner cultivators, tenant cultivators and cultivating labourers and rentiers. In any Census, the question of occupation is the most difficult to answer and this difficulty is more pronounced in the case of persons living on land. M. W. M. Yeatts writes in his 1931 Census report as follows:

"Men are habitually vague about their occupations. The answer 'cultivation' given so readily by witnesses in courts and in other enquiries may mean one of at least five quite distinct sources of livelihood, yet for ordinary purposes it is ample and is accepted as such. In Census enumeration one of the difficulty was to induce both enumerator and enumerated to understand why, what was accepted as sufficient particularly by judges, magistrates and so on should not satisfy the exigent Census officers". However, till 1941, Census enquiries have catalogued data under agricultural sector under the following headings:

i Cultivating owners

ii Non-cultivating owners

iii Cultivating tenants

iv Non-cultivating tenants

v Agricultural labourers or Farm labourers.

The Economic Classification Scheme adopted in 1951 set up four agricultural classes:

i Cultivators of land, wholly or mainly owned and their dependents.

ii Cultivators of land wholly or mainly unowned and their dependents.

iii Cultivating labourers and their dependents

iv Non-cultivating owners of land, agricultural rent receivers and their dependents.

Persons engaged in agriculture were divided into four classes on the basis of information collected under Question 10. The principal means of livelihood was elicited on the following basis:

1 for a person who cultivates land owned by him

2 for a person who cultivates land owned by another person

3 for a person who is employed as a labourer by another person who cultivates land

4 for a person who receives rent in cash or kind in respect of land which is cultivated by another person

Household Cultivation:

The definition of cultivation adopted in 1961 Census differs from that of the earlier Censuses. Cultivation involves ploughing, sowing and harvesting and does not include the growing or keeping of orchards or groves or working in plantations like tea, coffee, rubber, cinchona and other medicinal plants. A person is said to be a cultivator if he or she is engaged as an employer, single worker or family worker in (1) cultivation of land or supervision or direction of cultivation of land owned or held from Government, (2) cultivation of land or supervision or direction of cultivation of land held from private persons or institutions for payment in money, kind or share in the produce of crop, (3) it is not necessary that a person should own the land absolutely. Even if the land cultivated is held on lease or under a variety of tenures, the person will be entitled to be regarded as cultivator. Persons engaged in tree growing or working in plantations like tea, coffee, rubber and cinchona are not treated as cultivators. Persons engaged in cultivation involving ploughing, sowing, harvesting of cereal crops such as rice, wheat and maize, tuber crops like potato and sweet potatoes, sugarcane, Bengal gram, pulses such as groundnut, kesar and other grams, production of raw jute and kindred fibre crops and production of raw cotton are treated as cultivators. A person who leases out his land to others for cultivation and gets a return in shape of money or share of the crop who does not even supervise and direct cultivation of land will not be treated as a cultivator. Similarly a person working on another person's land as agricultural labourer and has no right or lease on the land on which he works, is not responsible for taking decision as to the kind of crop to be grown and is paid wages in cash or kind will not be treated as cultivator. If the head of the household and/or other members engaged in the cultivation, supervision or direction of agricultural operations, it is treated as household cultivation. The land in this case may be owned by any person in the household. The land under cultivation by the household may be held, owned or taken under different local rights. But to satisfy the definition of household cultivation, the land owned or held under cultivation by the household should be within the limits of the village or in adjacent village or within such a distance as would enable the household to work on the land or actively supervise the cultivation operations. The household cultivation will not include land owned or held in distant places where the distance itself is bar to active cultivation or constant supervision or direction.

The land cultivated by each household is recorded in the household schedule. No such information has been so far collected through Census schedule. The land under cultivation is classified as:

i owned or held from Government

ii held from private persons or institutions for payment in money, kind or share

iii land given to private persons for cultivation for payment in money, kind or share.

The area of land returned under the first two categories is correlated to the persons returned as cultivators under Question 8 in the Individual Slip. The area recorded under Question 1 under Sub-Part A 'cultivation' helps us in assessing the size of holdings. With information recorded under Sub-Part C1-members of family at household cultivation along with hired workers, if any, we can correlate the size of the household with the size of the family.

Tables on Household Cultivation:

Tables B–XI and B–XII deal with household cultivation.

TABLE B–XI presents data on households engaged in cultivation classified by interest in land and size of land cultivated. This is prepared for rural and urban separately. In Table B–XI, the interest in land is divided as follows:

1 Owned or held from Government

2 Held from private persons or institutions for payment in money, kind or share

3 Partly held from Government and partly from private persons for money, kind or share.

The holdings are grouped for tabulation into ten sizes.

1. Less than 1 acre
2. 1.0 — 2.4 acres
3. 2.5 — 4.9 ,,
4. 5.0 — 7.4 ,,
5. 7.5 — 9.9 ,,
6. 10.0 — 12.4 ,,
7. 12.5 — 14.9 ,,
8. 15.0 — 29.9 ,,
9. 30.0 — 49.9 ,,
10. 50.0 acres and above

This table gives information on the size of the holding. It will give an indication of the number of holdings likely to be deficit, self-sufficient and surplus for self-consumption.

TABLE B–XII presents data of households engaged in cultivation classified by size of land cultivated and number of family workers and hired workers. The size of the family is grouped as household with 1 person, 2 persons, 3-5, 6-10 and more than 10. This table is prepared for rural and urban separately. Hired workers here refer to workers other than family members who are engaged in whole-time employment and who worked during the last cultivation season or during the current cultivation season. This table will furnish information on the extent of rural under-employment and will yield data on the size and scale of agricultural enterprise.

Industries data:

No information on organised labour or family enterprise was collected in the earlier Censuses. In the case of persons engaged in the preparation and supply of material, distinction was made between those engaged in hand industries and those who are employed in mills or factories. In 1911, occupational returns obtained in the ordinary Census schedules have been supplemented by a special industrial return. Forms containing a number of questions affecting personnel and power were sent to every employer of ten or more persons. In 1911 an industrial establishment was defined as an establishment in which 20 persons are employed. In 1921 the definition was altered so as to cover establishments employing 10 persons and more. The Managers of all such establishments were required to send in returns giving full particulars about the ownership and management of the business. This separate study was given up in 1931. But in order to secure information on important demographic circumstances of organised labour, a fresh question was put in the Census schedule dealing with 'Industry in which employed'. This gave rise to constant difficulties. The data collected were also not tabulated for reasons of economy. Thus the question of industry was dropped and a special Census of small industries conducted in 1951. The scope of enquiry was to find out something about small industries whether it was cottage or home industry or whether it was based on small workshop, i. e.; where articles are produced, repaired or otherwise treated for sale. The enquiry was confined to cases where people are regularly associated with such work. Industrial establishments to which the Factory Act applied were excluded from the scope of the enquiry. Therefore, the enquiry has excluded industrial establishments covered by the Act, i.e. premises where 10 or more workers are working and were working on any day of the preceding twelve months and in any part of which a manufacturing process is being carried on with the aid of power or is ordinarily so carried on where 20 or more workers are working on any day of the preceding twelve months and in any part of which a manufacturing process is being carried on without the aid of power or is ordinarily so carried on. The Census, therefore, covered :

1 all active looms irrespective of the material woven
2 small miners; and
3 all associate activities as defined above to which the Factory Act does not apply (excluding, however, estates.)

In the enumeration of these small industries, the following questions were put:

1 Name of establishment or proprietor
2 Nature of the business
3 Number of owners
4 Do all the owners belong to same family or are there any outsiders
5 Is the establishment perennial or seasonal ? If seasonal for which months in the year does it work ?
6 Number of looms in textile establishments and meterial woven
7 Number of persons employed.

The establishments were grouped on the basis of I. C. E. C. Scheme. Three tables were prepared. Table I gave the distribution of small scale industrial establishments by localities. Table II gave the number of persons employed in textile establishments and Table III gave the number of persons employed in non-textile establishments. But the concept 'Household Industry' used in 1961 Census was not adopted in 1951.

Household Industry:

Household Industry is a new concept introduced in 1961. It is defined as industry conducted by the head of the household and/or by the members of the household or at home within the village in rural areas and at home in urban areas. It should not be run on the lines of a factory, viz. the establishment not using power should not employ 20 persons or more and should not employ 10 persons or more if some kind of power is used. It should be confined to the household scale where the workers will be composed of the head of the household and the members of the household, the role of hired workers from outside being of minor importance. But a household industry can use machinery and employ power like steam, electricity, oil, etc., to drive the machinery. Household industry should relate to the production, processing, servicing, repairing or making and selling of goods and should not be confined to the process of buying and selling only. Location is an important factor in classifying an industry as a household industry for proximity decides participation by members of the household. In rural areas, if the industry can be located within the village, then it is possible for the members of the household to move about freely in the village to look after the work. In urban areas, such free movement is not possible. Therefore the definition of the household industry is limited to industries which are located at home though part of the work may be done outside. Persons working in such household industries have been classified under the group " Household Industries ". Persons working unpaid or working as apprentices in other industries carried on by a household in which they are not members are also classified only under household industry.

Question 10 in the individual slip which relates to household industry seeks information on the nature of work and the nature of household industry and the status of the persons engaged in the industry. Sub-Part B of the household schedule correspondingly records particulars of household industry, i. e. nature of industry and the number of months in a year during which each industry is conducted. If there are more than one industry, they are entered. The number of family workers and hired workers, if any, is also recorded in Sub-Part C in Column 2 'Household Industry only'. The information on household industry and cultivation will give us an idea of the number of households producing for the market by cultivating their land and those producing goods for the market by conducting household industries.

Household Economic Tables on Household Industry:

B-XIV and B-XVI deal with household industry. B-XIV presents data on households engaged only in household industries classified by principal household industry. This table has been prepared for both rural and urban areas. This is in two parts. In Part A households are classified by major groups of principal household industry and the number of persons engaged in it. In Part B is given households classified by minor groups of principal household industry. The classification follows the groupings given in the Indian Standard Industrial classification followed for the individual slip. The description of codes relating to household industry is given in Appendix V. This table will indicate the scope of household industry, i. e.; how much is conducted for consumption and how much for the market.

The principal household industry classified by period of working and total number of workers engaged in it is given in Table B-XVI. This has been prepared for both rural and urban areas. In the household schedule, provision has been made to enter more than one household industry if conducted by the household. But we have only tabulated the principal household industry. This table will give data on the seasonal variation of different household industries and can be compared with the season of cultivation. The analysis of the data obtained from this table will also help us to compare the relative roles of the sectors in employment.

Tables on Households engaged both in Cultivation and Household Industry:

In India the size of the holding is comparatively small and does not facilitate economic cultivation. We have now collected information on the secondary occupation of the people when the area of land under cultivation by the household is small. We have also collected information on the types of industry that are complementary to agriculture. Tables B-XIII and B-XV try to establish some correlation between the size and scale of cultivation and size and scale of household industry. Table B-XIII presents data of households engaged both in cultivation and household industry with the size of land cultivated, classified on the basis of principal household industry. This has been prepared for rural and urban separately. Table B-XV presents data of households egaged in cultivation and household industry classified by size of land. This table has been prepared for rural and urban separately. They throw light on the household industries which are conducted as ancillary to cultivation in different parts of the country.

B-XVII Table on Size of Households

For the first time in Census history, a table on the size and composition of household was prepared in 1951 from the entries in the National Register of Citizens. It was prepared on the sample basis of the household in every thousand. The sample households selected included approximately every tenth household in every hundreth house numbering block in the rural areas and every fiftieth household in every twentieth house numbering block or locality in urban areas. This table was grouped under C series, i. e. ; Social and Cultural Tables and numbered as C 1.

This table provided information on size and family composition of sample households. It was considered by the Superintendent of Census Operations, Madras that this table which presented tract-wise figures of sample population will not be of interest to lay readers and was, therefore, not printed. It was, however, made available to Registrar-General, New Delhi and the State Government in manuscript. The table was split up and data on 'size of household' alone was printed with rural and urban breakup in District Census Handbook.

The scope and purpose of the Household Schedule in 1961 Census has been explained earlier. The Population Record in the back of the Household Schedule is an improved form of the National Register of Citizens. In addition, provision was made to collect particulars of the two main economic activities of the household, i. e.; of household cultivation and household industry. Thus the household schedule not only provides a frame for socio-economic survey by random sampling but also supplements the information collected on the economic activities of the individual.

In 1961 the table on "Size and Composition" of household has been prepared from particulars collected in household schedules. This table like all other household tables was prepared on the basis of 20% sample. It has been divided in two parts. The first gives the size of the sample households. Part II gives family composition of the sample households. The table on the size of the household is now grouped under B series and numbered as B-XVII under Household Economic Tables. Table on family composition is presented in C series under Social and Cultural Tables.

Table B–XVII presents data on sample households classified by size and participation in household cultivation or industry. The family size is divided as family with one member, i. e. Single member household, 2–3 members, 4–6 members, 7–9 members and 10 members and over. The size adopted in 1951 differs from what is followed now; the size of family adopted in 1951 is:

1 Small, i. e.; 3 members or less

2 Medium, i. e.; 4-6 members

3 Large, i. e.; 7-9 members

4 Very large, i. e.; 10 members and over.

There is no alteration in the composition of 'medium, large and very large' families. The family size is tabulated from the particulars entered in the Population Record.

The sample households in C1 Table of 1951 were shown separately under the four categories (1) Agricultural backward classes, (2) Agricultural non-backward classes, (3) Non-agricultural backward classes, (4) Non-agricultural non-backward classes. But the presentation of data in 1961 classifying households with reference to participation in household cultivation or industry etc., is noval and was not attempted earlier. In addition, the cultivating households are classified with reference to the size of holdings. These are additional information now collected and presented on the economic activities of the households along with its size.

APPENDIX II

Extract of instructions issued for filling up the Household Schedule and Census Population Record

Household Schedule

1. The household schedule is a new feature of 1961 Census and is intended to collect information on two main economic activities of all households in the country, cultivation and household industry, provided they are carried on by households. The statistics thus collected will be useful in measuring the economic growth of the country.

2. The household schedule should be filled in immediately after the individuals of a household are enumerated during the period 10th to 28th February 1961, and before you leave the household for enumerating the members of another household. This schedule is divided into three sub-parts. Sub-part A will record details about cultivation. Sub-part B will record details about household industry and Sub-part C will record details about the workers at cultivation or household industry or both. It is likely that a particular household will not be engaged in cultivation or household industry. Even then, this schedule will be filled in by you for that household by indicating the location code, name of the head of the household and marking 'X' against the columns in these sub-parts and a bold cross against all three sub-parts before affixing your signature with date. The following detailed instructions may be followed in filling up the schedule.

Location Code

3. As in the case of individual enumeration slip, the code number applicable to your unit with the house number and household number should be written by you in the space provided for the purpose. In this, house number means the number allotted under the Madras House Numbering System to a particular house and household number will be a, b and c. In case no house number is given to a particular house, 'X' will be used as the house number.

Is this an Institution?

4. If you are enumerating any penal, charitable or mental institution, hostel, hotel, hospital, boarding house etc., you should write the nature of the institution as the case may be, within the rectangle provided for the purpose.

Full Name of the Head of the Household

5. I have indicated in the detailed instructions for filling up the enumeration slip, the definition of the head of a household, which is to be written against Q. 1 (b). Please write the full name of the head of the household in this column.

Scheduled Castes/Scheduled Tribes

6. This relates to the head of the household. If the head of the household is a member of the Scheduled Caste or Scheduled Tribe in your State or in your district, you should write the particular S/C or S/T to which the head of the household belongs within the parallelogram provided for this purpose. In so doing, you will observe all the precautions indicated in filling up a similar column in the individual slip. After completing these entries you may proceed to fill up sub-parts A, B and C.

Sub-Part A Household Cultivation

7. (a) This sub-part will be filled if the household is engaged in cultivating land. It is the intention that members of the family should normally participate in such cultivation though their participation may be limited to direction or supervision and need not necessarily be the performance of manual labour on the field. You must be satisfied that the members of the household have some direct part in cultivation or in direction or supervision over cultivation, the intention being to exclude all forms of absentee landlordism. Land includes all land, normally used for cultivation including temporary fallows. Land under any of the items in sub-part A includes rent-free land, lands enjoyed in permissive possession or gifts without encumbrance or consideration. This sub-part is further divided into two, viz. A-1 and A-2. Under A-1, you will record details about the land cultivated by the household and under A-2 details of land not cultivated by the household, but given to private persons for cultivation in return for payment of money, kind or share. A-1 is further subdivided into A-1 (i) which pertains to land under cultivation by the household, the land being owned or held from Government and A-1 (ii) land under cultivation by the household, the land being held from private persons or institutions. In each of these categories, the extent of the separate plots or parcels of land which may be scattered in different places, owned, held or taken or given should be totalled and entered. Under no circumstances should you permit the person to give the approximate extent. You should insist on the actual extent in each case and find out the total. Rounding off to the nearest acre should never be done. The actual extent in acres and cents should be recorded in the appropriate column.

(b) The land under cultivation by the household may be held, owned or taken under different recognised local rights. Therefore, a number of lines have been provided for this purpose against A-1(i) and A-1(ii). A list of such local names on land in various parts of the State is appended to this booklet for your guidance as Annexure. If the household cultivates lands owned, held from Government or taken from private persons or institutions and has given land to private persons for cultivation purposes, you should ascertain the local name of the right on land and enter it against the column set apart for this purpose.

(c) Category A-1 (i) will include the total of the bits of land owned or held by virtue of possession as owner, e.g., land held directly from Government under a grant, lease or assignment with rights of permanent, heritable and transferable possession or with rights of permanent, heritable possession but without the right of transfer or temporary or conditional leases of any kind entered into with the Government. In some cases you may find that particular household is cultivating land by encroaching on Government land. The situation of encroachment on private land will not arise. If the household states that land cultivated by them is an encroachment it should be included under category A-1 (i).

(d) Category A-1 (ii), viz., land taken from private persons or institutions for payment of money, kind or share will include land with rights of permanent heritable and transferable possession, with rights of permanent heritable possession, but without the rights of transfer and those held in various tenancies or tenures which may be broadly classified as follows :-

i Tenants holding land with premanent and heritable rights whose land cannot be resumed by the owner on ground of personal cultivation (such tenants may have the rights of transfer also in certain cases).

ii Tenants who have been given permanent rights subject to the right of resumption by the owner (in some cases, the tenant has the right to acquire ownership. In other cases, he does not possess this right).

iii Tenants holding land in areas where interim measures have been enacted for the stay of ejectment or for continuing the leases for a specified period.

iv Tenants holding land under temporary leases who are liable to ejectment.

v Areas held on condition of rendering service either to a village, community or to the Government as in the case of service inams. (This also includes cases where labourers working on plantations are given bits of land for personal cultivation with permanent rights)

vi All lands taken for a fixed amount of money or a fixed amount of produce for a share of the produce or for which money is paid, partly in kind and partly in the shape of cash and land held free of consideration.

(e) Category A-2 will include all lands given to private persons, for cultivation, for payment in money, kind or share falling under the classification listed out under category A-1 (ii). This column will be filled in only in the cases of households which are engaged in household cultivation and have leased out lands to other private persons. It need not be filled in the case of households not coming under the earlier category, i.e., not engaged in household cultivation.

(f) For a household to be listed under categories A-1 (i) and A-1 (ii), the land owned or held and under cultivation by the household should be within the limits of the village or in adjacent villages or within such a distance as would enable the household to work on the land or actively supervise the cultivation operations. This will not include land owned or held in distant places where the distance itself is bar to active cultivation or constant supervision or direction. Before proceeding to fill up this column, you should conduct a preliminary enquiry about the extent of land owned or held for cultivation by the household and the number of family members including the head of the household working at household cultivation. Only when you are satisfied that there are family members engaged in cultivation, you should fill up this sub-part. Category A-2 will, however, include lands, situated in any part of the country.

(g) Ascertain the extent of land under each category of local right in acres and cents and record against the column " Area in acres ". You may write on a separate piece of paper the extent of separate plots or parcels under the same right if they are situated in different places and total them individually and separately for each local right. The total of all lands relating to each right should be entered in acres and cents, under this column. In the case of a household which is a member of a co-operative farm, you have to record the extent of land in the co-operative farm which belonged to it before the lands were merged into the co-operative farm and under the column 'right' you should enter the words 'Co-operative Farm'.

(h) If you are given the extent of land, convert them into acres and cents as indicated before. Do not round off the figures to the nearest acre. If it is not possible for you to give the extent of land in acres and cents, write the area as given to you in the local measure and indicate the nature of the local measure within brackets. Mark 'X' in all the places provided on the right hand side in bold letters if the household consists of only agricultural labourers without owning any land or households which do not engage in cultivation and put a bold cross against this column.

Sub-part: Household Industries

8. (a) Sub-part B relates to household industries. This will be filled in if the household is engaged in any household industry. The industry should be conducted mainly by the head of the household and/or members of the household. Hired workers can also be employed to assist them. The industry should not be on the scale of a registered factory and can use machinery and employ power to drive the machinery. The location of the industry should be in the house or within the village in rural areas and in the house only, in urban areas. The location is important in determining the nature of the industry. The household industry can embrace manufacture, processing, servicing or repairing and may include sale of products also. The process of buying and selling by itself will not make it a household industry. At least part of the goods offered for sale from the household should be manufactured or processed by the members of the household as a part of the household industry. The nature of the household industry has been explained in detail in Section II dealing with individual slips. A few illustrative examples have also been furnished in Section II. Examples of household industries have also been furnished in Annexure.

(b) This sub-part is divided into two compartments, the first relates to the nature of industry and the second relates to the number of months in a year during which the industry provides work to the household. The nature of the industry should be recorded in detail. In case more than one industry is being conducted, write the primary industry, i. e. ; the industry which engages the attention of the household for the major portion of the year and then the other industry or industries along with the products of manufacture. While recording the answers against the two compartments the number of months in a year during which the household is engaged will have to be ascertained and recorded. If the households is not engaged in any industry, mark 'X' against each compartment and a bold cross against the entire sub-part.

Workers in Cultivation and Household Industry

9. (a) Sub-part C relates to workers in cultivation and household industry. All details of the number of persons at work, i. e., head of the household, household members according to sex breakup and the hired workers engaged in household cultivation or household industry or in both will be recorded in this Sub-part. Sub-part C (1) will record the details of workers engaged in household cultivation only. C (2) will record the details of workers belonging to households engaged in household industry only while C (3) will record details of workers where both household cultivation and household industry are practised by a household. You should not total the numbers against C (1) and C (2) and enter it in C (3). Where a household is engaged both in household cultivation and industry, it should be taken up first and the number of workers entered against C (3). The prime test to identify a worker is whether that person is actually working in cultivation or household industry or supervising or directing work thereon. Even if any working members of the family or hired labourers are absent during the period of enumeration, they should be counted for the purpose of filling in the relevant columns in the household schedule.

Before filling up this Sub-part you should satisfy yourself as to whether details have been recorded in A1 (i) and/or A1 (ii) of Sub-part A or under Sub-part B or in both. Only if these Sub-parts have been filled in sub-part C will be filled in by you.

(b) Category C (1):—The following questions may be put to the informant to elicit the required information before filling in this column (1). If the household is engaged in cultivation, is the head of the household working? (2) How many other members of the family are working according to sex-break-up?

(3) How many of the workers are hired workers in whole-time employment who worked during the last cultivation season or during the current cultivation season? It will be necessary for you to explain what exactly is meant by household cultivation at this stage. The answers obtained may then be recorded as indicated below:—

If the head of the household is working write "1" in the column relating to head. Write the number of family members according to sex break-up in the columns relating to other males and females and total all the three columns and enter the figure in the column marked 'Total'. The number of hired workers should be entered in the column 'Hired workers'.

(c) C (2) and C (3):—In the case of Sub-parts C (2) and C (3) the same questions, substituting household industry for cultivation in the former and household industry and cultivation in the case of the latter may be asked and the particulars entered in the relevant columns. Where households are engaged in any of the three occupations, viz., cultivation, household industry and a combination of both mark 'X' against the columns which are inapplicable. Where the households are not engaged in any of the three categories mark 'X' against each column and put a bold cross against this sub-part.

Census Population Record

10. The form for the preparation of Census Population Record is printed on the reverse of the household schedule. The Census Population Record is intended to record particulars of the names of the members of the household, their sex break-up, relationship to the head of the household, age, marital status and the description of work in the case of workers. It is an improved form of the National Register of Citizens prepared in 1951. It is an important document and has to be filled in with care and caution. The particulars should be filled in with reference to the details recorded in the individual enumeration slip relating to each household. For the sake of convenience you may fill up the Census Population Record immediately after the individual slips for all members of household are prepared. The total of the members of a household will be worked out and entered in the appropriate columns according to sex break-up. You can verify the particulars by taking into account the number of new slips and cancelled slips relating to each household and checking it up with the total number of persons you have entered in the Census Population Record.

Revision of Census Population Record during Revisional Round

11. I have already indicated in section II that during your revisional round from 1st to 5th March 1961, certain individual slips may have to be cancelled or new slips prepared in the case of visitors who might not have been enumerated elsewhere and new born babies. It, therefore follows, that the Census Population Record should also be brought up to date after the revisional round to every household, with reference to the sunrise of 1st March 1961. As in the case of the individual enumeration slip, entries under "relationship to head" will have to be changed with reference to the corrections made in these slips if a person who was acknowledged as the head of the household has died. The marital status of the wife or husband of a head of a household will have to be changed suitably and corrections should be attested under your initials in the Census forms and schedules.

How to Prepare Census Population Record

12. The following instructions may be borne in mind while filling up the Census Population Record:—

Name :—Write the name against Q. 1 (a) of individual slip.

Sex :—Write the particulars recorded against Q. 13 of the individual slip.

Relationship to head:—Write the particulars recorded against Q. 1 (b) of the individual slip.

Age :—Write the figure recorded against Q. 2 of the individual slip.

Marital Status :—The answer recorded against Q. 3 of the individual slip should be entered here.

Description of the work :—In the case of a worker write here a brief description of the work done by a worker with reference to the answers recorded against Questions 8 to 11 of the individual slip. For this purposes, the principal item of work rounded off will be taken into account.

Total persons—Males and Females :—The individual totals according to sex break-up will have to be entered against this column.

TABLE B-XI—SAMPLE HOUSEHOLDS ENGAGED IN CULTIVATION CLASSIFIED BY INTEREST IN LAND AND SIZE OF LAND CULTIVATED

This table presents data of sample households engaged in cultivation classified by interest in land and size of land cultivated. It is presented for Rural and Urban separately. For Rural the figures are presented for State/District/Taluk. For Urban figures are given only for State and District.

The interest in land is divided as follows :

(i) Owned or held from Government

(ii) Held from Private persons or Institutions for payment in money kind or share

(iii) Partly held from Government and partly from private persons for payment in money, kind or share.

These legends are indicated in Col. I by abbreviations a, b, c, which are explained in full at the foot of each page.

Category I includes the total number of land holdings owned or held by virtue of possession as owner viz.; land held directly from Government under a grant, lease or assignment with rights of permanent, heritable and transferable possession or with rights of permanent, heritable possession but without the right of transfer or temporary or conditional leases of any kind entered into with the Government. Encroachment of Government land is treated as land held from Government, and is classified under Category I.

Category II includes land taken from private persons or institutions for payment in money, kind or share with right of permanent heritable and transferable possession, with right of permanent heritable possession, but without the right of transfer and those held under various tenancies or tenures which may be broadly classified as follows :

(i) Tenants holding land with permanent and heritable rights whose land cannot be resumed by the owner on ground of personal cultivation (such tenants may have the rights of transfer also in certain cases).

(ii) Tenants who have been given permanent rights subject to the right of resumption by the owner (in some cases, the tenant has the right to acquire ownership. In other cases, he does not possess this right).

(iii) Tenants holding land in areas where interim measures have been enacted for the stay of ejectment or for continuing the leases for a specified period.

(iv) Tenants holding land under temporary leases who are liable to ejectment.

(v) Areas held on condition of rendering service either to a village, community or to the Government as in the case of service inams. (This also includes cases where labourers working on plantations are given bits of land for personal cultivation with permanent rights).

(vi) All lands taken for a fixed amount of money or a fixed amount of produce or for a share of the produce or for which money is paid, partly in kind and partly in the shape of cash and land held free of consideration.

Category III : If the household had land cultivated under the above two categories, it is classified under Category III.

The holdings are grouped into 10 sizes in acres as follows : Viz ;

1.0	—	2.4	acres

TABLE B-XII—SAMPLE HOUSEHOLDS ENGAGED IN CULTIVATION ONLY CLASSIFIED BY SIZE OF LAND CULTIVATED AND NUMBER OF FAMILY WORKERS AND HIRED WORKERS

This table presents data of households engaged in cultivation only, classified by size of land cultivated and number of family workers and hired workers. Households having a particular size of holding mentioned in table B-XI are cross tabulated with reference to the number of persons working in cultivation. It is presented for Rural and Urban separately. The figures are presented for State, District and Taluk in respect of Rural. For Urban the figures are shown only for State and District.

The size of the holdings are same as in Table B-XI :

Less than		1 acre
1.0	—	2.4 acres
2.5	—	4.9 ,,
5.0	—	7.4 ,,
7.5	—	9.9 ,,
10.0	—	12.4 ,,
12.5	—	14.9 ,,
15.0	—	29.9 ,,
30.0	—	49.9 ,,
50.0 and above
and Unspecified.

The number of persons working is grouped under 1, 2, 3-5, 6-10, more than 10 persons and unspecified. Under each group family workers and hired workers are shown separately.

Family workers in household cultivation mean those members of the household who are engaged in cultivation by having some direct part in cultivation or in direction or supervision of cultivation. They need not necessarily do any manual labour. But absentee landlords are excluded.

Hired workers refer to workers other than family members who were engaged in whole-time employment and who worked during the last cultivation season or during the current cultivation season.

For definition of Household Cultivation see the Preliminary note.

Similar data on households engaged in Household Industry are presented in table B-XV.

FLY LEAF

TABLE B-XIII—SAMPLE HOUSEHOLDS ENGAGED BOTH IN CULTIVATION AND HOUSEHOLD INDUSTRY SHOWING SIZE OF LAND CULTIVATED CLASSIFIED BY PRINCIPAL HOUSEHOLD INDUSTRY IN RURAL AND URBAN AREAS SEPARATELY

This table presents households engaged both in cultivation and household industry. It shows the size of land cultivated by these households classified by principal household industry. This table is presented for Rural and Urban separately and figures are shown for District and State.

The size of land given in columns 4–13 is same as indicated in Fly Leaf to table B-XI and B-XII.

Principal household industry is that industry which is conducted for a greater number of months, by the household. Provision was made in the Household Schedule to record more than one household industry if practised by the household, but only principal household industry has been tabulated. For definition of household industry see the Preliminary note.

The Principal household industry in col. 2 is classified on the basis of Indian Standard Industrial Classification and is presented for Division and Major Group only. Household industry is covered under Divisions 0–3. For detailed description of the code numbers of the Divisions, Major and Minor groups see Appendix V to the Preliminary note.

Major groups of household industry that which have less than 10% figures of the respective Division are not printed in the main table, but are given in a separate Appendix. The affected Divisions are indicated in the main table by a mark of asterisk (*) against the particular Division. In the Appendix the number of the Major group (in figure) and in brackets the size of land (in abbreviation) and the number of households are given. The abbreviations are explained in the Appendix itself.

TABLE B-XIV—SAMPLE HOUSEHOLDS ENGAGED ONLY IN HOUSEHOLD INDUSTRY CLASSIFIED BY PRINCIPAL HOUSEHOLD INDUSTRY IN ALL AREAS

PART–A

HOUSEHOLDS CLASSIFIED BY MAJOR GROUPS OF PRINCIPAL HOUSEHOLD INDUSTRY AND THE NUMBER OF PERSONS ENGAGED

PART–B

HOUSEHOLDS CLASSIFIED BY MINOR GROUPS OF PRINCIPAL HOUSEHOLD INDUSTRY

This table presents households engaged only in household industry. It is prepared in two parts. Part–A shows the households classified by nature of principal household industry and the number of persons engaged. The classification of the industry has been done with reference to the Indian Standard Industrial Classification and presented for Division and Major Group. In Part B it is shown for each Minor Group.

The figures are exhibited for the Total/Rural/Urban for State and District. For the definition of principal household industry and its classification see Fly-Leaf to table B-XIII.

As in table B-XIII, in table B–XIV—Part–1-A, Major Groups of households that have less than 10% figures of the respective Division are not printed in the main table, but are given in a separate Appendix. The affected Divisions are indicated in the main table by a mark of asterisk (*) against the particular Division. In the Appendix the number of the Major Group (in figure) and in brackets the number of persons engaged (in abbreviation) and the number of households are given. The abbreviations are explained in the Appendix itself.

A person engaged in household industry is regarded as a worker only if he has some regular work for more than an hour per day. The number of persons engaged are grouped as 1, 2, 3–5, 6–10, more than 10 and unspecified as in table B-XII. For definition of household industry please see the Preliminary note.

Figures for workers in household industry can be found on the following tables based on the Individual Slips —B-I, B-II, B-III Part–A, B-IV, B-V, B-VII Part–A & Part– B.

TABLE B-XV

FLY LEAF

B-XV—SAMPLE HOUSEHOLDS ENGAGED BOTH IN CULTIVATION AND HOUSEHOLD INDUSTRY CLASSIFIED BY SIZE OF LAND

This table presents households engaged both in cultivation and household industry similar to that of table B-XIII. Table B-XIII gives a cross tabulation between the size of the holding and the nature of household industry in which the household is engaged as subsidiary to cultivation. In this table, the data are further analysed and given by a cross tabulation of the size of the holding with reference to the persons working in these households. This table is presented for Rural and Urban areas separately. The figures are presented for State, District and Taluk in respect of Rural. For Urban areas, they are shown for State and District only.

The size of the holdings are the same as adopted in tables B-XI, B-XII and B-XIII.

In Cols. 6 to 28 of this table cultivating households engaged in household industry are tabulated against the number of persons working in the households. The number of persons are grouped as 1, 2, 3-5, 6-10, more than 10 and unspecified as adopted in tables B-XII and B-XIV Part A. In cases where more than one person are employed, for each group the number of family workers with sex break up and hired workers are shown. Cols. 6 to 28 is consolidated and shown in Cols. 2 to 5.

Similar data in respect of households engaged in cultivation only are presented in table B-XII.

TABLE B-XVII—SAMPLE HOUSEHOLDS CLASSIFIED BY (i) NUMBER OF MALE AND FEMALE MEMBERS BY SIZE OF HOUSEHOLDS AND (ii) ENGAGEMENT (a) NEITHER IN CULTIVATION NOR IN INDUSTRY (b) IN HOUSEHOLD INDUSTRY ONLY AND (c) IN CULTIVATION SUB-CLASSIFIED BY SIZE OF LAND CULTIVATED

This table generally corresponds to C-1 table of 1951 Census. In 1951, C-1 table presented data of households with " Size and Composition ". Information on participation in cultivation and household industry etc. was not then collected. In 1961, two separate tables have been designed, one for the ' Size ' and another for ' Composition '. Table on the size of the household is presented under B series as Household Economic Tables. The other will be presented in C series.

Table B-XVII presents data on sample households classified by size and participation in household cultivation or industry or neither of them. For households engaged in cultivation separate particulars are given for each size of holding. This table is presented for the State and District with Rural and Urban break up with Totals. Separate particulars of holdings of households engaged in cultivation are not shown for Urban. The grouping of holdings is the same as in previous tables (i.e.) B-XI, B-XII, B-XIII and B-XV.

The family size is divided as family with one member (i.e.) single member household, 2-3 members, 4-6 members, 7-9 members and 10 members and over. The size adopted in 1951 differs from what is followed now ; the size of family adopted in 1951 was :—

1. small (i.e.) 3 members or less.
2. medium (i.e.) 4-6 members.
3. large (i.e.) 7-9 members
4. very large (i.e.) 10 members and over.

No change has been made in the composition of medium, large, and very large families.

Census household refers to a group of persons who commonly live together and take their meals in a common mess unless the exigencies of work prevent any of them from doing so. There is a slight distinction between a family and Census household. The household includes persons who are not members of the family, but are residing with the family during the Census period.

In a separate Appendix the total number of households and total household population are given with sex break up.

Total number of households shown in Col. 2 of the Appendix includes institutions. Institutions refers to penal, charitable or mental institutions, hotels, hostels, hospitals, boarding houses etc. and were excluded from the selection of sample households.

Total household population shown in Cols. 3 to 5 of the Appendix excludes institutional and houseless population.
