SECT. 1.

THE SHEMITIC LANGUAGES IN GENERAL.

1. THE Hebrew is but a single branch of a large stock of languages in Western Asia, which was native in Palestine, Phœnicia, Syria, Mesopotamia, Babylonia, Arabia: that is, in the countries from the Mediterranean Sea to the Tigris, and from the Armenian mountains to the south coast of Arabia. In early antiquity, moreover, it became diffused from Arabia over Æthiopia, and, by means of Phœnician colonies, over many islands and shores of the Mediterranean, but especially over the Carthaginian coast.

There is no name, sanctioned by long usage, for the nations and languages united in this stock. The name Shemites, Shemitic languages (suggested by Gen. x. 21, etc., where most of the nations using these tongues are derived from Shem) is, however, generally received at present, and may well be retained in the absence of a better.*

2. This Shemitic class of languages consists of three principal divisions: I.) The Arabic, which has its seat in the south of the territory of the Shemites. To this belongs Æthiopic (in Abyssinia) as a branch of the southern Arabic (Himyaritic).† II.) The Aramæan in the north and north-east; which is called Syriac, in the form in which it appears in the Christian Aramæan literature, but Chaldee, as it exists in the Aramæan writings of the Jews. To these writings belong some later portions of the Old Testament, viz., Ezra iv. 8—vi. 18, and vii. 12—26;

* From Shem were derived (Gen. x. 21, etc.) the Aramæan and Arabian races as well as the Hebrew, but not the Canaanites (Phœnicians), who are derived from Ham (vs. 6, 15, etc.), though their language is decidedly Shemitic. The Assyrian language has been proved, after long uncertainty, to be Shemitic, as might indeed be presumed, since Asshur also stands among the Shemites in Gen. x. 22; where too the Elamites stand, whose language is not yet ascertained.

† See Rödiger's Excurs zu Wellsted's Reisen in Arabien (Halle, 1842), Bd. II., S. 361.

‡ See Tuch in Z. Zeitschr. d. deutschen Morgenl. Gesellschaft, Bd. III., S. 129 ff.

Dan. ii. 4—vii. 28.* The Samaritan is an Aramæan intermixed with Hebrew forms, the idiom of the inscriptions upon the peninsula of Sinai, but more approximate to the Arabic.† The Aramæan of the Nassoræans (John's disciples, Sabians‡) is a very low and corrupt dialect, and just so the vernacular Syriac of the present day. III.) The Hebrew, with which the Canaanitish and Phœnician (Punic) stand in close connection, occupies in a measure, according to its character and geographical situation, a middle place between the Arabic and the Aramæan. As a separate and fourth principal division may be regarded the Assyrian (Old Babylonish) as it is found in the cuneiform inscriptions.§

All these languages stand to each other in much the same relation, as those of the Germanic family (Gothic, ancient Northern, Danish, Swedish; High and Low German in more ancient and more modern dialects), or as those of the Slavic (Lithuanian, Lettish; ancient Slavic, Servian, Russian; Polish, Bohemian). They are now partly wholly extinct, as the Phœnician, the Assyrian, and partly only exist in a degenerate form, as the modern Syriac among the Jews and Syrian Christians in Mesopotamia and Kûrdistan,‖ the Æthiopic in the newer Abyssinian dialects (Tigré, Amharic), and also the Hebrew among a portion of the modern Jews (although these in their writing aim especially at a reproduction of the Old Testament language). The Arabic is the only one that has, with little change, not only kept to this day its original abode, Arabia proper, but has also spread abroad on all sides into the regions of other tongues.

The Shemitic family of languages was bordered on the east and north by another still more widely extended, which became diffused under most diverse forms, from India to the west of Europe, and is called the Indo-Germanic, as embracing the Indian (Sanskrit), ancient and modern Persian, Greek, Latin, Slavic, and Gothic, together with the other German languages. With the ancient Egyptian, from which the Coptic is derived, the Shemitic came many ways into contact in very early times. Both have accordingly much in common, but in some respects they differ materially.¶ The Chinese, the Japanese, the Tartar, and other languages have a fundamentally different character.

3. The grammatical structure of the Shemitic languages has many peculiarities, which, as a whole, constitute its distinctive character, although many of them are found singly also in other tongues. These peculiarities are: a) Among the consonants, which always form the main body of these languages, are many gutturals varying in grade; the vowels, originating in the three primary sounds

(a, i, u), serve for more subordinate distinctions; b) most of the ra[illegible] consist of three consonants; c) the verb has only two forms of tenses, [illegible]riptions, peculiarly limited usage, and great regularity and analogy prevail in the for[illegible]rthern of verbals; d) the noun has only two genders and a more simple in[illegible]s is the of case; e) in the pronoun all oblique cases are indicated by appende[illegible]e to the (suffixes); f) scarcely any compounds appear in verbs or nouns (except [illegible]antique names); g) in the syntax is found a simple combination of sentences, w[illegible]nguage much periodic subordination of members.

4. In respect, also, to the character of their lexicography, the Shemitic ton[illegible]t of a vary essentially from the Indo-Germanic; yet they appear to have more in com[illegible]re it here than in their grammatical structure. A great number of stems and ro[illegible]o in resemble in sound those of the Indo-Germanic class. But irrespectively of exp[illegible]atest sions obviously borrowed (see below), the actual similarity is reduced, partly [illegible]liar words which imitate sounds (onomatopoetica), and partly to those in which the same, [illegible]al or a similar, sense results from the nature of the similarity of sounds, according to a universal law of human speech. All this, however, is insufficient to establish an historic (gentilic) affinity, which latter can only be proved by an additional agreement in the grammatical structure itself.†

As onomatopoetics, or roots similar in the nature of their sounds, may be classed together. לָקַק, לָחַךְ, λείχω, lingo, Sanskrit lih, Germ. lecken, Eng. lick [Welsh ‡ llio], French lécher; גָּלַל (kindred roots אָגַל, עָגַל) κύλλω, κέλλω, κυλίω, volvo [Welsh olwyn], Germ. quellen and wallen, Eng. to well; גָּרַד, חָרַם, חָרַת, χαράττω [Welsh carthu, craith], Persian kharîden, Ital. grattare, French gratter, Eng. grate, scratch, Germ. kratzen; פָּרַק, frango, Germ. brechen [our break, Welsh brech, briw], etc. An example somewhat different is am, ham (sam), gam, kam, in the sense of together. Hence in Heb. אֻמָּם (kindred word אֻמָּה people, prop. an assembling), עִם together with, גַּם (whence גַּם also), Arab. جمع collect; Persian ham, hamah, at once; Sansk. amâ, with, Greek ἅμα (ἄμφω), ὁμός, ὁμοῦ (ὅμιλος, ὅμαδος), and harder κοινός, Lat. cum, cumulus, cunctus [Welsh cym = Lat. com], with the corresponding sibilant Sansk. sam, Greek σύν, ξύν, ξυνός = κοινός, Goth. sama, Germ. sammt, sammeln. Notwithstanding, much in this list is of doubtful affinity.

† Gesenius has attempted, in the later editions of his Lexicon, and in his Thesaurus Linguæ Hebrææ, to exhibit the po[illegible]ts of contact between the Shemitic and the Indo-Germanic languages, and others have carried this comparison [illegible]arther, or taken it up in their own fashion. But it needs great caution and a comprehensive knowledge of the [illegible]lations of sounds in both families, in order to avoid error and deception, which present themselves in investigations of this kind more readily and frequently than in any other. In this process, it is as expedient to keep that distinct which does not bear all the marks of affinity, as it is to discover at a glance what is likely to contain all points of agreement. This, however, may be confidently relied upon, that these two parent-languages do not stand in a sisterly or any close relationship to each other, and that the characteristic structure of both must be dissected before we can discover the constituent elements which they possess in common. This comparative analysis, however, belongs to the province of the Lexicon rather than that of the Grammar.

The like transitions may have been brought about by Phœnician commerce.

5. As no alphabet is so perfect as to express all the modifications of sounds in language, so the Shemitic had from the beginning this striking imperfection, nat the consonants only (which indeed form the essential part of the language) were arranged in the line as real letters. Of the vowels only the longer ones, and even these not always, were represented by certain consonants (§ 7). It was not till a later period that all the vowels were indicated by means of small signs (points or strokes above and below the line, § 8) subordinate to the letters, but which were wholly omitted for more practised readers. These languages are written always from right to left.* However dissimilar the Shemitic written characters ay appear now, they have undoubtedly all come, by various modifications, from e and the same original alphabet, of which the truest copy now extant is the œnician, from which also the ancient Greek, and through it all other European, aracters were derived.

For a view of the Phœnician alphabet and of the oriental and occidental characters immediately derived therefrom, see Gesenii Monumenta Phœnicia, (Leipzig, 1837, Tom. 1.—III. 4to.) Tab. 1—5, comp. p. 15, etc., and his article Palæographie, in Ersch und Gruber's Encyclopädie, Sec. III., Bd. 9, with its proper illustration in Taf. 1. Through monuments, however, lately discovered, our knowledge of the Phœnician has become much enlarged and corrected.

6. In regard to the relative age of these languages, the oldest written works are, without regard to the earliest Assyrian inscriptions, found in Hebrew (see § 2); the Judeo-Aramæan begin about the time of Cyrus (in the book of Ezra); the

* The Æthiopic is the only exception; but its deviation from the Shemitic usage is probably an innovation by the first missionaries who introduced Christianity into Abyssinia, for its earlier mode of writing, as an ancient inscription shows, was like the kindred southern Arabic (Himyaritic), also from right to left. See Rödiger in d. Zeitschrift f. d. Kunde des Morgenlandes, Bd. II., S. 332, etc., and his Notes to Wellsted's Reisen in Arabien, II., 376, etc. The Assyrian cuneiform writing is also from left to right, but it is borrowed from a non-Shemitic people.

Arabic not till the earliest centuries after Christ (Himyaritic inscriptions, the Æthiopic version of the Bible in the fourth century; and the northern Arabic literature since the sixth century). But distinct from this is the question, as to which of these languages has adhered longest and most true to the original Shemitic character, or which of these has come to us in a more antique appearance of its development. For the slower or quicker progress of a language spoken by a people depends on causes quite distinct from the development of a literature; and often the structure of a language is materially altered, before it attains to a literature, especially by early contact with foreign tongues. So in the Shemitic department, the Aramæan dialects exhibit the earliest and greatest decay, and next to them the Hebrew-Canaanitish, and the Assyrian in its peculiar manner; the Arabic was the longest to maintain the natural fulness and original purity of its sounds and forms of words, being preserved undisturbed among the secluded tribes of the desert, until the Mahomedan revolution, when it suffered considerable decay. It was not till so late a period as this that the Arabic reached nearly the same point at which we find the Hebrew, even as early as the times of the Old Testament.*

This accounts for the facts (erroneously considered so very surprising) that the ancient Hebrew, in its grammatical structure, agrees more with the modern than with the ancient Arabic, and that the latter, although it appears as a written language at a later period, retains yet, in many respects, a fuller structure and fresher vowel system than the other Shemitic languages, and therefore takes a place among them similar to that which the Sanskrit occupies among the Indo-Germanic, or the Gothic in the narrow circle of the Germanic. The Lithuanian, as compared with the other tongues properly called Slavic, shows how a language may preserve its fuller structure even in the midst of decaying sister tongues. So the Doric preserved with great tenacity older sounds and forms; and so the Friesic and Icelandic among the German and Northern languages. But even the most steadfast and enduring structure in a language often deteriorates in single forms and inflexions; while, on the other hand, we find here and there, in the midst of universal decay, traces of the original and the ancient. Such is the case with the Shemitic languages. Even the Arabic has its chasms and its later growth; yet in general it is entitled to the precedence, particularly in its vowel system.

To establish and work out these principles would be the province of a grammar for comparing the Shemitic languages with one another. From what has been advanced, however, it follows—1) that the Hebrew language, as it appears in the ancient sacred literature of the Jews, has suffered more considerably in its structure than the Arabic, which appears later in our historical horizon; 2) that we are still not to concede to the Arabic the priority in all respects; 3) that, finally, it is a mistake to consider, with some, that the Aramæan, on account of its simplicity (occasioned, in fact, by derangement of structure and curtailing of forms), is the more original model of the speech of the Shemites.

Sect. 2.

SKETCH OF THE HISTORY OF THE HEBREW LANGUAGE.

1. This language was the mother tongue of the Hebrew or Israelitish people, during the period of their independence. The name, Hebrew language (לְשׁוֹן עִבְרִית, γλῶσσα τῶν Ἑβραίων, ἑβραϊστί,) does not occur in the Old Testament, and appears rather to have been the name in use among those who were not Israelites. It is called, Is. xix. 18, language of Canaan (from the country in which it was spoken). In 2 Kings xviii. 26 (comp. Is. xxxvi. 11, 13), and Neh. xiii. 24, persons are said to speak יְהוּדִית, Judaicè, in the Jews' language, in accordance with the later usage which arose after the removal of the ten tribes, when the name Jew was extended to the whole nation (Hag., Neh., Esth.).

Of the names Hebrews (עִבְרִים, Ἑβραῖοι, Hebræi) and Israelites, (בְּנֵי יִשְׂרָאֵל), the latter was more a national name of honour, and was applied by the people to themselves with a patriotic reference to their descent from illustrious ancestors; the former was probably the older and less significant name by which they were known among foreigners, on which account it is seldom used in the Old Testament, except when they are distinguished from another people (Gen. xl. 15; xliii. 32), or when persons who are not Israelites are introduced as speaking (Gen. xxxix. 14, 17; xli. 12; comp. the Lex. under עִבְרִי). The Greeks and Romans, as Pausanias and Tacitus, and so also Josephus, use only the name Hebrews. It may be regarded as an appellative, meaning what is beyond, people from the country on the other side, with reference to the country beyond the Euphrates, from עֵבֶר a land on the other side, with the addition of the derivative syllable ־ִי (§ 86, No. 5). This appellation might then have been given to the colony which, under Abraham, migrated from the regions east of the Euphrates into the land of Canaan (see Gen. xiv. 13). The Hebrew genealogists, however, explain it, as a patronymic, by sons of Eber (Gen. x. 21. Num. xxiv. 24).

In the times of the New Testament, the term Hebrew (ἑβραϊστί, John v. 2; xix. 13, 17, 20; ἑβραὶς διάλεκτος, Acts xxi. 40; xxii. 2; xxvi. 14;) was also applied to what was then the vernacular language of Palestine (see No. 5 of this section), in distinction from the Greek. Josephus, who died about A.D. 95, understands by it the ancient Hebrew as well as the vernacular of his time.

The name lingua sancta was first given to the ancient Hebrew in the Chaldee versions of the Old Testament, because it was the language of the sacred books, in distinction from the Chaldee, the popular language, which was called lingua profana.

2. In the oldest written monuments of this language, contained in the Pentateuch, we find it in nearly the same form in which it appears down to the Babylonish exile, and even later; and we have no historical documents of an earlier date, by which we can investigate its progressive development. So far as we can trace its history, Canaan was its proper home: it was essentially the language of the Canaanitish or Phœnician* race, by which Palestine was inhabited before the immigration of Abraham's descendants, with whom it was transferred to Egypt and brought back again to Canaan.

That the Canaanitish tribes in Palestine spoke the language now called Hebrew, is proved by the Canaanitish proper names; e. g. מַלְכִּי־צֶדֶק king of righteousness; קִרְיַת סֵפֶר book-town.

No less do the remaining fragments of the Phœnician and Punic language agree with the Hebrew. These are found, partly, in their own peculiar character (§ 1, 6) in inscriptions (about 130 in number) and on coins (see copies in Gesenii Monumenta Phœnicia, T. III. Tab. 6—48, and the explanations on pp. 90—328; Judas, Etude de la Langue Phénicienne, Paris, 4to, 1847; Bourgade, Toison d'or de la Lang. Phén., Paris, fol. 1852; De Luynes, Mémoire sur le sarcophage d'Esmunazar, Paris, 4to. 1856), and partly in ancient Greek and Latin authors, as, for instance, in Plauti Pœnulus, 5, 1, 2, where an entire piece is preserved. From the former source we ascertain the native orthography, and from the latter the pronunciation and vowel sounds, so that from both together we get a distinct notion of this language, and of its relation to the Hebrew.

Deviations in the orthography and inflexion of words are, e. g. the almost constant omission of the vowel-letters (§ 7, 2), as בת for בית house, קל for קוֹל voice, צרן for צִירֹן, כהנם for כֹּהֲנִים priests, and the feminine ending in ת (ath) even in the absolute state (§ 80, 2), co-existing with that of א (ô), and many others. More striking are the deviations in pronunciation, especially in Punic, where the ו is generally sounded as û, e. g. שֻׁפֶט sûfet (judge), שָׁלוּשׁ salûs (three), רש rûs = רֹאשׁ (head); and where we find the obscure obtuse y often in the place of short i and e, e. g. הֵנָּה ynnynnu (ecce eum), אֵת yth; and o for ע, e. g. מעקר Mocar (comp. מְעָכָה LXX. Μωχά). See a collection of the grammatical peculiarities in Mon. Phœnicia, p. 430, etc., and Movers' article Phönizien, in Ersch and Gruber's Encyclop., Sect. III. Bd. 24, S. 434, etc.

3. The remains of this language, which are extant in the Old Testament, enable us to distinguish but two periods in its history. The first, which may be called its golden age, extends to the close of the Babylonish exile, at which epoch the second or silver age commences.

. The former embraces the larger portion of the books of the Old Testament; viz., of prose writings, the Pentateuch, Joshua, Judges, Ruth, Samuel, and Kings; of poetical writings, the Psalms (with the exception of many later ones), Proverbs, Canticles, Job; of the earlier prophets, in the following chronological order:—Joel, Amos, Hosea, Isaiah, Micah, Zephaniah, Habakkuk, Nahum, Obadiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel. The writings of the last two, who lived and taught just before the commencement and during the first years of the captivity, as well as the latter part of the book of Isaiah (chapters 40—66, together with some of the earlier chapters †), stand on the borders of the two ages.

† For an able defence of the genuineness of the latter part of Isaiah, see Hengstenberg's Christology of the Old Test., vol. i., p. 398 ff., of Keith's translation, or in the American Bib. Repository, vol. i. p. 700, etc.; also Hävernick's Einleitung ins Alte Testament, §§ 217—220. That of the Pentateuch has also been successfully vindicated by many distinguished critics. See a valuable article on the subject in the American Bibliotheca Sacra, vol. ii., No. 6.— Tr.

The point of time at which we are to date the commencement of this period, and of Hebrew literature in general, is certainly as early as that of Moses, even if the Pentateuch, in its present shape and compass, be considered a work remodelled at a later period. For the history of the language, and for our present object, it is sufficient to remark, that the Pentateuch certainly contains some peculiarities of language which have the appearance of archaisms. When these books were composed, the words הוּא he (§ 32, Rem. 6), and נַעַר young man, were still of the common gender, and used also for she, and young woman (like ὁ παῖς and ἡ παῖς). Some harsh forms of words, e. g. צָעַק, צָחַק, which are common in these books, are exchanged in others for the softer ones, זָעַק, שָׂחַק.

On the other hand, in Jeremiah and Ezekiel are found decided approximations to that Aramæan colouring which distinguishes the language of the second or silver age. See No. 5.

4. In the books of the first period, which cover about 1000 years, we find considerable differences in language and style, owing partly to the difference of date and place, and partly to the individual gifts of the writers: e. g. Isaiah writes quite differently from the later Jeremiah, as also from his own contemporary Micah; and the historical books not only differ according to their dates, like Judges and Kings, but also contain older documents strikingly different in language and style from those of the later writer himself. Yet the structure of the language, and, with trifling exceptions, its store of words and its usage, are on the whole the same, especially in the prose works. But the language of poetry is everywhere distinguished from prose, not only by a rhythm consisting in measured parallel members, but also by peculiar words, forms, and significations of words, and constructions in syntax; although this distinction is not so strongly marked as it is, for example, in Greek. Of these poetical idioms, however, the greater part occur in the kindred languages, especially the Aramæan, as the ordinary modes of expression, and probably are to be regarded partly as archaisms, which were retained in poetry, and partly as enrichments, which the poets who knew Aramæan transferred into the Hebrew.* The prophets, moreover, in respect to language and rhythm, are to be regarded almost entirely as poets, except that in their poetical discourses the sentences run on to greater length, and the parallelism is less measured and regular, than in the writings of those who are properly styled poets. The language of the later prophets, on the contrary, approximates more to that of prose.

On the rhythm of Hebrew poetry, see De Wette's Commentar über die Psalmen, Einleitung, § 7.†

[The subject is briefly treated in the Reading Book at the end of this Grammar.]

Of poetical words, for which others are used in prose, the following are examples, viz., אֱנוֹשׁ = אָדָם man; אֹרַח = דֶּרֶךְ path; אָתָה = בּוֹא to come; מִלָּה = דָּבָר word; חָזָה = רָאָה to see.

* In Isaiah's time (2nd half of the 8th century before Christ) the more educated Hebrews, at least the officers of state, understood Aramæan, as is expressly mentioned in 2 Kings xviii. 26; comp. Is. xxxvi. 11.

† Translated in the Biblical Repository, No. IX.—Tr.

Under poetical significations of words may be ranked the use of certain poetical epithets for substantives, e. g. אָבִיר strong one, for God; אַבִּיר, do. for bullock, horse; לְבָנָה alba, for luna; יְחִידָה unica, or solitaria, viz. anima, vita.

Examples of poetical forms are, the longer forms of prepositions of place (§ 103, 3), e. g. עָלַי = עַל, אֶלַי = אֶל, עָרַי = עַר; the endings ־ַי, ־ָי, appended to the noun (§ 90); the suffixes מוֹ, ־ָמוֹ, ־ֵמוֹ for ם, ־ָם, ־ֵם (§ 58); the plural ending ־ִין for ־ִים (§ 87, 1). Among the peculiarities of Syntax, are, the far less frequent use of the article, of the relative, and of the accusative particle אֵת; the use of the construct state even before prepositions, and of the apocopated future in the signification of the common future (§ 128, Rem. 2); and in general an energetic brevity of expression.

5. The second or silver age of the Hebrew language and literature, extending from the return of the Jews from the exile to the time of the Maccabees, about 160 years before Christ, is chiefly distinguished by an approximation to the Aramæan or Chaldee dialect. To the use of this dialect, so nearly related to the Hebrew, the Jews easily accustomed themselves while in Babylonia, and after their return it became the popular language, exerting a constantly-increasing influence on the ancient Hebrew as the language of books, in prose as well as poetry, and at last banishing it from common use. Yet the Hebrew continued to be known and written by learned Jews.

The relation of the two languages, as they existed together during this period, may be well illustrated by that of the High and Low German in Lower Saxony, or by that of the High German and the popular dialects in Southern Germany and Switzerland; for in these cases the popular dialect exerts more or less influence on the High German, both oral and written, of cultivated society. It is a false impression, derived from a misinterpretation of Neh. viii. 8, that the Jews, during their exile, had wholly forgotten their ancient language, and were obliged to learn its meaning from the priests and scribes.

The Old Testament Scriptures belonging to this second period, in all of which that Chaldee colouring appears, though in different degrees, are the following, viz.—Ezra, Nehemiah, Chronicles, Esther; the prophetical books of Jonah,* Haggai, Zechariah, Malachi, Daniel; of the poetical writings, Ecclesiastes, and the later Psalms. These books are also, as literary works, decidedly inferior to those of earlier date; though this period is not wanting in compositions, which, in purity of language and poetic merit, scarcely yield to the productions of the golden age; e. g. several of the later Psalms (cxx. etc., cxxxvii., cxxxix.).

To this later form of the language, as affected by the influence of the Chaldee, belong.—
Words, for which others are used by the earlier writers; e. g. זְמַן time = עֵת; קַבֵּל to take = לָקַח; סוֹף end = קֵץ; שָׁלַט to rule = מָלַךְ.
Significations of words; e. g. אָמַר (to say) to command; עָנָה (to answer) to commence speaking.
Peculiarities of grammar; e. g. the frequent scriptio plena of וֹ and ־ֵי, as דָּוִיד (elsewhere דָּוֹד).

* See a defence of the earlier date and the genuineness of Jonah, in Hävernick's Einleitung ins A. Test., §§ 242—247.—Tr.

and even קוֹדֶשׁ for קֹדֶשׁ, רוֹב for רֹב; the interchange of ־ה and ־א final; the more frequent use of substantives in וֹן, ־ָן, וּת, etc.

We are not to regard as Chaldaisms all the peculiarities of these later writers. Some of them are not found in Chaldee, and must have belonged in early times to the Hebrew popular dialect, especially in northern Palestine, where, perhaps, Judges and Canticles [and Jonah] were composed; and hence we may account for the use in these more ancient books of שֶׁ for אֲשֶׁר (§ 36), which obtained also in Phœnician, and is found again in some later writings.

Remark 1. Of peculiarities of dialect in the ancient Hebrew, only a few slight traces are found. Thus from Judges xii. 6 it appears that the Ephraimites always pronounced שׁ like שׂ or ס; and in Neh. xiii. 23, 24, the dialect of Ashdod (of the Philistines) is mentioned.

2. It is not to be supposed that the remains of old Hebrew literature in our possession contain all the treasures of the ancient language. These must have been more copious and richer than they now appear in the canonical books of the Old Testament, which are only a part of the national literature of the ancient Hebrews.

Sect. 3.

GRAMMATICAL TREATISES ON THE HEBREW LANGUAGE.

(Gesenius's Gesch. der hebr. Sprache, §§ 19—39.)

1. After the gradual extinction of the Hebrew as a spoken language, and the collection of the books of the Old Testament into the canon, the Jews applied themselves to interpretation and criticism of the text, and to the preparation of translations of this their sacred codex. The oldest version is that into Greek by the so-called Seventy interpreters (LXX). It was executed by several translators, and at different periods of time. The work was begun with the translation of the Pentateuch, under Ptolemy Philadelphus, at Alexandria. Its design was to meet the wants of Jews residing in Alexandria and other Grecian cities, and was made, in part, from a knowledge of the Hebrew, whilst yet a living language. At a somewhat later period, the Chaldee translations or Targums (תַּרְגּוּמִין, i. e. translations) were made in Palestine and Babylonia. The interpretations, drawn in part from alleged traditions, relate almost exclusively to civil and ritual laws, and to doctrinal theology. These, as well as the equally unscientific observations on various readings, are preserved in the Talmud, of which the first part (Mishna) was composed in the third century of the Christian era, the second part (Gemara) not till the sixth. The Mishna forms the commencement of the modern Hebrew literature, while the language of the Gemara closely approximates to the Chaldee dialect.

2. To the interval between the conclusion of the Talmud, and the age of the first writers on the grammar of the language, is especially to be assigned the application of vowel-signs to the hitherto unpointed text (§ 7, 3). Of the same period is the collection of critical observations called the Masora (מָסֹרָה traditio), by which our received text of the Old Testament was settled, continued down in MSS., and from which it bears the name of the Masoretic text.

The various readings of the Q°ri are the most important and ancient portion of the Masora (§ 17). The composition of the Masora is not to be confounded with the task of supplying the text with the points. The latter is a work of earlier date and much more ability than the former.

3. The first attempts to illustrate the grammar of the language were made by the Jews, after the example of Arabian scholars, at the beginning of the tenth century. What was attempted by Saadia (ob. 942), and others in this department, is wholly lost. But there are still extant, in manuscript, the works of R. Jehuda Chayug (called also Abu Zakaria Yahya, about the year 1030), and R. Jona (Abulwalid Merwân ben Gannâch, about 1050), composed in the Arabic language. Aided by these labours, Abraham ben Ezra (about 1150), and R. David Kimchi (1190—1200), acquired a classical reputation as grammarians of the language.

From these, as the earliest writers on the subject, are derived many of the methods of classification and of the technical terms which are still in part employed; e. g. the use of the forms and letters of the verb פעל (formerly employed as a paradigm) in designating the conjugations, and the different classes of irregular verbs; the voces memoriales, as בְּגַנְרְכְּפַת, etc.*

4. The father of Hebrew philology, among Christians, was the celebrated Joh. Reuchlin (ob. 1522), to whom Greek literature also is so much indebted. He, however, as well as the grammarians down to Joh. Buxtorf (ob. 1629), adhered almost entirely to Jewish tradition. After the middle of the seventeenth century the field of view gradually widened; and the study of the kindred languages, through the labours, especially, of Alb. Schultens (ob. 1750), and N. W. Schröder (ob. 1798), led to important results in the science of Hebrew grammar.

To estimate correctly those works which have since appeared, and which are of permanent, scientific value, it is necessary to understand what is required of one who attempts to exhibit the grammar of an ancient language. This is, in general, 1) a correct observation and a systematic arrangement of all the phenomena of the language; 2) the explanation of these phenomena, partly by comparing them with one another, and with analogous appearances in the kindred languages,

Sect. 4.

DIVISION AND ARRANGEMENT OF GRAMMAR.

The division and arrangement of Hebrew grammar are suggested by the three elementary parts of every language; viz., 1) articulate sounds expressed by letters, and their union into syllables; 2) words; and 3) sentences.

The first part (which treats of the elements) contains, accordingly, instruction respecting the sounds, and the representation of them by letters. It describes, therefore, the nature and relations of the sounds of the language, teaches how to express the written signs by sounds (orthoepy), and shows how to write agreeably to established usage (orthography). It treats, moreover, of sounds as connected into syllables and words, and exhibits the laws and conditions under which this connexion takes place.

In the second part (which treats of grammatical forms and inflexions) words are considered in their quality as parts of speech. It treats, 1) of the formation of words, or the rise of the several parts of speech from the roots, or from one another; 2) of inflexions, i. e. of the various forms which words assume, according to their relation to other words, and to the sentence.

The third part (syntax) shows, 1) how the various inflexions of the language serve to modify the original meaning of words, and how other modifications, for which the language furnishes no forms, are expressed by periphrasis; 2) assigns the laws by which the parts of speech are united into sentences (syntax in the stricter sense).

SECT. 5.—THE CONSONANTS, THEIR FORMS, AND NAMES.

1. The Hebrew Alphabet consists of twenty-two consonants, some of which have also the power of vowels (§ 7, 2).

* For the sounds of the consonants and vowels in this table, see § 6 and note on § 8.—Tr.

† The Latin q serves well for the Shemitish ק (Greek κόππα), as it occupies its very place in the Alphabet.

2. The letters now in use, with which the manuscripts of the Old-Testament are written (called the Assyrian or square character), are not of the original form. On the coins of the Maccabæan princes, and upon some signet stones, is found another character, doubtless in general use at an earlier period, which bears a strong resemblance to the Samaritan and Phœnician letters (§ 1, 5). The square letter may also be traced back to the Phœnician; but it agrees best with certain Aramæan inscriptions found in Egypt, and with the Palmyrene.*

3. The five characters which have a different form at the end of a word (final letters),† ך, ם, ן, ף, ץ, terminate (with the exception of ם,) in a perpendicular stroke directed downwards, whilst the common form has a horizontal connecting line, directed towards the following letter.

4. Hebrew is read from right to left. The division of a word at the end of a line is not allowed. To complete a line, certain letters (dilatabiles) are at times dilated. These are in our printed books the five following:—

ם, ת, ל, ה, א, (אַהֲלֹתָם).

Remark 1. The figures of the letters were originally slight and abridged representations of visible objects, the names of which began with the sounds of the several characters; e. g. ⅂, ∧, the rude figure of a camel's neck, denotes properly a camel (גָּמָל = גְּמָל), but as a letter only the initial ג; ○ prop. eye, עַיִן, stands only for ע, the initial letter of this word. In the Phœnician alphabet especially, the similarity of the figures to the object signified by the names is for the most part still apparent, and even in the square character it is still preserved in some letters; e. g. א, ו, מ, י, ל, ר, ש.

The most probable signification of each name is given in the alphabet. [For further information, see the initial articles under the several letters in Gesenius's Hebrew Lexicon.]

However certain it is, on the one hand, that the Shemites were the first to adopt this alphabet, it is yet highly probable, on the other, that the Egyptian writing (the so-called phonetic hieroglyphics) suggested the principle though not the figures; for these hieroglyphic characters indicate, likewise, chiefly the initial sound in the name of the object sketched; e. g. the hand, tot, indicates the letter t; the lion, laboi, the letter l.‡

2. The order of the letters (the antiquity of which is clearly proved by the alphabetical poems in Ps. xxv., xxxiv., xxxvii., cxix., Lam. i.–iv., Pr. xxxi. 10–31) certainly depended originally on a grammatical consideration of the sounds, as we may see from the occurrence in succession of the three softest labial, palatal, and dental sounds, viz., ב, ג, ד, also of the three liquids, ל, מ, נ, and other similar arrangements (see Lepsius, sprachvergleichende Abhandlungen, Berlin, 1836, No. 1);

* On the ancient Hebrew signet stones, see Rödiger in d. Zeitsch. der deutschen Morgenl. Gesellschaft, Bd. III. (1849), S. 243 and 347.

† These letters are supplied with vowels and pronounced together, thus כְּמוֹנְפָּ֫ץ. Such voces memoriales were invented by the early Hebrew grammarians to assist in remembering certain classes of letters.

‡ See the works of Young, Champollion, and others, on the Hieroglyphics. Lepsius exhibits the chief results in his Lettre à M. Rosselini sur l'alphabet hiéroglyphique. Rom. 1837, 8vo. Comp. Gesenius in der Allgem. Litt. Zeitung, 1839. No. 77—81. Hitzig, die Erfindung des Alphabets. Zürich, 1840, fol. J. Olshausen über den Ursprung des Alphabets. Kiel, 1841, 8vo.

but other considerations and influences have doubtless also had some effect upon it, for it is certainly not a mere accident, that two letters representing a hand (Yodh and Kaph), also two exhibiting the head (Qoph and Resh), are put together, as is done moreover with several characters denoting objects which are connected (Mem and Nun, Ayin and Pe).

Both the names and the order of the letters (with a slight alteration) passed over from the Phœnician into the Greek, in which the letters, from Alpha to Tau, correspond to the ancient alphabet. Just so are the old Italic and Roman alphabets, and all directly or indirectly proceeding from them, dependent upon the Phœnician.

3. The letters are used also for signs of number, as the Hebrews had no special arithmetical characters or ciphers. But this usage [exhibited in the table of the alphabet] does not occur in the Old Testament text; it is found first on coins of the Maccabees (middle of the 2nd cent. B. C.). It is now employed in the editions of the Bible for counting the chapters and verses. As in the numeral system of the Greeks, the units are denoted by the letters from א to ם, the tens by י—צ, 100—400 by ק—ת. The hundreds from 500—900, are sometimes denoted by the five final letters, thus, ך 500, ם 600, ן 700, ף 800, ץ 900, and sometimes by ת = 400, with the addition of the remaining hundreds, as תק 500. In combining different numbers the greater is put first, as יא 11, קכא 121. Fifteen is marked by טו = 9 + 6, and not by יה, because with these the name of God יהוה commences; from a similar consideration also טז is written for 16 instead of יו. The thousands are denoted by the units with two dots above, as א֞ 1000.

4. Abbreviations of words are not found in the text of the Old Testament. On coins, however, they occur, and they are in common use by the later Jews. The sign of abbreviation is an oblique stroke, as יי׳ for יִשְׂרָאֵל, פ׳ for פְּלֹנִי aliquis, ונר for וְנוֹמַר et completio = et cætera [&c.], ׳׳ or ״ for יְהוָה.

Sect. 6.

PRONUNCIATION AND DIVISION OF CONSONANTS.

1. It is of the greatest importance to understand the original sound of every consonant, since very many grammatical peculiarities and changes (§ 18, etc.) are regulated and explained by the pronunciation. Our knowledge of this is derived partly from the pronunciation of the kindred languages, particularly of the yet living Arabic, partly from observing the resemblance and interchange of letters in the Hebrew itself (§ 19), partly from the tradition of the Jews.*

The pronunciation of the Jews of the present day is not uniform. The Polish and German Jews imitate the Syriac, while the Spanish and Portuguese Jews, whom most Christian scholars (after the example of Reuchlin) follow, prefer the purer Arabic pronunciation.

The manner in which the Seventy have written Hebrew proper names in Greek letters, furnishes an older tradition of greater weight. Several, however, of the Hebrew sounds they were unable to represent for want of corresponding characters in the Greek language, e. g. ע, ש, so that, to relieve

* Important aid may also be derived from an accurate physiological observation of the whole system of sounds, and of their formation by the organs of speech. See on this subject Liskovius's Theorie der Stimme, Leipzig, 1814; J. Müller's Handbuch der Physiologie, Bd. II. S. 179, etc.; also Strodtmann's Anatomische Vorhalle zur Physiologie der Stimme und der Sprachlaute, Altona, 1837. In its reference to grammar, see H. Hupfeld, von der Natur und den Arten der Sprachlaute, in Jahn's Jahrbücher f. Philologie, 1829, II. 4; and H. E. Bindseil's Abhandlungen zur allgem. vergleichenden Sprachlehre, Hamb., 1838. I. Physiologie der Stimm-und Sprachlaute, S. 1, etc.

the difficulty, they had to resort to various expedients. This is likewise the case in the transcribing of Hebrew words with Latin characters, as Jerome sometimes gives them according to the pronunciation of the Jews of his time. On the pronunciation of the present Jews in the north of Africa, see Barges in the Journ. Asiat. 1848, Nov.

2. The following list embraces those consonants the pronunciation of which requires special attention, exhibiting in connexion those which bear any resemblance in sound to each other.

1. Among the gutturals א is the lightest, a scarcely audible breathing from the lungs, the spiritus lenis of the Greeks; similar to ה but softer. Even before a vowel it is almost lost upon the ear (אָמַר ámar), like the h in the French habit, homme [or Eng. hour]. After a vowel it is often not heard at all, except in connexion with the preceding vowel sound, with which it combines its own (מָצָא mátsa, § 23, 1).

ה before a vowel is exactly our h (spiritus asper); it is also a guttural after a vowel at the end of a syllable (נֶהְפַּךְ nĕh-pākh); but at the end of a word it often stands in the place of a vowel, so that its consonant breathing is not heard (גָּלָה gālā), on which see § 7, 2, and § 14.

ע is related to א; and is a sound peculiar to the organs of the Shemitic race. Its hardest sound is that of a g slightly rattled in the throat, as עֲמֹרָה, LXX. Γόμορρα; עַזָּה, Γάζα; it is elsewhere, like א, a gentle breathing, as in עֲלִי, Ἠλί; עֲמָלֵק, Ἀμαλήκ. In the pronunciation of the Arabian, the first often strikes the ear like a soft guttural r, the second as a sort of vowel sound like a. It is properly as incorrect entirely to pass over ע, as some do, in reading and transcribing words with our own letters, e. g. עֲלִי Eli, עֲמָלֵק Amalek, as it is to read it simply like g. The best representation we could give of it in our letters would be gh or ʿg, though its sound is sometimes softer, as אַרְבַּע, something like arbaʿ, עֲמֹרָה ʿamora. The Jewish pronunciation of it by the nasal gn or ng is decidedly false.

ח is the firmest of the guttural sounds. It is a guttural ch, as uttered by the Swiss [and Welsh], resembling the Spanish x and j. While the Hebrew was a living language, this letter had two grades of sound, being uttered feebly in some words and more strongly in others.*

ר also the Hebrews frequently pronounced with a hoarse guttural sound, not as a lingual made by the vibration of the tongue. Hence it is not merely to be reckoned among the liquids (l, m, n, r), but, in several of its relations, it belongs also to the class of gutturals (§ 22, 5).

2. In sibilant sounds the Hebrew language is rich, more so than the kindred dialects, especially the Aramæan, which adopts instead of them the flat, lingual sounds.

שׁ and שׂ were originally one letter שׁ (pronounced without doubt like sh), and in unpointed Hebrew this is still the case. But as this sound was in many words softer, approaching to a simple s, the grammarians distinguished this double pronunciation by the diacritic point into שׁ sh (which occurs most frequently), and שׂ s.

שׂ resembled ס in pronunciation: it differed from this letter, however, and was probably uttered more strongly, being nearly related to שׁ. Hence סָגַר to close up, and שָׂכַר to reward, have different meanings, being independent roots, as also סָכַל to be foolish, and שָׂכַל to be wise. At a later period this distinction was lost, and hence the Syrians employed only ס for both, and the Arabians only

* In the Arabic language, the peculiarities of which have been carefully noted by the grammarians, the hard and soft sounds of ע and ח (as well as the different pronunciations of ר, ת, ע), are indicated by diacritic points. Two letters are thus made from each; from ע the softer ع Ayin, and the harder غ Ghain; from ח the softer ح Hha, and the harder خ Kha.

their س. They also began to be interchanged even in the later Hebrew; שָׂכַר = סָכַר to hire, Esr. iv. 5; שִׂכְלוּת for סִכְלוּת folly, Eccles. i. 17.

ז was like ds (hence in the Septuagint ζ), as צ was ts. It is well represented by the French and English z.

3. פ and ם differ essentially from כ and ת. The former (as also צ) are uttered with strong articulation, and with a compression of the organs of speech in the back part of the mouth.

3. The six consonants,

בְּגַדְכְּפַת (ב, ג, ד, כ, פ, ת)

have a twofold pronunciation:* 1) a harder, more slender sound (tenuis), as b, g, d, k, p, t, and 2) a soft sound uttered with a gentle aspiration (aspirata). The harder sound is the original. It is found at the beginning of words and syllables, when no vowel immediately precedes it, and is indicated by a point in the letter (Daghesh lene, § 13), as בּ b, גּ g, דּ d, כּ k, פּ p, תּ t. The aspirated sound occurs after a vowel immediately preceding, and is denoted in manuscripts by Raphe (§ 14, 2), but in the printed text it is known by the absence of the Daghesh. In some of these letters (especially ג) the difference is less perceptible to our ear. The modern Greeks aspirate distinctly β, γ, δ, and the Danes d at the end of a word. The Greeks have two characters for the two sounds of the other letters of this class, as כּ κ, כ χ, פּ π, פ φ, תּ τ, ת θ.

For the particulars as to when the one or the other pronunciation is applicable, see § 21. The modern Jews sound the aspirated ב as v, and the ת nearly as s, e. g. רֵאשִׁית reshis, רַב rav.

4. After what has been said, the usual division of the consonants, according to the organs of speech employed in uttering them, will be more intelligible and useful. The common division is as follows:—

a) Gutturals, א, ע, ה, ח	(אַהֲחַע)
b) Palatals, ק, כ, ג, י	(גִּיכֶק)
c) Linguals, ט, ת, ד, with ל, נ	(דִּטְלָנֶת)
d) Dentals or sibilants, צ, ש, ס, ז	(זְסָצֶשׁ)
e) Labials, ו,מ,ב,ף	(בּוּמֶף)

The letter ר partakes of the character of both the first and third classes.

The liquids also ר, נ, מ, ל, which have many peculiarities in common, are to be regarded as a separate class.

* Sound ת as t, ת as th in thick; דּ as d, ד dh as th in that; פּ as p, פ as ph or f; בּ as b, ב bh as v; גּ and ג both as g in go; כּ and כ both as k. If one wishes to give the aspirated sound of ג and כ, let him pronounce g and k, rolling the palate with the same breath; the former as the German g in sagen, and the latter as ch in ich.—Tr.

In the Hebrew, as well as in all the Shemitic dialects, the firmer and stronger pronounciation, which characterised the earlier periods of the language, gradually gave way to softer and feebler sounds. In this way many nice distinctions of the earlier pronunciation were neglected and lost.

This appears, 1) in the preference of the softer letters; e. g. פֻּעַ, פֻּעָה (see § 2, Rem. 3) Syr. פֻּעָה; 2) in the pronunciation of the same letter; thus in Syriac ע has always a feeble sound, while the Galileans uttered it, as well as ה, like א; in Ethiopic ዐ has the sound of s, ሐ that of ḥ.

SECT. 7.

ON THE VOWELS IN GENERAL, VOWEL LETTERS, AND VOWEL SIGNS.

1. That the scale of five vowels, a, e, i, o, u, proceeds from the three primary vowel sounds, A, I, U, is even more distinctly seen in the Hebrew and the rest of the Shemitic tongues than in other languages. E and O are derived from a blending together and obtusion of the purer vowels, viz., short ĕ from ĭ or also ă, short ŏ from ŭ; further, the long ê from the connexion of I with a preceding short A (AI), and the long ô partly from â, partly from the combination AU, according to the following scheme*:—

The more ancient Arabic adheres to the diphthongs ai and au, that is, with stronger consonants; e. g. שׁוֹר Arab. saur, עֵינַיִם, Arab. ainaim. It is only in the later Arabic they become é and ó, at least, with feebler consonants, as בֵּן, Arab. bain, bén, יוֹם, Arab. yaum, yóm. The close relation of those sounds is also sufficiently familiar from Greek and Latin, (e. g. Καῖσαρ, Cæsar; θαῦμα, Ion. θῶμα; plaustrum = plostrum), from the French pronunciation of ai and au, from the Germanic languages (Goth. auso, auris, Old High-Ger. óra, ear; Goth. snaivs, Old High-Ger. snéo, Schnee [snow]), and even from the modern German vulgar dialect (Oge for Auge, Goth. augô [eye]; Steen for Stein, Goth. Stains [stone]; comp. in Eng. ai in said, and au in naught).

In the present Arabic of the Beduins, the use of the vowels does not extend itself in the pronunciation so much beyond the three primary sounds, a, i, and u, as in the Arabic spoken in Syria and Egypt (see Wallin alluded to ante, p. 5, note), and the same is reported of the African Jews by Barges in the Journ. Asiat., 1840, Nov.

2. With this is connected the manner of indicating the vowel sounds in writing. As only three principal vowel sounds were distinguished, no others were designated in writing; and even these were represented not by appropriate signs, but by certain consonants employed for this purpose, whose feeble consonant powers, according to their nature, approximate so very much to the vowel sounds to be expressed. Thus ו (like the Lat. V) represented U and also O; י (like the Lat. J) represented I and E. The designation of A, the purest of all the vowels, and of most frequent occurrence, was regularly omitted,* except at the end of a word, where long a was represented by ה, and sometimes by א.† These two letters stood also for long e and o final.

* For the sound of these vowels, see note on § 8.—Tr.

[The four letters mentioned (forming the mnemonic אֶהְוִי eh'vi) are commonly called quiescent or feeble letters.]

Even those two vowel letters (ו and י) were used but sparingly, being employed only when the sounds which they represent were long, and not always then (§ 8, 4).‡ Everything else relating to the tone and quantity of the vowel sounds, whether a consonant should be pronounced with or without a vowel, and even whether ו and י were to be regarded as vowels or consonants, the reader was to decide for himself.

Thus, for example, קטל might be read qātal, qātēl, qātōl, q'tōl, qōtēl, qittēl, qattēl, quttal; דבר, dābhār (a word), dābhĕr (pestilence), dibber (he has spoken), dabbēr (to speak), dōbhēr (speaking), dubbar (it has been spoken); מות might be māvĕth (death), or mūth, mōth (to die); בין might be read bīn, bēn, bāyin.

How imperfect and indefinite such a mode of writing was, is easily seen; yet during the whole period in which the Hebrew was a spoken language, no other signs for vowels were employed. Reading was therefore a harder task than it is with our more adequate modes of writing, and much had to be supplied by the reader's knowledge of the living mother tongue.

3. But when the Hebrew ceased to be a spoken language, and the danger of losing the correct pronunciation, as well as the perplexity arising from this indefinite mode of writing, continually increased, the vowel signs or points were invented, which minutely determined what had previously been left uncertain. Of the date of this invention we have no historical account; but a comparison of

* So in Sanscrit, the ancient Persian cuneiform writing, and Ethiopic, short a alone of all the vowels is not indicated by any sign, but the simple consonant is pronounced with this vowel.

† The close connexion between the aspirates ה, א, and the A sound, ו and the U sound, י and the I sound, admits of easy physiological explanation, if we attend to the formation of these sounds by the organs of speech. The vowel A is formed by opening the mouth without changing the position of the organs; so also ה and א. U is sounded in the fore part of the mouth, with the lips a little projecting and rounded; so also ו [our w]. And I is formed at the fore part of the palate; so also י [our y]. E sounds at the back of the palate, between i and a; O in the under part of the mouth, between u and a.

‡ The Phœnicians did not indicate even the long vowels, except in very rare cases, and their oldest monuments have scarcely any vowel signs. (See Mon. Phœnicia, pp. 57, 58; and ante, § 2, 2.)

historical facts warrants the conclusion, that the present vowel system was not completed till the seventh century of the Christian era. It was the work of Jewish scholars, well skilled in the language, who, it is highly probable, copied the example of the Syrian and perhaps also of the Arabian grammarians.

See Gesch. d. hebr. Spr. S. 182 ff. and Hupfeld in den theolog. Studien und Kritiken, 1830, No. 3, where it is shown that the Talmud and Jerome make no mention of vowel points.

4. This vowel system has, probably, for its basis the pronunciation of the Jews of Palestine; and its consistency, as well as the analogy of the kindred languages, furnishes strong proof of its correctness, at least as a whole. We may, however, assume, that it exhibits not so much the pronunciation of common life as the graver style in reading the sacred books, which was sanctioned by tradition. Its authors have laboured to represent by signs the minute gradations of the vowel sounds, carefully marking even half vowels and helping sounds (§ 10), spontaneously adopted in all languages, yet seldom expressed in writing. To the same labours we owe the different marks by which the sound of the consonants themselves is modified (§§ 11—14), and the accents (§§ 15, 16).

The Arabs have a much more simple vowel system. They have only three vowel signs, according to the three primary vowel sounds. The Syriac punctuation is likewise based upon a less complicated system. It is possible that the Hebrew also had at an earlier period a more simple vowel system, but no actual traces of it are found.

Sect. 8.

THE VOWEL SIGNS.*

1. Of full vowels, besides which there are also certain half vowels (§ 10, 1, 2), grammarians have generally reckoned ten, and divided them into five long and five short. As this division is simple and convenient for the learner, it is here presented †:—

Long Vowels.	Short Vowels.

ֹ or ◌ֺ Chōlĕm, ō, קוֹל qōl, סוֹב sōbh.	ָ Qāmĕts-chātūph, ŏ, חָק chŏq.

* The vowels, as represented in this translation, are supposed to be sounded as follows:—ā or á like a in father; ă like a in fat; ā like a in fate; ĕ or é like e in there; ĕ like e in err; ī like i in pique; ĭ like i in pick; ō or ó like o in no; ŏ like o in not; ū like u in rule; ŭ like u in full.—Tr.

† It is not given in the six latest editions of the original.—Tr.

A more philosophic and useful exhibition of the vowels, according to the three primary vowel sounds (§ 7, 1, 2), is the following:—

First Class. For the A sound.

1) ◌ָ Qā'mĕts, ā, â, יָד yādh (hand), קָם qâm (he arose*).

2) ◌ַ Pă'thăch, ă, בַּת băth (daughter).

3) ◌ֶ Sĕghō'l, ĕ, è, as in the first syllable of יֶדְכֶם yĕd'khèm (your hand), פֶּסַח pèsăch (πασχα), where ◌ֶ has sprung from ◌ַ † yăd'khèm, and also in union with ◌ֵ as יָדֵיךְ yādèkhā, גְּלֵינָה glènā, like the French è in mère [which is like our e in there].

Second Class. For the I and E sound.

I
1) ◌ִ and ◌ָ long Chī'rĕq, ī, צַדִּיקִים tsăddīqīm (just ones).
2) ◌ִ short Chĭ'rĕq, ĭ, אִם ĭm (when).

3) ◌ֵ and ◌ֶ Tsē'rē, with and without Yodh, ê, ē, בַּיִת bêth (house), שֵׁם shēm (name). Very seldom ◌ֶ (defective, see No. 4) for ê.
4) ◌ֶ Sĕghō'l, שֵׁן shĕn (tooth), where it has proceeded from the form i, in the tone syllable è, חֹזֶה chôzè (seer).

Third Class. For the U and O sound.

U
1) וּ Shū'rĕq, û, מוּת mûth (to die).
2) ◌ֻ Qĭbbū'ts, ŭ, סֻלָּם sŭllām (ladder), but also û, written defectively (see No. 4), instead of Shureq, מֻתִּי mûthī (my dying).

O
3) וֹ and ◌ֹ Chŏ'lĕm, ô, ō, קוֹל qôl (voice), רֹב rōbh (multitude).
4) (◌ָ) Qā'mĕts-chātū'ph, ŏ, חָק chŏq (statute).

5) also ◌ֲ, obtuse ĕ, so far as it springs from u or o, as in אַתֶּם ăttèm (ye), אֶת ĕth (from אוֹת).

The names of the vowels are nearly all taken from the form and action of the mouth in uttering the sounds. Thus, פָּתַח signifies opening, צֵרִי (also שָׂרָק) bursting (of the mouth), חִירִק gnashing, חוֹלָם fulness, from its full tone (also מְלֹא פוּם full mouth), שׁוּרֶק properly συριγμός, קִבּוּץ closing (of the mouth). This last meaning belongs also to קָמָץ; and the reason, why long a and short o (קָמָץ חָטוּף Qamets correptum) have the same sign and name, seems to be that the inventors of the vowel signs pronounced the long a rather obscurely, and somewhat like o, as it then passed over to a perfect o with the present German and Polish Jews. (Comp. the Syriac ā with the Maronite = ō, the Swedish å, and the already early change of ā into ō even in the Hebrew, § 9, 10, 2).‡ The distinction between them is shown in § 9. But Seghol (סְגוֹל cluster of grapes) appears to be named after its form; so too some call Qibbuts שְׁלֹשׁ נְקֻדוֹת three points.

* The equivalents for the Hebrew vowels are marked here variously, viz., â, ê, ô for the essentially long, ā, ē, ō for the merely tone-long, ă, ĕ, ŏ for the short vowels. For the rest, the distinction of ī and ĭ, ū and ŭ is sufficient. (See § 9.)

† The Jewish grammarians call Seghol also "small Pathach."

‡ It has been conjectured that the signs for these vowels were originally different (as ◌ָ ā, ◌ֹ ō) and became identical only through carelessness in writing; but such a difference cannot be proved, for these two marks are quite identical, the former (◌ָ) being only the original, and the second (◌ֹ) the modified form.

The names were, moreover, so formed that the sound of each vowel was heard in the first syllable; and in conformity to this, some write Sŭghol, Qomets-chatuph, Qŭbbuts.

2. As appears from the examples given above, the vowel sign is regularly put under the consonant after which it is to be pronounced, בָ rā, בַ ră, בֵ rē, בֻ ru, etc. There is an exception to this rule in Pathach, when it stands under a guttural at the end of a word (Pathach furtive, see § 22, 2, b), for it is then spoken before the consonant, as רוּחַ ru°ch (wind, spirit). We must also except Cholem (without Vav), which is put to the left over the letter, בֹ rō.*

When Cholem (without Vav) and the diacritic point over שׁ (שׂ, שׁ) come together, one dot serves for both, as שָׂנֵא sō-nē for שׂוֹנֵא, מֹשֶׁה not מוֹשֶׁה mo-she. שׁ (with two points), when no vowel stands under it, is shō, as שׁוֹמֵר shō-mēr; when no vowel goes before it, ŏsh, as יִרְפֹּשׁ yĭr-pōsh, הַנֹּשְׂאִים hannŏs°'im.

The figure ֹ is sometimes sounded ov, the ו being a consonant with Cholem before it, as לָוֶה lō-vĕ (lending); and sometimes vō, the Cholem being read after the Vav, as עָוֹן ā-vōn (sin) for עָוֹן. In very exact impressions a distinction is made thus: ֹו ov, ֹו vo, and וֹ ō.

3. The vowels of the first class [for the A sound] are, with the exception of ◌ָ in the middle, and of ◌ָה, ◌ָא at the end of a word, indicated only by vowel signs (§ 7, 2); but in the two other classes [for the I and E sound and for the U and O sound] the long vowels are mostly expressed by vowel letters, the sound of which is determined by the signs standing before or within them. Thus,— י may be determined by Chireq (◌ִי), Tsere (◌ֵי), Seghol (◌ֶי).

ו by Shureq (וּ) and Cholem (וֹ).†

In Arabic the long a is regularly indicated by the vowel letter Aleph (◌ָא) written in the text, so that in it three vowel letters answer to the three vowel classes. In Hebrew the relation is somewhat different (§ 9, 1, and § 23, 4, Rem. 1).

4. When, in the second and third classes, the long vowel is expressed without a

* Only very recently we have been made acquainted with a vowel system in many respects different from the common one. It is found at Odessa, in some MSS. coming from Persian Jews. All the vowels besides ו are placed above the consonants, and deviate almost throughout in figure, and partly also in respect to the sound. Thus, for instance, Pathach and Seghol, when they have the tone, are expressed by the same sign; but the short vowels without the tone are marked variously, according as they stand in a sharpened syllable, by Daghesh forte (§ 12) or not. The accents deviate less, and stand partly under the line of the consonants. Comp. Pinner's Prospectus of the Ancient Heb. and Rabbin. MSS., belonging to the Odessa Society for History and Antiquities, Od. 1845, 4to.; and a sketch of this Persian Jewish vowel system, by Rödiger, in the Halle Allgem. Lit. Zeit. 1848, Aug., No. 169.

† The vowel sign, which serves to determine the sound of the vowel letter, is said to be homogeneous with that letter. Many, after the example of the Jewish grammarians, use here the expression, "The vowel letter rests (quiesces) in the vowel sign." Hence the letters י and ו (with א and ה, see § 23) are called literæ quiescibiles; when they serve as vowels, quiescentes, when they are consonants, mobiles. But the expression is not suitable; we should rather say, "The vowel letter is sounded as this or that vowel, or stands in place of the vowel." The vowel letters are also called by grammarians, matres lectionis [since they partly serve as guides in reading the unpointed text].

vowel letter, it is called scriptio defectiva, when with a vowel letter, scriptio plena. Thus קוֹל and קוֹם are written fully, קֹלֹת and קָם defectively.

The choice of the full or the defective mode of writing is not always arbitrary, as there are certain cases in which only the one or the other is admissible. Thus, the full form is necessary at the end of a word, e. g. קָטְלוּ, קָטַלְתִּי, יָדִי, מַלְכֵי; but the defective is most usual when the vowel is preceded by the analogous vowel letter as consonant, e. g. גּוֹיִם for גּוֹיִם.

But in other cases, much depended on the option of the transcribers, so that the same word is written in various ways, e. g. הֲקִימוֹתִי Ezek. xvi. 60, הֲקַמְתִּי Jer. xxiii. 4, where other editions have הֲקִמוֹתִי (comp. § 25, 1). It may be observed, however,

a) That the defective writing is used chiefly, though not constantly, when the word has increased at the end, and the vowel of the penultima has lost somewhat of its stress in consequence of the accent or tone of the word being moved forward [see § 29, 2], as צוּר, צוּרִים; קוֹל, קֹלוֹת; זָבוּל, זְבֻלִי;

b) That in the later books of the Old Testament the full form, in the earlier the defective, is more usual.*

5. In the kindred dialects, when a vowel letter has before it a vowel sign that is not kindred or homogeneous, a diphthong is formed, e. g. וֲ au, וֱ eu, יִ, יֲ ai. But in Hebrew, according to the pronunciation handed down by the Jews, ו and י retain here their consonant sound, so that we get av, ev, ay, † e. g. וָו vāv (nail), גֵּו gēv (back), חַי chăy (living), גּוֹי gōy (nation). In sound יֲ is the same with וֲ, namely, av, as דִּבְרֵיו d'bhārāv (his words).

The LXX. give generally, in these cases, an actual diphthong, as in the Arabic, and this must be considered as an earlier mode of pronunciation; the modern Jewish pronunciation is, on the other hand, similar to the modern Greek, in which αὐ, εὐ sound like av, ev. In the manuscripts Yodh and Vav are, in this case, even marked with Mappiq (§ 14, 1). The Italian Jews sound these syllables more like diphthongs, e. g. chdi, gèu, and so also bdit (בֵּית).

SECT. 9.

CHARACTER AND VALUE OF THE SEVERAL VOWELS.

Numerous as these signs appear, they are yet insufficient for completely representing the various modifications of the vowel sounds in respect to length and shortness, sharpness and extension. It may be observed further, that the indication of the sound by these signs cannot be called always perfectly appropriate. We therefore give here, for the better understanding of this matter, a short commentary

* The same historical relation may be shown in the Phœnician, and in the Arabic where א is used as a vowel letter,—in the latter especially, by means of the older Koran MSS. and the writing on coins.

† The y in this case should be sounded as much as possible like y in yet, not as in nay.—Tr.

on the character and value of the several vowels, especially in respect to length and shortness; but at the same time their changeableness (§§ 25, 27) will be noticed in passing.

I. First Class. A sound.

1. Qamets, though everywhere long a, is yet in its nature of two kinds:

1) The essentially long and unchangeable â (§ 25), for which the Arabic has אָ, as כְּתָב k'thâbh (writing), גַּנָּב gannâbh (thief), קָם qâm (he arose), written at times קָאם. 2) The prolonged ā of prosody (see § 26, 3), both in the tone-syllable and close before or after it. This sound invariably proceeds from the original short a,* and is found in an open syllable (i. e. one ending with a vowel, see § 26, 3), e. g. לְךָ, קָטַל, גָּדוֹל, יָקוּם, and also in a closed syllable (i. e. one ending with a consonant,) as יָד, עוֹלָם. In the closed syllable, however, it can stand only when this has the tone,† דָּבָר, עוֹלָם, but in the open, it is especially frequent before the tone-syllable, as דָּבָר, זָקֵן, גָּדוֹל, קְטָלֵנִי, לָכֶם. When the tone is either moved forward or lessened, this vowel becomes, in the former case, short a (Pathach), and in the latter, vocal Sh'va (§ 27, 3), דָּבָר, דִּבַּר (d'bhár); חָכָם, חָכַם (ch'khám); קָטָל, קְטָלָם.

Under the final letter of a word, Qamets may stand alone (קָטַלְתָּ, לְךָ), but in this position it is also indicated by ה (קָטַלְתָּה, אַתָּה, אִשָּׁה).

2. Pathach, or the shorter a, stands properly only in a closed syllable with and without the tone (קָטַל, קְטַלְתֶּם). Most of the cases where it now stands in an open syllable (נַעַר, בַּיִת, see § 28, 4). Otherwise such an a in an open syllable is changed into ā (ָ), comp. above, Nos. 1, 2.

On the rare union of Pathach with א (אַ), see § 23, 2: on a as a helping sound (Pathach furtive), see § 22, 2, b. and § 28, 4.

3. Seghol (ä, ĕ) belongs chiefly to the second class of vowels, but now and then, according to its origin, to the first or the third class. It belongs to the first, when it is a modification of a (like German Gast, Gäste [comp. Celtic bardh, pl. beirdh]), e. g. אֶרֶץ from אֹרַח. Although an obtuse sound, it can stand in the tone-syllable, as in the first syllable of קֶרֶן qâren, and even in the gravest tone-syllable at the end of a clause or sentence (in pause, § 29, 4).

II. Second Class. I and E. sound.

4. The long ī is most commonly expressed by the letter י (a fully written Chireq יִ), but even when this is not the case, it makes no essential difference, provided the vowel is long by nature (§ 8, 4), e. g. צַדִּיק pl. צַדִּיקִים; יְרֵא pl. יִרְאִים.

---

† When the tone is marked in this book, the sign ֫ is put over the first letter of the syllable, see § 15, 1, 3.—Tr.

Whether a defectively written Chireq is long, may be best known from the grammatical origin and character of the form, but often also from the character of the syllable (§ 26), or from the position of Methegh (§ 16, 2) at its side, as in יָרֵאּ.

5. The short Chireq (always written without ') is especially frequent in sharpened syllables (קִטַּל, אִמִּי)*, and in closed unaccented syllables (לִקְטֹל). It originates, not unusually, in a by shortening, as in בִּתִּי (my daughter) from בַּת, דִּבְרִי from דָּבָר, יִקְטֹל out of יִקְטֹל. Sometimes also it is a mere helping vowel, as in בִּית for בַּיִת (§ 28, 4).

The Jewish and the older grammarians denominate every fully written Chireq, Chireq magnum, and every defectively written one, Chireq parvum. In respect to the sound, this is a wrong distinction.

6. The longest ê, Tsere, with Yodh (ֵי), is a contracted sound of the diphthong ai ַי (§ 7, 1), which, in the Arabic and Syriac, is employed instead of the former, as הֵיכָל (palace), in Arab. and Syr. haikal. It is therefore a very long and an unchangeable vowel, longer even than ֵי, since it approaches the quantity of a diphthong. This ֵי is but seldom written defectively (עֲנֵי for עֲנִי Is. iii. 8), and then it retains the same value.

At the end of a word ֵי and ֵי must be written fully: most rare is the form קְטַלְתִּ (§ 44, Rem. 4).

7. The Tsere without Yodh is the long ē of a secondary order, and stands only in and close by the tone-syllable, like the Qamets above in No. 1, 2. Like that, it stands in either an open or a closed syllable; the former in the tone-syllable or before it (סֵפֶר book, שֵׁנָה sleep), the latter only in the tone-syllable (בֵּן son, אֵלֵם dumb).

8. The Seghol, so far as it belongs to the second class, is most generally a short obtuse e sound obtained by shortening the (ֵ), as תֶּן from תֵּן (give). It arises also out of the shortest e (vocal Sh°va, § 10, 1), when this is made prominent by the tone (in pause, § 29, 4, b), as וַיֶּהִי for וַיְהִי, לֶחִי for לְחִי; and it appears besides as a helping sound, סֶפֶר for סְפֶר, יֶגֶל for יְגֶל (§ 28, 4). The Seghol with Yodh (ֶי) is a long but yet obtuse ä (è of the French) formed out of ai, גְּלֶינָה glèna, and hence belongs rather to the first class (§ 8, 1, c).

See more on the rise of Seghol out of other vowels in § 27, Rem. 1, 2, 4.

* For this sharp i the LXX. mostly use e, שְׁמוּאֵל Ἐμμανουήλ.

III. Third Class. U and O sound.

9. In the third class we find quite the same relation as in the second. In the u sound we have: 1) the long ū, whether a) fully written וּ Shureq (answering to the יִ— of the second class), e. g. זְבוּל (dwelling), or b) defectively written without Vav ֻ (analogous to the long ִ of the second class), Qibbuts; viz., that which stands for Shureq, and might more properly be called defective Shureq (זְבֻלִי; יִמְתֹן), being in fact a long vowel like Shureq, and only an orthographic shortening for the same.

2) The short ŭ, the proper Qibbuts (analogous to the short Chireq), in an unaccented closed syllable, and especially in a sharpened one, as שֻׁלְחָן (table), קֻבָּה (bedchamber).

For the latter the LXX. put o, e. g. עֲמֹרָה, Ὀδολλάμ; but it by no means follows that this is the true pronunciation, though they also express Chireq by ε. Equally incorrect was the former custom of giving to both sorts of Qibbuts the sound u.

Sometimes also the short u in a sharpened syllable is expressed by וּ, e. g. יוּלַד = יֻלַּד (see § 27, Rem. 1).

10. The O sound stands in the same relation to U, as E to I in the second class. It has four gradations: 1) the longest ô, obtained from the diphthong au (§ 7, 1), and mostly written in full וֹ (Cholem plenum), as שׁוֹט (whip), Arabic saut, עוֹלָה (evil) from עָוְלָה; sometimes it is written defectively, as שׁרְךָ (thy bullock), from שׁוֹר;

2) The long ô, which has sprung from an original â [comp. Germ. alt = Eng. old], usually written fully in a tone-syllable and defectively in a toneless one, as קוֹטֵל Arab. and Chald. qâtel אֱלוֹהַּ Arab. and Chald. ĕlâh, plur. אֱלוֹהִים, עוֹלָם Arab. and Chald. âlam. Sometimes both forms co-exist, שִׁרְיוֹן and שִׁרְיֹן (coat of mail).

3) The tone-long ō, which is lengthened from an original short o or u by the tone, and which becomes short again on its removal, as כֹּל (all), כָּל (kōl), כֻּלָּם (kŭllām), יִקְטֹל, יִקְטָלְךָ, יִקְטְלוּ (in this last instance it is shortened to vocal Sh°va, yiqt'lu). In this case the Cholem is fully written only by way of exception.

4) The Qamets-chatuph (ָ), always short and in the same relation to Cholem as the Seghol of the second class to the Tsere, כָּל kŏl, וַיָּקָם văy-yā-qŏm. On the distinction between this and Qamets, see post, in this section.

11. The Seghol belongs here also, so far as it arises out of u or o (No. 3), e. g. in אַתֶּם, קְטַלְתֶּם. (See § 27, Rem. 4, b.)

On the half vowels, see the next section.

12. In the following table we give a scale of the vowel sounds in each of the three classes, with respect to their quantity, from the greatest length to the utmost shortness. The table does not indeed suffice to exhibit all vowel transitions which occur in the language, but yet it furnishes a view of those in more frequent use:—

First Class. A.	Second Class. I and E.	Third Class. U and O
ָ longest á (Arabic ـَـا).	ַי é diphthongal (from ai).	ָו ó diphthongal (from au).
	ֵי é (from ai).	וֹ or ֹ ó changed from á.
	ִי or ִ long í.	וּ or ֻ long ú.
ָ tone-lengthened á (from short a or ַ) in and by the tone-syllable.	ִ tone-lengthened í (from ִי or ִ í) in and immediately before the tone-syllable.	ֹ tone-lengthened ó from ָ ó or ֻ) in the tone-syllable.
		ֻ short ú, specially in a sharpened syllable.
ַ short á.	ִ short í.	ָ short ó.
ָ partly tone-lengthened é, partly short é.	ֶ accented é.	ָ accented é.
Greatest shortening to ֲ a or ֳ o, also to ִ í.	Greatest shortening to ֱ ă or ֶ é.	Greatest shortening to ֳ o or ֻ ú.

ON THE DISTINCTION OF QAMETS AND QAMETS-CHATUPH.*

As an instance of incongruity in the vowel system, we may notice the fact, that the long ā (Qamets) and the short ŏ (Qamets-chatuph) are both represented by the sign (ָ), e. g. קָם qām, כָּל kŏl.† The beginner who has as yet no knowledge of that surest of guides, viz., the grammatical derivation of the words he has to read, may, in order to distinguish between these two vowels, attend to the following two rules:—

1. The sign (ָ) is ŏ in a closed syllable which has not the tone [or accent]; for such a syllable cannot have a long vowel (§ 26, 5). The examples are various:

a) When a simple Sh°va follows, dividing syllables, as in חָכְמָה chŏkh-má (wisdom), זָכְרָה zŏkh-ra; with a Methegh, on the contrary, the (ָ) is á, and closes the syllable, and then the following Sh°va is a half vowel (vocal Sh°va) as זָכְרָה zā-kh°ra, according to § 16, 2.

b) When Daghesh forte follows, as בָּתִּים bŏttim (houses), חָנֵּנִי chŏn-né-ni (pity me); also בָּתֵּיכֶם bŏttékhém (notwithstanding the Methegh, which stands by the vowel in the ante-penultima).

c) When Maqqeph follows (§ 16, 1), as כָּל־הָאָדָם kŏl-haadhám (all men).

d) When the unaccented closed syllable is final, as וַיָּקָם vayyáqŏm (and he stood up).—There are some cases where á in the final syllable loses its tone by Maqqeph (§ 16, 1) and yet remains unchanged, e. g. כָּתְבֵי־הַקֹּדֶשׁ Esth. iv. 8; שָׁת־לִי Gen. iv. 25. Methegh usually stands in these cases, but not always.

In cases like הָלְאָה, לָמָּה lámma, where the (ָ) of the closed syllable has the tone, it is á, according to § 26, 6.

* This portion must, in order to be fully understood, be studied in connexion with what is said on the syllables in § 26, and on Methegh in § 16, 2., [In the original it is all printed in small type, but its importance justifies the change we have made].

† For the cause of this, see p. 21.

2. The sign (ֹ) as short ŏ in an open syllable is far less frequent, and belongs to the exceptions in § 26, 3. It occurs: a) when Chateph-Qamets follows, as פָּעֳלֹו• pŏ•-lō (his deed); b) when another Qamets-chatuph follows, as פָּעָלֳךְ pō-ŏl'kha† (thy deed); c) in two anomalous words, where it stands merely for (ֳ), which are found so even in manuscripts, viz., קָדָשִׁים qō-dhashim (sanctuaries) and שָׁרָשִׁים shŏ-rashim (roots), see § 93, 6, Rem. 3.

In these cases (ֹ) is followed by Methegh, although it is ŏ, since Methegh always stands in an open second syllable before the tone. The exceptions that occur can be determined only by the grammatical derivation, as בָּאֳנִי in the ship (read: ba•ni) 1 Kings ix. 27, with the article included; on the contrary בְּחֳרִי אַף bŏch•ri aph (in anger's glow) Ex. xi. 8, without the article.

SECT. 10.

THE HALF VOWELS AND THE SYLLABLE-DIVIDER (SH•VA).

1. Besides the full vowels, chiefly treated in § 9, the Hebrew has also a series of very slight vowel sounds, which may be called half vowels.‡ They are to be regarded in general as extreme shortenings, perhaps mere traces, of fuller and more distinct vowel sounds in an earlier period of the language.

To them belongs, first, the sign ֱ, which indicates the shortest, slightest, and most indistinct half vowel, something like an obscure half ĕ. It is called Sh'va,§ and also simple Sh'va, to distinguish it from the composite (see post, No. 2), and vocal Sh'va (Sh'va mobile), to distinguish it from the silent (Sh'va quiescens), which is merely a divider of syllables (see post, No. 3). This last can occur only under a consonant closing the syllable, and is thus distinguished from the vocal Sh•va, whose place is under a consonant beginning the syllable, whether a) at the beginning of the word, as קְטֹל q'tōl, מְמַלֵּא m'mallē, or b) in the middle of the word, as קוֹטְלָה qô-t'lā, יִקְטְלוּ yiq-t'lū, קִטְּלוּ qit-t'lū. So also in cases like הַלְלוּ ha-l'lū (which stands for הַהַלְלוּ hal-l'lū), לְמְנַצֵּחַ la-m'nats-tsē•ch (for לַמְּ), further הַמְשֹׁל ha-m'shōl Judges ix. 2 (where the interrogative הַ makes a syllable by itself), מַלְכִּי ma-l'khî. In the last examples the Sh•va sound is specially slight, in consequence of the very short syllable preceding.

• That ָֹ ought here to be considered and divided as an open syllable עָלְ|ֹו appears from § 26, Remark.

† This case is connected with the foregoing, so far as the second Qamets-chatuph is sprung from Chateph-Qamets.

‡ In the table § 9, 12, the half vowels have already been exhibited for the sake of a more complete view. We express them by letters of a small type.

§ The name שְׁוָא is written also שְׁוָה, and its derivation and proper meaning are obscure.

The sound ĕ may be regarded as representing vocal Sh'va, although it is certain that it often accorded in sound with other vowels. The LXX. express it by ε, even η, כְּרוּבִים Χερουβίμ, הַלְלוּ יָהּ ἀλληλούϊα, oftener by α, שְׁמוּאֵל Σαμουήλ, but very often they give it a sound to accord with the following vowel, as סְדֹם Σόδομ, שְׁלֹמֹה Σολομῶν (besides also Σαλομῶν), צְבָאוֹת Σαβαώθ, נְתַנְאֵל Ναθαναήλ.* A similar account of the pronunciation of Sh'va is given also by the Jewish grammarians of the middle ages.†

How the Sh'va sound springs from the slight or hasty utterance of a stronger vowel, we may see in בְּרָכָה (for which also בִּרְכָה occurs, see No. 2, Rem.) from barakha, as this word also sounds in Arabic. This language has still regularly for vocal Sh'va an ordinary short vowel.

The vocal Sh'va is too weak to stand in a closed syllable; but yet it can with the consonant before it form a hasty open syllable, as appears from the use of Methegh (see § 16, 2), and also from the fact that it can become an accented ֱ, as לֶחְיִי from לְחִי (§ 26, 4).

2. With the simple vocal Sh'va is connected the so-called composite Sh'va or Chateph (rapid), i. e. a Sh'va attended by a short vowel to indicate that we should sound it as a half ă, ĕ, or ŏ. We have, answering to the three principal vowel sounds (§ 7, 1), the following three:

(ֲ) Chateph-Pathach, as in חֲמוֹר ch'môr (ass).

(ֱ) Chateph-Seghol, as in אֱמֹר 'mōr (to say).

(ֳ) Chateph-Qamets, as in חֳלִי ch'lī (sickness).

The Chatephs, at least the two former, stand chiefly under the four gutturals (§ 22, 3), the utterance of which naturally causes the annexed half vowel to be more distinctly sounded.

Rem. Only (ֲ) and (ֱ) occur under letters which are not gutturals.

The Chateph-Pathach is thus found instead of simple vocal Sh'va, but without any fixed law, especially a) under a doubled letter, since the doubling causes a more distinct utterance of the vocal Sh'va,‡ sometimes also where the sign of doubling has fallen away, עֲנִי for עֲנִּי Gen. ix. 14, וַתְּאַלְּצֵהוּ Judges xvi. 16; b) after a long vowel, e. g. זְהַב (gold of), but זָהָב Gen. ii. 12; שְׁמַע (hear), but שָׁמַע Deut. v. 24, comp. Gen. xxvii. 26, 38.

The Chateph-Qamets is less connected with the gutturals than the first two, and stands frequently for simple vocal Sh'va when an O sound was originally in the syllable, and requires to be partly preserved, e. g. רָאִי for רָאְיִ vision (§ 93, VI. Rem. 6), יְרֹדָפֶךָ for the usual יִרְדְּפֶךָ Eze. xxxv. 6, from יָרַד; קָדְקָדוֹ his pate, from קָדְקֹד. It is used, also, like (ֲ) when Daghesh forte has fallen away, לַקָּחָה for לָקְחָה Gen. ii. 23. In וַתַּעֲרָה 1 Kings xiii. 7, and וַיַּעֲקֵי Jer. xxii. 20, the choice of this composite Sh'va is dependent on the following guttural and the preceding U sound.

3. The sign of the simple Sh'va (ְ) serves also as a mere syllable-divider, without expressing any sound, and therefore called in this case silent Sh'va (Sh'va

* This is not unusual in the Phœnician language, e. g. מְלָכָה Malacca, גְּבוּלִים gubulim (see Gesen. Mon. Phœnicia, p. 436, Mover's article, Phönizien, in the Encyclop., etc., p. 436). Comp. the Latin augment, in momordi, pupugi, with the Greek in τέτυφα, τετυμμένος, and the old form memordi.

‡ As in שָׁבְלֵי (branches), Zech. iv. 12.

quiescens), answering to the Arabic Sukûn. It stands in the midst of a word under every consonant that closes a syllable; at the end of words, on the other hand, it is omitted, except in final ך, e. g. מֶלֶךְ (king), and in the less frequent case where a word ends with two consonants, as in נֵרְדְּ (nard), אַתְּ (thou, fem.), קָטַלְתְּ (thou hast killed), וַיִּשְׁכַּב, וַיִּשְׁבֹּת, אַל־תִּשְׁתְּ, etc.

Yet in the last examples Sh'va under the last letter might rather pass for vocal, since it is pretty clear that a final vowel has been shortened, e. g. אַתְּ att' from אַתִי atti, קָטַלְתְּ from קָטַלְתִי, יִשְׁכַּב yishb' from יִשְׁבָּה,* etc. The Arabic actually has a short vowel in the analogous forms. In נֵרְדְּ, borrowed from the Indian, this is less clear. קֹשְׁטְ (truth) Prov. xxii. 21, seems to require the pronunciation gôsht. For אַל־תּוֹסֵף (ne addas) Prov. xxx. 6, others read אַל־תּוֹסֶף.

Sect. 11.

SIGNS WHICH AFFECT THE READING OF CONSONANTS.

In intimate connexion with the vowel points stand the reading-signs, which were probably adopted at the same time. Besides the diacritic point of שׂ and שׁ (p. 16), a point is used in a letter, in order to show that it has a stronger sound, or is even doubled; and, on the contrary, a small horizontal stroke over a letter, as a sign that it has not the strong sound. The use of the point in the letter is threefold: a) as Daghesh forte or sign of doubling; b) as Daghesh lene or sign of the hard (not aspirated) sound; c) as Mappiq, a sign that the vowel letter (§ 7, 2), especially the ה at the end of a word, has the sound of a consonant. The stroke over a letter, Raphe, has a contrary effect, and is scarcely ever used in the printed Hebrew copies.

Sect. 12.

OF DAGHESH IN GENERAL, AND DAGHESH FORTE IN PARTICULAR.

1. Daghesh is a point written in the bosom † of a consonant, and is employed for two purposes; a) to indicate the doubling of the letter (Daghesh forte), e. g. קִטֵּל qĭt-tēl; b) the hardening of the aspirates, i. e. the removal of the aspiration (Daghesh lene.)

The root דגשׁ, from which דָּגֵשׁ is derived, in Syriac signifies to thrust through, to bore through (with a sharp iron). Hence the word Daghesh is commonly supposed to mean, with reference to its figure merely, a prick, a point. But the names of all similar signs are expressive of their grammatical power, and in this case, the name of the sign refers both to its figure and its use. In grammatical language דגשׁ means, 1) acuere literam, to sharpen the letter by doubling it; 2) to harden the letter by taking away its aspiration. Accordingly דָּגֵשׁ means sharp and hard, i. e. sign of sharpening or hardening (like Mappiq, מַפִּיק proferens, i. e. signum prolationis), and it was expressed in writing by a mere prick of the stilus (punctum). (In a manner somewhat analogous, letters and words are represented, in the criticism of a text, as expunged (ex-puncta) by a point or pointed instrument (obeliscus) affixed to them). The opposite of Daghesh is רָפֶה soft (§ 14, 2). That דגשׁ, in grammatical language, is applied to a hard pronunciation of various kinds appears from § 22, 4, Rem. 1.

* So thought Juda Chayûg among the Jewish grammarians.

† Daghesh in ו is easily distinguished from Shureq, which never admits a vowel or Sh'va under or before the ו. The Vav with Daghesh (וּ) ought to have the point not so high up as the Vav with Shureq (וּ). But this difference is often neglected in typography.

2. Its use as Daghesh forte, i. e. for doubling a letter, is of chief importance (compare the Sicilicus of the ancient Latins, e. g. Luculus for Lucullus, and in German the stroke over $\bar{m}$ and $\bar{n}$). It is wanting in the unpointed text, like the vowel and other signs.

For further particulars respecting its uses and varieties, see § 20.

Sect. 13.

DAGHESH LENE.

1. Daghesh lene, the sign of hardening, belongs only to the aspirates (literæ aspiratæ) בְּגִדְכְּפַת (§ 6, 3). It takes away their aspiration, and restores their original slender or pure sounds (literæ tenues), e. g. מָלְכְּךָ mâlēkh, but מַלְכּוֹ malkō; תָּפַר tāphar, but יִתְפֹּר yith-pōr; שָׁתָה shāthā, but יִשְׁתֶּה yish-tè.

2. Daghesh lene, as is shown in § 21, stands only at the beginning of words and syllables. It is thus easily distinguished from Daghesh forte, since in these cases the doubling of a letter is impossible. Thus the Daghesh is forte in אַפַּי appī, רַבִּים rabbīm, but lene in יִגְדַּל yighdal.

3. Daghesh forte in an aspirate not only doubles it, but takes away its aspiration, thus serving at once for both forte and lene, as אַפַּי appī; רַכּוֹת rak-koth. (Compare in German stechen and stecken, wachen and wecken.)

This is accounted for by the difficulty of doubling an aspirated letter in pronunciation. In confirmation of this rule we may refer to certain Oriental words, which, in the earliest times, passed over into the Greek language, as כַּפָּא κάππα (not κάφφα), yet סַפִּיר σάπφειρος.

The doubling of a letter does not occur in Syriac, at least in the Western dialects. Where it would be required, however, according to etymology and analogy, the aspiration at least is removed: thus ܐܰܦ̣ in Syriac is read apeq, for appeq.

Sect. 14.

MAPPIQ AND RAPHE.

1. Mappiq, like Daghesh, to which it is analogous, is a point in a letter. It belongs only to the vowel-letters ו, י, and א, ה (literæ quiescibiles), and shows that they are to be sounded with their full consonant power, instead of serving as vowels. It is at present used only in final ה, for in the body of a word this letter always has a consonant force, e. g. גָּבְהּ ga-bhah (the h having its full consonant sound), אַרְצָהּ ar-tsah (her land), in distinction from אַרְצָה ár-tsā (to the earth), which ends with a vowel.

Without doubt such a ה was uttered with stronger aspiration, like the Arabic He at the end of the syllable, or like h in the German Schuh, which in common life is pronounced Schuch. The use of it in and under א, ו, י, to mark them as consonants, is confined to manuscripts, e. g. גוֹי (góy), קָוּ (qāv).

The name מַפִּיק signifies producens, and indicates that the sound of the letter should be clearly expressed. The same sign was selected for this and for Daghesh, because the design was analogous, viz., to indicate the strong sound of the letter. Hence also Raphe is the opposite of both.

2. Raphe (רָפֶה i. e. soft) written over the letter, is the opposite of both Daghesh and Mappiq, especially of Daghesh lene. In exact manuscripts an aspirate has generally either Daghesh lene or Raphe, e. g. מָלְךְ mälekh, תְּפַר, שְׂתָה; but in printed editions of the Bible it is used only when the absence of Daghesh or Mappiq is to be expressly noted, e. g. וְתִאַלְּצֵהוּ for וְתִאַלְּצֵהוּ, Judges xvi. 16, and v. 28, (where Daghesh lene is absent), Mappiq in Job xxxi. 22.

Sect. 15.

THE ACCENTS.

1. The design of the accents in general is, to show the rhythmical members of the verses in the Old Testament text. But as such the use is two-fold, according to which they are chiefly to be noticed in the grammar, viz., a) to show the logical relation of each word to the whole sentence; b) to mark the tone-syllable to each word. In respect to the former, they serve as signs of interpunction; in respect to the latter, as signs of the tone or accent.

By the Jews, moreover, they are regarded as signs of cantillation, intimating the elevation and depression of the tone, and are used as such in the recitation of the Scriptures in the synagogues. The use made of them in this way is also connected with the general rhythmical design.

2. As a sign for marking the tone of a single word, the accent, whatever its rhythmical value may be besides, stands regularly (comp. Rem. 2) with the syllable which has the chief tone in the word. In most words the tone is on the last syllable, less frequently on the penultima. In the first case, the word is called by the grammarians mīl-rā (מִלְרַע: Chald., from below), e. g. קָטַל qatál; in the second, mīl-êl (מִלְעֵיל Chald., from above), e. g. מְלָךְ: mä'lekh. On the third syllable from the end (antepenultima) the chief tone never stands; but we often find there a secondary one or by-tone, which is indicated by the Methegh (§ 16, 2).

3. The use of the accents as signs of interpunction is somewhat complicated, since they serve not merely to separate the members of a sentence, like our period, colon, and comma, but also as marks of connexion. Hence they form two classes, Distinctives (Domini) and Conjunctives (Servi). Some are, moreover, peculiar to the poetical books* (Job, Psalms, and Proverbs), which have a stricter rhythm.

The following is a list of them according to their value as signs of interpunction:

A. Distinctives (Domini).

I. Greatest Distinctives (Imperatores), which may be compared with our period and colon. 1. (֏) Sīllūq (end), only at the end of the verse, and always united with (:) Sōph-pāsūq, which separates each verse, e. g. הָאָרֶץ׃ 2. (֑) Athnāch (respiratio), generally in the middle of the verse, dividing it in two halves; but in the three books, Job, Psalms, and Proverbs, it is lighter than Mĕrkā-Māhpākh (No. 3), and then divides the second half of the verse. 3. (֒) Mĕrkā with *Māhpākh, in Job, Psalms, and Proverbs, mostly principal dividers in the middle of a verse.

II. Great Distinctives (Reges): 4. (֔) Sĕghōltā††: 5. (֕) Zāqēph-qātōn: 6. (֖) Zāqēph-gādhōl: 7. (֗) Tĭphchā.

III. Smaller (Duces): 8. (֙) Rĕbhīa: 9. (֚) Zārqā††: 10. (֛) Păshta††: 11. (֜) Yĕthībh†: 12. (֝) Tĕbhīr: 13. (֞) *Shălshĕlēth: 14. (֟) Tĭphchā initiale†.

IV. Smallest (Comites): 15. (֠) Pāzēr: 16. (֡) Qărnê-phārā: 17. (֢) Great Tĕlīshā†: 18. (֣) Gä'rĕsh: 19. (֤) Double Gä'rĕsh: 20. (׀) Pĕsīq, between the words.

B. Conjunctives (Servi).

21. (֥) Mĕrkā: 22. (֦) Mūnāch: 23. (֧) Double Mĕrkā: 24. (֨) Māhpākh:

* These accents are marked in the following list with an asterisk. On the mark † and †† see below, Rem. 2.

25. (֒) Qădhmā: 26. (֜) Dărgā: 27. (֜) Yä'răch: 28. (֒) Little Tĕlishā ††: 29. (֜) Tĭphchā final*: 30. (֜) Mĕrkā with *Zărqā: 31. (֜) Măhpăkh with Zărqā.*

REMARKS ON THE ACCENTS.

I. As Signs of the Tone.

1. As in Greek (comp. εἰμί and εἶμι), so also in Hebrew, words which are written with the same consonants and vowel signs are often distinguished by the accent, e. g. בָּנוּ ba-nú (they built), בָּנוּ bánu (in us); קָמָה qámā (she stood up), קָמָה qamá (standing up, fem.). (Compare in English compact and cómpact.—Tr.)

2. As a rule, the accents stand on the tone-syllable, and properly on its initial consonant. Some, however, stand only on the first letter of a word (prepositive), others only on the last letter (postpositive). The former are designated in the table by †, the latter by ††. These do not, therefore, clearly indicate the tone-syllable, which must be known in some other way. Those marked with an asterisk are used only in the poetical books.

3. The place of the accent, when it is not on the final syllable, is indicated in this book by the sign (֒), e. g. קַטַלְתָּ qa-tál-ta.*

II. As Signs of Interpunction.

4. In respect to this use of the accents, every verse is regarded as a period, which closes with Silluq,† or, in the figurative language of the grammarians, as a realm (ditio), which is governed by the great Distinctive at the end (Imperator). According as the verse is long or short, i. e. as the empire is large or small, so varies the number of Domini of different grades, which form the larger and smaller divisions.

5. Conjunctives (Servi) unite only such words as are closely connected in sense, as a noun with an adjective, or with another noun in the genitive, etc. For the closest connexion of two or several words Maqqeph is used (§ 16, 1).

6. In very short verses few conjunctives are used, and sometimes none; a small distinctive, in the vicinity of a greater, having a connective power (servit domino majori). In very long verses, on the contrary, conjunctives are used for the smaller distinctives (fiunt legati dominorum).

7. The choice of this or that conjunctive depends on very subtile laws of consecution, with which the learner need not trouble himself at present. It is sufficient for him to know the greater distinctives, which answer to our period, colon, and comma, though they often stand where a half comma is scarcely admissible. They are most important in the poetical books for dividing a verse into its members. (See in the Reading Book at the end of this Grammar, and more fully in Nordheimer's Heb. Grammar, §§ 1151—1157.)

Sect. 16.

MAQQEPH AND METHEGH.

These are both closely connected with the accents.

1. Maqqeph (מַקֵּף binder) is a small horizontal stroke between two words, which

* [In the present edition, although we have used this mark (֒) in the body of the work, we have adopted this (֜) instead, in the tables of the pronouns and conjugations, as the more convenient.]

† This has the same form with Methegh (§ 16, 2); but they are readily distinguished, as Silluq always stands on the last tone-syllable of a verse, while Methegh never stands on the tone-syllable.

thus become so united that, in respect to tone and interpunction, they are regarded as one, and have but one accent. Two, three, and four words may be united in this way, e. g. כָּל־אָדָם every man; אֵת־כָּל־עֵשֶׂב every herb, Gen. i. 29; אֵת־כָּל־אֲשֶׁר־לוֹ all which to him (was), Gen. xxv. 5.

Certain monosyllabic words, like אֶל to, אֵת sign of the Acc., כֹּל all, are almost always thus connected. But a longer word may also be joined to a monosyllable, e. g. הִתְהַלַּךְ־נֹחַ Gen. vi. 9, וַיְהִי־כֵן Gen. i. 7, 9; or two polysyllables, e. g. שִׁבְעָה־עָשָׂר Gen. vii. 11.

2. Methegh (מֶתֶג a bridle), a small perpendicular line on the left of a vowel, forms a kind of check upon the influence of the accents as marking the tone-syllable, and shows that the vowel, though not accented, should not be hastily passed over in pronunciation. It stands, therefore, chiefly by the vowel of the antepenultima when the last syllable has the tone, whether that vowel be long, as הָאָדָם, תֹּרָאֶה, or short, as קָדְשִׁים qŏdhashim, בֹּתֵּיכֶם bŏttekhém. But this rule is to be understood according to the view which regards the half vowels (simple Sh'va vocal and composite Sh'va) as forming a syllable (§ 10, 1, and § 26, 4); accordingly Methegh stands a) by the vowel which precedes a vocal Sh'va (simple or composite), קָטְלָה qā-ṭ-lā, יִרְאוּ yī-r'-ū, שָׁהֳרִי, הָעֲלָה, נֶעֱרוּ, פֹּעֲלוֹ pŏ-'-lô, and b) by even the vocal Sh'va itself קָרְאֹנָא Job v. 1.

When it stands by Sh'va, many Jewish Grammarians call it Ga'ya גַּעְיָא, while others use this name in general for every Methegh.

N.B. It is of special service to the beginner, as indicating (according to letter a above) the quantity of Qamets and Chireq before a Sh'va. Thus in זָכְרָה zā-kh'ra the Methegh shows, that the (ָ) stands in the antepenultima, and that the Sh'va is here vocal and forms a syllable; but the (ָ) in an open syllable before (ְ) must be long (§ 26, 3), consequently Qamets, not Qamets-chatuph. On the contrary, זָכְרָה zŏkh-ra without Methegh is a dissyllable, and (ָ) stands in a closed syllable, and is consequently short (Qamets-chatuph). Thus also יִרְאוּ (they fear) with Methegh is a trisyllable with a long i, yī-r'-ū, but יִרְאוּ (they see) without Methegh is a dissyllable with short i, yĭr-ū. (See above, the rule about Qamets and Qamets-chatuph, in § 9 at the end.)

Sect. 17.

QᴱRI AND KᴱTHIBH.

The margin of the Hebrew Bible exhibits a number of various readings of an early date (§ 3, 2), called קְרִי (to be read), because in the view of the Jewish critics they are to be preferred to the reading of the text, called כְּתִיב (written). Those critics have therefore attached the vowel signs, appropriate to the marginal reading, to the consonants of the corresponding word in the text; e. g. in

Jer. xlii. 6, the text exhibits אָנְנוּ, the margin קרי אנחנו. Here the vowels in the text belong to the word in the margin, which is to be pronounced אֲנַחְנוּ; but in reading the text אנו, the proper vowels must be supplied, making אָנוּ. A small circle or asterisk over the word in the text always directs to the marginal reading.

As to the value of the marginal readings in point of criticism, see Gesenius's Gesch. der Hebr. Sprache, S. 50, 75.

CHAPTER II.

PECULIARITIES AND CHANGES OF LETTERS; OF SYLLABLES AND THE TONE.

Sect. 18.

In order fully and rightly to comprehend the changes which the forms of the various parts of speech undergo, it is necessary first to get acquainted with certain general laws on which those changes depend. These general laws are founded partly on the peculiarities of certain classes of letters, considered individually or as combined in syllables, and partly on certain usages of the language in reference to syllables and the tone.

Sect. 19.

CHANGES OF CONSONANTS.

The changes occasioned among consonants by the formation of words, inflexion, euphony, or certain influences connected with the progress of the language, are commutation, assimilation, rejection and addition, transposition.

1. Commutation takes place most naturally among letters which are pronounced similarly, and by the aid of the same organs, e. g. עָלַץ, עָלַם, עָלַז to exult; לָאָה, לָהָה, Aram. לְעָא to tire; ־ִים and ־ִין (as plural ending); לָחַץ, נָחַץ to press; סָגַר, סָכַר to close; מָלַט, פָּלַט to escape. In process of time, and as the language approximated to the Aramæan, hard and rough sounds were exchanged for softer ones, e. g. נָאַל for גָּעַל to reject; שָׂחַק for צָחַק to laugh; for the sibilants were substituted the corresponding flat sounds, as ד for ז, ט for צ, ת for שׁ.

This interchange of consonants affects the original forms of words more than it does their grammatical inflexion; the consideration of it, therefore, belongs rather to the lexicon.* Examples occur, however, in the grammatical inflexion of words; viz., the interchange a) of ת and ט in Hithpaël (§ 54), b) of ו and י in verbs Pe Yodh (§ 69), as יָלַד for וָלַד (he begat).

2. Assimilation usually takes place when one consonant at the close of a syllable passes over into another beginning the next syllable, so as to form with it a double sound, as illustris for inlustris; diffusus for disfusus. In Hebrew this occurs—

a) most frequently with the feeble nasal נ, especially before the harder consonants, e. g. מִקֶּדֶם for מִנְקֶדֶם from the east; מִזֶּה for מִנֶּזֶה from this; יִתֵּן for יִנְתֵּן he will give; נָתַתָּ for נָתַנְתָּ thou hast given. Before gutturals נ is commonly retained, as יִנְחַל he will possess; seldom before other letters, as שָׁכַנְתָּ thou hast dwelt.

b) less frequently, and only in certain cases, with ל, ר, ת, e. g. יִקַּח for יִלְקַח he takes; הִכּוֹנֵן for הִתְכּוֹנֵן to be established; שֶׁ· for אֲשֶׁר who (§ 36).

In all these cases, the assimilation is expressed by a Daghesh forte in the following letter. In a final consonant, however, as it cannot be doubled (§ 20, 3, a), Daghesh is omitted, e. g. אַף nose for אַנְף or אָנֶף; תַּת for תָּנָת to give; לַת for לָדַת to bear. (Comp. τυψᾶς for τυψανς.)

In these last cases the assimilated letter has not Sh°va, but the helping vowel Seghol (§ 28, 4), which, however, does not render the assimilation impracticable.

In the way of assimilation, we occasionally find a second weaker sound swallowed up by the stronger one before it; e. g. קְטָלַתְהוּ from קְטָלַתְּהוּ (§ 59, Rem. 3), מִמֶּנּוּ for מִמֶּנְהוּ from him (§ 103, 2). With this may be classed up יִסֹּב for יִסְבֹּב he surrounds (§ 67, 5).

3. The rejection or falling away of a consonant easily happens in the case of the feebly-uttered vowel letters א, ה, ו, י, and also of the liquids. It happens—

a) at the beginning of a word (aphæresis), when such a feeble consonant has not a full vowel, and its sound is easily lost upon the ear, as נַחְנוּ and אֲנַחְנוּ (we); שֶׁ· for אֲשֶׁר (comp. No. 2, b); שֵׁב (sit) for יְשַׁב; תֵּן (give) for נְתַן.

b) in the midst of a word (contraction), when such a feeble consonant is preceded by a Sh°va, e. g. לַמֶּלֶךְ, the prevailing form for לְהַמְלִךְ (§ 23, 5, and § 35, Rem. 2); יַקְטִיל for יְהַקְטִיל (§ 53, 1).

c) at the end of words (apocopè), e. g. יִקְטְלוּ for יִקְטְלוּן; בָּנִים sons, before the genitive בְּנֵי.

Bolder changes were made in the infancy of the language, particularly in casting away consonants at the end of a word; thus, from אָבִן was formed אַב only; from בַּיִת, בָּ; from הַל, הָ (see § 99, and § 100, 4). Here belongs also the change of the feminine ending ־ַת ath to ־ָה a (see § 44, 1, and § 80, 2).

* See the first article on each letter in Gesenius's Hebrew Lexicon, translated and edited by Dr. Tregelles. Small Quarto. Bagster and Sons.

4. In other cases a harshness in pronunciation is prevented by the addition of א (Aleph prostheticum) with its vowel at the beginning of a word, e. g. זְרוֹעַ and אְזְרוֹעַ arm (comp. χθές, ἐχθές, Lat. spiritus = French esprit).

5. Transposition, in grammar, seldom occurs. An example of it is הִשְׁתַּבַּר for הִתְשַׁבַּר (§ 54, 2), because sht is easier to sound than thsh. Cases are more frequent which fall within the province of the lexicon, as כֶּבֶשׂ and כֶּשֶׂב lamb; שִׂמְלָה and שַׂלְמָה garment; they are, however, chiefly confined to the sibilants and liquids.

Consonants, especially the weaker, may also at the end of a syllable be softened to vowels, like els from ἐνς, chevaux from cheval (comp. § 30, 2, e), e. g. כּוֹכָב star from כַּוְכָּב, כַּוְכָּב; אִישׁ man from אִנְשׁ or אֱנָשׁ (where the Seghol is merely a helping vowel, see above, No. 2).*

Sect. 20.

DOUBLING OF CONSONANTS.

1. The doubling of a letter by Daghesh forte takes place, and is essential, i. e. necessary to the form of the word (Daghesh essential)—

a) when the same letter is to be written twice in succession, without an intermediate vowel; thus for נָתַנּוּ we have נָתַנּוּ we have given; for שַׂתִּי, שַׂתִּי I have set.

b) in cases of assimilation (§ 19, 2,) as יִתֵּן for יִנְתֵּן. In both these instances it is called Daghesh compensative.

c) when the doubling of a letter originally single is characteristic of a grammatical form, e. g. לָמַד he has learned, but לִמַּד he has taught (Daghesh characteristic).

The double consonant is actually and necessarily written twice, whenever a vowel sound, even the shortest (a vocal Sh•va), comes between. Hence this is done a) when a long vowel precedes, as in הוֹלֵלִים (insolent), which is read hô-l•lim (§ 26, Rem.), frequently also after a mere tone-lengthened vowel, as in שָׂמְמוּ, which is, however, usually contracted into שָׂמּוּ; b) when a Daghesh has already been omitted, as הַלְלוּ hă-l•lu for הַלְּלוּ hăl-l•lu; c) when the two consonants have come to stand together by composition, but properly belong to two words, as יְבָרֶכְךָ (he blesses thee), יִקְרָאוּנִי (they call me), where ךָ and נִי are suffixes; d) when the form has come from another which has a long vowel, as קְלָלַת construct of קְלָלָה. Sometimes the same word is found in both the full form and the contracted, e. g., יְשָׁרְדֵם Jer. v. 6, and יְשָׁדֵּם Prov. xi. 3, Q'ri; חָנְנֵנִי Ps. ix. 14, and חָנֵּנִי Ps. iv. 2.

2. A consonant is sometimes doubled merely for the sake of euphony. The use of Daghesh in such cases (Daghesh euphonic) is only occasional, as being less essential to the forms of words. It is employed—

a) when two words, of which the first ends in a vowel, are more closely united in

* In the Punic, מלך malkh (king) is in this way contracted to •môkh (see Mon. Phœnicia, p. 431).

pronunciation by doubling the initial consonant of the second (Daghesh forte conjunctive), as מַהזֶּה what is this? for מָה זֶה; קוּמוּ צְאוּ qū-mūts-ts'ū, arise! depart! Gen. xix. 14; וְאֻכַלְתָּ שָׁם Deut. xxvii. 7.*

In some instances words thus united are contracted into one, as מָזֶּה for מַהזֶּה, מָלָּכֶם for מַהלָּכֶם, מָה לָכֶם what to you? Is. iii. 15.

Analogous to the usage above mentioned is the Neapolitan le llagrime for le lagrime, and (including the union of the two words in one) the Italian alla for a la, della for de la.

b) when the final consonant of a closed syllable, preceded by a short vowel, is doubled in order to sharpen the syllable still more, e. g. עִנָּבִי for עִנְבִי grapes, Deut. xxxii. 32. (Compare Gen. xlix. 10; Ex. ii. 3; Is. lvii. 6—lviii. 3; Job xvii. 2; 1 Sam. xxviii. 10; Ps. xlv. 10.) Examples of this, however, are comparatively rare, and without any regard to uniformity.

Compare the following forms as found in very ancient Greek inscriptions, viz., ἀρισστος, τελασσται, Ἀσσκληπιος (Böckh. Corpus Inscr. Gr. I. p. 42), and in German anndere, unnsere (for andere, unsere), as written in the time of Luther.

c) when the final tone-syllable of a sentence (§ 29, 4) is to receive more firmness and stress by the doubling, e. g. נָתֻּנוּ for נָתָנוּ they give, Eze. xxvii. 19; יְחַלּוּ for יְחַלוּ they waited, Job xxix. 21, Is. xxxiii. 12.

3. The Hebrews omitted, however, the doubling of a letter by Daghesh forte, in many cases where the analogy of the forms required it; viz.—

a) always at the end of a word, because there the syllable did not admit of sharpening. Thus the syllable all would be pronounced, not as in German with a sharpened tone,† but like the English all, call, small. Instead, therefore, of doubling‡ the consonant, they often lengthened the preceding vowel (§ 27, 2), as עָם (people), with a distinctive accent (§ 15, 3) for עַם from עַמַם. The exceptions are very rare, as אַתְּ thou f., נָתַתְּ thou hast given, Eze. xvi. 33, (see § 10, 3, Rem.).

b) often at the end of a syllable, in the body of a word (where the doubling of a letter is less audible, as in Greek ἄλλο Homeric for ἄλλετο); e. g. הַמְבַקְּשִׁים for הַמְבַקְשִׁים.

* Here belong cases like נָאוָה נָאָה, Ex. xv. 1, 21; so that the assertion is not correct, that the first of the two words must be a monosyllable, or accented on the penultima.

† This distinction may be illustrated by the English word alley compared with alloy.—Tr.

‡ The doubling of a final letter is also omitted in Latin, as fel (for fell) gen. fellis, mel gen. mellis, os gen. ossis. In the ancient German, the doubling of consonants never took place at the end of a word, but always in the middle, as val (Fall) gen. valles swam (Schwamm), etc; Grimm's Deutsche Gramm, 2nd ed. I. 383.

In these cases it may be assumed as a rule, that the Daghesh remains in the letter with Sh'va (which is then vocal, § 10, 1), and is never left out of the aspirates, because it materially affects their sound, e. g. אַכַּפָּרָה 'khăpp'rā (not אַכַּפָּרָח 'khăpphrā) Gen. xxxii. 21, כְּתֻתוּ Is. ii. 4, וַתְּדַבֵּר, וַתְּהִי. On the contrary, it is usually omitted in the preformatives נ and ם in Piel, as וַיְדַבֵּר, הַמְדַבְּרִים, לְמִנַּצֵּחַ for לְמְנַצֵּחַ; so also in וַיְהִי, and in cases like הַלָּלוּ for הַלְלוּ, הִנֵּנִי for הִנְנִי.

In some cases a vowel or half vowel was inserted to render the doubling of the letter more audible, e. g. עִמָּכֶם with you for עִמְּכֶם; סִבּוֹתָ for סְבָּתָ (§ 67, 4), יַקְרִבֻנִי Is. lxii. 2.

c) In the gutturals (see § 22, 1).

Rem. In the later books we sometimes find Daghesh omitted, and then compensation made by lengthening the preceding vowel (comp. mile for mille), as יְחִיתֵן he terrifies them for יְחִתֵּן (Hab. ii. 17), מוֹרִגִים threshing-sledges for מֹרְגִים, 1 Chron. xxi. 23.

Sect. 21.

ASPIRATION AND THE REMOVAL OF IT BY DAGHESH LENE.

The pure hard sound of the six aspirates (ת, פ, כ, ד, ג, ב) with Daghesh lene inserted, is to be regarded, agreeably to the analogy which languages generally exhibit in this respect, as their original pronunciation, from which gradually arose the softer and weaker aspirated sound (§ 6, 3, and § 13). The original hard pronunciation maintained itself in greatest purity when it was the initial sound, and after a consonant; but when it followed a vowel sound immediately, it was softened and aspirated by the influence of the vowel, so פָּרַץ pārats becomes יִפְרֹץ yiphrōts. Hence the aspirates take Daghesh lene:

1. At the beginning of words, when the preceding word ends with a vowelless consonant, as עַל־כֵּן ăl-kēn (therefore), עֵץ פְּרִי ēts p'rī (fruit-tree); or at the beginning of a chapter or verse, or even of a minor division of a verse (consequently after a distinctive accent, § 15, 3), e. g. בְּרֵאשִׁית in the beginning, Gen. i. 1; וַיְהִי כַּאֲשֶׁר it happened, when, Judges xi. 5; on the contrary, וַיְהִי־כֵן it was so, Gen. i. 7; וַיִּפְלוּ פָּנָיו (with dist. accent) iv. 5, but in ver. 6 נָפְלוּ פָּנֶיךָ (with conj. accent).

Also a diphthong (§ 8, 5), so called, is here treated as ending in a consonant, e. g. שִׁרִי בְּ Judges v, 15. (Daghesh lene is therefore regularly found after יהוה, because אֲדֹנָי was read instead of it.)

2. In the middle and at the end of words after silent Sh'va, i. e. at the beginning of a syllable, being immediately preceded by a vowelless consonant, e. g. יִרְפָּא he heals, קְטַלְתֶּם ye have killed, יִשְׁתְּ let him drink. On the contrary, after vocal Sh'va they take the soft pronunciation, e. g. רְפָא heal thou, כְּבֵדָה she is heavy.

N.B. The aspirates have the soft sound also especially in—

a) Forms which are made, by the addition or omission of letters, immediately from other forms in which they had their soft sound; e. g. וְרָפוּ (not וְרָפּוּ) from וְרוֹף; מִלְּבִי (not מִלַּבִּי) formed immediately from סְלָכִים (on the contrary, סַלְכִי măl-khī, because it is formed directly from סֶלַע măl'k); דְּבָקִים (not דְּבָקִים) from דָּבַק. In these cases, that pronunciation of the word, to which the ear had become accustomed, was retained; thus, rid'phā, mal'khé, bikh'thābh.*

Rem. 1. The form שָׁלַחַתְּ, where we might expect the feeble pronunciation of ח on account of the preceding vowel, was originally שָׁלְחַתְּ; and the relation of ת, notwithstanding the slight vowel sound thrown in before it, was regarded as unchanged. Comp. § 28, 4.

b) The כ in the suffixes ־ךָ, ־כֶם, ־כֶן, has always its soft sound, because vocal Sh'va is before it, § 58, 3, b.

2. Also the tone appears at times to affect the division of a word into syllables, and consequently the sound of the aspirates; thus, לִסְפּוֹת Num. xxxii. 14, but לְסָפְּתָהּ Ps. xl. 15; קִרְבָּן (qŏrbān), but הַקָּרְבָּן (in pause) Eze. xl. 43.

c) Finally in certain classes of forms, e. g. מַלְכוּת (mal'khūth), יִלְּדוּת.

3. That the hard or soft pronunciation of these letters did not affect the signification of words, affords no reason to doubt that such a distinction was made. Comp. in Greek θρίξ, τριχός.

Sect. 22.

PECULIARITIES OF THE GUTTURALS.

The four gutturals, ח, ה, ע, א, have certain properties in common, which result from the pronunciation peculiar to them; yet א and ע, having a softer sound than ח and ה, differ from these in several respects.

1. The gutturals cannot be doubled in pronunciation, and therefore exclude Daghesh forte. To our organs also there is a difficulty in doubling an aspiration. But the syllable preceding the letter which omits Daghesh appears longer in consequence of the omission;† hence its vowel is commonly lengthened, especially before the feebler letters א and ע, e. g. הָעַיִן the eye for הַעַיִן; יֵאָמֵר it is said for יֵאָמֵר, etc. The harder gutturals, ח and ה, allowed a sharpening of the syllable, though orthography excluded Dagh. f. (as in German the ch in sicher, machen, has the sharp pronunciation without being written double), and hence the short vowel almost universally maintains its place before these letters, e. g. הַחֹדֶשׁ the month, הַהוּא that, מְחוּץ outside (but also מֵחֶלֶב from fat).

As these last forms are treated as though the guttural were doubled, the grammarians not inappropriately speak of them as having a Daghesh forte implicitum, occultum, or delitescens; e. g. אַחִים for אָחִים brothers; פַּחִים snares; חַחִים thorns. See more in § 27, Rem. 2.

2. They are inclined to take a short A sound before them, because this vowel stands organically in close affinity to the gutturals. Hence—

* A particularly instructive case occurs in § 45, 3, in the Inf. with prefixes.

† Comp. terra and the French terre; the Germ. Rolle and the French rôle; Germ. drollig, and Fr. drôle. In this omission, we see the diminished vigour of the language. The fresher and more original sounds of the Arabic (§ 1, 6) still admit the doubling of the gutturals.

a) Before a guttural, Pathach is used instead of any other short vowel, as ĭ, ĕ (Chireq parvum, Seghol), and even for the rhythmically long ē and ō (Tsere and Cholem); e. g. זָבַח sacrifice for זָבָח, שָׁמַע report for שָׁמָע. This is still more decisively preferred when the form with Pathach is the original one, or is used in common with another. Thus in the Imp. and Fut. Kal of verbs; שְׁלַח send, יִשְׁלַח he will send (not יִשְׁלֵח); Pret. Piel שִׁלַּח (not שִׁלֵּח); נַעַר a youth, where Pathach in the first syllable is the original vowel; יַחְמֹד for יִחְמֹד he will desire.

b) But a strong and unchangeable vowel, as וֹ, וּ, ◌ִי, (§ 25, 1), and in many cases Tsere, is retained. Between it and the guttural, however, there is involuntarily uttered a hasty ă (Pathach furtive), which is written under the guttural. This is found only in final syllables, and never under א; e. g. רוּחַ rū͜ch (spirit), שָׁלוּחַ shā-lū͜ch (sent), רֵיחַ rē͜ch (odour), רֵעַ rē͜ (companion), גָּבוֹהַּ gā-bhō͜h (high), הִשְׁלִיחַ hĭsh-lī͜ch, etc.

For the same reason the Swiss pronounces ich as i͜ch, and the Arabian משיח mesi͜ch, though neither writes the supplied vowel. [Analogous to this is our use of a furtive e before r after long ē, ī, ū, and the diphthong ou; e. g. here (sounded hē͜r), fire (fī͜r), pure (pū͜r), and our (oū͜r).]

The Pathach furtive falls away when the word receives an accession at the end, e. g. רוּחַ spirit, רוּחִי my spirit, where the ח is made the beginning of the new syllable.

The LXX. write ε instead of Pathach furtive, as נֹחַ Nῶε.

Rem. 1. The guttural sometimes exerts an influence on the following vowel. But the examples of this usage are few, and are rather to be regarded as exceptions than as establishing a general rule, e. g. נַעַר a youth for נָעַר; פַּעַל deed for פָּעַל. The A sound is preferred only where it would be admissible without the influence of the guttural, as in the Imp. and Fut. of verbs, e. g. שְׁחַט, יִשְׁחַט. If, however, another vowel serves at all to characterise the form, it is retained, as יִלָּחֵם he fights; וַיָּחֶל and he waited, not וַיָּחַל.

2. Seghol is used instead of Pathach both before and under the guttural, but only in an initial syllable, as יֶחְבַּשׁ he binds, חֶבְלַי. Without the guttural these forms would have Chireq, in place of Seghol.

When, however, the syllable is sharpened by Daghesh, the more slender and sharp Chireq is retained even under gutturals, as הִלֵּל, הִנֵּה, חִטָּה; but when the character of the syllable is changed by the falling away of Daghesh, the Seghol, which is required by the guttural, returns, e. g. הֶגְיוֹן const. state הֶגְיוֹן thought; חֶזְיוֹן, חִזְיוֹן vision.

3. Instead of simple Sh'va vocal, the gutturals take a composite Sh'va (§ 10, 2), e. g. אֲקַטֵּל, עֲמֹד to stand, שָׁחֲטוּ they have slain, יִשְׁחֲטוּ they will slay. This is the most common use of the composite Sh'vas.

4. When a guttural stands at the end of a (closed) syllable, in the midst of a word, and has under it the syllable-divider (silent Sh'va, § 10, 3), then the division of syllables often takes place as usual, especially when that syllable has the tone, e. g. שָׁלַחְתָּ, thou hast sent. But when the syllable stands before the tone, there is usually a softening of the sound by giving to the guttural a slight vowel (one of the composite Sh'vas), which has the same sound as the full vowel preceding, as יַחְשֹׁב (also יַחְשֹׁב), יַחֲשִׁיךְ (also יַחְשִׁיךְ), יֶחֱזַק (also יֶחְזַק); this composite Sh'va is changed into the short vowel with which it is compounded, whenever the following consonant loses its full vowel in consequence of an increase at the end of the word, e. g. יֶחֱזְקוּ, יַעַבְדוּ yŏ-ŏbh'dhū (from יַעֲבֹד), יַהַפְכוּ yăhăph'khū (from יַהֲפֹךְ).

Rem. 1. Simple Sh'va under the gutturals, the grammarians call hard (דָּגֵשׁ), and the composite Sh'vas in the same situation soft (רָפֶה). See more in the observations on verbs with gutturals (§§ 62—65).

2. Respecting the choice between the three composite Sh'vas it may be remarked, that—

a) ח, ה, ע, at the beginning of words prefer חֲ, but אֲ, e. g. חֲמוֹר ass, הָרֹג to kill, אֱמוֹר to say. But when a word receives an accession at the end, or loses the tone, א also takes חֲ, as אֲלֵי to; אֲלֵיכֶם to you; אֲכֹל to eat; but אָכֹל Gen. iii. 11. Comp. § 27, Rem. 5.

b) In the middle of a word, the choice of a composite Sh'va is regulated by the vowel (and its class) which another word of the same form, but without a guttural, would take before the Sh'va; as Pret. Hiph. הֶעֱמִיד (according to the form הִקְטִיל), Inf. הַעֲמִיד (conformed to הַקְטִיל), Pret. Hoph. הָעְמַד (conformed to הָקְטַל).

For some further vowel changes in connexion with gutturals, see § 27, Rem. 2.

5. The ר, which the Hebrew uttered also as a guttural (§ 6, 2, 1), shares with the other gutturals only the characteristics mentioned above in No. 1, and a part of those given in No. 2; viz.—

a) The exclusion of Daghesh forte; in which case the vowel before it is always lengthened, as בֵּרַךְ he has blessed for בִּרַךְ; בָּרַךְ to bless for בִּרַךְ.

b) The use of *Pathach before it in preference to the other short vowels, though this is not so general as in the case of the other guttural sounds, e. g. וַיַּרְא and he saw, while for the full form יִרְאֶה is in use; וַיָּסָר for וַיָּסַר and he turned back, and for וַיָּסֵר and he caused to turn back.

Unfrequent exceptions to the principle given under letter a are סָרָה sŏr-rā, Prov. xiv. 10; שָׁרַךְ shŏr-rĕkh, Eze. xvi. 4, where ר is notwithstanding doubled (also in Arabic it admits of doubling, and the LXX. write שָׂרָה Σάρρα). There are some other cases in which neither the doubling of the ר nor the lengthening of the vowel has taken place, as מָרְדְּ (for מֵרֵדְ) 2 Sam. xviii. 16.

SECT. 23.

THE FEEBLENESS OF THE BREATHINGS א AND ה.

1. The א, a light and scarcely audible breathing in the throat, regularly loses its feeble power as a consonant (it quiesces), whenever it stands without a vowel at the end of a syllable. It then serves merely to prolong the preceding vowel (like the German h in sah), as מָצָא he has found, מָלֵא he was filled, הִיא she, מְצֹא to find, הוּא he; מָצָאתָ, תִּמְצָאנָה. This takes place after all vowels; but in this situation short vowels, with few exceptions, become long, as מָצָא for מָצָא, יִמְצָא for יִמְצָא.

* The preference of r for the vowel a is seen also in Greek, e. g. in the feminine of adjectives ending in ρος, as ἐχθρά for ἐχθρή from ἐχθρός.—Tr.

2. On the contrary א generally retains its power as a consonant and guttural in all cases where it begins a word or syllable, as אָמַר he has said, מָאֲסוּ they have rejected, לֶאֱכֹל for to eat. Yet even in this position it sometimes loses its consonant sound, when it follows a short vowel or a half vowel (vocal Sh'va) in the middle of a word; for then the vowel under א is either shifted back so as to be united with the vowel before it into a long sound, as לַאמֹר for לֶאֱמֹר, יָצַל for יֶאֱצַל, also יֹאכַל (with â changed to ô, § 9, 10, 2) for יֶאֱכַל, or it wholly displaces it, as in בָּרָם for בָּרְאָם Neh. vi. 8, חֹטִים (chôtīm) for חֹטְאִים (sinning) 1 Sam. xiv. 33, מָתַיִם (two hundred) for מְאָתַיִם, רָאשִׁים (heads) for רְאָשִׁים. Sometimes there is a still greater change in the word, as יִשְׁמָעֵאל for יִשְׁמַעְאֵל, מְלָאכָה (business) for מַלְאָכָה. Sometimes also the vowel before א remains short when it is ā, e. g. וַאדֹנִי for וַאֲדֹנִי, לַאדֹנִי for לַאֲדֹנִי, לִקְרַאת for לִקְרָאת.

Instead of א in such a case, there is often written one of the vowel letters ו and י, according to the nature of the sound, the former with ô and the latter with ê and î; e. g. בּוֹר for בְּאֵר (cistern), רֵים (buffalo) for רְאֵם, רִישׁוֹן (the first) for רִאשׁוֹן Job viii. 8, comp. לוֹ for לֹא (not) 1 Sam. ii. 16, K'thibh; at the end of a word ה also is written for א, as יְמַלֵּה (he fills) for יְמַלֵּא Job viii. 21.

3 When א is thus quiescent, it is sometimes entirely dropped, e. g. יָצָתִי (I went forth) for יָצָאתִי, מָלֵתִי (I am full) Job xxxii. 18, for מָלֵאתִי, אֹמַר (I say) constantly for אֹאמַר, מָלוּ Eze. xxviii. 16, for מָלְאוּ, לַהֲשׁוֹת (to lay waste) 2 Kings xix. 25, for לְהַשְׁאוֹת Is. xxxvii. 26.

Rem. 1. In Aramæan the א becomes a vowel much more readily than in Hebrew; but in Arabic, on the contrary, its power as a consonant is much firmer. According to Arabic orthography א serves also to indicate the lengthened â; but in Hebrew the examples are very rare, in which it is strictly a vowel letter for the long Â sound, as קָאם Hos. x. 14 for the usual קָם he stood up, רָאשׁ poor Prov. x. 4, xiii. 23 for רָשׁ. Hebrew orthography generally omits, in this case, the vowel letter (§ 8, 3).

2. In Syriac א even at the beginning of words cannot be spoken with a half vowel (vocal Sh'va), but then always receives a full vowel, usually E, as אֶכַל in Syr. ekhal. Accordingly in Hebrew, also, instead of a composite Sh'va it receives, in many words, the corresponding long vowel, as אֵזוֹר girdle for אֶזוֹר, אֹהָלִים tents for אֶהָלִים, אֵרִיוֹת stalls for אֶרִיוֹת.

3. We may call it an Arabism, or a mode of writing common in Arabic, when at the end of a word an א (without any sound) is added to a ו (not being part of the root), as הָלְכוּא for הָלְכוּ (they go) Josh. x. 24, אָבוּא (they are willing) Is. xxviii. 12. Similar are נָקִיא for נָקִי pure, לוּא for לוּ if, אֲזוּא for אֲזוּ then. The case is different in הוּא and הִיא; see §32, Rem. 6.

4. The ה is stronger and firmer than the א, and scarcely ever loses its aspiration (or quiesces) in the middle of a word;* also at the end it may remain a consonant, and then it takes Mappiq (§ 14, 1). Yet at times the consonant sound of the ה at the end of a word is given up, and ה (without Mappiq, or with Raphe הֿ) then remains only as a representative of the final vowel, e. g. לָהּ (to her) Num. xxxii. 42, for לָהּ Job xxxi. 22; Ex. ix. 18. The ה at the beginning of a syllable preceded by vocal Sh°va often disappears and is omitted in writing, as לַבֹּקֶר (in the morning) for לְהַבֹּקֶר, בָּאָרֶץ (in the land) for בְּהָאָרֶץ, יְהוֹנָתָן contracted יוֹנָתָן. In these cases of contraction, the half vowel ֲ (ַ) before ה is displaced by the full vowel under it. In other cases, however, the vowel under ה is displaced by the one before it, as בָּם (in them), from בָּהֶם; or both are blended into a diphthongal vowel, as סוֹסוֹ (also סוּסֹה) from סוּסָהוּ, קְטָלוֹ from קְטָלָהוּ.

According to this, the so-called quiescent ה at the end of a word stands, sometimes, in the place of the consonant ה. But usually it serves quite another purpose, viz., to represent final ā, as also ō, ē and ä (Segol), e. g. אִשָּׁה, גָּלָה, גָּלָה, גָּלָה, יִגְלֶה. See § 7, 2, and § 8, 3.

Rem. In connexion with ō and ē it is occasionally changed for ו and י (רָאוֹ=רָאֹה, חַנֵּי=חַנֵּה Hos. vi. 9), and in all cases for א according to later and Aramæan orthography, particularly in connexion with ā, e. g. שְׁנָא (sleep) Ps. cxxvii. 2, for שְׁנָה, נְשָׁא (to forget) Jer. xxiii. 39, for נָשָׂה, etc.

SECT. 24.

CHANGES OF THE FEEBLE LETTERS ו AND י.

The ו [the sound of which is probably between our w and v] and the י [our y] are as consonants so feeble and soft, approaching so near to the corresponding vowel sounds u and i, that they easily flow into these vowels in certain conditions. On this depend, according to the relations of sounds and the character of the grammatical forms, still further changes which require a general notice in this place, but which will also be explained in detail wherever they occur in the inflexions of words. This is especially important for the form and inflexion of the feeble stems, in which a radical ו or י occurs (§ 69, etc., and 85, III.—VI.).

1. The cases where ו and י lose their power as consonants and flow into vowel sounds, are principally only in the middle and end of words, their consonant sound

* A very few examples are found in proper names, as עֲזָהאֵל, פְּדָהצוּר, which are compounded of two words, and in many MSS. are also written in two separate words. One other case, יְמָהּ־סָיְהּ Jer. xlvi. 20, is also in the printed text divided by Maqqeph, in order to bring the quiescent ה at the end of a word.

being nearly always heard at the beginning.* These cases are chiefly the following:—

a) When ו or י stands at the end of a syllable, immediately after a vowel: The feeble letter has not strength enough, in this position, to maintain its consonant sound. Thus הוּשַׁב it is inhabited for הָוְשַׁב or הָושַׁב; יִיקַץ he awakes for יִקַץ; בִּיהוּדָה for בִּיְהוּדָה; so also at the end of the word, e. g. יִשְׂרָאֵלִי yĭsrāēlî (properly, -liy, hence fem. -liyya), עָשׂוּ (made) Job xli. 25, for עָשׂוּו (comp. עֲשׂוֹת 1 Sam. xxv. 18, K'thibh). After homogeneous vowels, particularly pure u and i, ו and י constantly quiesce in these cases. But after a heterogeneous vowel they sound as consonants (according to § 8, 5), as שָׁלָו quiet, זִו May month, גּוֹי nation, גָּלוּי disclosed. But with a preceding short a ו and י mostly form a diphthongal ô and ê; see below, No. 2, b.

b) When ו or י is preceded by vocal Sh°va, and such syllables are formed as q'vom, b'vo. Hence בּוֹא to come for בְּוֹא, קוֹם to arise for קְוֹם. So also especially when ו and י preceded by Sh°va come to stand at the end of a word; as יְהִי for יְהִיְ (from יִהְיֶה), פְּרִי fruit for פִּרְיְ.

c) Very seldom when the feeble letter has a full vowel both before and after it; as קוֹם surgendo for קְווֹם, קוּם for קָוּם. Comp. [parvum contr. parum], mihi contr. mî, quum contr. cum.

In Syriac, where these letters flow still more readily into vowel sounds, ' is sounded, even at the beginning of words, merely as i, not as ʾ or ʿ (like e for אֶ); and so in the LXX. יְהוּדָה is written Ἰουδά, יִצְחָק Ἰσαάκ. Hence may be explained the Syriac usage, examples of which occur also in Hebrew, which transfers the vowel i, belonging to the feeble letter, to the preceding consonant, which should properly have simple Sh°va, e. g. כִּיתְרוֹן as the superiority for כְּיִתְרוֹן Eccles. ii. 13, וַיִּחַלּוּ (in some editions) for וַיְחַלּוּ Job xxix. 21 and they waited.

2. When such a contraction has taken place, the vowel letter quiesces (see p. 22, note †) regularly in a long vowel. Respecting the choice of this vowel, the following rules may be laid down:—

a) When the vowel, which an analogous form without the feeble letter would take, is homogeneous with the vowel letter, it is retained and lengthened, as יִיטַב he is good for יְיִטַב (analogous form יִקְטַל); הוּשַׁב (habitare factus est) for הָוְשַׁב.

b) When a short a stands before י and ו, there arise diphthongal ê and ô (according to § 7, 1); thus מַיְטִיב becomes מֵיטִיב doing well; הַוְשִׁיב, הוֹשִׁיב; עַוְלָה, עוֹלָה.†

* An exception is וּ for וְ and, see § 26, 1, and § 104, 2, b.

† Instances in which no contraction takes place after a short a are, מַיְמִינִים using the right hand, 1 Chron. xii. 2; אַיְסְּרֵם I chastise them, Hos. vii. 12; שַׁלְוָתִי I am at ease, Job iii. 26. At times both forms are found, as עַוְלָה and עוֹלָה evil; חַי living, construct state חֵי. Analogous is the contraction of מָוֶת death, constr. מוֹת, עַיִן eye, constr. עֵין.

c) But when the vowel sign is heterogeneous, and at the same time is an essential characteristic of the form, it controls the feeble letter, and changes it into one which is homogeneous with itself. Thus יִוְרַשׁ becomes יִירַשׁ; קָוַם becomes קָם qâm; גָּלִי and שָׁלוֹ become גָּלָה and שָׁלָה.*

An original ־ִי at the end of words becomes—

a) ־ִה (for ־ִי is never written at the end of a word), when the impure sound a must be used; e. g. יִגְלֶה for יִגְלִי (§ 75, 1); מַרְאֶה form for מַרְאִי; שָׂדִי field (poet.), common form שָׂדֶה.†

b) ־ֶה, when the A sound predominates, and is characteristic of the form; as גָּלָה, גָּלָה, גָּלָה for גָּלֶה, גָּלֵי, גָּלַי.

SECT. 25.

UNCHANGEABLE VOWELS.

What vowels in Hebrew are firm and irremovable, can be known, with certainty and completeness, only from the nature of the grammatical forms, and from a comparison with the Arabic, in which the vowel system appears purer and more original than in Hebrew. This holds, especially, of the essentially long vowels in distinction from those which are long only rhythmically, i. e. through the influence of the tone and of syllabication, and which, having arisen out of short vowels, readily become short again by a change in the position of the tone and in the division of the syllables. The beginner may be guided by the following specifications:—

1. The essentially long and therefore unchangeable vowels of the second and third class, viz., ī, ū, ê, ô, are mostly expressed among the consonants [or in the line] by their vowel letters, ī and ê by י, ū and ô by ו, with their appropriate vowel signs; thus ־ִי, ־ֵי, וּ, וֹ, as in מָשִׁיחַ anointed, הֵיכָל palace, גְּבוּל boundary, קוֹל voice. The defective mode of writing these vowels (§ 8, 4) is indeed frequently sufficient; e. g. מָשְׁחַ for מָשִׁיחַ, גְּבָל for גְּבוּל, קלות voices for קוֹלוֹת; but this is merely a difference of orthography, by which nothing is essentially changed in the nature and quantity of such a vowel, and î in מָשְׁחַ is as necessarily long as that in מָשִׁיחַ.

The exception here is, when, on the contrary, now and then a merely rhythmically long vowel of these two classes is written fully, e. g. ô in יִקְטוֹל for יִקְטֹל.

2. The essentially long and unchangeable â has in Hebrew, as a rule, no representative among the consonants, though in Arabic it has, viz., the א, which occurs

* The Arab writes in this case, etymologically, גَلَى, but speaks gala. So the LXX. write סִינַי, Σινᾶ. But for שָׁלָו is written in Arabic شلا.

† When any addition is to be made to the ending ־ֶה, it is written ־ִי, and sometimes also the original ־ִי is restored. See § 93, 9, Rem.

here but very seldom (§ 9, 1, § 23, 3, Rem. 1). For ascertaining this case, therefore, there is no guide but a knowledge of the forms (see § 84, Nos. 6, 13, 28).

Cases like מְצָא (§ 23, 1) do not belong here.

3. Unchangeable is also a short vowel in a sharpened syllable, followed by Daghesh forte, e. g. גַּנָּב thief; likewise in every closed syllable which is followed by another closed syllable, e. g. מַלְבּוּשׁ garment, אֶבְיוֹן poor, מִדְבָּר wilderness.

4. Such are also the vowels after which a Daghesh forte has been omitted on account of a guttural, according to § 22, 1 (forma dagessanda), e. g. הָרֵי־אֵל for הַרֵּי־אֵל mountains of God; בֹּרַךְ for בֹּרֵךְ he has been blessed.

Sect. 26.

SYLLABLES AND THEIR INFLUENCE ON THE QUANTITY OF VOWELS.

To obtain an adequate view of the laws, according to which the long and short vowels are chosen or exchanged one for another, a previous acquaintance is required with the theory of syllabication, on which that choice and exchange depend. The syllable may then be viewed with reference, partly to its commencement (its initial sound) as in No. 1, and partly to its close (its final sound) as in Nos. 2—7. The latter view is of chief importance.

1. With regard to the commencement of the syllable, it is to be observed, that every syllable must begin with a consonant; and there are no syllables in the language which begin with a vowel. The single exception is וְ (and), in certain cases for וֶ, e. g. in וּמֶלֶךְ (§ 104, 2, b).* The word אֶבֶר is no exception, because the א has here the force of a light breathing.

2. With regard to the close of a syllable, it may end—

a) With a vowel, and is then called an open or simple syllable, e. g. in קָטַלְתְּ the first and last are open. See No. 3.

b) With a half vowel or vocal Sh^eva, as p^e in פְּרִי p^erī (fruit), ch^e in חֲצִי ch^etsī (half), t^e in קָטְלוּ qā-t^e-lū. Such we call half syllables; see No. 4.

c) With one consonant: a closed or mixed syllable, as the second in קָטַל, לַבָּב. See No. 5.

Here belongs also the sharpened syllable, as the first in קַטַּל qăt-tēl. See No. 6.

* It may be questioned whether וְ in the above position be a real exception; for וּמֶלֶךְ ought probably to be pronounced ŭmālĕkh (not ūmālĕkh), the וְ retaining its feeble consonant sound before the Shureq.—Tr.

d) With two consonants, as קְשָׁט qōsht, קְטַלְתְּ; comp. § 10, 3. We shall now (in Nos. 3—7) treat in particular of the vowels that are used in these various kinds of syllables.

3. The open or simple syllables have, as a rule, a long vowel,* whether they have the tone, as בְּךָ in thee, סֵפֶר book, קֹדֶשׁ sanctuary, or not, as קָטַל, עֲנָב grape, יִירְאוּ they will fear. Usually there is a long vowel (Qamets, less frequently Tsere) in an open syllable before the tone (pretonic vowel), e. g. לָהֶם, יָלוּם, קָטַל, לַבָּב.†

Short vowels in open syllables occur only in the following cases:—

a) In dissyllabic words formed by means of a helping vowel (§ 28, 4) from monosyllables (Segholates), as מֶלֶךְ, נַעַר youth, בַּיִת house, יֶרֶב, from מַלְכִּי, נַעֲרִי, בֵּיתִי, יִרְבִּי. The reason is, that the final helping vowel is very short, and the word sounds almost as one syllable. Yet the first vowel is also lengthened, as in יֶרֶב another form for יֶרֶב (§ 75, Rem. 3, b), שֶׁמֶשׁ (in pause, § 29, 4).

b) In certain forms of the suffixes, as קָטָלַנִי, דִּבְרָהּ (from דִּבְרָהּ).

c) Before the so-called He local, which has not the tone (§ 90, 2), e. g. כַּרְמֶלָה towards Carmel, מִדְבָּרָה towards the wilderness.

In all these cases the short vowel is supported by the chief tone of the word. Elsewhere it has at least the support of Methegh, viz.—

d) In these connexions, ־ֶ ־ִ ־ֹ ־ֻ ־ַ, as טַעְמוֹ his taste, יֶאְסֹר he will bind, פָּעֳלוֹ his deed, וְהַדְרֵךְ and thy adorning.

e) In some other forms, as יֶחֱזְקוּ yĕ-chĕ-zᵉqū (they are strong), פָּעֳלֶךָ pō-ʿŏlᵉkhā (thy deed), שָׁרָשִׁים shō-rāshīm (roots); comp. page 27 and § 28, 3.

The first syllable in הָהָרִים, הַחֹרֶשׁ, and in similar forms, does not come under this, but under No. 6, below.

4. There is also a slighter sort of open syllables, consisting of one consonant and a half vowel (or vocal Sh'va, § 10, 1, 2), and may be called half syllables. They are so short, and so unfit to stand by themselves, that they constantly lean on the stronger syllable that follows, e. g. לְחִי (cheek) lᵉchī, יִלְמְדוּ yil-mᵉdhū, חֳלִי (sickness) chᵉlī, פֹּעֳלוֹ pō-ʿlō.

The modern grammarians do not regard these as actual syllables, but always reckon them as part of that which immediately follows [thus they regard לְחִי as forming but one syllable lᵉchī, and

* This is certainly a fundamental law in Hebrew, as its pronunciation is now indicated by the vowel signs, but not a matter of absolute necessity, for other languages very often have short vowels in open syllables, as ἐγένετο, Arab. qătălă. At an earlier period the Hebrew, like the Arabic, most probably had short vowels in those open syllables in which the vowel was not essentially long, and the present pronunciation is derived in part from the solemn, slow, and chanting way of reading the Old Testament in the synagogues.

† The Arabic has for this pretonic vowel constantly a short vowel; the Chaldee only a vocal Sh'va, לְהוֹן to them, לְבַב, קְטַל, יְקוּם, which is the case also in Hebrew, when the tone is shifted forward (§ 27, 3, a). But this pretonic vowel must not be regarded as if it had been adopted, perhaps in place of Sh'va, on account of the tone on the following syllable; but it originally belongs to this place, and the circumstance of its standing before the tone-syllable only causes it to remain, whilst it is reduced to a vocal Sh'va upon the shifting forward of the tone.

not two k-chi]. The half vowel is certainly not fit to serve as the final sound of a full syllable; and, according to the pronunciation handed down to us, this syllable with Sh°va is obviously of a different sort from the open syllable with a full vowel (No. 3). But yet that half vowel is in general but a shortening of an original long vowel, which is commonly still to be found in Arabic; and even the Jewish grammarians, from whom the vowels and accents came, have assigned to the union of a consonant with a half vowel the value of a syllable, as appears from the use of Methegh (see § 16, 2, b).

5. The closed syllables, ending with one consonant, have necessarily, when without the tone, short vowels, both at the beginning and at the end of words,* as מַלְכָּה queen, חָשְׁבּוֹן understanding, חָכְמָה wisdom; וַיָּסָר and he turned back, וַיָּקָם and he set up, וַיָּקָם and he stood up.

When with the tone, they may have a long vowel as well as a short, e. g. חָכָם wise, חָכַם he was wise; yet of the short vowels only Pathach and Seghol have strength enough to stand in such a syllable having the tone.† Examples of long vowels in the final syllable, are דָּבָר, קִטֵּל, יִקְטֹל; in the last but one, קִטַּלְנָה, קְטֹלְנָה. Examples of short vowels, קָטַל; שְׁכָם, אַתֶּם; in the penultima, קָטַלְתְּ, יִקְטְלֶנּוּ.

6. A peculiar sort of closed syllables are the sharpened, i. e. those which end with the same consonant with which the following syllable begins, as אִמִּי ĭm-mī, כֻּלִּי kŭl-lī. Like the other closed syllables, these have, when without the tone, short vowels, as in the examples just given; when with the tone, either short, as סָבְבוּ, הִנָּנִי, or long, as שָׂמָה, הֵמָּה.

Sharpened syllables are wholly avoided at the end of words; see § 20, 3, letter a.

7. Closed syllables, ending with two consonants, occur only at the end of words, and have most naturally short vowels, as קָטַלְתְּ, וַיִּשְׁבְּ, yet sometimes also Tsere, as נֵרְדְּ, וַיִּבְךְ, and Cholem, as קִשְׁטְ. But compare § 10, 3. Most commonly this harshness is avoided by the use of a helping vowel (§ 28, 4).

* There are some exceptions, when a word loses the tone through Maqqeph, as כְּחֻבְּרֹתָהּ (k°thābh), Esth. iv. 8.

† See § 9, 2. Short Chireq (ִ) occurs only in the particles אִם and עִם, which, however, are mostly toneless, because followed by Maqqeph.

CHANGES OF VOWELS, ESPECIALLY IN RESPECT TO QUANTITY.

The changes which the Hebrew language has undergone with respect to its sounds before arriving at the state in which we know it from the O. T. (see § 2, 3) have also affected its vowel system, so that, for the better comprehension of the vowel changes occurring in the O. T. language, it is of importance to trace back the corresponding states and relations of the language in that earlier period, and, at all events, to compare that which is retained in the Arabic. In general it is principally to be observed:

1. That, as it is at present, the language has often, in an open syllable, preserved only a semi-vowel (vocal Sh'va) where originally a full, short vowel stood; this is the case in the second syllable of the noun, and the first of the verb, before the tone, e. g. עֲגָלָה (ground form ăgălăt) waggon, צְדָקָה (gr. form tzădăkăt) righteousness, קְטָלוּ (Arab. qătălû);

2. That originally short vowels have now, in the tone syllable, but in nouns also in open syllables, before the tone, passed over into tone-long vowels, ă into ā, ĭ into ē, ŭ into ō (see § 9, No. 1, 2. No. 7 and No. 10, 3). These, again, either return to their original shortness, when the tone is shifted or made lighter, or they become still more shortened, even to semi-vowels (vocal Sh'vas), at a greater distance from the tone, or are entirely dropped in consequence of a change in the relations of the syllables. E. g. מָטָר (Arab. mătăr) rain, in construction with a following genitive (status constructus) מְטַר, pl. מְטָרוֹת, constr. מִטְרוֹת; עָקֵב (Arab. ăqĭb) heel, pl. עֲקֵבִים, עִקְבֵי; יִקְטֹל (Arab. yăktŭl), pl. יִקְטְלוּ (Arab. yăktŭlŭ).

The vowels, with the changes of which we are chiefly concerned here, are all the short ones, and as many of the long as owe their length simply to the tone and rhythm, viz.—

The short vowels,	The vowels lengthened by the influence of the tone,
ַ ă	ָ ā
ַ ä, ֶ ĕ	ֵ ē, ֵ ê
ִ ĭ
ָ ŏ (Qamets-chatuph)	ֹ ō
ֻ ŭ
To these add the half vowels or Sh'vas ֲ, ֱ, ֳ, ְ, as the utmost shortenings.

Let the student compare here again what was said in § 9, on the character and value of the several vowels; and in § 25, on the unchangeable vowels.

Agreeably to the scale of § 26, the following changes occur:—

1. A vowel become tone-long is changed into an original or kindred short, when a closed syllable loses the tone (§ 26, 5). Thus, when the tone is moved forwards, יָד hand, is יַד, as יַד־יְהוָה hand of Jehovah; בֵּן son, בֶּן־הָאָדָם son of man; כֹּל whole, כָּל־הָעָם

the whole-of-the-people; also when the tone is moved backwards, e. g. יָקֻם, וַיָּקָם; יֵלֵךְ, וַיֵּלֶךְ. So also, when an open syllable with a long vowel becomes by inflexion a closed one, e. g. סֵפֶר book, סִפְרִי my book; קֹדֶשׁ sanctuary, קָדְשִׁי my sanctuary. In these cases Tsere (ē) passes over into Seghol (ĕ) or Chireq (ĭ), Cholem (ō) into Qamets-chatuph (ŏ). But when a closed syllable with a long vowel becomes a sharpened one, i. e. ending with a doubled consonant, Tsere is attenuated into Chireq, and Cholem into Qibbuts, as אֵם mother, אִמִּי my mother; חֹק statute, plur. חֻקִּים.

The short vowels ĭ and ŭ are more pure, and hence pass for shorter than ĕ and ŏ.

2. On the contrary, a short vowel is changed into a corresponding long one,—

a) When a closed syllable, in which it stands, becomes an open one, i. e. when the word receives an accession, beginning with a vowel, to which the final consonant of the closed syllable is attached, as קָטַל, קְטָלוֹ he has killed him; סוֹסָתִי from סוּסָה.

b) When a syllable, which should be sharpened by Daghesh forte, has a guttural for its final consonant (see § 22, 1), or stands at the end of a word (see § 20, 3, a).

c) When it meets with a feeble letter (according to § 23, 1, 2; § 24, 2), as מָצָא for מְצָא he has found.

d) When the syllable is in pause, i. e. is the tone-syllable of the last word in the clause (§ 29, 4).

3. When a word increases at the end, and the tone is at the same time shifted forward, all vowels (long and short) may, according to the division of syllables, either pass over into a half vowel (vocal Sh°va), or may even be entirely dropped, so that only the syllable-divider (silent Sh°va) supplies their place; e. g. for the first case is שֵׁם (name) pl. שֵׁמוֹת become שְׁמִי (my name) and שְׁמוֹתָם (their names); for the second is בְּרָכָה (blessing) constr. בִּרְכַת. Whether the full vowel remains, or is changed into a half vowel, or is altogether dropped (דָּם, דָּמִי; שֵׁם, שְׁמִי), and which of the two vowels disappears in two successive syllables, must be determined by the nature of the word; but in general it may be said, that in the inflexion of nouns the first vowel is mostly shortened in this manner, while the second, when it stands immediately before the tone-syllable (as a pretonic vowel), remains, as יְקָר (dear), fem. יְקָרָה y'qārā; in the inflexion of verbs, the second, as יָקַר (he is dear), fem. יָקְרָה yāq'rā. Thus we have a half vowel in place of—

a) Qamets and Tsere in the first syllable (principally in the inflexion of nouns), as דָּבָר word, plur. דְּבָרִים; גָּדוֹל great, fem. גְּדוֹלָה; לֵב heart, לִבִּי my heart; תָּשׁוּב she will return, תְּשׁוּבֶינָה * they (fem.) will return.

b) The short or merely tone-long vowels a; e, o, in the last syllable, especially in the inflexion of verbs, e. g. קָטַל, fem. קָטְלָה qāṭlā; קוֹטֵל, plur. קֹטְלִים qôṭlīm; יִקְטֹל, יִקְטְלוּ yiqṭlū. The Seghol as a helping vowel is entirely rejected (becomes silent Sh'va), e. g. מֶלֶךְ (for מַלְכְּ), מַלְכִּי. If there be no shifting of the tone, the vowel will remain notwithstanding the lengthening of the word, as יָשׁוּב, יָשׁוּבוּ; כִּרְמֶל, כַּרְמֶלָה.

Where the tone is advanced two places, both the vowels of a dissyllabic word may be shortened, so that the first becomes ĭ and the second becomes Sh'va. From דָּבָר we have in the plur. דְּבָרִים, and with a grave suffix [i. e. one that always has the tone] this becomes דִּבְרֵיהֶם their words (comp. § 28, 1). On the shortening of ă into ĭ, see especially in Rem. 3, below.

Some other vowel changes, chiefly also with respect to quantity, are exhibited in the following remarks:—

Rem. 1. The diphthongal וֹ ô (from au), as also the ô derived from the firm ā (§ 9, 10, 2), is longer than וּ ŭ; and therefore, when the tone is moved forward, the former is often shortened into the latter: e. g. נָקוֹם, נְקוֹמוֹתָ, (see Paradigm M. Niph.); מָגוֹן flight, fem. מְגוֹנָה, with suff. מְגוֹנִי; מָתוֹק sweet, fem. מְתוֹקָה. The וּ stands sometimes even in a sharpened syllable, הוּכָה Ps. cii. 5, חוּקֵי Eze. xx. 18. Nearly the same relation exists between ֵי ē and ִי ī; see examples in § 75, 2.

N.B. On the contrary, וּ ū is shortened into ŏ, which in the tone-syllable appears as a tone-long ō (Cholem), but on the removal of the tone it becomes again ŏ (Qamets-chatuph), as יָקוּם (he will rise), יָקֻם (jussive: let him rise), וַיָּקָם (and he rose up), see Parad. M. Kal. So also ֵי becomes a tone-long Tsere (ē), and in the absence of the tone, Seghol (ĕ), as יָקִים (he will set up), יָקֶם (let him set up), וַיָּקֶם (and he set up); see Parad. M. Hiphil.

2. From a Pathach (ă) in a closed syllable, there arises a Seghol (ĕ), through a further shortening or rather weakening of the sound. This happens—

a) Sometimes when the tone hastens on to the following syllable, as יָדֶכָם your hand for יָדְכֶם, אָבִיחַר (prop. n.) for אֲבִיחָר; especially when a Daghesh forte is omitted in a letter which would regularly close a sharpened syllable, as אֶבָלֵךְ Ex. xxxiii. 3, for אֲכַלֶּךָּ I destroy thee, יְחִזְקֵאל Ezekiel for יְחַזְקֵאל whom God strengthens.

b) This is more regularly the case, when Daghesh forte is omitted in a guttural that has a Qamets under it. Thus always חָ for חַ (חַּ) e. g. אָחָיו his brothers for אַחָיו, from אַחִים; הָחָזוֹן the vision; כָּחָשׁ false for כַּחַשׁ, and so always with ח. With ה and ע the Seghol is used only where a greater shortening is required on account of the distance of the tone; hence, הָהָרִים for הַהָרִים the mountains, but הָהָר the mountain; הָעָוֹן the misdeed, but הָעָם the people. Before א and ר, where a short sharpened vowel cannot so easily stand (§ 22, 1), Qamets is almost constantly used, as הָאָבוֹת the fathers, הָרָקִיעַ the firmament. Comp. also the interrogative הַ (הֵ, הָ) § 100, 4.

* The vowel, which here disappears on the shifting of the tone forward, is the so-called pretonic vowel in an open syllable, concerning which see in § 9, 1, 2, and § 26, 3.

c) In syllables properly ending with two consonants, e. g. כֶּלֶבְ (also in Arabic pronounced kalb), for which we get, first, כֶּלֶבְ, and then with a helping Seghol (§ 28, 4) כֶּלֶב; יִגֶל (jussive in Hiphil from גָּלָה), then יִגֶל, and finally יִגֶל.*

3. In a closed (and sharpened) syllable, which loses the tone, ā is at times attenuated into ĭ, e. g., דִּמְכֶם your blood for דָּמְכֶם, מִדּוֹ his measure for מָדּוֹ; יְלַדְתִּי I have begotten, יְלַדְתִּיךָ I have begotten thee.† Comp. above, דִּבְרֵיהֶם.

4. The Seghol arises, besides the cases given above, in Rem. 1 and 2, also—

a) From the weakening of ā (Qamets) at the end of a word (comp. Roma, French Rome; Arab. خليفة read khalife), as מֶה and מֶהּ what? (§ 37, 1). See similar examples in Ps. xx. 4; Is. lix. 5; Zech. ix. 5.

b) Even from the weakening of u, as אֶתֶם (you) from the original attum (Arab. antum), see § 32, Rem. 5 and 7; לָהֶם (to them) from the original lahum. Comp. § 8, Third Class of Vowels, p. 21.

5. Among the half vowels, (ֲ) is shorter and lighter than (ֳ), and the group (ֲֲ) than (ֳֳ), e. g. אֱדֹם Edom, אֱדֹמִי Edomite; אֱמֶת truth, אֲמִתּוֹ his truth; נֶעֱלָם hidden, plur. נֶעֱלָמִים; הֶעֱבַרְתִּי; וְהֶעֱבַרְתִּי.

SECT. 28.

RISE OF NEW VOWELS AND SYLLABLES.

1. When a word begins with a half syllable (§ 26, 4), i. e. with a consonant which has a half vowel (vocal Sh°va), and there comes another half syllable before it, then this latter receives, instead of the Sh°va, an ordinary short vowel, which is regularly ĭ (Chireq), but with gutturals ă (Pathach; e. g. נְפֹל (to fall) n°phōl, with the preposition בְּ, not בִּנְפֹל b'n°phōl, but בִּנְפֹל bĭn°phōl; so also כִּנְפֹל kĭn°phol for כְּנְפֹל; לִפְרִי for fruit for לְפְרִי; בִּיהוּדָה (whence בִּיהוּדָה according to § 24, 1) for בְּיְהוּדָה; הֲמְעַט (num parum est?) hăm°at for הֲמְעַט h°m°at. At times another division of syllables takes place, so that the second consonant gives up its half vowel and forms a closed syllable with the first, as לִנְפֹל lĭn-pōl Num. xiv. 3, כִּזְכֹּר Jer. xvii. 2.

A similar process occurs in the body of a word, as רִשְׁפִּי rĭsh°phé and רִשְׁפִּי rĭshpé, אֲנָשִׁי from אֲנָשִׁים; yet here the initial vowel comes immediately from a full vowel, and is more like ĭ in דִּבְרֵיהֶם (§ 27, 3).

In Syriac, the usual vowel here is ă (ĕ), even in the absence of gutturals; in Chaldee it is the same as in Hebrew; the Arabic has always a firm short vowel for the vocal Sh°va.

2. When the second of the two consonants is a guttural with composite Sh°va, then the first takes, instead of simple Sh°va, the short vowel with which the other is compounded, so that we obtain the groups ֲֲ, ֳֳ, ֱֱ, e. g. בַּאֲשֶׁר how,

* So the LXX. also express מַלְכִּי־צֶדֶק by Μελχισεδέκ.

† Analogous to this attenuating of ă into ĭ, is the Latin tango, attingo; laxus, prolixus; and to that of ă into ĕ, (in Rem. 2) the Latin carpo, decerpo; spargo, conspergo.

לַעֲבֹד to serve, לֶאֱכֹל to eat, בֶּחָלְיִ in sickness, for כְּאֲשֶׁר, לַעֲבֹד, לֶאֱכֹל, בְּחָלְיִ. The new vowel in such cases has Methegh, according to § 16, 2, a.

3. When the first Sh'va is composite, and comes to stand after an open syllable with a short vowel, then it is changed into the short vowel with which it is compounded, e. g. יַעֲמְדוּ yăăm'dhū for יַעֲמֹדוּ they will stand, נֶהֱפְכוּ nēhĕph'khū for נֶהֱפָכוּ they have turned themselves, פֹּעֲלֵךְ pŏŏl'khā (thy work). Comp. § 26, 3, e.

4. At the end of words, syllables occur which close with two consonants (§ 10, 3, § 26, 7); yet this takes place only when the last of these is a consonant of strong sound, ט, ק, or an aspirate with its hard sound (tenuis), viz., ב, ד, ך, ת,* e. g. יִשְׁטְ let him turn aside, וַיַּשְׁקְ and he caused to drink, קְטַלְתְּ thou (fem.) hast killed, וַיִּבְךְ and he wept, יִרְדְ let him rule, וַיִּשְׁבְ and he took captive. This harsh combination of letters is, however, avoided in general by supplying between the two consonants a helping vowel, which is mostly Seghol, but Pathach under gutturals,† and Chireq after י, e. g. וַיִּגֶל and he revealed for וַיִּגְל; קֹדֶשׁ sanctuary for קֹדְשׁ; נַחַל stream for נַחְל; שָׁלַחְתְּ‡ for שָׁלַחְתְּ thou hast sent; בֵּית house for בַּיְתְ. Compare German Magd and the old form Māged. These helping vowels have not the tone, and they are dropped whenever the word increases at the end, as בֵּיתָה to the house.

These helping vowels have inappropriately been called furtive, a term which should be restricted to the Pathach sounded before a final guttural, according to § 22, 2, b.

5. Full vowels rise out of half vowels also by reason of the Pause; see § 29, 4.

THE TONE; CHANGES OF THE TONE; THE PAUSE.

1. The principal tone, indicated by the accent (§ 15, 2), rests on the final syllable of most words, e. g. קָטַל, דָּבָר; דִּבְּרוּ, קְטַלְתֶּם (the last two examples have

* There is no instance of a similar use of ג and פ, which would in that case likewise require Daghesh. The use of תּוֹסֶף in Prov. xxx. 6 (shortened from תּוֹסֵף) is the only exception; and in some MSS. the פ has Daghesh.

† With the exception, however, of א, as פֶּרֶא wild ass, דֶּשֶׁא fresh grass. On account of the feeble sound of the א, the helping vowel may also be omitted, as חֵטְא sin, גַּיְא valley.

‡ In this form (§ 65, 2) Daghesh lene remains in the final Tav, just as if no vowel preceded (§ 22, 2), in order to indicate that the helping Pathach has a very short sound, and at the same time to suggest שָׁלַחְתְּ as the original form. (Accordingly לָקַחַתְּ thou hast taken is distinguished also in pronunciation from לָקַחַת ad sumendum.) The false epithet furtive given to this helping vowel, in connexion with the notion that such a vowel must be sounded before the consonant, caused the decided mistake, which long had its defenders, viz., that שָׁלַחְתְּ should be read shalâacht; although such words as שָׁחַת, נָחַל were always correctly sounded shâchăth, nâchăl not naachl. Quite analogous is יִחַד yichăd (from חָרַת, see § 75, Rem. 3, d).

it even on additions to the root); less frequently on the penultima,* as in מֶלֶךְ, לַיְלָה night, קְטַלְתָּ.

Connected with the principal tone is Methegh, a kind of secondary accent (§ 16, 2). Small words which are united by Maqqeph with the following one, are destitute of the tone (§ 16, 1).

It is not necessary here to single out the words accented on the penultima (voces penacutæ); for the sake, however, of calling attention to these words, they are chiefly marked in this book with ֽ, as a sign of the tone.

In Arabic the tone is more on the penultima, and even on the antepenultima. The Syrians accent mostly the penultima; and the Hebrew is pronounced thus, contrary to the accents, by the German and Polish Jews, e. g. בְּרֵאשִׁית בָּרָא bréshis bóro.

2. The original tone of a word frequently shifts its place on account of changes in the word itself, or in its relation to other words. If the word is increased at the end, the tone is thrown forward (descendit) one or two syllables, according to the length of the addition, as דָּבָר word, דְּבָרִים words, דִּבְרֵיכֶם your words; קֹדֶשׁ sanctuary, קָדָשִׁים sanctuaries; קְטָלְתָּ, קְטָלָתְהוּ. For the consequent shortening of the vowels, see § 27, 1, 3.

In one case the tone is thrown forward in consequence of accession at the beginning of the word. See § 44, Rem. 5, b.

3. On the contrary, the original tone is shifted from the final syllable to the penultima (ascendit)—

a) When the syllable וַ (§ 49, 2) is prefixed, as יֹאמַר he will say, וַיֹּאמֶר and he said; יֵלֵךְ he will go, וַיֵּלֶךְ and he went; יָקָם let him rise, וַיָּקָם and he rose.

b) When a monosyllabic word, or one with the tone on the penultima follows, in order to avoid the meeting of two tone-syllables;* e. g. אִוָּלֵד בּוֹ I was born in it Job iii. 3, for אִוָּלַד בּוֹ; הוֹלֵם פָּעַם beating the anvil Is. xli. 7, for הוֹלַם פָּעַם Gen. i. 5; iii. 19; iv. 17; Job xxii. 28; Ps. xxi. 2.

c) In pause, See No. 4.

The meeting of two tone-syllables (letter b) is avoided in another way, viz., by writing the words with Maqqeph between them, in which case the first wholly loses the tone, as וַיִּכְתְּבוּ־שָׁם. The mode given above (letter b) is adopted whenever the penultima is an open syllable with a long vowel. Compare § 47, Rem. 1, § 51, Rem. 3, § 52, Rem. 2.

4. Very essential changes of the tone, and consequently of the vowels, are effected by the Pause. By this term is meant the strong accentuation of the tone-

* Even the prose of the Hebrews proceeds, according to the accentuation, in a kind of Iambic rhythm. That the authors of the system intended to secure this object is evident, particularly from the application of Methegh.

syllable of the word which closes a period or member of a period, where one of the great distinctive accents stands, as הָאָרֶץ, הַמָּיִם. The changes are as follows:—

a) When the syllable in pause has a short vowel, it becomes long; as קָטָל, קָטֵל; מַיִם, מָיִם; קָטַלְתְּ, קָטַלְתָּ; קֶשֶׁר (conspiracy), קֶשֶׁר 2 Ki. xi. 14; אֶרֶץ, אֶרֶץ Jer. xxii. 29.

b) When a final tone-syllable is preceded by a half syllable (as קָטְלָה, see § 26, 4), the vocal Sh°va of the latter gives place to a full vowel; a more fitting position is thus secured for the tone, which is moved from the last syllable to the new penultima; e. g. קָטְלָה, קָטָלָה; מָלְאָה, מָלֵאָה; יִקְטְלוּ, יִקְטְלוּ. The vowel selected is always that which had been dropped from the same syllable, in consequence of the lengthening of the word.* Moreover, vocal Sh'va in pause becomes Seghol, as לְחִי, לֶחִי; and a Chateph gives place to the analogous long vowel, as אֲנִי I, אָנִי; חֳלִי, חֹלִי sickness.

c) This tendency to place the tone on the penultima in pause shows itself, moreover, in several words which then regularly retract the tone, as אָנְכִי I, אָנֹכִי; אַתְּה thou, אָתָּה; עַתָּה now, עָתָּה; and in single cases, like כֻּלּוֹ Ps. xxxvii. 20, for כֻּלָּוֹ, and also לָעוּ Job vi. 3, for לָעֲוּ, from לָעָה.

The rule given under letter a relates mainly to Pathach and Seghol. Seghol is, however, strong enough to be retained in pause, as מֶלֶךְ, and specially when the syllable closes with Daghesh forte, as, יִקְטֶלֶנּוּ.

Pathach is sometimes adopted in place of Seghol, as וַיֶּלֶךְ, in pause וַיֵּלֶךְ; אַל־תָּלֶן lodge not, in pause אַל־תָּלֶן Judg. xix. 20. Pathach even takes the place of Tsere in pause; e. g. הָשֵׁב bring back, for הָשֵׁב, Is. xlii. 22, although more usually Tsere remains; and, on the other hand, Pathach occurs also even when the word is not in pause; e. g. תֵּרֵד for תֵּרֶד Ecc. iii. 48.

Several other changes occasioned by the pause will be noticed farther on, when treating upon the Forms and Inflexions.

* Such a pausal syllable is sometimes strengthened further by doubling the following consonant, § 20, 2, e.

FORMS AND INFLEXIONS, OR THE PARTS OF SPEECH.

THE STEM-WORDS AND ROOTS (BILITERALS, TRILITERALS, QUADRILITERALS).

1. The stem-words of the Hebrew and of the other Shemitic languages have this peculiarity, that by far the most of them consist of three consonants, on which the meaning essentially depends, while its various modifications are expressed by changes in the vowels, e. g. אָדַם he was red, אָדֹם red, אָדָם man (prop. red one). Such a stem-word may be indifferently either a verb or a noun, and usually the language exhibits both together, as מָלַךְ he has reigned, מֶלֶךְ king. Yet it is customary and of practical utility for the beginner to consider the third person singular of the Preterite, i. e. one of the most simple forms of the verb, as the stem-word, and the other forms of both the verb and the noun, together with most of the particles, as derived from it, e. g. צָדַק he was righteous, צֶדֶק righteousness, צַדִּיק righteous, etc. Sometimes the language, as handed down to us, exhibits only the verbal stem without a corresponding form for the noun, as סָקַל to stone, נָהַק to bray; and occasionally the noun is found without the corresponding verb, e. g. נֶגֶב south, תֵּשַׁע nine. Yet it must be supposed that the language, as spoken, often had the forms now wanting; most of them being actually found in the cognate dialects.

Rem. 1. The Jewish grammarians call the stem-word, i. e. the third person singular of the Preterite, the root, שֹׁרֶשׁ, for which the Latin term radix is often used; and hence the three consonants of the stem are called radical letters, in contradistinction from the servile letters (viz. א, ב, ה, ו, י, כ, ל, מ, נ, ש, ת, forming the mnemonic expression אֵיתָן מֹשֶׁה וְכָלֵב Ethan, Moses, and Caleb), which are added in the derivation and inflexion of words. We, however, employ the term root in a different sense, as explained here, in No. 2.

2. Many etymologists give the name root to the three stem-consonants, viewed as vowelless and unpronounceable, from which the stems for both the verbs and the nouns are developed, as, in the vegetable kingdom (from which the figurative expression is taken), the stems grow out of the concealed root. Thus for example—

Root: מלך to reign.

Verb-stem: מָלַךְ he has reigned. Noun-stem: מֶלֶךְ king.

This supposition of an unpronounceable root is, however, an abstraction too remote from the actual state of the language; and it is better, at least for the historical mode of treatment, to consider the concrete verb [3rd pers. sing. Pret.] as the stem-word.

3. These triliteral stems are generally of two syllables. But among them are reckoned also such as have for their middle letter a ו, which is uttered as a vowel (§ 24, 2, c), and thus reduces the form to one syllable, e. g. קָם for קָוַם.

2. The use of three consonants in the stems of the verbs and nouns is so prevalent a law in the Shemitic languages, that it is to be regarded as a characteristic peculiarity of this family. Even such monosyllabic nouns as might be deemed originally monosyllables (biliteral roots), since they express the first, simplest, and commonest ideas, as אָב father, אֵם mother, אָח brother, come under this law; thus, we have אִמִּי my mother, as if derived from אִמֵּם. Yet, on the other hand, stems with three consonants (triliteral roots) may be reduced to two consonants, which, with a vowel uttered between, form a sort of root-syllable, from which again several triliteral stems with the same meaning have sprung up. Such root-syllables are called primary or biliteral roots. They are very easily distinguished when the stem has a feeble consonant or the same consonant in the second and third place. Thus, the stems דָּכַךְ, דּוּךְ, דָּכָא, דָּכָה have all the meaning of to beat and to beat in pieces, and the two stronger letters דך dakh [comp. Eng. thwack] constitute the monosyllabic root. The third stem-consonant may also be strong. To such a monosyllabic root there often belongs a whole series of triliteral stems, which have two radical letters and the fundamental idea in common.

Only a few examples of this sort here:—

From the root קץ, which imitates the sound of hewing, are derived immediately קָצַץ, קָצָה to cut off; then קָצַב, קָצַע, קָצַר, with the kindred significations to shear, to mow, and metaph. to decide, to judge (hence קָצִין Arab. Kadi, a judge). Related to this is the syllable קש, קס, from which is derived קָסַם to cut into; קָשַׁב to sharpen; קָשָׂה to pare. With a lingual instead of the sibilant קט, קר; hence קָטַב to cut down, to destroy; קָטַל to cut down, to kill; קָטַן to cut off, to shorten; קָטַף to tear off, to pluck off; קָרַר to cut asunder, to split. A softer form of this radical syllable is כס; hence כָּסַם to cut off, to shear off; נכס Syr. to sacrifice, to slay for sacrifice. Still softer are נז and נר; hence נָזַז to mow, to shear; נָזָה to hew stones; נָזַם, נָזַע, נָזַל, נָזַר to hew off, to cut off, to eat off, to graze; and so נָדַד to cut, נָדַע, to cut off; compare also נָדָה, נָדַף. With the change of the palatal for the guttural sound חָצַב, חָטַב to hew stones and wood, חָצָה to split, divide, חֵץ arrow (σχίζα), חָרַר to sharpen, חִוִּיז arrow, lightning, also חָזָה to see (Lat. cernere, Germ. unterscheiden). and many others.

The syllable הם expresses the humming sound made with the mouth closed (μύω); hence הָמָה, נֶהֱם (נָאַם), Arab. همهم, to hum, to buzz. To these add בהם to be dumb; דהם* to become mute, to be astonished.

The root-syllable רע, of which both letters have a tremulous sound, means to tremble, in the stem-words רָעַד, רָעַל, רָעַם, רָעַשׁ: then it is expressive of what causes tremulous motion or agitation, as thunder (רעם), the act of shattering, of breaking in pieces (רעע, רעץ).

Compare with these the root-syllable גב with the idea of elevation, curving upward (gibbous), פר to break, לע, לח, to lick, to sup, under the articles גָּבַב, פָּרַר, לוּעַ, in Gesenius's Hebrew Lexicon.

From a further consideration of this subject, we may draw the following observations :—

a) These roots are mere abstractions from stems in actual use, and are themselves not in use. They merely represent the hidden germs (semina) of the stems which appear in the language. Yet the latter have, now and then, so short a form, that they exhibit only the elements of the root itself, as תָּם perfectus fuit, קַל light.

b) Most of these monosyllabic roots are imitations of natural sounds, and sometimes coincide with the roots of the Indo-Germanic stock (§ 1, 4); e. g. תָּפַף [comp. Eng. tap], τύπτω (τύπω), רָפָא ῥάπτω (ῥάφω), כָּלַף [comp. Eng. club], κολάπτω.

c) The stems with hard, strong consonants are to be regarded, according to the general progress of language (§ 6, 4), as the oldest, while the feebler and softer consonants distinguish forms of a later period, which consequently are more frequently used for the derivative and metaphorical significations; e. g. קָרַח and גָּלַח to be smooth, to be shorn, to be bald; and even גָּלָה to be bare. Sometimes, however, the harder or softer sound is essential to the imitative character of the word, as גָּלַל to roll (spoken of a ball, of the rolling of waves), but גָּרַר more for a rough sound, as made in the act of scraping = σαίρω, σύρω, verro: חָצַב to cut stones or wood, requires a stronger sound than גָּזַז to cut grass, to mow.

d) It appears also that those consonants, which resemble each other in strength or feebleness, are commonly associated in the formation of root-syllables, as קץ, כם, נז, נד (never קו, נם, נץ, כץ); פץ, בו (seldom פו); קם, נר (not נם). Scarcely ever are the first two radicals the same (דָּדָה) or very similar (אָהַל). On the contrary, the last two are very often the same (§ 67).*

e) The tendency to substitute smooth for harsh sounds (see letter c) is sometimes so great, that l, n, r, especially when used as middle stem-letters, are even softened to vowels, as דָּרַשׁ, דָּשׁ to tread down, to thresh; אָלַץ, אָץ (comp. אנס), to press, and many others. Comp. salvare, French sauver; calidus, Ital. caldo, in Naples caudo, French chaud; falsus, falso, in Calabria fauzu, French faux; and the pronunciation of the English words talk, walk. Comp. § 19, 5, Rem.

f) Often, however, the three stem-letters must all be regarded as original, since all are necessary to make the sound of the word expressive of the sense, e. g. חָנַק, חָנַק, עָנַק, to be narrow, to afflict, ἄγχω, ango [anguish, Welsh yng, angau]; דָּרַךְ to tread [comp. track]; בָּרַם, βρέμω, fremo, [Welsh brefu, Ger. brummen], to make a humming sound (to buzz, hence to spin), etc.

A fuller development of this active change among the elements of the language is to be sought for in the Lexicon.

3. To a secondary process or later epoch of the language belong stem-words of four, and, in the case of nouns, even of five, consonants. These are, however,

* Letters which are not found associated as radicals are called incompatible. They are chiefly such as too strongly resemble each other, as קנ, נק, בף, פב. Some letters, however, have been falsely considered incompatible, as ל, ר, which are often found associated, e. g. in גָּרַל and חָרַל, from the harsher forms גָּרַר, חָרַר. Comp. γραπτός along with γράβδην, δαπτώ along with δόγδοος, and much that is analogous in Sanskrit.

comparatively far less frequent in Hebrew than in its sister dialects.* This enlargement of the form is effected in two ways: a) by adding a fourth stem-letter; b) by combining into one word two triliteral stems, by which process even quinqueliterals are formed. Such enlarged forms as arise from the mere repetition of some of the three stem-letters, as קָטַל, קִטַלְטַל; סָבַב, סִבְסַב, are not regarded as quadriliteral, but as variations in conjugation (§ 55). So likewise the few words which are formed by prefixing שׁ, as שַׁלְהֶבֶת flame, from לָהַב, Aram. conj. Shaphel שַׁלְהֵב.

Rem. on a). Some forms are made by the insertion particularly of l and r between the first and second radicals; as גָּסַם, גָּרְסַם to shear off, to eat off; שַׁרְבִיט = שַׁבָּט sceptre; זָעַף to glow, זַלְעָפָה hot wind (the first form with ר frequent in Syr.). This mode of formation is analogous with Piël, and in Aramæan the two forms exist together, as עָגַל, עַרְגֵּל. In Latin there is a corresponding enlargement of the stem; as findo, scindo, tundo, jungo (in Sanskr., Class VII.), from fid, scid (σκεδάω,) tud, jug. Additions are also made at the end, principally of l and n; as גַּרְזֶן an axe, from גָּרַז to cut (comp. graze); כַּרְמֶל an orchard, from כֶּרֶם; נִבְעָל flower-cup, from נְבִיעַ cup; from חָרַד to tremble, חַרְגֹּל to hop (the termination el has perhaps a diminutive force, as it has in many languages).

Rem. on b). In the combination of triliterals, it generally happens that letters common to them both are written but once in the compound form, as צְפַרְדֵּעַ a frog, perhaps prop. marsh-hopper, from צָפַר to hop, and Arab. ראע a marsh. שַׁלְוָן tranquil, from שָׁלָה to be quiet, and שַׁאֲנָן to be at rest; or a feeble letter is cast away, as עֲטַלֵּף a bat, from עטל dark and עף flying. Still bolder changes are sometimes made in the amalgamation of words, as פַּלְמֹנִי (ὁ δεῖνα) Dan. viii. 13, from פְּלֹנִי אַלְמֹנִי.

It should be remarked that quadriliterals may be shortened again into triliterals; e. g. from חַרְגֹּל (hop, see above), חגל with the same signification; hence חָגְלָה a partridge (from its hopping, limping gait); שַׁרְשָׁה a chain for שִׁרְשֶׁרֶת, from שָׁרַר, שָׁרַשׁ.

4. To an earlier stage of the language, on the contrary, belong the pronouns (§ 32, foll.), and some particles, especially interjections (§ 105, 1), which, as an ancient and crude formation, have not attained to the model of the triliteral stems, and follow peculiar and freer laws of inflexion.† Most of the particles, however, are either derived from nouns or resemble them in inflexion, although their form is often very much shortened on account of their enclitic nature, and their origin can no longer be known. (See § 99, etc.)

Sect. 31.

GRAMMATICAL STRUCTURE.

1. The formation of the parts of speech from the roots, and their inflexion, are effected in two ways: a) by changes in the stem itself, particularly in its vowels; b) by the addition of formative syllables. A third method, viz., the use of several separate words in place of inflexion (as in expressing the comparative degree and several relations of case), belongs rather to the syntax than to that part of grammar which treats of forms.

The second mode of forming words, viz., by agglutination, which is exemplified in the Egyptian, appears on the whole to be the more ancient of the two. Yet other languages, as well as the Shemitic, had early recourse also to the first mode, viz., internal modification of the stem, and in the period of their youthful vigour developed a strong tendency to follow this process; but in their later periods this tendency continually diminished in force, so that it became necessary to use syntactical circumlocution. This is exemplified in the Greek (including the modern) and in the Latin with its corrupt branches (called the Romance language). The formation of words by agglutination is prevalent in ancient and modern Egyptian; that by internal modification, in Sanskrit and Greek. The Chinese is almost entirely destitute of any grammatical structure, and supplies its place by syntactical methods.

2. Both methods of formation and inflexion are found in Hebrew. That which is effected by vowel changes exhibits considerable variety (קָטַל, קָטַל, קָטַל, קִטַּל, קְטַל). We have an example of the other method in הִתְקַטֵּל, and of both in the same word in הָתְקַטֵּל. Inflexion by the addition of formative syllables occurs, as in almost all languages, in the formation of the persons of the verb, where also the import of these annexed syllables is still, for the most part, perfectly clear (see §§ 44, 47); moreover, it occurs in the distinction of gender and number in the verb and the noun. Of case-endings, on the contrary, there appear in Hebrew only slight traces [§ 90].

CHAPTER I.

THE PRONOUN.

THE PERSONAL OR SEPARATE PRONOUN.

1. THE personal pronqun (as well as the pronouns generally) is among the oldest and simplest elements of the language (§ 30, 4). On this account, and because it lies at the foundation of the flexion of the verb (§§ 44, 47), it properly claims our first attention.

2. The separate and primary forms of this pronoun, and as such expressing the nominative, are the following:—

	Singular.		Plural.
1.	comm. אָנֹכִי, in pause אָנֹכִי; אָנִי, in pause אָנִי	I.	1. comm. אֲנַחְנוּ, (נַחְנוּ), (אָנוּ)	we.
2.	m. אַתָּה (אַתְּ), in pause אָתָּה	thou.	2. m. אַתֶּם	ye.
	f. אַתְּ (אַתִּי prop. אַתִּי)		f. אַתֶּנָה, אַתֵּן
3.	m. הוּא	he.	3. m. הֵם, הֵמָּה	they.
	f. הִיא	she.	f. הֵן, הֵנָּה

The forms included in parentheses seldom occur. A complete view of these pronouns, with their abbreviated forms (suffixes), is given at the end of § 33.

REMARKS.

I. First Person.

1. The form אָנֹכִי is nearly as frequent in the Old Testament as אָנִי. The former is found in the Phœnician, but in no other of the kindred dialects;* from the latter are formed the suffixes (§ 33). In the Talmud, אָנֹכִי is very seldom used, and אָנִי is prevalent.

2. The formation of the plural in this and the other persons, though analogous with that of verbs and nouns, exhibits (as also in the pronoun of other languages) much that is irregular and arbitrary. The plural אֲנַחְנוּ is manifestly formed from אָנֹכִי (with the exchange of כ for ח) by the addition of אָנִי. The form אָנִ, from which the suffixes are derived, occurs only in Jer. xlii. 6 (K'thibh). The form נָחְנִי is found only six times; e. g. Gen. xlii. 11; Numb. xxxii. 32. (In the Talmud אָנִי alone appears.)

3. The first person alone is of the common gender, because one that is present speaking needs not the distinction of gender as does the second person addressed (in Greek, Latin, and German, the distinction is omitted here also), and, much more, the third person spoken of.

II. Second Person.

4. The forms אַתָּה, אַתְּ, אַתֶּם, אַתֶּן, are contracted from אַנְתָּה, etc., and the kindred dialects have still the n before the ת, Arab. anta, f. anti thou, plur. antum, f. antunna ye. The essential syllable is תָּה tā, and on it the meaning thou depends (see § 44, 1); the an prefixed is demonstrative, and gives more support to the form. אַתְּ without ה occurs only five times, e. g. Ps. vi. 4, and each time as K'thibh with the Q'ri, אַתָּה. As the vowels of the text belong to the Q'ri (§ 17), the reading of the K'thibh may have been אַתְּ, as an abbreviation from אַתָּה; comp. Num. xi. 15; Deut. v. 24.

The feminine form was originally pronounced אַתִי (with the feminine designation ־ִי, probably from הִיא she, properly thou she; compare תִּקְטְלִי § 47, 2), as in Syriac, Arabic, and Æthiopic. This form is still found in a few instances (Judg. xvii. 2, 1 Kings xiv. 2). Some forms in the inflexion of the verb are derived from it (see § 44, Rem. 4, § 59, 1). The final i sound, however, was gradually given up (in Syriac also it was at length only written, not pronounced), and the י therefore dropped, so that the Jewish critics, even in the above-mentioned passages, place in the Q'ri אַתְּ, the Sh'va of which stands in the punctuation of the text (§ 17). The same final י appears, moreover, in the unfrequent forms of the suffix, ־ֵכִי, ־ֵיכִי (§ 68).

5. The plurals אַתֶּם, אַתֶּן, are blunted forms (comp. § 27, Rem. 4, b) of אַתּוּם (Arab. antum, Chal. אַתּוּן, a form which lies at the foundation of some verbal inflexions, § 59, 1), and אַתֵּן or אַתֵּין, the full final vowel giving place to the obtuse sound of e, somewhat in the manner of the third person. אַתֵּן is found only once (Eze. xxxiv. 31, where another reading is אַתֶּן), and אַתֶּנָה (for which MSS. have also אַתֵּנָה) occurs only four times, viz., in Gen. xxxi. 6; Eze. xiii. 11, 20; xxxiv. 17. For the ending ־ָה, see No. 7.

III. Third Person.

6. The א was, perhaps, heard at the end of הוּא and הִיא, as a kind of half vowel, hûa, hîa, as e in German die (old Germ. thiu, thîa), sie, wie. A trace of this is also preserved in the Arabic, as huwa, hiya, in the common dialect hûa, hia.

The masculine הוּא is of common gender in the Pentateuch,* in which it is used also for she. (See § 2, 3.) The punctators, however, whenever it stands for הִיא, give it the appropriate pointing of this form (הִוא), and require it to be read הִיא (comp. § 17). It is, however, to be sounded rather according to the old form הוּא.

7. The plural forms הֵם and הֵן are obtained from הוּא and הִיא in the same manner as אַתֶּם from אַתָּה. In Arab., where they are pronounced hum, hunna, the obscure vowel sound is retained, for which Seghol stands also in the suffixes הֶם and הֶן (comp. § 27, Rem. 4, b). The ־ָה in both forms (הֵמָּה, הֵנָּה) has a demonstrative force. In Chald. (הִמּוֹן, הִמּוֹ), Arab., and Æthiop. (hûmu, hômû) there is an o or û appended, which appears in Hebrew in the poetical forms ־ֹמוֹ, ־ָמוֹ, ־ֵמוֹ (§ 58, 1).

8. The pronouns of the third person, הוּא, הִיא, הֵם, הֵן, are also demonstrative pronouns (see § 122, 1).

* Some rare exceptions occur; see in Lev. xiii. 10; xx. 17.

THE SUFFIX PRONOUN.

1. The full and separate forms of the pronoun, as given in the foregoing section, express only the nominative:* the accusative and genitive, on the contrary, are expressed by shortened forms or fragments, which are joined to the end of verbs, nouns, and particles (suffix pronouns, usually suffixes); e. g. הוּ and וֹ his (from הוּא he), thus קְטַלְתִּיהוּ I have killed him, סוּסוֹ his horse.

Instances of the same construction occur in Greek, Latin, and German, as πατήρ μου for πατὴρ ἐμοῦ, Lat. eccum in Plautus for ecce eum, Germ. du hast's for du hast es [comp. vulgar English give'm for give them]. In Hebrew this is done systematically, as in Egyptian, Hungarian, and some other languages.

2. In respect to the cases which these suffixes denote, let it be remarked—

a) When joined to verbs, they denote the accusative (but comp. § 121, 4), קְטַלְתִּי־הוּ I have killed him.

b) When joined to substantives, they denote the genitive (like πατήρ μου, pater ejus), and then serve as possessive pronouns, as אָבִי (abh-i) my father; סוּסוֹ his horse (so that it is as much equus ejus as equus suus, comp. § 124, 1, b).

c) When joined to particles, they denote either the genitive or the accusative, according as the particle includes the meaning of a noun or a verb, e. g. אִתִּי (prop. my vicinity) with me, like mea caussa, on the contrary הִנֵּנִי behold me.

d) The dative and ablative of the pronoun are expressed by combining the prepositions that are signs of these cases (לְ sign of the dative, בְּ in, מִן from, § 102) with the suffixes, as לוֹ to him, בּוֹ in him, מִכֶּם from you.

3. Some of these suffixes are probably derived from forms of the separate pronoun, which were early lost in Hebrew, as ךָ thee, from a form like אַבְּה = אַתְּה† thou. This applies also to the afformatives of the verb (§ 44, 1).

4. The suffix of the verb (the accusative), and the suffix of the noun (the genitive), are mostly the same in form, but sometimes they are different, e. g. אֲנִי me, ־ִי my.

† That a palatal (k) and lingual (t) are liable to be exchanged, is manifest from the speech of young children, who frequently confound them, as likkie for little. Obvious instances of this exchange are found in many languages, as Gr. δαίω=καίω, Gr. τίς=Æol. κίς, Lat. quis, and in the Hebrew itself שְׁתָה=שְׁקָה to drink. There is thus a strong presumption that the pronoun of the second person in the Shemitic languages must have had two forms, one with k and the other with t, as אַבְּה and אַתְּה, אֲכֶם and אַתֶּם.—Tr.

The following Paradigm gives a view of all the forms of the pronoun, both separate and suffix; more explanation about the suffix of the verb and the mode of attaching it to the verb will be found in §§ 58, etc., about the suffix of the noun in § 91, about prepositions with suffixes in § 103, about adverbs with suff. § 100, 5.

SECT. 34.

THE DEMONSTRATIVE PRONOUN.

f. זֹאת (זֶה, זוֹ) } this. Plur. comm. אֵלֶּה (rarely אֵל) these.

The feminine form זֹאת is for זָאת (from זָא = זֶה and the feminine ending ת, see § 80), and the forms זוֹ, זֶה, which are both of rare occurrence, come from זֹאת by dropping ת. אֵל and אֵלֶּה (akin to the Arabic article אַל, see § 35, Rem. 1) are plural according to use, and not according to grammatical inflexion. The form אֵל occurs only in the Pentateuch and 1 Chron. xx. 8, and there always with the article הָאֵל (Rem. 1). The ending ־ֶה in אֵלֶּה (same as ־ָה) is a demonstrative appendage, as in הַמָּה (§ 32, Rem. 7).

Another secondary form of the demonstrative is זוּ, used only in poetry. It stands mostly for the relative (like that for who), and it is used alike for all numbers and genders, like אֲשֶׁר (§ 36).

Rem. 1. This pronoun receives the article (הַזֶּה, הָאֵלֶּה, הָאֵל) according to the same rules as the adjectives, § 111, 2, and § 122, 1. There are, besides, some peculiar forms in which ל is inserted after the article, הַלָּזֶה Gen. xxiv. 65; xxxvii. 19; הַלָּזוּ fem. Eze. xxxvi. 35, and shortened הַלָּז usually masc. Judges vi. 20; 1 Sam. xiv. 1; xvii. 26; but fem. in 2 Kings iv. 25. In Arabic there is a corresponding form alladhī as relative pronoun.

2. Some other pronominal stems occur among the particles, § 99, etc.

THE ARTICLE.

Originally the article was a demonstrative pronoun, akin to the pronoun of the 3rd person. It nowhere occurs in Hebrew as an independent word, but always in close connexion with the word before which it stands. Its usual form is הַ־, with a short sharp-spoken ă and a doubling of the following consonant (by Daghesh forte), e. g. הַשֶּׁמֶשׁ the sun, הַיְאֹר the river for הַיְאוֹר (according to § 20, 3, b).

When, however, the article הַ־ stands before a word beginning with a guttural,

* In most languages the demonstratives begin with d, hence called the demonstrative sound, which is, however, interchanged with a sibilant [as in Heb. זֶה] or a rough breathing. Thus in Aram. דָּא, דֵּן, דָּךְ this, Arab. dhu, dhi, dha; Sanskr. sa, sā, tat, [Gr. ὁ, ἡ, τό], Goth. sa, sô, thata; Germ. der, die, das [our the, this, that; Welsh dyna; hyn, hyna], etc.

which (according to § 22, 1) does not admit of Daghesh forte, then the short and sharp ă (Pathach) is lengthened into ā (Qamets) or ä (Seghol).

But to be more minute:—

1) Before the weakest guttural א and before ר (§ 22, 5) the vowel of the article is always lengthened, as הָאָב the father, הָאַחֵר the other, הָאֵם the mother, הָאִישׁ the man, הָאוֹר the light, הָאֱלֹהִים ὁ θεός, הָרֶגֶל the foot, הָרֹאשׁ the head, הָרָשָׁע the evil-doer.

2) For the other gutturals it is in general the rule, that the stronger the guttural the firmer is the syllable of the article, both as to its sharpness and its short ă. But there are then two cases to be distinguished:—

A) When the guttural is followed by any other vowel than ā, ָ or ŏ, ֹ, then a) before ח and ה (as being stronger), the article regularly remains הַ, as הַהוּא that, הַחֹדֶשׁ the month, הַחַיִל the strength; with rare exceptions, as הָחַי Gen. vi. 19, and always הָהֵם those; b) before ע the Pathach is generally lengthened, as הָעַיִן the eye, הָעִיר the city, הָעֶבֶד the servant, pl. הָעֲבָדִים. (Exceptions in Jer. 12. 9; Prov. ii. 17.)

B) But when the guttural is followed by ā, ָ, then a) before ה and ע the article is always הָ, provided it stands immediately before the tone-syllable, else it is הַ, e. g. הָעָם the people, הָהָר the mountain, הָעַיִן (in pause), הָהָרָה towards the mountain, on the contrary הָהָרִים the mountains, הָעָוֹן the guilt; b) before ח the article is always הָ, without regard to the place of the tone, as הֶחָכָם the wise, הֶחָג the feast; so also c) before ח, as הֶחָלִי the sickness, הֶחֳדָשִׁים the months. (On the contrary הַהֲכָמָה according to A, a.)

It may be added, that gender and number (just as in our language) have no influence on the form of the article.

Rem. 1. The form of the Hebrew article הַ· seems to have originated from הַל, the ל of which is constantly assimilated to the next letter (like יִשָּׂח from יִלְשָׂח § 19, 2.) This assimilation is to be accounted for from the enclitical nature of the article. In the Arabic it sounds אַל (pronounced hal by the Beduins*), the ל of which is likewise assimilated, at least so before all letters sounding like s and t, and before l, n, and r; e. g. al-Koran, but as-sana (by the Bed. has-sana), e. g. Heb. הַשָּׁנָה the year. The Arabic article itself occurs also in the Old Testament in the Arabic name אַלְמוֹדָד Gen. x. 26, and perhaps also in אֶלְגָּבִישׁ ice, hail, e. g. גָּבִישׁ Eze. xiii. 11, 13; xxxviii. 22; and according to others also in אַלְקוֹם the people, Pr. xxx. 31.

N.B. 2. When the prepositions בְּ, לְ, and the כְּ of comparison (§ 102) come before the article, the ה is dropped by contraction, and the preposition takes its points (§ 19, 3, b, and § 23, 5), as בַּשָּׁמַיִם in the heaven for בְּהַשָּׁמַיִם; לָעָם to the people for לְהָעָם; בָּהָרִים on the mountains. With כְּ, however (which is less closely connected with the word), the ה very often remains, as כְּהַיּוֹם Gen. xxxix. 11, but also כַּיּוֹם Gen. xxv. 31, 33; else it seldom remains except in the later books, as

* See Wallin in the Zeitschr. der D. Morgenl. Ges. Bd. vi. s. 195. 217.

לְהָעָם 2 Chron. x. 7. (Yet see 1 Sam. xiii. 21; Ps. xxxvi. 6.) With וְ, which is in its conception still less closely connected with the word, the ה always remains, as וְהָעָם and the people.

Sect. 36.

THE RELATIVE PRONOUN.

It is the same for both genders and numbers, אֲשֶׁר who, which. In the later books, and also in some of the earlier, viz., in Canticles constantly and in Judges occasionally, instead of this full form we have שֶׁ (with the א elided and the ר assimilated, § 19, 2, 3), more rarely שֵׁ Judges v. 7; Cant. i. 7, once שֶׁ before א Judges vi. 17 (else שֶׁ before gutturals), and even שְׁ* Eccl. ii. 22; iii. 18. On the mode of expressing the cases of the relative, see § 123, 1.

אֲשֶׁר is used also as a conjunction, like quod, ὅτι, that. Closely connected with it in meaning is כִּי, which also belongs to the pronominal stems, § 104.

Sect. 37.

THE INTERROGATIVE AND INDEFINITE PRONOUNS.

1. The interrogative pronoun is מִי who? (of persons), and מָה what? (of things).

The pointing of מָה with Qamets is seldom found except in pause and before א and ר, as מָה אַתֶּם what are ye? מָה רְאִיתֶם what do ye see? rarely before ה as in Josh. iv. 6, 21. It is commonly written in close connexion with the following word: a) מַה־ with Muqqeph and Daghesh forte conjunctive (§ 20, 2), as מַה־לְּךָ what to thee? and even in one word, as מַלָּכֶם what to you? Is. iii. 15, מַזֶּה what is this? Ex. iv. 2; b) before the harder gutturals ה, ח, ע, it likewise receives Pathach with the Daghesh implied in the guttural (§ 22, 1), מַהֲהוּא Num. xiii. 18; c) when the guttural has Qamets, it receives Seghol (according to § 27, Rem. 2), as מֶה־עָשִׂיתָ what hast thou done? This Seghol stands also occasionally before letters that are not guttural, as מֶה קוֹל וגו׳ what voice, etc.? 1 Sam. iv. 6; 2 Kings i. 7, but only when the tone of the clause is far removed from the word; moreover, in the form בַּמֶּה, בָּמֶּה (see more in the Lexicon, under מָה in the note).

2. Both מִי and מָה occur also as an indefinite pronoun, in the sense of whoever, whatever.

* In Phœnician the full form אשׁר does not occur, but שׁ is pronounced sa, se, si, and אש ys, es; see Gesen. Mon. Phœnicia, p. 438. Mover's Phœnic. Text I. p. 81, etc., II. p. 44. Comp. above, § 2, 6. Also in modern Hebrew שֶׁ has become quite predominant.

CHAPTER II.

THE VERB.

SECT. 38.

GENERAL VIEW.

1. THE verb is, in the Hebrew, the most elaborated part of speech as to inflexion, and also the most important, inasmuch as it mostly contains the stem of the others (§ 30), and its various modifications are, to a great extent, the basis of the other forms in the language.

2. Yet all verbs are not stem-words. Like nouns they may be divided, in respect to their origin, into three classes,—

a) Primitives, e. g. מָלַךְ to reign; יָשַׁב to sit.

b) Verbal derivatives, derived from other verbs, e. g. צִדַּק to justify, הִצְטַדַּק to justify one's self, from צָדַק to be just; commonly called conjugations (§ 39).

c) Denominatives, or those derived from nouns in the form both of the primitives and the derivatives; e. g. אָהַל and אֹהַל to pitch a tent, from אֹהֶל a tent; שָׁרַשׁ to root out and הִשְׁרִישׁ to take root, from שֹׁרֶשׁ a root.

The noun, from which the denominative verb comes, is in most cases itself derivative; e. g. לָבַן to be white, hence לְבֵנָה a brick (from the colour), and hence again לָבַן to make bricks; from דָּגָה to increase greatly, דָּג a fish, and hence again דּוּג to fish.

A peculiar kind of secondary verbs, and at least of rather late formation in the language (hence frequent in the later dialects), are those denominatives, one of whose consonants, originally a mere servile, has become a radical; e. g. נוּחַ to rest, to set one's self down; hence the noun נָחַת a setting down; hence again נָחַת to descend: in like manner שַׁחַת grave, destruction (from שׁוּחַ), hence שָׁחַת to destroy.

SECT. 39.

1. The 3rd person Preterite of the simple form of the primitive verbs (i. e. Kal, see No. 4) is generally regarded as the stem-form or ground-form of the verb, as קָטַל he has killed, כָּבַד *he was heavy. From this are derived the other persons of the Preterite and the Participle. Another, more simple still, is the Infinitive, as קְטֹל, also קְטֶל, with which the Imperative generally agrees in form, and from which is derived the Future.

* The Infinitive is here used for the sake of brevity in most grammars and lexicons, thus לָמַד to learn, prop. he has learned.

The first ground-form, of two syllables (Arab. qatala, qatila, qatula), may be called the concrete, and the second, which is generally monosyllabic (Arab. qatl, qitl, qutl), the abstract. The same analogy prevails in the division of nouns into abstract and concrete.

In verbs whose second radical is ו, the full stem appears only in the second form; e. g. שׁוּב, of which the 3rd person Pret. is שָׁב.

2. From the simple form of the primitives, viz., Kal, are formed, according to an unvarying analogy in all verbs, the verba derivativa, each distinguished by a specific change in the form of the stem, with a corresponding definite change in its signification (intensive, frequentative, causative, passive, reflexive, reciprocal); e. g. לָמַד to learn, לִמֵּד to cause to learn, to teach; שָׁכַב to lie, הִשְׁכִּיב to cause to lie, to lay; שָׁפַט to judge, נִשְׁפַּט to contend before a judge, to litigate. In other languages such words are regarded as new derivative verbs; e. g. to fall, to fell; lactēre, to suck, lactāre, to give suck; jacĕre, to throw, jacēre, to lie; γίνομαι to be born, γεννάω to bear. But in Hebrew, where these formations are beyond comparison more regular than e. g. in the German, Latin, and Greek, they are called, since the time of Reuchlin, conjugations (Heb. בִּנְיָנִים, more correctly species, modifications) of the primitive form, and both in the grammar and lexicon are always treated of in connexion as parts of the same verb.*

3. The changes of the primitive form consist partly in varying its vowels, or doubling one or more of its letters (קָטַל, קִטֵּל; קוֹטַל, קוּטַל; קִטְלֵל, קִטְלַטַל; comp. to lie, to lay; to fall, to fell); partly in the addition of formative letters or syllables (נִקְטַל, הִקְטִיל; comp. to speak, to bespeak; to count, to recount; to bid, to forbid); sometimes in both united, as הִתְקַטֵּל. (Comp. § 31, 2.)

In the Aramæan this is effected less by the change of vowels than by the addition of formative syllables; so that, for instance, all the passives are formed as reflexives by the prefix syllable אִת, אֶת. The Arabic is rich in both methods, while the Hebrew holds also here the middle place (§ 1, 6).

4. Grammarians differ as to the number and arrangement of these conjugations. The common practice, however, of giving to them still the old technical designations, prevents any error. The simple form is called Kal (קַל light, because it has no formative additions); the others (כְּבֵדִים heavy, because burdened with formative additions) derive their names from the Paradigm used by the old Jewish grammarians, פָּעַל he has done.† Several of them have passives which distinguish

* The term Conjugations, therefore, is evidently to be taken here in a different sense than in Greek and Latin grammar.

† This verb, on account of the guttural which it contains, is unsuitable for a Paradigm, and has been exchanged for פָּקַד, which possesses this advantage, that all its conjugations are actually in use in the Old Testament. There is, however, some indistinctness in the pronunciation of some of its forms, as פָּקְדָתְּ, פָּקְדְתֶּם. The Paradigm קָטַל, themselves from their actives by the obscure vowels. The most common conjugations (including Kal) are the five following; but few verbs, however, exhibit them all:—

	Active.	Passive.
1. Kal.	קָטַל to kill.	(wanting.)
2. Niphal.	נִקְטַל to kill one's self.	(very rare.)
3. Piël.	קִטֵּל to kill many, to massacre.	Pual. קֻטַּל
4. Hiphil.	הִקְטִיל to cause to kill.	Hophal. הָקְטַל
5. Hithpaël.	הִתְקַטֵּל to kill one's self.	Hothpaal. הָתְקַטַּל

There are several other less frequent conjugations, of which some, however, are more common than these in the kindred languages; and in the irregular verb in Hebrew they sometimes take the place of the usual conjugations (§ 55).

In Arabic there is a greater variety of forms, and their arrangement more appropriate. Arranged after the Arabic manner, the Hebrew conjugations would stand thus:—1. Kal. 2. Piël and Pual. 3. Poël and Poal (§ 55, 1). 4. Hiphil and Hophal. 5. Hithpaël and Hothpaal. 6. Hithpoël (§ 55). 7. Niphal. 8. Wanting in Hebrew. 9. Pilel. The more appropriate division is into three classes; a) The intensive Piël, with the analogous forms derived from it; b) The causative Hiphil, and its analogous forms (Shaphel, Tiphel); c) The reflexive and passive Niphal.

SECT. 40.

1. The Hebrew verb is indebted, for whatever copiousness it exhibits, chiefly to these conjugations or derivative verbs. In moods and tenses it is poor, having only two tenses (Preterite and *Future), an Imperative, an Infinitive (with two forms), and a Participle. All other relations of time, absolute and relative, must be expressed by these, either alone (hence the diversity in the senses of the same form, § 125, etc.) or in syntactical connexion with other words. The jussive and optative are sometimes indicated by peculiar forms of the Future (see § 48).

In the Germanic languages, also, there are distinct forms for only two tenses (the Present and Imperfect). In the formation of all the others auxiliary verbs are employed. Comp. Grimm's d. Gramm. 2. A. 1, 135.

2. In the inflexion of the Pret. and Fut. by persons, the Hebrew differs from the Western languages, having in most cases distinct forms for both genders, as in the personal pronoun, which is incorporated in the forms of these tenses.

in common use since the time of Danz, obviates this inconvenience, and is especially adapted to the comparative treatment of the Shemitic languages, inasmuch as it is found with a slight change (Arab. and Æthiop. קתל) in all of them. In Hebrew, it is true, it has only the forms of Kal, which are not frequent, and occur only in poetry; yet it may be retained as a type or model sanctioned by usage.

* See note on "the Future and its inflection," § 47, p. 79.—TR.

As a preliminary view for the beginner, we exhibit here in a Table the formative syllables (afformatives and preformatives) of both tenses. Fuller instruction concerning them will be found in §§ 44—47 in connexion with the Paradigms.

SECT. 41.

The general analogy in the inflexion of verbs, which is normally exhibited in the stems with strong and firm consonants, holds good for all verbs; and the deviations which occur from this model of the strong and regular verb, are only modifications owing to the peculiar nature and the feebleness of many consonants, viz.—

a) To the presence of a guttural as one of the stem-letters or radicals, which occasions various vowel changes according to § 22 (guttural verb, §§ 62—65).

b) To the falling away of a strong stem-letter by assimilation or contraction (contracted verb, §§ 66, 67), as נָגַשׁ, סָבַב.

c) To the presence of a feeble letter as one of the radicals (§§ 23, 24), so that many changes occur through its commutation, omission, or quiescence (quiescent or feeble verb, § 68, etc.), as יָשַׁב, קוּם.

The letters of the old Paradigms פָּעַל are used in naming the letters of the stem, ב designating the first, ע the second, and ל the third. Hence the expressions, verb פ״א for a verb whose first radical is א (primæ radicalis א); verb ל״ה for one whose third radical is ה (tertiæ radicalis ה); verb ע״ע (ע doubled) for one whose second and third radicals are the same (mediæ radicalis geminatæ).

[In the Tables which follow, the words marked with an asterisk are normal forms, which serve as models for others.]

I. THE REGULAR VERB.

SECT. 42.

As the rules for the inflexion of the regular verb apply, with only occasional modifications, to all the irregular verbs, it will be most convenient, and it will also exhibit the subject in the clearest light to the learner, if we present, while treating of the former, whatever belongs to the general analogy of the verb.

† [Or jussive, according to Rödiger, and so throughout all the following Tables.—EDIT.]

This Paradigm (together with the Table of the formative syllables in § 40, 2) exhibits a complete view of the usual and normal forms. Full explanations are given in the following sections (43—55), where every subject is elucidated on its first occurrence; thus, under Kal the inflexions of the Preterite, and of the Future and its modificatiens, are minutely explained with reference also to the other conjugations; and under the regular verb are given the forms and significations of conjugations which apply also to the irregular, etc.

A. THE SIMPLE FORM, OR KAL.

SECT. 43.

ITS FORM AND SIGNIFICATION.

1. The common form of the 3rd person Pret. in Kal is קָטַל, with a short A (Pathach), in the second syllable, especially in transitive verbs. There is also a form with E (Tsere), and another with O (Cholem), in the second syllable; the two latter are usually found with intransitive meaning, and serve for expressing states and qualities, e. g. כָּבֵד to be heavy, קָטֹן to be small. Sometimes both forms, the transitive and the intransitive, exist together, as מָלְא to fill (Esther vii. 5), מָלֵא to be full (comp. § 47, Rem. 2), yet also with the same signification for both forms, as קָרַב and קָרֵב to approach.

A verb middle E will be found in the Paradigm by the side of a verb middle A.* The example selected shows, at the same time, the effect of inflexion on Daghesh lene in the middle stem-letter.

Rem. 1. The vowel of the second syllable is the principal vowel, and hence it distinguishes between the transitive and intransitive. The pretonic Qamets in the first syllable has little strength, and becomes vocal Sh^eva on the shifting of the tone, as קְטַלְתֶּם. In Aramæan it wholly falls away in the root itself, as קְטַל, קְטֵל.

2. Examples of denominatives in Kal; חָמַר to cover with pitch, from חֵמָר pitch; מָלַח to salt, from מֶלַח salt.

SECT. 44.

PRETERITE OF KAL AND ITS INFLEXION.

1. The inflexion of the Preterite, in respect to person, number, and gender, is effected by the addition of fragments of the personal pronouns (afformatives) to the end of the ground-form. In explaining this connexion, we may treat the ground-form as a participle, or a verbal adjective,† thus קָטַל־תְּ thou hast killed,

* A verb middle A is one that has Pathach or Qamets under the middle radical or in the second syllable; a verb middle E, one that has Tsere; and a verb middle O, one that has Cholem.—TR.

† On the intimate connexion between the Preterite and the verbal adjective, see what has been already said, § 39, 1. In intransitive verbs they have the same form, as מָלְא full, or he is full; קָטֹן small, or he is small. In transitive verbs the participle presents, indeed, a different form (קֹטֵל), still with קָטֵל may be compared the adjective form קָטֵל, though generally it is expressive of quality, as חָכָם wise, שָׂטָן adversary (§ 48, 1).

(properly killing-thou, or killer-thou, a killer wast thou, קָטַל אַתָּה), יָרֵא he was fearing, יְרֵאתֶם fearing ye (for יָרֵא אַתֶּם). In the second person this is readily seen as well as in קְטַלְנוּ we have killed for קָטַל אֲנִי. In the first person sing. קְטַלְתִּי we have ־ְתִי, the simple germ of the pronoun, united with the demonstrative sound ת, by which the afformative is at once distinguished from the suffix forms ־ִי and ־ְי (as if one would form אַנְתִּי, אַתִּי I after the analogy of אַתָּה).* In the third person, ־ָה (originally ־ַת, comp. Rem. 4) is a designation of the feminine (as in the noun § 80, 2), and ־ִים (orig. ־ִין) is a sign of the plural.

In the Indo-Germanic tongues, the inflexion by persons originated in the same manner, by appending pronominal forms, as is shown in Sanskrit and Greek; e. g. from the stem as (to be) Sanskr. asmi, εἰμί, Doric ἐμμί for ἐσμί I am, where the ending μί belongs to μοί and μέ; Sanskr. asi, Dor. ἐσσί thou art, where σι is nearly equal to σύ; Sanskr. asti, ἐστί he is, where τί corresponds to the pronoun τό, etc.; [and this is shown better still in Welsh, e. g. wyf, I am (with ending f from fi I), wyt thou art (ending t from ti thou), yw he is (no ending as in Hebrew), ym we are (ending m from ni we), ych you are (ending ch from chwi you), ynt they are (ending nt from hwynt they)]. But the etymology in all these languages [except in Welsh] is more obliterated than in Hebrew. This is partly true also of inflexion in the other Shemitic languages; e. g. 1st pers. Arab. qatalтй, Syr. qetleth, where the characteristic i is wholly lost.

2. In respect to vowel changes, the analogy of the 3 fem. sing. קָטְלָה is followed by the 3 masc. plur. קָטְלוּ, and that of the 2 masc. sing. קָטַלְתָּ, by all the forms of the first and second persons.† Only קְטַלְתֶּם, קְטַלְתֶּן have the tone on the last syllable, and, in consequence, Sh'va under the first radical (§ 27, 3).

N.B. Rem. 1. Verbs middle E, falling back in their inflexion to the type of verbs middle A, generally lose the E sound, which passes over into Pathach, as the Paradigm shows. The original E appears, however, regularly in the feeble stems לֵא (§ 74, Rem. 1); in strong stems only in pause, i. e. when the stress of voice falls upon it, as דְּבֵקָה she cleaves, Job xxix. 10; comp. 2 Sam. i. 23; Job xli. 15.

2. In some feeble stems middle A, the a under the second radical sometimes passes over into (־ֶ) or (־ֵ), when the syllable is closed and toneless, and the first radical has not a full vowel (§ 27, Rem. 2, 3). Thus שְׁאֶלְתֶּם ye have asked 1 Sam. xii. 13, יְרֵשְׁתֶּם ye possess Deut. iv. 1, 22; so also before suffixes, שְׁאֵלְתִּיו I have asked him 1 Sam. i. 20, יְלַדְתִּיךָ I have begotten thee Ps. ii. 7. Such forms must not be considered verbs middle E: the weakening of the vowel is owing simply to the general weakness of the form, and the 3rd pers. Pret. is strictly שָׁאַל, יָרַשׁ, יָלַד, not שָׁאֵל, יָרֵשׁ, יָלֵד. See § 64, Rem. 1, and § 69, Rem. 4.

3. In verbs middle O, Cholem is retained in the inflexion where it has the tone, as יָגֹרְתָּ. But when the tone is thrown forward, Cholem becomes Qamets-chatuph, as יְכָלְתֶּם ye are able, יְכָלְתִּיו I have overcome him Ps. xiii. 5, וְיָכָלְתָּ (see § 49, 3) and thou wilt be able Ex. xviii. 23.

* Gesenius maintained (and so does Ewald), that the afformative תִּי comes strictly from אַנְתִּי, אַתִּי, an ancient form supposed to have been actually used for אָנֹכִי.—Tr.

† In the Paradigms, the forms קָטְלָה and קָטַלְתָּ are, therefore, marked out with an asterisk as model-forms, for the notice of the beginner.

4. Unfrequent forms:* Sing. 3 fem. in תַ־ (as in Arab. Æthiop. Aram.) e. g. אֲוִלַת Deut. xxxii. 36. Before suffixes this is the prevailing form (§ 59, 1, a) common also in stems לא and לה (§ 74, Rem. 1, § 75, Rem. 1).—2 mas. תָּה (the full form) for תָ, as בְּגַדְתָּה, Mal. ii. 14; comp. Gen. iii. 12. This occurs often.—2 fem. sometimes has still a Yodh at the end, especially in Jeremiah and Ezekiel, as הָלַכְתִּי Jer. xxxi. 21 (which should properly be spoken הָלַכְתְּ, according to what is said of the pronoun אַתְּי in § 32, Rem. 4). With this is connected the form קָטַלְתִּי before suffixes (§ 59, 1, c).—1 com. sometimes without Yodh, as קָטַלְתִּ, Ps. cxl. 13; Job xlii. 2; 1 Kings viii. 48. This, however, is found only in K'thibh; the Q'ri has the full form.—Plur. 2 fem. תֶּנָּה (according to others תֶּנָּה) Amos iv. 3.—3 com. seldom with the full plural ending וּן (often in Chald. and Syr.), as יְרֵעוּן Deut. viii. 3, 16, or with a superfluous א (according to Arabic orthography), as הָלְכוּא, Jos. x. 24. In the Future, the form with וּן is more frequent; see § 47, Rem. 4.

N.B. 5. In connexion with the afformatives, תָּ, תִּי, נָ, the tone is on the penultima, and the word is Milél; with the others it is Milra (§ 15, 2). The place of the tone is shifted, a) in several persons by the pause (§ 29, 4), where it is moved backwards, and at the same time the vowel of the second syllable, if dropped, is restored again, as קָטְלָה, קָטְלוּ, קָטְלָאּה; b) by Vav conversive of the Preterite, where it is moved forwards one syllable (§ 49, 3).

SECT. 45.

THE INFINITIVE.

1. The Infinitive, originally a verbal substantive, has two forms—a shorter and a longer form. The shorter (Infinitive construct), in Kal קְטֹל, is the most usual; it can take the pronominal suffixes, can be followed both by the nominative of the subject and the accusative of the object (§ 133), and may be preceded by prepositions, as לִקְטֹל to kill (§ 132, 2). The longer form (Infinitive absolute or emphatic), in Kal קָטוֹל, is used when the action of the verb is presented by itself, without direct connexion with other words; and most frequently, when the Infinitive is added to the finite verb, as an adverbial accusative, for the sake of emphasis. The first is the original form, and has retained more of the character and flexibility of a verbal noun; the second is somewhat more inflexible, and expresses rather the abstract idea of the verb. See full explanations in the Syntax (§§ 131—133).†

2. Between קָטוֹל and קְטֹל, there is this difference in the form, that the latter has Cholem unchangeable, but the former has Cholem changeable (hence with suff. קָטְלִי). In the derived conjugations (except Hiphil and Hophal), the Infin. absol. has also generally such a firm ô, although the Infin. constr. has other vowels, e. g. in Piel we have קַטֵּל besides קַטּוֹל.

* Almost all these forms, which in Hebrew are unfrequent, are the usual ones in the kindred dialects, and may, in a proper sense, be called Chaldaisms, Syriasms, and Arabisms.

† In Rödiger's Paradigms, the Inf. constr., as the predominant form, is put before the other, under the name of Infinitive, κατ' ἐξοχήν; but we deviate in this respect in our Tables of the present edition.—EDIT.

Besides קְטֹל, the Infin. Kal has also the following unusual forms:—

a) קְטָל, e. g. שְׁכָב to lie, Gen. xxxiv. 7.

b) קְטָלָה and קְטָלָה, קְטָלָה (feminine forms from קְטַל and קְטֹל); as שְׂנָאָה to hate, קְרָבָה to approach Ex. xxxvi. 2, חְמָלָה to pity Eze. xvi. 5. (As a verbal noun, also, the Infin. may take the feminine ending.)

c) מִקְטָל (as in Chaldee); e. g. מִקְרָא to call, Num. x. 2.

These unfrequent forms are in more common use as verbal nouns (§ 84, Nos. 10, 11, 14).

3. A sort of Gerund is formed in Hebrew by the Inf. constr. with the preposition לְ, as לִקְטֹל interficiendo, ad interficiendum, לִנְפֹּל ad cadendum, (for to fall.)

The לְ is here so closely connected, that it constitutes part of the grammatical form, as appears from the syllable-division and the use of Daghesh lene, viz., לִנְפֹּל lin-pōl (§ 28, 1), so also liq-tōl, just as in the Fut. יִכְבַּד, יִקְטֹל. On the contrary, בִּנְפֹל Job iv. 13, כִּנְפֹל 2 Sam. iii. 34, where the prepositions בְּ and כְּ are conceived to be less closely connected with the Infinitive, and by way of exception also with לְ, as לְנָתוֹשׁ וְלִנְתוֹץ Jer. i. 10.

Sect. 46.

THE IMPERATIVE.

1. The leading form of the Imperative קְטֹל (קְטַל) is the same which lies also at the basis of the Future (§ 47), and which, when viewed as an Infinitive (§ 45), is likewise allied to the noun.† It expresses only the second person, but has inflexions for the feminine and the plural. For the third person it has no form (see § 130, Rem. 2), but this is expressed by the Future in the jussive (§ 127, 3, c), and even the second must be expressed by the jussive form, when a negative precedes, as אַל תִּקְטֹל ne occidas (not אַל קְטֹל). The proper passive conjugations have no Imperative,‡ but the reflexive Niphal and Hithpaël have.

2. The inflexion is quite similar to that of the Future, and it will be comprehended from the explanations given below, in § 47, 2. Like the Future, the Imperative also has a lengthened and a shortened form, the first in the manner of the cohortative, the second after the analogy of the jussive (see § 48, 5).

Rem. 1. Besides the form קְטֹל, there is also one with Pathach, as שְׁכַב (as in the Inf. and Fut.) 2 Sam. xiii. 5; but Pathach in כְּבַד is the regular vowel for the Imp., from כָּבֵד. See the Paradigm.

† The Inf. absol. also is occasionally used, like the Greek Infinitive, for the Imperative (§ 131, 4, b). But this is no ground for taking the Imperative to be properly an Infinitive; for the Inf. absol. stands also for a Present, Perfect, and Future. It might rather be supposed, that the Imper. is a shortening of the 2nd person of the Future (קְטֹל, from תִּקְטֹל); but in reality these three forms are each independent, and have not sprung one from another, but stand all alike on the basis of the abstract verb (§ 39, 1). The inflexion of the Imper. may certainly have been borrowed from the Future.

‡ An Imper. is found twice (Eze. xxxii. 19; Jer. xlix. 8) in Hophal, but with a reflexive meaning.

2. Less frequently there is found in the first syllable of the feminine and plural form an ŏ (Qamets-chatuph), instead of the ĕ, as מָשְׁכוּ draw ye Eze. xxxii. 20, מָלְכִי reign thou (fem.) Judges ix. 10.

3. In the form קְטֹלְנָה, the ־ָה is at times dropped, and then a helping vowel is introduced, as in שְׁמַעְן hear ye (fem.) for שְׁמַעְנָה Gen. iv. 23; comp. קְרָאן call ye (fem.) for קְרָאנָה Ex. ii. 20. The shortening is probably owing to the guttural.

SECT. 47.

THE FUTURE AND ITS INFLEXION.*

1. Fragments of the personal pronoun are employed in the inflexion of the Future as well as of the Preterite; but in the Future these fragments are pre-fixed (preformatives)† to the stem in the abstract form (קְטֹל). These formative particles, inasmuch as they stand before the verbal form, the tendency of which is to have the tone at the end, are much more abbreviated than the afformatives of the Preterite, so that in every case only one consonant remains (י, ת, א, נ) mostly with a very short vowel, viz., vocal Sh'va. But as these are not always sufficient to mark, at the same time, the distinction of gender and of number, the defect is supplied by additions at the end. Comp. the Table, § 40, 2.

2. The derivation and signification both of the preformatives and afformatives, are still in most cases clear.

In the 1*st pers.* אֶקְטֹל, plur. נִקְטֹל, אְ is an abbreviation of אֲנִי, נְ of אֲנוּ. This person required no addition at the end.

In the 2*nd pers. sing.* the ת in תִּקְטֹל is from אַתָּה, the ־ִי in תִּקְטְלִי is the sign of the feminine, as in אַתְּי thou (feminine, see § 32, Rem. 4). In the 2*nd pers. plur.* the וּ (more fully ון, see Rem. 4) in תִּקְטְלוּ is the sign of the plural as in the 3rd person and already in the Preterite (§ 44, 1), and is here appropriated to the

* In this translation the grammatical terms, used by Gesenius himself, and by most other Hebraists, are generally retained, in preference to those adopted by Rödiger after the example of Ewald. A general change of the terminology would occasion inconvenience and some perplexity, particularly in using the best Hebrew lexicons now extant, while it would scarcely secure advantages to counterbalance. Accordingly the tenses are here designated by the usual names. By Rödiger, however, the Future is called Imperfect, as expressing what is unfinished, in progress, and future; in contradistinction from the Perfect, which expresses what is actually finished and past, or conceived to be so (see in the Syntax, § 125). It may be added, that Prof. Lee calls the Future the Present tense. In this, however, he seems to stand alone.—TR.

† There is this striking difference in the formation of the two tenses, that the more objective Preterite begins with the verbal stem, and ends with the pronominal sign as something subordinate; while the Future, on the contrary, begins with the pronoun denoting the subject from which the action of the verb proceeds. See more in the Syntax, § 123, etc.

masculine;* נָה in תִּקְטֹלְנָה is the sign of the plural feminine (in Chaldee ־ָן), or borrowed from הֵנָּה eæ.

In the 3rd person יִקְטֹל, the י cannot be so easily explained, as no corresponding pronoun can be found for it in the Hebrew; the י may, however, stand as a stronger consonant for ו (from הוּא), properly וְקָטַל, because ו at the beginning of a word was mostly avoided in Hebrew (comp. יָשַׁב for וְשַׁב, § 69); and hence the plural יִקְטְלוּ by adding the plural-ending וּ. The ת in the feminines תִּקְטֹל, תִּקְטֹלְנָה, which are precisely the same as the 2nd person, is probably allied to the feminine-ending, ־ָת [or it may come, as Gesenius thought, from הִיא she, by changing ה into ת, which is often done].

3. In the course of inflexion the final vowel is dropped in some forms, while in others it is retained. In this respect the analogy יִקְטֹל is followed by all the other forms which receive no addition at the end, and that of תִּקְטְלִי by the forms יִקְטְלוּ, תִּקְטֹלְנָה; analogous to תִּקְטֹלְנָה is קִטֹּלְנָה in the Imperative.

Rem. 1. The final ŏ (Cholem) is only tone-long (§ 9, No. 10, 3), as in the Infin. and Imper. Hence, a) The examples in which it is written fully are very rare, and are to be regarded as exceptions. b) Before Maqqeph it becomes Qamets-chatuph; e. g. וַיִּכְתָּב־שָׁם and he wrote there, Josh. viii. 32. c) It becomes vocal Sh'va before the afformatives ־ָן and וּ. In the few instances in which it remains before such afformatives, the pointing becomes וֹ, because it stands close before the pause, e. g. יִשְׁפּוֹטוּ yĭsh-pūtū (they will judge) Ex. xviii. 26; Ruth ii. 8; comp. Prov. xiv. 3.

N.B. 2. This Cholem is confined almost exclusively to verbs middle A, like קָטַל, Intransitive verbs (middle E and O) take ă (Pathach) in the Future, as גָּדַל to be great, Fut. יִגְדַּל; קָטֹן to be small, Fut. יִקְטַן. Sometimes both forms exist together; the Fut. with ŏ is then transitive, and that with ă intransitive; e. g. יִקְצֹר he will cut off, will reap; יִקְצַר he will be cut off, i. e. will be short. So also חָלַשׁ, Fut. ŏ, to subdue; Fut. ă, to be subdued; Ex. xvii. 13; Job xiv. 10. More seldom both occur without any difference in signification; e. g. יִשַּׁךְ and יִשַּׁךְ he will bite. In the irregular verbs, the feeble ĕ (Tsere) is also found in the final syllable, as יִתֵּן for יִנְתַּן he will give. These three forms of the Future are called Future O, Future A, Future E.

3. For the 3rd plur. fem. תִּקְטֹלְנָה is substituted in three instances, to distinguish it from the 2nd pers., the form יִקְטֹלְנָה, as in Chaldee and Arabic; e. g. יַעֲמֹדְנָה they shall arise, Dan. viii. 22; comp. Gen. xxx. 38; 1 Sam. vi. 12. In several instances תִּקְטֹלְנָה seems to have been used improperly for the 3rd pers. singular, Ex. i. 10; Judg. v. 26 (and, according to some, Job xvii. 16; Is. xxviii. 3). (In the vulgar Arabic, necul, properly we eat, is the common form for I eat; and in the French patois, j'avons for j'ai).—In the Pentateuch ָן (nā) occurs in place of נָה, especially after Vav conversive (§ 49, 2); e. g. Ex. i. 18, 19; xv. 20, as in Arabic nā. A still more abbreviated form of this termination is found in the Imp. (§ 46, Rem. 3).—Once occurs (Eze. xvi. 50) the anomalous form תִּנְהֶינָה with ־ֶי inserted, after the manner of verbs עַע and עִי (§ 67, 4, § 72, 5).

N.B. 4. The plural forms ending in וּ appear also not unfrequently with the fuller ending וּן, most commonly with obvious stress on the word at the end of a period, where the vowel of the second syllable is then retained, as יִרְגְּזוּן they tremble Ex. xv. 14, תִּשְׁמָעוּן ye shall hear Deut. i. 17. But it is not confined to this position; see e. g. Ps. xi. 2, יִדְרְכוּן קֶשֶׁת; comp. iv. 3; Gen. xviii. 28, 29, 30—32; Is. viii. 12; 1 Sam. ix. 13. But the preference for this form at the close of a period is clearly seen in Is. xxvi. 11, בַּל יֶחֱזוּן יֵחָזוּ וַיֵּבוֹשׁוּ *they see not; may they see and be ashamed. This original ending ן is common in Aramæan and Arabic; yet in the vulgar Arabic it is shortened. Of the Fut. with א appended, יִבָּשׁוּא Jer. x. 5, is the only example. (But this stands for יִבָּשְׁאוּ).

* This is also the proper gender of the plural syllable ūn, ū. It is true that in the Pret. the Hebrew employs it for both genders; but in the kindred tongues, it stands even in the Pret. for the masculine alone; as in Syriac, mas. qĕtalūn, fem. qĕtalēn, so in Arabic, mas. qátalū, fem. qatálna; Æth. qătălû, qătălâ.

5. In like manner תִּקְטְלִי has a longer form with final ן, viz., תִּקְטֹלְנָה, which is also common in Aramæan and Arabic. The יִ here is scarcely original; probably it arose from imitation of the plural-ending ן. See examples in 1 Sam. i. 14; Ruth ii. 8, 21; iii. 4, 18.

6. In Pause, the vowel of the second syllable, if it had become Sh'va, is restored and takes the tone, as תִּקְטְלִי, יִקְטְלוּ. Comp. § 29, 4. But the fuller forms in ן and יִ retain the tone on the last syllable. p. 81.

Sect. 48.

SHORTENING AND LENGTHENING OF THE FUTURE AND IMPERATIVE.

(Jussive and Cohortative Forms.)

1. For the insufficiency of specific forms to express the relative Tenses and the Moods in the Hebrew and its kindred dialects, a small compensation is made by changes in the form of the Future, to which a certain signification is either exclusively or principally appropriated.

2. We must distinguish, accordingly, between the common form of the Future and two others, viz., a lengthened form (with a cohortative force) and a shortened form (with a jussive force). The lengthened Future, however, occurs only in the 1st person (with unimportant exceptions), while its shortened form is confined to the 2nd and 3rd persons. In Hebrew, however, the short-spoken Jussive is not always orthographically distinguished from the common Indicative form of the Future.

In Arabic the distinction is always clear. Besides the common indicative Future yáqtulu, it has, a) a Subjunctive, yáqtula; b) a Jussive, yáqtul; and c) a so-called Future energic, yáqtulan, which is nearly related to the Heb. Cohortative.

3. The characteristic of the Cohortative is a long a, ָה (He paragogic), attached to the 1st person; e. g. אֶקְטְלָה for אֶקְטֹל. It is found in all the conjugations and in all classes of regular and irregular verbs (except in the passives), and has the tone wherever it is taken by the afformatives ִי and ֶי, hence it affects the final vowel in precisely the same manner as these do; e. g. in Kal, אֶשְׁמְרָה I will observe in Piël, נְנַתְּקָה let us break asunder, Ps. ii. 3; but in Hiphil, אַזְכִּירָה I will make mention of.

* It is worthy of remark, that the Chronicles often omit the Nun where it stands in the books of Kings; see 1 Kings viii. 38, 43; comp. 2 Chron. vi. 29, 33.—1 Kings xii. 24; 2 Kings xi. 5; comp. 2 Chron. xi. 4; xxiii. 4.

In a very few instances the more obscure ending ־ָה takes the place of ־ָה (according to § 27, Rem. 4), e. g. 1 Sam. xxviii. 15; Ps. xx. 4. As rarely is it attached to the 3rd person (Is. v. 19; Eze. xxiii. 20; Ps. xx. 4). The 2nd person, however, receives it in the Imperative. See No. 5.

־ָה, as an accusative-ending to a noun, denotes motion or tendency towards a place (§ 90, 2), and after the same analogy the Cohortative with this ending expresses effort and the direction of the will to an action. Accordingly it is used especially to express excitement of one's self, determination, wish (as Optative), etc. (see § 128).

4. The Jussive occurs only in the 2nd and 3rd persons. Its form is orthographically often the same as that of the Indicative, e. g. יִקְטֹל as Ind. he will kill, as Juss. let him kill. But at times the shortening is clearly indicated, as will be shown in every case under the conjugations. In the regular verb it is confined, as a distinct form, to Hiphil, as Juss. יַקְטֵל for Ind. יַקְטִיל. It is found in Kal and Hiphil of verbs עֹ, as יָטֹ and יָמֵ for יָטוּת and יָמִית; and in all the conjugations of verbs לֹה, where it consists in the removal (apocopé) of the ending ־ָה; e. g. יִגֶל for יִגְלֶה. (Hence the term, Future apocopated, is frequently applied to this form.) But in all cases the plural forms of the Jussive coincide with the common, only that the ending ן cannot occur. Also the 2nd pers. sing. fem. sounds like תַּקְטִילִי, תָּמוּתִי, תִּגְלִי, etc., and besides also all the singular and plural forms, when they have pronominal suffixes, e. g. תְּמִיתֵנִי, as Indicative in Jer. xxxviii. 15, as Jussive in xli. 8.

In signification this form is similar to the other, with some modification occasioned by difference of person. In general it expresses command and wish, and stands also in conditional sentences (§ 128).

5 The persons of the Imperative, as it is allied in form and meaning to the Future, are also lengthened (by ־ָה) and shortened, in a manner perfectly analogous. So also the Arabic has an Imperativus energicus. In most conjugations only one of these forms is found, in others both together. The lengthened Imp. occurs, e. g. in Kal of the regular verb, as שִׁמְרָה, שָׁמְרָה, שָׁכְבָה, שִׁכְבָה; the shortened Imp. in verbs לֹה, as גֵּל for גַּלֵּה; both together in Hiphil, as הַקְטֵל and הַקְטִילָה for הַקְטִיל. The signification of these forms is not always so strongly marked as in the Future. The longer form, however, is often emphatic, as קוּם stand up, קוּמָה up! תֵּן give, תְּנָה give!

SECT. 49.

PRETERITE AND FUTURE WITH VAV CONVERSIVE.

1. The use of the two tenses, as will be shown more fully in the Syntax (§§ 126, 127), is by no means confined to the expression of the past and the future. One of the most striking peculiarities in their use, and, indeed, in the Hebrew diction generally, is this: that in continued narrations of the past, only the first verb stands in the Preterite, the others being in the future form; and, on the contrary, in continued descriptions of the future, the first verb is in the Future, while the rest are in the Preterite form. Gen. i. 1: In the beginning created (Pret.) God the heavens and the earth. 3 v. And said (Fut.) God, Let there be light, and there was (Fut.) light. 4 v. And God saw (Fut.), etc. Just the reverse in Is. vii. 17: Jehovah will bring (Fut.) upon thee, and upon thy people, and upon thy father's house, days, such as have not come since, etc. 18 v. And it will happen (Pret. וְהָיָה) on that day . . . . . 19 v. And they will come (Pret.). This progress of time, this succession of thought, is usually indicated by the Vav copulative, which, however, in this case, partly, receives itself a somewhat different form, and partly affects the form of the Preterite and Future to which it is prefixed.*

2. The Vav conversive of the Future is the most important. This a) is regularly prefixed with Pathach and a Daghesh forte in the next letter, as וַיִּקְטֹל and he killed, but to the 1st person sing. with Qamets (according to § 22, 1), as וָאֶקְטֹל and I killed [see another exception with Daghesh forte omitted, as וַיְדַבֵּר and וַיְהִי, in § 20, 3, b]; b) it takes a shortened form of the Future, when that exists (comp. § 48, 4), e. g. in Hiphil וַיַּקְטֵל (§ 53, Rem. 4), and often at the same time draws the tone back to the penultima, as יָמוּת, shortened יָמֹת, with Vav conversive וַיָּמָת (and he died), § 67, Rem. 2 and 7; § 68, 1; § 69, Rem. 3; § 71; § 72, Rem. 4 and 7; § 73, Rem. 2.† Yet it is often, particularly in the later books, prefixed to the 1st person sing. with the lengthened form in ־ָה, e. g. וְאֶמְרָה and I plucked, Ezra ix. 3. See more in § 129.

* Since it changes in a degree the meaning of the tenses, it is called by the Hebrew grammarians [including Gesenius] Vav conversive (i. e. converting the Fut. into the Pret. and the Pret. into the Fut.). Better [in the opinion of Rödiger, who follows Ewald] is the term Vav consecutive, since it essentially denotes sequence or progress.

† The forms, also, in ־ֶן and ־ֵי, occur very seldom after Vav conversive, וַיְרִיבֵן Judges viii. 1; Eze. xliv. 8.

This ו is, as to form, a strengthened Vav copulative (comp. בָּמָה, בַּמָּה, לָמָּה, where the prepositions בְּ, כְּ, לְ are strengthened in a similar way), in the sense of and then, and so.

The retracting of the tone is found also in similar connexions, like לָמָּה, and the shortening of the verb at the end (apocopé) is only accidentally similar to the form of the Jussive, yet this seems to have occasioned the growing use of the Cohortative form in the 1st person.*

3. The counterpart of Vav conversive of the Future is Vav conversive of the Preterite, which joins Preterites to a foregoing Future. In form it is the usual Vav copulative (וְ), e. g. וְהָיָה (after a Fut.) and it will be; yet it has generally the effect of shifting the tone to the last syllable in those verbal forms which would otherwise have it on the penultima,† e. g. הָלַכְתִּי I went, וְהָלַכְתִּי (with a Fut. preceding) and I will go, Judges i. 3; תִּבְדִּילָה Pret., וְהִבְדִּילָה and it shall divide, Ex. xxvi. 33. See more on the use of the Preterite in § 126.

This shifting forward of the tone does not always take place, and the exceptions are sometimes strange. It does not take place a) in the 1*st pers. pl.* וַיִּשְׁכְּנוּ Gen. xxxiv. 16; b) in verbs לֹא and לה, e. g. וְעָשִׂיתָ Ex. xxvi. 4, 6, 7, 10, etc., (on the contrary, וְחִבַּרְתָּ ibid. vs. 9 and others); c) when such a Perfect stands in pause, e. g. וְשָׂבָעְתָּ Deut. xi. 15, and frequently also when followed immediately by a tone-syllable (according to § 29, 3, b), as וַיִּשְׁבְּתָה בָּהּ Deut. xvii. 14.

Sect. 50.

THE PARTICIPLE.

1. Kal has two forms of the Participle, viz., an active, called also Pôēl (פֹּעֵל), and a passive, or Pāūl (פָּעוּל).‡ The latter is probably a remnant of a lost passive form of קָטַל.

In the Aramæan the passives of Piël and Hiphil are in like manner lost, except in the Participles.

2. The form of the Participle active of Kal in the intransitive verbs mid. E, and mid. O, coincides with the form of the 3rd person sing. of the Preterite, as יָשֵׁן

* The opinion of earlier grammarians, according to which וַיִּקְטֹל is an abbreviation and contraction from הָיָה יִקְטֹל it was (that) he killed, is in every respect erroneous, and now nearly obsolete. The ו is everywhere an emphatic and. When entire sections and books of the Old Testament begin with it, it is a proof that they were either originally connected with what precedes them, or have been afterwards thus combined together (Lev., Num., Josh., 1 Sam., 2 Sam., Ruth, Est.); so indeed do some books begin with the simple copulative וְ (Ex., 1 Ki., Ezr.). Equally unfounded is the opinion that it is a contraction of וְהָיָה יִקְטֹל.

† As to whether the hastening of the tone forward expresses in itself the reference to the future, and, on the contrary, the shifting of it backward, as in וַיָּקָם, a closer connexion with what is past, may be left undecided.

‡ The Jewish Grammarians call the Participle also בֵּינוֹנִי (middle word); yet not in the sense of the Latin name, but as used for a present tense (§ 134, 2), and accordingly holding the middle place between the Preterite and the Future.

sleeping, from יָשֵׁן; יָרֵא fearing, from יָרֵא. Comp. the formation of the Part. in Niphal, § 51, 1. But the Participle in verbs mid. A, takes the form of קֹטֵל, the ô of which has sprung from â, qôtel from qâtel (§ 9, No. 10, 2). The form קָטֹל is in common use only as a verbal noun (§ 84, 1). The inflexion of the Participle in Piël, Hiphil, Hithpaël follows a different method.

3. Participles form their feminine and plural like other nouns (§§ 87, 94).

Rem. 1. An unfrequent form is תּוֹמִיךְ supporting, Ps. xvi. 5 (for תּוֹמֵךְ, from תָּמַךְ); comp. לַבִּיב 2 Kings viii. 21, and the prop. n. אוֹבִיל 1 Chron. xxvii. 30. Many reckon here also יוֹסֵף Is. xxix. 14; xxxviii. 5; but this is much rather 3 sing. fut. Hiphil of יָסַף. Compare a quite similar construction Is. xxviii. 16. The form הוֹלָם Is. xli. 7, for הוֹלֵם, is explained by § 29, 3, b.

2. The Participle in the passive form has not unfrequently an active signification, especially when it belongs to an intransitive verb, which cannot take a passive meaning. Compare in English, aged, fled. Thus, אָחוּז means holding (not held), Cant. iii. 8; בָּטוּחַ confisus for confidens, Ps. cxii. 7. Comp. the deponent verbs in Latin.

B. DERIVED CONJUGATIONS.

SECT. 51.

NIPHAL.

1. The full characteristic of this conjugation is the syllable הִנ (in the corresponding seventh conjugation in Arab. אִנ) prefixed to the ground-form. This characteristic appears only in the Inf. constr. הִקָּטֵל, which is contracted from הִנָּקְטֵל. With this are connected the Imp., which has the same form, and the Fut. יִקָּטֵל, contracted from יִהָקְטֵל. In the Pret. the (less essential) He is dropped, and only Nun remains as the characteristic, hence נִקְטַל. The same applies to the Participle, which is distinguished from the Preterite only by the long (ָ) as נִקְטָל fem. נִקְטָלָה or נִקְטָלֶת. The inflexion of Niphal is perfectly analogous to that of Kal.

Niphal may be distinguished in the Pret. and Part. by the Nun prefixed; in the Imp. Inf., and Fut., by the Daghesh in the first stem-letter. The same marks are found in the irregular verbs, except that, where the first stem-letter is a guttural, Daghesh forte must be omitted (§ 63, 4). To compensate for this omission, the preceding vowel is made long (§ 22, 1).

2. The significations of Niphal. It is similar to the Greek middle voice, and hence, a) It is primarily reflexive of Kal, e. g. נִשְׁמַר to look to one's self, to beware, φυλάσσεσθαι, נִסְתַּר to hide one's self; often in verbs which express passion or feeling which re-acts on the mind, as נִחַם to trouble one's self, to grieve, נֶאֱנַח to bemoan one's self, to bewail; comp. ὀδύρεσθαι, lamentari, contristari. b) Next, it frequently expresses reciprocal action, as from שָׁפַט to judge, נִשְׁפַּט to contend with another at law; יָעַץ to counsel, Niph. to consult together; comp. the middle and deponent verbs βουλεύεσθαι (נוֹעַץ), μάχεσθαι (נִלְחָם), altercari, præliari. c) It has, also, like Hithpaël (§ 54, 3, c) and the Greek middle, the signification of the active, with the addition of self, Lat. sibi, for one's self, e. g. נִשְׁאַל to ask for one's self (1 Sam. xx. 6, 28), precisely like αἰτοῦμαί σε τοῦτο, ἐνδύσασθαι χιτῶνα to put on (one's self) a tunic. Here, instead of the accusative (se), the remoter object (usually expressed by the dative sibi) lies in the idea of the conjugation. d) It is often also passive of Kal, e. g. יָלַד to bear, Niph. to be born; קָבַר to bury, Niph. to be buried; likewise of Piël and Hiphil, when Kal is intransitive or not in use, e. g. כָּבֵד to be in honour, Piël to honour, Niph. to be honoured, כָּחַד in Piël to conceal, Hiph. to make disappear, to destroy, Niph. passive of both: and in this case its meaning may again coincide with Kal (חָלָה Kal. and Niph. to be sick), and even take an accusative (§ 138, 2, Rem. 1).

Examples of denominatives are, נִזְכַּר to be born a male Ex. xxxiv. 19, (from זָכָר a male), נִלְבַּב cordatum fieri Job xi. 12, (from לֵב heart).

The older Hebrew grammarians have represented Niphal as the proper passive of Kal. This representation is decidedly incorrect; for Niphal has not the characteristics of the other passives. There are still found in Kal traces of an early passive form (§ 50, 1), and the Arabic has an independent conjugation, corresponding with Niphal (inqatala), which has its own passive; nay, in Hebrew itself, there is probably a trace of the passive of Niphal in the form נִגְאַל, Is. lix. 3; Lam. iv. 14. According to the usage of the language, the passive signification is certainly the predominant one; but it was first derived from the reflexive. The הִ prefixed has the force of a reflexive pronoun, like הִתְ in Hithpaël.*

Rem. 1. The Inf. absol. נִקְטֹל connects itself, in form, with the Preterite, to which it bears the same relation, as קָטוֹל to קָטַל. Examples of this form, נִשְׁאֹל rogando 1 Sam. xx. 6, נִכְסֹף desiderando Gen. xxxi. 30. An example of the other is, הִנָּתֵן Jer. xxxii. 4; once אִדָּרֹשׁ exaudiendo Eze. xiv. 3. The ֹ in the final syllable (which is essentially long) is also exhibited in this Infinitive form in Piël and Pual, and it resembles, in this respect, several Arabic Infinitives, in which there is a corresponding a. Moreover, the form הִקָּטֵל is not less frequently used for the Inf. absol., e. g. Num. xv. 31; Deu. iv. 26; 1 Ki. xx. 19.

2. In Pause, Pathach often takes the place of Tsere in the final syllable; e. g. וַיִּגְמַל and he was weaned Gen. xxi. 8, as also in other cases (§ 29, 4, Rem.). In the 2nd and 3rd persons plural feminine, the form with Pathach is more common than that given in the Paradigm, e. g. תִּזָּכַרְנָה they shall be remembered, Isa. lxv. 17; but only few examples occur of these forms.

3. When the Fut., Inf., or Imp. is immediately followed by a word of one syllable, the tone is commonly drawn back upon the penultima, and consequently the final syllable, losing

* In other languages, too, the change of the reflexive into the passive is observed. It is still clear in Sanskrit and in Greek how the middle goes before the passive voice; the r at the end of the Latin passive is the reflexive pronoun = se; in the ancient Slavic and Bohemian, amat-se stands for amatur, in Dacoromanic io me laudu (I am praised). See Pott's Etymologische Forschungen, Th. 1, S. 133 ff., Th. 2, S. 92; Bopp's Vergleichende Grammatik, §. 376 ff.

the tone, takes Seghol instead of Tsere; e. g. יִכָּשֶׁל בָּהּ he stumbles at it, Eze. xxxiii. 12; וַיִּשְׁמַע לוֹ and he heard him, Gen. xxv. 21; comp. וַיִּשְׁמַע אֱלֹהִים and God heard, 2 Sam. xxi. 14; Ezr. viii. 23. In a few words, this form with the retracted tone has become the exclusive one, as הִשָּׁמֶר take heed, Ex. xxiii. 21; וַיִּלָּחֶם and he fought, Num. xxi. 1.

4. For the 1st pers. sing. אֶקְטֹל the form אֶקְטֶל is equally frequent, as אִוָּרֵשׁ I will be found, Eze. xiv. 3; אִשָּׁבֵעַ I swear, Gen. xxi. 24. Comp. § 69, Rem. 5.

PIEL AND PUAL.

1. The characteristic of this conjugation (Arab. Conj. II. qattala, Aram. קַטֵּל) is the doubling of the middle stem-letter. In the active, the Fut. יְקַטֵּל and the Part. מְקַטֵּל (preformatives of which retain their original Sh°va) are formed, according to the general analogy, from the Inf. and Imp. קַטֵּל. The passive (Pual) has an obscure vowel of the third class after the first stem-letter, and ă (Pathach) after the second. In other respects the analogy is the same. In the inflexion of the Preterite of Piël, Pathach takes the place of Tsere in the 1st and 2nd persons (קִטַּלְתָּ, קִטַּלְתְּ), which properly have for their basis the form קִטַּל. See Rem. 1.

The מ, which occurs also in the succeeding conjugations, as the characteristic of the Part., is connected with מִי who? in the sense of some one.

Piël and Pual are throughout distinguished by the Daghesh in the middle stem-letter. It is omitted only in the following cases: a) Always when this letter is a guttural (§ 64, 3). b) Sometimes, though rarely, when this letter has Sh°va (§ 20, 3, b), as יְשָׁרֵהוּ Job xxxvii. 3, for יְשֻׁרֵהוּ he directs it; שְׁלָחָה she stretches forth, for שְׁלֻחָה Eze. xvii. 7; xxxi. 4; then also the omission is at times indicated (§ 10, 2, Rem.) by a Chateph under the litera dagessanda; e. g. לָקָחָה for לָקֻחָה she is taken, Gen. ii. 23; comp. ix. 14; Judges xvi. 16. In the Fut. and Part. the Sh°va under the preformatives may always serve as a mark of these conjugations.

2. Significations of Piël. a) It denotes intensity and repetition (comp. the Nomina intensiva and iterativa, which are also formed by doubling the middle stem-letter, § 84, 6—9);* e. g. צָחַק to laugh, Piël to sport, to jest (to laugh repeatedly); שָׁאַל to ask, Piël to beg; hence it denotes that the action is performed upon many, as קָבַר to bury (one) Gen. xxiii. 4, Piël to bury (many) 1 Kings xi. 15.

* Analogous examples, in which the doubling of a letter has an intensive force, are found in the German words, reichen, recken; streichen (stringo, Anglo-Saxon strecan), strecken; comp. Strich, Strecke; Wacker, from wachen: others in which it has the causative signification, are stechen, stecken; wachen, wecken; in Greek τέλλω to bring to an end, from the stem τέλω to end, γεννάω to beget and to bear, from γίνω to come into being. The above examples from the German show also that ch, when doubled, takes the form of kk, ck, in accordance with the laws relating to the Daghesh in Hebrew (§ 13, 3).

(So in Syriac frequently.) This signification of Piël is found with various shades of difference, as פָּתַח to open, Piël to loose; סָפַר to count, Piël to relate. With the eager pursuit of an object is connected the influence which the subject of it exerts upon others. Hence, b) It has a causative signification (like Hiphil), e. g. לָמַד to learn, Piël to teach. It often takes the modifications expressed by, to permit, to declare or to regard, to help, as חִיָּה to let live; צִדֵּק to declare innocent; יִלֵּד to assist in child-bearing. c) Denominatives are frequently found in this conjugation, which in general mean to make a thing (sc. that which the noun expresses), or to be in any way occupied with it; as from קֵן nest, קִנֵּן to make a nest; from עָפָר dust, עִפַּר to throw dust, to dust. It also expresses the taking away or injuring the thing or part of which the noun is the name (as in English, to behead, to skin, to bone), e. g. שִׁרֵּשׁ (from שֹׁרֶשׁ a root) to root out, extirpate; זִנֵּב (from זָנָב tail) properly to injure the tail, hence to rout the rear of an army; דִּשֵּׁן to remove the ashes. So also in verbs the origin of which cannot be traced to a noun; e. g. סִקֵּל to stone, and also to remove the stones, sc. from a field.*

The significations of the passive will present themselves spontaneously, e. g. גִּנֵּב to steal, Piël to steal, Pual to be stolen.

In Piël, the proper and literal signification of a word is often retained, when Kal has adopted a figurative one, the former being the stronger and more prominent idea; e. g. רִפָּא in Piël to stitch up, in Kal to heal; בָּרָא, Piël to cut, to hew out, Kal to form, to make; גִּלָּח, Piël to uncover, Kal to reveal.

In intransitive verbs, also, Piël occurs as an intensive form, but only in poetry, as חִתַּת frangi, Jer. li. 56; פִּתַּח to be open, Is. xlviii. 8; lx. 11; רִוָּה to be drunken, Is. xxxiv. 5, 7.

N.B. Rem. 1. The Pret. Piël has frequently (-) in the final syllable, instead of (-), e. g. אִבַּד to destroy, שִׁבַּר to break in pieces. This occurs especially before Maqqeph (Eccles. ix. 15; xii. 9), and in the middle of a period, when other words immediately follow; but at the end of a period, Tsere is the more common vowel. Comp. גִּדֵּל Is. xlix. 21 with גִּדַּל Jos. iv. 14; Esth. iii. 1. Some verbs have Seghol, as דִּבֶּר to speak, כִּפֶּר to atone, כִּבֶּס to wash clothes.

A single instance of (-) in the first syllable (after the manner of the Chaldee) is found in Gen. xli. 51, נִשֶּׁה to cause to forget, occasioned by the play upon the name מְנַשֶּׁה. Compare the quadriliteral פִּרְכֵּס, which is analogous in form with Piël (§ 56).

2. The Fut., Inf., and Imp., when followed by Maqqeph, generally take Seghol in the final syllable, e. g. יְבַקֶּשׁ־לוֹ he seeks for himself Is. xl. 20, קַדֶּשׁ־לִי sanctify to me Ex. xiii. 2. So in Hithpaël. In the 1st pers. sing. Fut., there occurs, besides אֶקַּטֵּל, also in a few cases the form with (-) under א, as אֲנַוֶּה Lev. xxvi. 33; and even with (-), as אֶקְשַׁר Zech. vii. 14 (according to § 23, 4, Rem. 2). With Vav. conv. we have also וְאֶקְטֹל for וְאֶקַּטֵּל Judges vi. 9. Instead of תְּקַטֵּלְנָה are found such forms as תְּקַטֹּלְנָה, but only in Is. iii. 16, and xiii. 18.

* In Arabic, denominatives of Conj. II. often express injury done to a member, the removal of vermin or of any injurious thing. This force is not wholly wanting, also, in the simplest Conj. I. Comp. Hebrew Kal שָׁבַר (from שֶׁבֶר) to buy and sell grain; Lat. causari, prædari, etc.

3. The Inf. absol. has the special form קְטֹל, as יְסֹר castigando Ps. cxviii. 18, and in Pual, גָּנֹב Gen. xl. 15. But more frequently the form קָטֹל is used; e. g. Jer. xii. 17; xxxii. 33.

4. In Pual, instead of Qibbuts, is found less frequently Qamets-chatuph, e. g. מְאֻדָּם dyed red Nah. ii. 4; comp. iii. 7; Ps. lxxii. 20; lxxx. 1. It is merely an orthographic variation when Shureq takes the place of Qibbuts, as יוּלַד Judges xviii. 29.

5. For the Inf. abs. of Pu. there is found גֻּנֹּב Gen. xl. 15. The Inf. constr. does not occur in the regular verb.

6. The Part. Pual sometimes occurs without the prefix מְ; it is then distinguished, like the Part. Niph., only by the Qamets in the final syllable, e. g. לָקַח taken, 2 Kings ii. 10; comp. יוּלַד for מְיֻלָּד Judges xiii. 8; also Eccles. ix. 12; Hos. i. 6, 8; Prov. xxv. 9.

SECT. 53.

HIPHIL AND HOPHAL.

1. The characteristic of the active is הִ with (ִ) or (ֹ) prefixed to the stem, and ִי inserted after the second radical. From the Inf. הַקְטִיל are formed the Fut and the Part. יַקְטִיל, מַקְטִיל, for יְהַקְטִיל, מְהַקְטִיל. In the passive, the הִ is expressed with an obscure vowel, and the second syllable has ă instead of ī, as הָקְטַל or הָקְטֹל, Fut. יָקְטַל or יָקְטֹל, Inf. absol. הָקְטַל; and in its other forms it follows the general analogy. The inflexion has nothing peculiar, except that in the 1st and 2nd pers. Pret. the ִי is dropped, and Pathach takes its place, as הִקְטַלְתָּ, הִקְטַלְתְּ; which is explained by the analogy of the Aramæan (אַקְטַל) and of the Arabic (أَقْتَلَ), where the ִי is not found. It does not appear to be an essential characteristic of the form, but it has arisen out of a shorter vowel. See Rem. 1.

The marks of this conjugation are therefore, in the Pret., Imp., and Inf., the prefix הִ; in the Fut. and Part., the vowel under the preformatives, which in Hiphil is Pathach, in Hophal, Qibbuts or Qamets-chatuph.

2. Significations of Hiphil. It is properly causative of Kal, and in this sense is more frequently employed than Piël (§ 52, 2, b), e. g. יָצָא to go forth, Hiph. to bring out of, to lead forth; קָדַשׁ to be holy, Hiph. to sanctify. When Kal is transitive, Hiph. takes two accusatives (§ 139, 1). Frequently Piël and Hiphil are both in use in the same signification, as אָבַד to perish, Piël and Hiph. to destroy; but generally only one of them is found, or they have some difference of signification, as כָּבַד to be heavy, Piël to honour, Hiph. to make heavy. Intransitive verbs merely become transitive, e. g. נָטָה to bow (intrans.), Hiph. to bow, bend.

The causative and transitive signification of Hiphil is sometimes employed after a mode of conception familiar to the Hebrew, for the expression of ideas, which other languages express by intransitive verbs. Especially, was any change in one's habit of body conceived (and very rightly too) by the Hebrew, as the result of personal agency, and was represented, in the mode of expression, as produced by the individual himself;* e. g. שָׁמַן, Hiph. to become fat (properly to produce fat); חָזַק and אָמַץ, Hiph. to become strong (properly to develope strength); עָטַף, Hiph. to become feeble. The same analogy applies to עָשַׁר, Hiph. to become rich (properly to make, to acquire, riches); also especially to words which express the taking of a new colour, as הֶאֱדִים to become red, הִלְבִּין to become white, etc. Moreover, what is merely a state or condition, becomes, in the Hebrew mode of conception, an act; e. g. הֶחֱרִישׁ not to be silent, but properly to keep silence (silentium facere, Plin.); הִרְגִּיעַ to lead a quiet life, הֶאֱרִיךְ to prolong (one's stay), to tarry. In such cases there is often an ellipsis, as הֵיטִיב to deal well, הִשְׁחִית to do wickedly, properly to make good, or bad (sc. דַּרְכּוֹ, דְּרָכָיו, which are often also expressed).

These remarks apply also to Denominatives, i. e. the verb often expresses the idea of producing, or putting forth, that of which the original noun is the name, e. g. הִשְׁרִישׁ to put forth roots, הִקְרִין to put forth horns. It also expresses the actual use of a member, as הֶאֱזִין to listen (properly to make ears); הִלְשִׁין to chatter, to slander (after the same analogy, properly to make tongue, to use the tongue freely).

The signification of Hophal, as of Niphal, may sometimes coincide with that of Kal, e. g. יָכֹל potuit, Fut. Hoph. potens fiet, i. e. poterit.

Rem. 1. Only the Preterite of Hiphil retains always the ־ֵ of the final syllable (in 3rd pers. sing. and plur.); on the contrary, the Inf., Imp., and Fut. frequently take Tsere instead of it (in Chaldee the usual form), although usage generally makes a distinction between forms with ɪ and e. Tsere is in this case only tone-long, and hence in the lengthening of the forms it becomes vocal Sh*va, and, with gutturals, it is changed into Pathach.

2. The Inf. absol. has generally Tsere, with and without Yodh; as הַקְדֵּשׁ Judg. xvii. 3; הַכְבֵּד Ex. viii. 11; הַשְׁמֵיד Amos ix. 8. After the manner of the Chaldee, we have א instead of the ה in אַשְׁכֵּם mane surgendo, Jer. xxv. 3. Unfrequent exceptions, in which the form with Tsere stands for the Inf. constr., are found in Deut. xxvi. 12; xxxii. 8.

3. The Imp. but seldom takes the form הַקְטֵל (Ps. xciv. 1 in pause, perhaps also Is. xliii. 8); instead of it are employed the shortened and the lengthened forms הַקְטֶל and הַקְטִילָה, as הַשְׁמֶן to make fat, הַקְשִׁיבָה attend! The first takes Seghol before Maqqeph, as הַסְגִּדְנָא Job xxii. 21. הַקְטִילִי and הַקְטִילוּ are never shortened.

N.B. 4. In the Fut. of Hiph. the form with Tsere for the Jussive is the usual one, as אַל־תַּגְדֵּל make not great Obad. 12, יִכְרֵת let him cut off Ps. xii. 4, especially with ו convers., as וַיַּבְדֵּל and he divided Gen. i. 4. Before Maqqeph this Tsere becomes Seghol, as וַיַּחֲזֶקבֵּהוּ and he held him Judg. xix. 4. In the plural the forms יַקְטִילוּ, תַּקְטִילוּ stand also for the Jussive and with ו conv., e. g. וַיַּדְבִּיקוּ Judg. xviii. 22: but the ɪ (after the manner of the Aramæan) sometimes becomes Sh*va, as וַיִּדְרְכוּ and they bent Jer. ix. 2, וַיִּדְבְּקוּ and they pursued 1 Sam. xiv. 22; xxxi. 2. The defective mode of writing Chireq, e. g. יַשְׁלִם, is not an essential variation.

5. The form of the Part. with (־) in the sing. is doubtful (Is. liii. 3); but perhaps the plurals מַחְלְמִים dreamers Jer. xxix. 8, מַעְזְרִים helpers 2 Chron. xxviii. 23, are derived from this form. The fem. is מַקְטֶלֶת, e. g. מַשְׁגֶּלֶת Lev. xiv. 21. Comp. Gen. xxxv. 8.

* The verb עָשָׂה to make, is employed in the expression of the same ideas, e. g. to make fat (fatness), for, to produce fat upon his body, Job xv. 27; to make fruits, to make branches, for, to produce, to put forth, Hos. viii. 7; Job xiv. 9. Compare in Latin, corpus facere, Justin. 11, 8; robur facere, Hirtius, Bell. Afr. 85; sobolem dinitius facere, Plin., and in Italian, far corpo, far forze, far frutto.

6. In the Pret. are sometimes found the forms הָכְלַמְנוּ we have approached 1 Sam. xxv. 7, and אֶגְאַלְתִּי I have soiled (with א for ה, as in Aramæan) Is. lxiii. 3. Comp. Job xvi. 7.

7. In the Fut. and Part. the characteristic ת regularly gives place to the preformatives, as יַקְטִיל, מַקְטִיל, but not to prepositions in the Inf., לְהַקְטִיל, because their connexion with the ground-form is less intimate than that of the preformatives. To both rules there are some few exceptions, as יְהוֹשִׁיעַ he will save, Ps. cxvi. 6, for יוֹשִׁיעַ; יְהוֹדֶה he will praise, for יוֹדֶה (in verbs פֵּי only; on the contrary לְשָׁמְיַע for לְהַשְׁמִיעַ Ps. xxvi. 7; לְאַרְיֵב for לְהַאֲרִיב to cause to faint, 1 Sam. ii. 33. Comp. Is. xxiii. 11; Ps. lxxviii. 17.

N.B. 8. The tone, in Hiphil, does not fall on the afformatives ־ָה, and ־ֶיךָ. They take it, however, in the Pret. when Vav conversive is prefixed, as וְהִכְדִּילָה Ex. xxvi. 33.

9. In the passive (Hophal) Pret., Fut., and Part. וּ (ֻ) is found in the first syllable as well as ו (ֹ), הָקְטַל, but not so often in the regular verb, e. g. הָשְׁכַּב Eze. xxxii. 32, and הָשְׁגְּנָה xxxii. 19; הָשְׁלַךְ, Part. מָשְׁלָךְ 2 Sam. xx. 21, and הָשְׁלְכָתְּ Is. xiv. 19; but verbs פֵּי־נוּן have וּ constantly, as הָנַד (according to § 9, 9, 2).

10. The Inf. absol. is distinguished by (־) in the final syllable; e. g. הָחְתַּל fasciando Eze. xvi. 4, הָנַד nuntiando Jos. ix. 24. Of the Inf. constr., as given in the Paradigm, there happens to be no example in the regular verb.

11. For Imperative Hophal, see above, § 46, 1, note.

Sect. 54.

HITHPAEL.

1. This conjugation connects itself with Piël, inasmuch as it prefixes to the form קִטֵּל the syllable הִתְ (Chald. אִתְ, Syr. ܐܬ*), which, like הִנְ in Niphal (§ 51, 2, Rem.), has undoubtedly the force of a reflexive pronoun.

2. The ת of the syllable הִתְ in this conj., as also in Hithpoël and Hithpalel (§ 55), suffers the following changes:—

a) When the first radical of the verb is a sibilant (ס, ץ, ש), it changes places with ת (§ 19, 5), as הִשְׁתַּמֵּר to take heed, for הִתְשַׁמֵּר; הִסְתַּבֵּל to be burdened, for הִתְסַבֵּל. A single exception is contained in Jer. xlix. 3. With צ, moreover, the transposed ת is changed into the more nearly-related ט, as הִצְטַדֵּק to justify one's self for הִצְתַּדֵּק.

b) Before ד, ט, and ת, it is assimilated (§ 19, 2), e. g. הִדַּבֵּר to converse, הִטַּהֵר to cleanse one's self, הִתַּמֵּם to conduct one's self uprightly; sometimes also before נ and כ, as הִנַּבֵּא to prophesy, elsewhere הִתְנַבֵּא; הִכּוֹנֵן for הִתְכּוֹנֵן to make one's self ready. Once before ז Is. i. 16, before ש Eccl. vii. 16, before ר Is. xxxiii. 10.

* See also in Hebrew אֶתְחַנַּן 2 Chron. xx. 35.

3. The significations of Hithpaël. a) Most frequently it is reflexive, but chiefly of Piël, as הִתְקַדֵּשׁ to sanctify one's self, הִתְנַקֵּם to avenge one's self, הִתְאַזַּר to gird one's self. Then further it means, to make one's self that which is expressed by the first conjugation; hence, to conduct one's self as such, to show one's self, to imagine one's self, to affect, to be such; properly to make one's self so and so, to act so and so; e. g. הִתְגַּדֵּל to make one's self great, to act proudly, הִתְחַכֵּם to show one's self cunning, crafty; also, Eccles. vii. 16, to think one's self wise; הִתְעַשֵּׁר to make, i. e. to feign, one's self rich. Its signification sometimes coincides with that of Kal, and both forms are in use with the same meaning, e. g. אָבַל, Kal to mourn, is found only in poetry; Hithp. in the same sense, is more common in prose, and even takes an accusative (§ 138, 2, Rem. 1). b) It expresses reciprocal action (like Niph. § 51, 2, b), as הִתְרָאָה to look upon one another, Gen. xlii. 1. More frequently c) It expresses what one does indirectly to or for himself (comp. Niph. § 51, 2, c). It has then an active signification, and governs an accusative, e. g. הִתְפַּשֵּׁט exuit sibi (vestem), הִתְפַּתֵּחַ solvit sibi (vincula). So without the accusative הִתְהַלֵּךְ to walk about for one's self (ambulare). Only seldom d) It is passive, e. g. הִתְפָּקֵד to be numbered, mustered, Judges xx. 15, 17; xxi. 9. Comp. Niphal, § 51, 2, d. So הִשְׁתַּכַּח to be forgotten, Eccl. viii. 10.

The passive Hothpaal is found only in the few following examples: הָתְפָּקְדוּ (so always for הָתְפָּקְדָ) they were mustered, Numb. i. 47; ii. 33; הָטְמָא to be rendered unclean, Deu. xxiv. 4; הָכְבָּס to be washed, Lev. xiii. 55, 56; הָרַשְׁנָה it is smeared with fat, Is. xxxiv. 6.

Denominatives with the reflexive signification are: הִתְיַהֵד to embrace Judaism (make one's self a Jew), from יְהוּד, יְהוּדָה Jew; הִצְטַיֵּד to supply one's self with food for a journey, from צֵידָה.

N.B. Rem. The Preterite, as in Piël, has frequently Pathach in the final syllable, as הִתְחַזַּק to be strengthened, 2 Chron. xiii. 7; xv. 8. Final Pathach occurs also in the Fut. and Imp., as יִתְחַכַּם he deems himself wise, Eccles. vii. 16; הִתְקַדַּשׁ sanctify thyself, Jos. iii. 5. In pause these forms take Qamets, as יִתְאַבָּל Eze. vii. 27, יִתְלַכְּדוּ Job xxxviii. 30. With the form in Piël תְּקַשְׁקַנָּה (§ 52, Rem. 2) comp. Hithp. תִּתְהַלְכְנָה Zech. vi. 7

SECT. 55.

UNUSUAL CONJUGATIONS.

Of the unusual conjugations (§ 40, 2) some are connected, in form, with Piël, and are made by the doubling or the repetition of one or more stem-letters, or by the lengthening of a vowel, i. e. by changes within the stem itself; others are analogous to Hiphil, and are formed by the addition of prefix letters or syllables. To the former class, besides a passive distinguished by the vowels, belongs also a reflexive form with the prefix הִתְ, after the analogy of Hithpaël.

Those which are analogous to Piël, and which follow it in their inflexion, are—

1. Poël; as קוֹטֵל, pass. Poal קוֹטַל, reflex. Hithpoël הִתְקוֹטֵל (corresponding to Conj. III. and IV. in the Arabic qâtala, qûtila, taqâtala), Fut. יְקוֹטֵל, Part. מְקוֹטֵל, Fut. pass. יְקוֹטַל, etc. In the regular verb it but very seldom occurs. Unquestionable examples are: Part. מְשׂוֹטְטִי my opponent at law, Job ix. 15; יוֹדַעְתִּי I have appointed, 1 Sam. xxi. 3 (unless we should read הוֹדַעְתִּי); שׂוֹרֵשׁ to take root, denom. from שֹׁרֶשׁ root. In verbs עע (§ 67) it is more frequent, e. g. הוֹלֵל, סוֹבֵב, חוֹנֵן.

The signification of Poël is, like that of Piël, often causative of Kal. Sometimes both Poël and Piël are in use in the same signification, as רוֹעַע and רִעַע to oppress; sometimes each has its peculiar modification of meaning, as סִבֵּב to turn about, to change; סוֹבֵב to go about, to surround; הִלֵּל to exult, הוֹלֵל to make foolish (from הלל to be brilliant, but also to be vainglorious, foolish); חִנֵּן to make pleasant, חוֹנֵן to commiserate; שִׁרֵּשׁ to root out, שׂוֹרֵשׁ to take root.

With קוֹטֵל is connected the formation of quadriliterals by the insertion of a consonant at the end of the first syllable, as קִרְטֵל (§ 30, 3).

2. Pilel, Pulal, Hithpalel; as קִטְלֵל and קָטְלַל, pass. קָטְלַל, reflex. הִתְקַטְלֵל, like the Arabic Conj. IX. iqtalla, and XI. iqtâlla, used especially of permanent states or conditions, e. g. of colours, as שָׁאֲנַן to be at rest, רָעֲנַן to be green; pass. אָמְלַל to be withered; but of these verbs there is no example in Kal. It is more frequent in verbs עו, where it takes the place of Piël and Hithpaël (§ 72, 7).

3. Pealal; as קְטַלְטַל, with repetition of the last two stem-letters, used especially of slight motions repeated in quick succession, e. g. סְחַרְחַר to go about with quick motion, hence (of the heart) to palpitate, Ps. xxxviii. 11, from סָחַר to go about; pass. חֳמַרְמַר to ferment with violence, to make a rumbling sound, Lam. i. 20. Nouns of this form are diminutives (§ 84, 23). Nearly related to this is—

4. Pilpel, formed from verbs עע and עו, by doubling both of the essential stem-letters; as סִבְסֵב, from סָבַב=סַב; כִּלְכֵּל, from כָּל (כול). This also is used of motion rapidly repeated, which all languages are prone* to express by repetition of the same sound, צִפְצֵף to chirp, צִלְצֵל to tinkle, גִּרְגֵּר to gurgle, עִפְעֵף to flutter (from עוף to fly).

With Hiphil are connected—

5. Tiphel; as תִּקְטֵל, with ת prefixed, as תִּרְגֵּל to teach one to walk, to lead (denom. from רֶגֶל a foot); in a stem of לה, תִּחֲרֶה, Fut. יְתַחֲרֶה to vie with, Jer. xii. 5; xxii. 15 (from חָרָה to be ardent, eager). The Aramæan has a similar form, תַּרְגֵּם to interpret.

6. Shaphel; as שַׁקְטֵל, frequent in Syriac, as שַׁלְהֵב to flame, from להב. In Hebrew it is found only in the noun שַׁלְהֶבֶת flame, § 84, No. 35.

* * * *

Forms of which single examples occur:—7. קִטְלֵם, pass. קָטְלַם; as מְחֻסְפָּס scaled off, having the form of scales Ex. xvi. 14, from חָסַף, חָשַׂף to peel, to shell.—8. קִטְלֵל, as זִרְזִיף a violent rain, from זָרַף.—9. נִתְקַטֵּל (frequent in the Rabbinic), a form compounded of Niphal and Hithpaël, found in the examples נִוָּסְרוּ for נִתְוַסְּרוּ they suffer themselves to be warned Eze. xxiii. 48, נְכֻפָּר for נִתְכַּפֵּר to be expiated Deut. xxi. 8.

We may mention also, as worthy of notice,—10. the form חֲצוֹצֵר to sound the trumpet, commonly

* Compare tinnio, tintinnus, and in German Ticktack, Wirrwarr, Klingklang [our ding dong]. The repetition of the same letter in verbs עע produces also the same effect; as in לָקַק to lick, דָּקַק to beat, טָפַף to trip along. Other languages express the same thing by diminutive forms; comp. in Lat. the termination -illo, as in cantillo, in Germ. -eln, ern, in flimmern, trillern, tröpfeln [comp. our drip, dribble]. Hence we may explain the relation, mentioned under No. 3, between these forms and the diminutives.

derived from the stem חצר. But it is probably a denom. from חֲצוֹצְרָה a trumpet, an onomatopoetic form like the old Latin taratantara=tuba. Ennius apud Servium ad Æn. 9, 503.

SECT. 56.

QUADRILITERALS.

Of the formation of quadriliterals we have already spoken (§ 30, 3). The few verbs of this kind (of nouns there are more) are formed after the analogy of Piël, once after Hiphil. The following are all the examples that occur:—

Pret. פִּרְשֵׂהוּ he spread out, Job xxvi. 9 (with Pathach in the first syllable, as in Chaldee). Fut. יְכַרְסְמֶנָּה he will devour it, Ps. lxxx. 14. Pass. רְטַפְּשׁוּ to become green again, Job xxxiii. 25. Part. מְכֻרְבָּל girded, 1 Chr. xv. 27. After Hiphil הִשְׂמְאִיל contracted הִשְׂמִיל to turn to the left (denominative from שְׂמֹאל), Gen. xiii. 9, and other places.

C. REGULAR VERB WITH PRONOMINAL SUFFIXES.*

SECT. 57.

The accusative of the personal Pronoun which follows a verb active may be expressed a) by a distinct word, אֵת (the sign of the accusative), with the suffix (§ 117, 2), as קָטַל אֹתוֹ (he has killed him); or b) by a mere suffix, as קְטָלָהוּ or קְטָלוֹ (he has killed him). The second method is the usual one (§ 33), and it is only of it we now treat. Neither of these forms are employed when the accusative of the Pronoun is reflexive, in which case a reflexive verb is used, viz. Niph. and Hithpael (§ 51 and 54), e. g. הִתְקַדֵּשׁ he sanctified himself, not קִדְּשׁוֹ, which would only signify he sanctified him.

This matter embraces two points, viz., the form of the suffix, and the changes in the verbal form in consequence of appending it. The former is exhibited in § 58. and the latter in §§ 59—61.

* We treat of this subject here in connexion with the regular verb, in order to show in it the general analogy. As to the irregular verbs, the mode of shortening their forms before the suffixes will be noticed under each class.

† On the cases where the former must be employed, see § 121, 4, Rem.

Sect. 58.

THE SUFFIX OF THE VERB.

1. The suffixes appended to the verb express the accusative of the personal Pronoun; and they are the following:—

Singular.	Plural.
1. comm. נִי; ־ִנִי, in pause ־ִנִי, ־ִנִי me.	1. comm. נוּ, ־ֻנוּ us.
2. m. ךָ, ־ְךָ ('khā), in pause ־ְךָ, also ־ָךְ; f. ךְ, ־ְךְ, ־ִךְ rarely ־ֶךְ thee.	2. m. כֶם, ־ְכֶם; f. כֶן, ־ְכֶן you.

	Singular.		Plural.
3.	m. הוּ, וֹ; הֻוּ, (ה), וֹ; הֻוֹ	him.	m. הֶם,* ם; ֶם (contr. from הֶם־), ֵם, ם (contr. from הֵם־), ֶם, poet. מוֹ, מֹו, מֹו	them.
	f. הָ; ה־; הָ	her.	f. הֶן,* ן; ן־, ֵן, ן

2. These suffixes clearly are, for the most part, shortened forms of the personal Pronoun, and only some of them require explanation.

In the suffix of the 2nd person (ךָ, כֶם, כֶן) the basis appears to be a lost form of the pronoun אַתָּה with כ instead of ת (אַנְכָה, אַכְתָּ; אַכֶם), which was employed here in order to distinguish the suffixes from the afformatives of the Preterite (§ 44, 1).

In the 3rd person masc., out of הֻ־, by rejecting the feeble h, there arose ā-u, and thence ô (§ 23, 5), usually written וֹ, much more seldom הֹ. In the fem., the suffixes from הִיא ought, according to analogy, to sound הָ, הָ־, הָ־; but instead of הָ־, we have, for the sake of euphony, simply ה־, where the ה is regularly a consonant, and therefore marked with Mappiq.

Once (Eze. xli. 15) הָא stands for הָ, as in Chaldee and Arabic.

3. The variety in the forms of the suffixes was occasioned by the regard had to the form and tense of the verb which received them. Thus, three forms of almost every suffix may be distinguished:

a) One beginning with the consonant itself, as נִי, הוּ, נוּ, (הֶם), ם, etc. This is appended to verbal forms which end with a vowel, as קְטָלוֹנִי, קְטַלְתִּיהוּ.

b) A second and a third, with the so-called union-vowels‡ (נִי־, ֵנִי־) for the verbal forms which end with a consonant (for the exception, see § 59, Rem. 3): with the union-vowel a for the forms of the Preterite, as קְטָלַנִי, קְטָלָנוּ, קְטָלָם; with the union-vowel e (rarely a) for the forms of the Future and Imperative, as יִקְטְלֵהוּ, קְטָלֵם. To the Preterite belongs also the suffix וֹ, as having originated

* הֶם occurs very seldom as verbal suffix (Deut. xxxii. 26); הֶן not at all. Yet they are given in the list as being ground-forms, which frequently occur with nouns and prepositions.

† Traces of this lost form appear still in the afformatives of the Æthiopic Preterite, as qatalka (thou hast killed), and also in the Samaritan (see Gesenii Anecdota Orientalia, p. 43). Comp. what was said in § 44, 1, on קְטַלְתִּי. The forms with t and k are not unfrequently interchanged in languages generally (see § 33, 3, note).

‡ We retain the common name union-vowel [Bindevocal], although it rests on a rather superficial view, and is somewhat vague. These union-sounds seem, for the most part, to be residues of ancient terminations of the verb, like i in קְטַלְתִּיהוּ. Take, for example, the Hebrew form q'tal-ani, when compared with the Arabic qatala-ni; and, on the other hand, the Heb. q'talatni and the Arab. qatalatni.

from הוּ־. With ךָ, כֶם, כֶן, the uniting sound is only a half vowel (vocal Sh'va), as ךָ־, כֶם־, כֶן־, e. g. קְטָלְךָ (q'tāl'khā); or when the final consonant of the verb is a guttural, ךָ־, e. g. שְׁלָחֲךָ. In pause, this Sh'va becomes Seghol with the tone ךָ֑.

Rem. 1. As rare forms, may be mentioned: sing. 2nd pers. m. תָּה 1 Kings xviii. 44, in pause תָּ֫ Is. lv. 5, and תָּ֫ה Prov. ii. 11; fem. תִּי, תִּי־ Ps. cxxxvii. 6, and in the later Psalms frequently. (תִּי־, contrary to the rule, appended to the Pret. in Judges iv. 20.)—In the 3rd pers. masc. ה Ex. xxxii. 25, Num. xxiii. 8; fem. ה־ without Mappiq Num. xv. 28, Jer. xliv. 19.—The forms מוֹ, מוֹ־, מוֹ־, are strictly poetic (except Ex. xxiii. 31); instead of מוֹ, we find מו once in Ex. xv. 5. On the origin of these forms, see § 32, Rem. 7.

2. By comparing these suffixes of the verb with the suffixes of the noun (§ 91), we discover: a) There is here a greater variety of forms than there (because the forms and relations of the verb are themselves more various); b) the verbal suffix, where it differs from that of the noun, is longer, as נִי, נִי־, נִי־, me, ־י my. The reason is, that the object of the verb is less closely connected with it than the possessive pronoun is with the noun; on which account, also, the former may even be expressed by a separate word (§ 117, 2).

4. The suffix gains still more strength, when instead of the union-vowels there is inserted a union-syllable, נ־, נ֫־ (commonly called Nun epenthetic, but better Nun demonstrative), which, however, occurs only in the Future and in pause, e. g. יְבָרְכֶנְהוּ he will bless him (Ps. lxxii. 15), יְכַבְּדֶנְנִי he will honour me (Ps. l. 23). This Nun is, however, for the most part incorporated with the suffixes, and hence we have a new series of forms, viz.—

1*st pers.* נִּי־, נִּי֫־, for נְנִי־, נְנִי֫־;
2*nd pers.* ךְּ֫־, once נְּךָ֫ (Jer. xxii. 24);
3*rd pers.* נְּהוּ֫ for נְהוּ֫־, also נּוֹ (Num. xxiii. 13); fem. נָּהּ֫ for נָהּ֫־;
1*st pers. plur.* נְּנוּ֫ for נְנוּ֫־.
In the other persons this Nun does not occur.

Rem. The forms with Nun distinctly written are rare, only poetic (Jer. v. 22), and do not occur at all in 3 fem. sing. and 1 plur. The contracted forms (with the Nun assimilated) are rather frequent, especially in pause.

N.B. This Nun is of a demonstrative nature, and gives more emphasis to the word, and is therefore chiefly found in pause. It occurs besides also in the conjunction of the suffixes with certain particles (§ 100, 5). This Nun is frequent in Chaldee; in Samaritan it is appended also to the Preterite, and in similar cases even a ת inserted. In the Syriac there is a Yodh with consonant power used in the same way.

Sect. 59.

THE PRETERITE WITH PRONOMINAL SUFFIXES.

1. The endings (affirmatives) of the Preterite have in part a different form, when connected with the suffixes; viz.—

a) In the 3 sing. fem. ת־, ת֫־, the original feminine-ending, for ה־, ה֫־;

b) 2 sing. masc. besides תְּ also תָ to which the union-vowel is attached, but the only clear instance of it is with נִי־;*

c) 2 sing. fem. תִּי, likewise an older form for תְּ (comp. אַתִּי, קָטַלְתִּי, § 32, Rem. 4; § 44, Rem. 4). This form is to be distinguished from the 1st pers. sing. only by the context.

d) 2 plur. masc. תּוּ for תֶּם, which is explained by the Arabic antum, qatáltum, Chald. אַתּוּן, קְטַלְתּוּן for אַתֶּם, קְטַלְתֶּם (§ 32, Rem. 5). Of the fem. קְטַלְתֶּן with suffixes there is no instance, but probably it took the same form as the masc.

We exhibit, first, the forms of the Preterite in Hiphil as they appear in connexion with suffixes, because here no further change takes place in the stem itself, except as to the tone (see No. 2):

Sing.		Plur.
3 m.	הִקְטִיל	3 c.	הִקְטִילוּ
3 f.	הִקְטִילַת
2 m.	הִקְטַלְתָּ, הִקְטַלְתָּ	2 m.	הִקְטַלְתּוּ
2 f.	הִקְטַלְתְּ, הִקְטַלְתִּי
1 c.	הִקְטַלְתִּי	1 c.	הִקְטַלְנוּ

The beginner is recommended to practise first the manner of connecting the suffixes with this Hiphil-form, and then to apply himself to that with the Pret. of Kal. (See No. 2.)

2. The tone inclines towards the appended suffix, so that it never remains on the stem itself. And this occasions, particularly in the Preterite of Kal, certain vowel changes, in consequence of which the following forms present themselves:—

Sing.		Plur.
3 m.	קָטַל (קְטַל, Rem. 1)	3 c.	קָטְלוּ
3 f.	קָטְלָה
2 m.	קָטַלְתָּ (קְטַלְתָּ, Rem. 4)	2 m.	קְטַלְתּוּ
2 f.	קָטַלְתְּ (קְטַלְתִּ, Rem. 4)
1 c.	קָטַלְתִּי	1 c.	קְטַלְנוּ

These forms are exhibited in connexion with all the suffixes in Paradigm C. It will be seen there, too, how the Tsere in Piël changes sometimes into Seghol, and sometimes into vocal Sh'va.

Rem. 1. The suffixes for the 2nd pers. pl., כֶם and כֶן, are (together with הֶם and הֶן) rather weightier [more strongly accented] forms than the others, and hence are called grave suffixes. They always have the tone, and cause in the 3 m. sing. of Pret. Kal a greater shortening than the others (called light suffixes), e. g. קְטָלָךְ, קְטָלָכֶם. This difference has still greater effect in the case of nouns (§ 91).

* The short a here belongs probably also to the form of the verb itself. See the preceding § 3, h, note.

2. In the 3 sing. masc. קָטְלָהוּ is also contracted into קָטְלוֹ, according to § 23, 5, and so likewise in the 2 sing. masc. קָטַלְתָּהוּ into קָטַלְתּוֹ.

3. The 3 sing. fem. קָטְלַת (=קָטְלָה) has the twofold peculiarity, a) that the ending ath constantly draws the tone to itself, except with כֶם and כֶן (see Rem. 1), and then takes the suffixes that make a syllable of themselves (נִי, ךָ, הוּ, הָ, נוּ, כֶם, כֶן) without a union vowel, contrary to the general rule (§ 58, 3, a); b) with the other suffixes the union-vowel is indeed adopted, but the tone is drawn back to the penultima, so that they appear with shortened vowels (ךָ֫, ם֫ e. g. אֲהֵבָתְךָ she loves thee Ruth iv. 15, שְׂרָפָתַם it burneth them Is. xlvii. 14, וְגֵבָתַם she has stolen them Gen. xxxi. 32. For תְךָ֫ תְנִי֫ etc., we find in pause תְנִי֑ Ps. lxix. 10, תְךָ֑ Cant. viii. 5, and also without pause, for the sake of correspondence in sound, חִבְּלָתְךָ (she has born thee) in the same verse (Cant. viii. 5). The forms קָטָלַתּוּ, קָטָלָתָה are contr. from קָטָלַתְהוּ, קָטָלְתָהּ after the analogy of נּוּ֫, for נְהוּ֫ (§ 58, 4).

4. In the 2 sing. masc. קָטַלְתָּ is always used, and the suffixes have no union-vowel, except in קָטַלְתָּנִי, from קָטַלְתָּ and נִי֫, e. g. חָקַרְתָּנִי thou searchest me Ps. cxxxix. 1, but also עֲזַבְתָּנִי thou hast forsaken me Ps. xxii. 2. In the 2 sing. fem. תִּ is written also defectively יָלַדְתָּגוּ Jer. xv. 10; Cant. iv. 9; Ex. ii. 10; instead of it the masc. form is also used הִשְׁבַּעְתָּנוּ thou (fem.) adjurest us Cant. v. 9; Jos. ii. 17; and with Tsere הוֹרַדְתָּנוּ thou (fem) hast let us down Jos. ii. 18.

5. From a verb middle O we have כָּלִתִּיו I have subdued him Ps. xiii. 5, with a shortened o in a syllable that has lost the tone (§ 44, Rem. 3).

SECT. 60.

FUTURE WITH PRONOMINAL SUFFIXES.

In the forms of the Future, which end with the last stem-letter, the vowel o of the final syllable is shortened generally to simple Sh'va vocal (ְ֫), at times to Chateph-qamets (ֳ֫) Jer. xxxi. 33; but to Qamets-chatuph (ָ֫) before ךָ, כֶם, כֶן. Instead of תִּקְטְלֶנָּה the form תִּקְטְלוּ* is used as 2nd and as 3rd person, Cant. i. 6; Jer. ii. 19; Job xix. 15. The form with Nun demonstrative (§ 58, 4) is specially adopted at the end of the clause or period.

N.B. Rem. 1. Verbs with Fut. A (to which belong all that have a guttural for the 3rd radical, § 65) retain the full A in the Fut. and Imp., and the Pathach, when it comes to stand in an open syllable, is lengthened into Qamets, e. g. שָׁלְחֵנִי send me Is. vi. 8, יְלַבְּשֵׁנִי it put me on Job xxix. 14, יְנַאֲלוּהוּ let them demand it back Job iii. 5.

2. Occasionally, as exceptions, suffixes occur also in the Future, with the union-vowel a, as יְלַבְּשָׁם Ex. xxix. 30; comp. ii. 17; Gen. xix. 19; xxix. 32.

3. The suffixes are at times appended also to the plural forms in ן, e. g. תְּרַכְּאוּנֵנִי ye crush me, Job xix. 2; elsewhere always without a union-vowel יְמְצָאוּנְנִי they will find me, Prov. i. 28; Is. lx. 7, 10; Jer. v. 22.

4. In Pi'el, the Tsere of the final syllable, like the Cholem in Kal, becomes Sh'va; but before the suffixes ךָ, כֶם, כֶן it is only shortened into Seghol, e. g. יְקַבֶּצְךָ he will gather thee, Deut. xxx. 4; more rarely into Chireq, as אֲאַמְּצֶכֶם I will strengthen you, Job xvi. 5; comp. Ex. xxxi. 13; Is. xxv. 1.

5. In Hiphil, the Chireq remains, as תַּלְבִּישֵׁנִי thou clothest me, Job x. 11; and only rarely are to be met with forms like תַּעְשְׁרֶנָּה thou enrichest it, Ps. lxv. 10; 1 Sam. xvii. 25. Comp. § 53, Rem. 4.

* This form is also found as feminine without a suffix, Jer. xlix. 11; Eze. xxxvii. 7.

Sect. 61.

INFINITIVE, IMPERATIVE, AND PARTICIPLE WITH SUFFIXES.

1. The Infinitive of a verb active can be construed with an accusative, and then it takes the verbal suffix (i. e. the acc. of the personal pronoun), as קָטְלַנִי to kill me; but as a noun it can take also the nominal suffix (the genitive), as קִטְלִי my killing (see § 133, 1, 2). In either case it assumes the form קָטְל, with the o drawn backward (comp. the segholate nouns of the form קֹטֶל, with which קִטֵּל is nearly related, § 84, No. 10, 11, and § 93, Parad. VI.).

Rem. 1. The Inf. of the form שְׁכַב becomes with suffixes שְׁכָבָה Gen. xix. 33, like nouns of the form דְּבַשׁ.

2. Before הּ, כֶם, כֶן, forms are found which depart from the analogy of segholate nouns, e. g. אֲכָלְכֶם your eating Gen. iii. 5, עָמְדְךָ thy standing Obad. 11; but, as conformable to this analogy, are to be regarded קְצֻרְכֶם your harvesting Lev. xix. 9, and מָאֳסְכֶם (mŏ-ŏs-khĕm*) your contemning Is. xxx. 12.

2. What has been said of the Inf. is applicable also to the leading form קָטְל of the Imp. The forms קִטְלִי, קִטְלוּ, which are not presented in the Paradigm, suffer no change. For the fem. קִטְלָנָה is substituted the masculine form קִטְלוּ, as in the Future. On שְׁלָחֵנִי, see § 60, Rem. 1. In the Imp. of Hiphil, not the form הַקְטֵל, but הַקְטִיל is used; e. g. הַקְרִיבֵהוּ offer it, Mal. i. 8.

3. In the Participles, the shortening of the vowels is the same as in nouns of the like form, e. g. קֹטֵל, מְקֹטֵל, according to § 93, Parad. VII.

On the difference between קִטְלִי and קִטְלֵנִי, see § 135, 2.

II. THE IRREGULAR VERB.*

A. VERBS WITH GUTTURALS.

Sect. 62.

Verbs which have a guttural for one of the three stem-letters are governed, in their deviations from the regular verb, by the general principles laid down in § 22. Of course א and ה come under consideration here only when they retain their power as consonants, and are not mere substitutes for vowels; ר also partakes only in part of these anomalies (§ 22, 4). For convenient representation, we distinguish the cases in which the guttural is the first, second, or third stem-letter. The following three Paradigms, D, E, and F, where those conjugations, which are wholly regular, are omitted, exhibit their inflexions, and the following sections explain them more fully:—

* See the general view of the classes, in § 41.

SECT. 63.

VERBS PE GUTTURAL. E. g. עָמַד to stand. Parad. D, § 62.

The deviations from the regular verb may here be reduced to the following particulars:—

1. When the first stem-letter, at the beginning of the word, would regularly require a simple Sh°va (קְטַל, קְטַלְתָּם), it takes here one of the composite Sh°vas (§ 10, 2; § 22, 3); e. g. Inf. עֲמֹד, אֲכֹל to eat, Pret. עֲמַדְתֶּם, דַּפְּצָתֶם from חָפַץ to be inclined.

2. When a preformative is prefixed to such forms, it takes the vowel which lies in the Chateph (§ 28, 2), as יַעֲמֹד, יַחֲלֹם he will dream, יֶאֱסֹף he will gather; or the composite Sh°va conforms to the vowel of the preformative, viz., when the latter is an essential characteristic of the form; e. g. Pret. Niph. נֶעֱמַד (for נִעְמַד), Hiph. הֶעֱמִיד (for הִעְמִיד), Inf. and Fut. הַעֲמִיד, יַעֲמִיד, Hoph. Pret. הָעֳמַד, Fut. יָעֳמַד. (On the Methegh in these forms, see § 16, 2, a.)

In many verbs, however, the guttural, especially ח, when it stands after a preformative at the end of a syllable, retains the simple Sh°va; but in this case the preformative always has the vowel corresponding to the composite Sh°va, which the guttural would take according to the above rule; e. g. Fut. Kal יַחְמֹד he will desire, יַחְבֹּשׁ he will bind, Niph. נֶהְפַּךְ to change one's self, נֶאְזָר girded, Hiph. הֶחְסִיר to cause to fail.

The grammarians call this the hard, the former with the comp. Sh'va the soft, combination. Both forms often occur in the same verb.

3. When in forms like יַעֲמֹד, נֶעֱמַד, the vowel of the final syllable is changed into simple Sh°va vocal, on account of the accession of one of the afformatives (ן, ִי, ָה), then the composite Sh°va of the guttural gives place to the corresponding short vowel, as יַעַמְדוּ, plur. יַעַמְדוּ (read yăăm'dhū); נֶעֱזָבָה she is forsaken. But here also there exists a harder form besides, as יַחְבְּלוּ they take a pledge, יָחְזְקוּ, as well as יָחֳזְקוּ they are strong. Compare in general § 22, 4; § 28, 3.

4. In the Inf., Imp., and Fut. of Niph., where the first stem-letter would regularly be doubled (הִקָּטֵל, יִקָּטֵל), the doubling is always omitted, and the vowel of the preformative is lengthened in Tsere, as יֵעָמֵד for יֵעָמֵד.

REMARKS.

I. On Kal.

1. In verbs פֹּא the Inf. constr. and Imp. take (ֵ) under the first letter (according to § 22, 4, Rem. 2); as אֵזֹר gird Job xxxviii. 3, אֵהַב love thou Hos. iii. 1, אֵכֹל to eat, with a prefix לְאָכֹל, לֶאֱכֹל. The (ֵ) is found here only when the tone is forcibly thrown forward; e. g. בֶּאֱכֹל הָאִישׁ Num. xxvi. 10. For the same reason we have אֲמַרְתֶּם, not אֲמַרְתֶּם.

In the other forms also of the Imp., the guttural often exerts its influence upon the vowel, which it changes to Seghol, as חֶשְׂפִּי strip thyself Is. xlvii. 2, עֶרְכָה set thyself Job xxxiii. 5, especially when the second radical is also a guttural, as אֶהֱבוּ Ps. xxxi. 24. Pathach occurs in חַבְּלָהוּ Prov. xx. 16.

2. The Fut. A, as the Parad. shows, has regularly under the first two letters ֲ; and with the hard combination ֶ֫, as יָחֵל he ceases, יָחֵם he is wise. This is true likewise of those verbs Pe guttural, which are besides also לה, as יִחֲזֶה he sees, יַחֲצֶה he divides. The pointing ֶ֫ is found even in verbs Fut. O, but less frequently, as יֶאֱסֹף, יַחֲשֹׂף, he lays bare. The form וַתַּעֲנֵב and she lores, Eze. xxiii. 5, is the only instance of the hard combination ֵ֫ in a verb Fut. A. In these forms the pointing ֶ֫ is frequently shortened to ֵ֫ (according to § 27, Rem. 5), as יֶאְסֹר he binds, plur. with suffix יַאַסְרוּהוּ, יַחְסֹר, יַחְסְרוּ.

II. On Hiphil and Hophal.

3. The rule given in Rem. 2 respecting ֶ֫ and ֵ֫ is applicable here also in the Pret. after Vau conversive; i. e. the throwing forward of the tone occasions a change of e^e and a^e, as הָעֲמַדְתָּ thou didst set, וְהַעֲמַדְתָּ and thou will set, Num. iii. 6; viii. 13; xxvii. 19; הֶעֱבַרְתִּי, וְהַעֲבַרְתִּי.

4. In the Pret. of Hiph., ֶ֫ is sometimes changed into ֵ֫, and ֶ֫ into ֵ֫ in Hoph. Pret., by prolonging the short vowel, which was sustained by Metheg, e. g. הֻעֲבַרְתָּ thou leddest over, Jos. vii. 7; הַעֲלָה, he brings up, Hab. i. 15; חֹעֲלָה, Nah. ii. 8.

III. In General.

5. In the verbs חָיָה to live, and חָוָה to be, the guttural is treated as such only in very few forms; the Fut. is יִחְיֶה, יְהִי. The rule given under No. 1 is indeed true of these verbs, hence הָיוֹת; but so soon as a letter is prefixed, the first radical drops the peculiar pointing of the guttural, as לִהְיוֹת, לִחְיוֹת, וְחִיִּיתֶם Eze. xxxvii. 5, 6.

6. For verbs מָא in which א loses its consonant and is resolved into a vowel, see § 68.

SECT. 64.

VERBS AYIN GUTTURAL. E. g. שָׁחַט to slaughter. Parad. E, § 62.

The deviations from the regular verb are not so great in this class, and are mainly as follows:—*

1. Where a simple Sh'va is required, the guttural takes, without exception, the composite Sh'va (ֲ); e. g. Pret. שָׁחֲטוּ, Fut. יִשְׁחֲטוּ, Imp. Niph. הִשָּׁחֲטוּ. In the Imp., the vowel supplied under the first radical conforms to the Chateph of the second; as שַׁחֲטִי, שַׁחֲטוּ.

So in the Inf. Kal fem., as אַהֲבָה to love, דַּאֲבָה to languish.

2. As the preference of the gutturals for the A sound has generally less influence on the following than on the preceding vowel (§ 22, 2), so not only is the Cholem in Inf. Kal שָׁחוֹט, שְׁחוֹט retained, but also, for the most part, the Tsere in Fut. Niph. and Piël יִלָּחֵם he fights, יִנָּחֵם he comforts, and even the more feeble Seghol (after Vau conversive) וַיִּלָּחֶם. But in the Fut. and Imp. of Kal, the last syllable generally takes (ַ), through the influence of the guttural, even in transitive verbs, e. g. שְׁחַט, יִשְׁחַט; זְעַק, יִזְעַק; בְּחַר, יִבְחַר (seldom like יִנָּחֵם), and in the Pret. Piël also, Pathach occurs more frequently than in the regular verb, as נִחַם.

* Hophal, which is not exhibited in the Paradigm, is varied like Kal. Hiphil is regular.

3. In Piël, Pual, and Hithp., the Daghesh forte is inadmissible in the middle stem-letter; but, in the greater number of examples, particularly before ה, ח, and ע, the preceding vowel remains short, the guttural having Daghesh forte implicitum (§ 22, 1); e. g. Piël שִׂחֵק, Inf. שַׂחֵק to jest; Pual רֻחַץ to be washed; Hithp. הִטַּהֲרוּ cleanse yourselves. Before א, the vowel is commonly prolonged, and always before ר, as Piël מֵאֵן to refuse, בֵּרֵךְ to bless, Fut. יְבָרֵךְ, Pass. בֹּרַךְ, seldom like נִאַף to commit adultery.

Rem. 1. The peculiar feebleness of the א causes, in the Pret. Kal of the much-used verb שָׁאַל to ask, a weakening of the ă (ַ) under it to (ָ), and in a closed syllable to (ְ) and to (ֶ), when the syllable loses the tone, and the א is not preceded by a full vowel (exactly as in some verbs פ״י. § 69, Rem. 4), e. g. with suffix, שְׁאֵלֹךְ Gen. xxxii. 18, שְׁאָלוּנִי Ps. cxxxvii. 3, 2nd. pers. plur. שְׁאֶלְתֶּם 1 Sam. xii. 13; xxv. 5; 1 sing. with suffix שְׁאִלְתִּיהוּ Judges xiii. 6; 1 Sam. i. 20; also in Hiphil הִשְׁאִלְתִּיהוּ 1 Sam. i. 28. Comp. § 44, Rem. 2.

2. In Piël and Hithp., the tone is sometimes drawn back upon the penultima, and the Tsere of the final syllable shortened to Seghol; viz., a) Before a word of one syllable (according to § 29, b), as לְשָׁרְתֶ֫ שָׁם in order to serve there, Deut. xvii. 12; comp. Gen. xxxix. 14; Job viii. 18. b) After Vav conversive, as וַיְבָרֶךְ and he blessed Gen. i. 22, וַיְגָרֶשׁ and he drove out Ex. x. 11; comp. Gen. xxxix. 4.

3. The following are unfrequent anomalies in the Pret. Piël: אֶחֱרוּ they delay Judges v. 28, for אֲחֵרוּ; and the similar form יְחֵמַתְנִי she conceived me Ps. li. 7, for יְחַמַּתְנִי or יְחַמְּתְנִי.

4. A few examples where the א, as a middle guttural, loses entirely its consonant sound and is resolved into a vowel, will be found in § 73, Rem. 4.

SECT. 65.

VERBS LAMEDH GUTTURAL. E. g. שָׁלַח to send. Parad. F, § 62.

1. According to § 22, 2, a and b, we here distinguish two cases, viz., either the regular vowel of the final syllable remains, and the guttural takes Pathach furtive, or the full vowel Pathach takes the place of the regular vowel. The more particular statement is as follows:—

a) The strong unchangeable vowels ִ—ִי, וֹ, וּ (§ 25, 1), are always retained; hence Inf. absol. Kal שָׁלוֹחַ, Part. pass. שָׁלוּחַ, Hiph. הִשְׁלִיחַ, Fut. יַשְׁלִיחַ, Part. מַשְׁלִיחַ. O, though less firm, is also retained in the Inf. constr. שְׁלֹחַ, in order to distinguish it from the Imp. (as in verbs ע guttural).

b) The merely tone-long O in the Fut. and Imp. of Kal becomes Pathach, as יִשְׁלַח, שְׁלַח. (With suff. יִשְׁלָחֵנִי, see § 60, Rem. 1.)

c) Where Tsere is the regular vowel of the last syllable, the forms with Tsere (attended by Pathach furtive) and Pathach are both employed. Usage, however, makes a distinction in these forms. Thus—

In the Part. Kal and Piēl, שֹׁלֵחַ, מְשַׁלֵּחַ is the exclusive form, and the full Pathach first appears in the constr. state שֹׁלַח, מְשַׁלַּח.

In the Fut. and Inf. Niph., and in the Pret. Inf. and Fut. Piēl, the form with (־) is employed at the beginning and in the middle of a period, the one with (־־) at the end, and in pause; e. g. וְרֵעַ it is diminished Num. xxvii. 4, and יִרְעֵי xxxvi. 3; יִבְקַע he cleaves Hab. iii. 9, and יִבְקָע Eze. xiii. 11; בַּלַּע to swallow, Hab. i. 13; Num. iv. 20. It may further be observed, that the Inf. absol. retains Tsere, which is lost in the Inf. constr.; e. g. שַׁלַּח Deut. xxii. 7, else שַׁלַּח to send.

In Hiph. the shortened forms of the Imp. and Fut. admit only (־), e. g. הַצְלַח prosper, וַיִּבְטַח and he caused to trust. The Inf. absol. takes (־־) as הַנְבֵּהַ to make high; but as Inf. constr. also הוֹבַח occurs, Job vi. 26.

2. The guttural here has simple Sh'va whenever the third radical regularly takes it (because it is Sh'va quiescent, which is generally retained even under gutturals, § 22, 4), as שָׁלַחְתִּ, שָׁלַחְתִּי. But in the 2 fem. Pret. a helping-Pathach takes its place, as שָׁלַחַתְּ (§ 28, 4), yet more rarely also לָקַחַת (without Dagh. in the ת) Gen. xxx. 15, and לָקַחְתְּ 1 Kings xiv. 3.

The softer combination with composite Sh'va occurs only a) In some examples of the 1 plur. Pret. when the tone is thrown forward, as יְדַעֲנוּךָ we know thee, Hos. viii. 2; comp. Gen. xxvi. 29. b) Before the suffixes ךָ, כֶם, כֶן, as אֶשְׁלָחֲךָ I will send thee 1 Sam. xvi. 1, אֲשַׁלַּחֲךָ Gen. xxxi. 27, אִיְּסָרֵךְ Jer. xviii. 2.

On the feeble verbs לא, see especially in § 74.

B. CONTRACTED VERBS.

SECT. 66.

VERBS. פֵּי. E. g. נָגַשׁ to approach. Parad. G.

The irregularities of these verbs, arising from the feebleness of the nasal letter Nun, are as follows:—

1. The Imp. and Inf. constr. often lose (by aphæresis, § 19, 3) their Nun, which would here take Sh'va, as גְּשׁ for נְגַשׁ. The Inf. then, however, has regularly the feminine-ending תְ־, or, with a guttural, תַ־ (§ 80, 2), as גָּשְׁתְּ, גַּעְתְּ to touch (from נָגַע). The Imp. has usually Pathach; but also Tsere, as תֵּן give (from נָתַן). Frequently it takes the lengthened form, as תְּנָה give up.

2. Whenever Nun, after a preformative, stands at the end of a syllable, it assimilates itself to the following stem-letter (§ 19, 2, a); viz., a) in the Fut. Kal, e. g. יִפֹּל he will fall for יִנְפֹּל; יִגַּשׁ for יִנְגַּשׁ; יִתֵּן he will give for יִנְתֵּן (the Fut. O, as in the regular verb, most common, the Fut. E only in this example*); b) in the

* The verb נָגַשׁ, employed as a Paradigm, has the Fut. A, which is not presented, however, as the most usual form of the Fut. in verbs of this class, but only as the actual form of this particular verb. The Tsere in יִתֵּן is owing to the double feebleness of the stem נָתַן (comp. Rem. 3).

Pret. Niph.; e. g. נִגַּשׁ for נִנְגַּשׁ; c) in the whole of Hiphil and Hophal (which here has always Qibbuts, according to § 9, 9, 2), e. g. הִגִּישׁ, הֻגַּשׁ, for הִנְגִּישׁ, הֻנְגַּשׁ.

The other forms are all regular, e. g. Pret. Inf. absol. Part. Kal, Piël, Pual, etc. Only those conjugations which are irregular are included in the following Paradigm:—

The characteristic of these verbs in all forms which begin with a formative letter, is the Dagheš forte following it in the second radical. Some forms, however, of one class of verbs פ"י (§ 71) and even of verbs ע"ע (§ 67, 5), exhibit the same appearance. Verbs פ"ו likewise exhibit such forms of the Imp. as נֻס, also נֻסּוּ (Gen. xix. 9), and פֻּן.

Rem. 1. The instances are comparatively few in which the forms mentioned in Nos. 1 and 2 retain their Nun, e. g. Imp. נְסוֹשׁ let alone, נְפֹלוּ fall ye; Inf. נְגֹעַ (as well as נְגֹעָה) to touch; Fut. יִנְטֹר he keeps, Jer. iii. 5 (elsewhere יִטֹּר). In Niph. this never occurs, and in Hiph. and Hoph, very seldom, as הַנְתִּיךְ to melt Eze. xxii. 20, הָנְתְּקוּ they are cut off Judges xx. 31. It regularly occurs, however, in all verbs which have a guttural for their second stem-letter, as יִנְחַל he will possess. In these verbs the Nun rarely falls away, as יַחַת he will descend, and יִנְחַת; Niph. נִחַם for נִנְחַם he has comforted himself.

N.B. 2. These anomalies are in part exhibited in the verb לָקַח to take, the ל of which is treated like the Nun of these verbs (§ 19, 2). Hence, Fut. יִקַּח, Imp. קַח (seldom לְקַח), Inf. constr. קַחַת, Hoph. Fut. יֻקַּח. Niphal, however, is always נִלְקַח.

N.B. 3. In the verb נָתַן to give, the final Nun is also assimilated, as נָתַתִּי for נָתַנְתִּי, נָתָתָּ for נָתַנְתָּ; Inf. constr. תֵּת for תֶּתֶת (see § 19, 2), with suff. תִּתִּי my giving; Niph. pret. נִתַּתָּם for נִתַּנְתָּם. In other stems, the נ as third radical is retained, שְׁכַנְתָּ, זָקַנְתִּי.

1. The principal irregularity of these verbs consists in the contraction of the second and third radicals often into one double letter, as סַבּוּ for סָבְבוּ, even when a full vowel would regularly stand between them, as סֹב for סְבֹב, סַב for סָבַב. Those forms are not contracted which contain unchangeable vowels, or a Daghesh forte, as סָבוֹב, סוֹבֵב, סִבֵּב.

2. The monosyllabic stem thus obtained takes, throughout, the vowel which the full form would have had in its second syllable, and which in the regular verb characterises the form (§ 43, Rem. 1), e. g. סַב for סָבַב; Inf. סֹב for סְבֹב; Hiph. הֵסַב for הַסְבֵּב (comp. No. 6).

3. The Daghesh forte, which, after this contraction, properly belongs to the final stem-letter, is excluded from it (§ 20, 3 a), except when formative additions are made at the end, as סַבּוּ, סַבִּי, Fut. יְסֻבּוּ, but not סַב, סֹב.

4. When the afformative begins with a consonant (נ, ת), a vowel is inserted before it, in order to render audible the Daghesh of the final stem-letter (§ 20, 3, c, Rem.). This vowel in the Pret. is ֵ, in the Imp. and Fut. ֶ—, e. g. סַבֹּתָ, סַבֹּנוּ, Fut. תְּסֻבֶּינָה.

The Arabian writes indeed regularly מדדת, but pronounces in the popular language מדית maddît instead, also maddâta, which last is exactly analogous to the Hebrew inflexion.*

5. The preformatives of Fut. Kal, Pret. Niph., and of Hiph. and Hoph., which in consequence of the contraction stand in a simple syllable (יסֹב instead of יסוֹבֵב), take, instead of the short vowel of the regular form, the corresponding long one (according to § 27, 2, a). Hence Fut. יָסֹב for יְסָבֵּב=יְסָבֵּב;† Fut. A, יָמַר for יְמָרֵר; Hiph. הֵסַב for הַסְבֵּב, Inf. הָסַב for הַסְבֵּב; Hoph. הוּסַב for הָסְבַּב. This long vowel (except the וּ in Hophal) may be shortened.

There is still another mode of constructing these forms (the common one in Chaldee), which supplies a Daghesh in the first radical in place of doubling the third (comp. § 19, 2 Rem.); e. g. Fut. Kal יִסַּב for יְסַבֵּב, Fut. Hiph. יַתֵּם for יְתַמֵּם, Hoph. יֻכַּת for יְכֻתַּת. These forms do not usually take Daghesh in the final letter on receiving an accession, as יִקְּדוּ they bow themselves (from קָדַד), וַיַּכּוּ and they smote (from כָּתַת), because the doubling is already supplied in the first letter, and the tone also rests on the afformative instead of the stem-letter; but see וַיַּכֻּהוּ Judges xviii. 23, יֻכַּתּוּ Job iv. 20. They therefore omit also the vowels וּ and ֶ—, e. g. תְּצַלֶּנָה they will tinkle (from צָלַל) Jer. xix. 3. The Paradigm exhibits this form by the side of the other in Fut. Kal.

* The explanation given here of this inserted vowel may certainly suffice, if an approximation be supposed between this class of verbs and that of לה; compare סַבּוֹתָ and Arab. maddita with נָלִיתָ or נָלִיתָ, and תְּסֻבֶּינָה with תְּנַלֶּינָה.

† It might seem far more easy, in explaining the origin of the Fut. יָסֹב (as well as of the Fut. in verbs עו, יָקוּם) to regard it as formed from the contracted stem-syllable סֹב by prefixing יָ, so also Hiph. and Hoph. But the mechanically easier way is not always the natural one.

6. Of many of these contractions, however, the originals are not found in the regular verb, but they may be considered as more ancient forms. Thus יָסֹב stands for יַסְבֹּב, with a under the preformative, as in the regular Arabic form;* Hiph. הֵסַב for הִסְבִּב has in the contracted stem-syllable the shorter ē (like the Aram. אַקְטֵל comp. § 53, 1 and Rem. 1); Pret. Niph. נָסַב for נִסְבַּב; Fut. Niph. יִסַּב for יִסָּבֵב, comp. יִקָּטֵל, § 51, Rem. 2.

7. The tone has this peculiarity, that it is not thrown forward upon the formative syllables beginning with a vowel (הָ֫, ו֫, יָ֫, comp. § 44, Rem. 5), but remains before them on the stem-syllable, as סֹבְבוּ.† Before the other afformatives, it rests upon the inserted syllables ו and יָ֫ (with the exception of תֶּם and תֶּן which always take the tone), and in consequence the vowels of the word are shortened, as תְּסֻבּוּ, תְּסֻבֶּינָה; הַסַּבְתָּ, but הַסִּבֹּתָ.

8. Instead of Piël, Pual, Hithp. and in the same signification, is found in numerous verbs of this kind, the unfrequent conjugation Poël (§ 55, 1), with its passive and reflexive, e. g. עוֹלֵל to treat one ill, pass. עוֹלַל, reflex. הִתְעוֹלֵל (from עָלַל); in some is found Pilpel (§ 55, 4), as גִּלְגֵּל to roll, הִתְגַּלְגֵּל to roll one's self (from גָּלַל), pass. שֻׁעְשַׁע to be caressed (from שָׁעַע). They are inflected regularly like Piël.

REMARKS.

1. On Kal.

1. In the Pret. are found some examples with Cholem (comp. יָכֹל, § 43, 1), as רֹמּוּ, from רָמַם they are high Job xxiv. 24, רֹבּוּ from רָבַב Gen. xlix. 23.

2. The Cholem of the Inf., Imp., and Fut. (סֹב, יָסֹב) as a changeable vowel, is written defectively, with a few exceptions, which are found especially in the later orthography; e. g. לָבוֹז for לָבֹז to plunder, Esth. iii. 13; viii. 11. It is consequently shortened into Qamets-chatuph or Qibbuts, whenever it loses the tone, as Inf. רָךְ to rejoice Job xxxviii. 7, with suff. בָּחֳקוֹ when he founded Prov. viii. 27, Imp. חָנֻּנִי pity me, Fut. with Vav. convers. וַיָּסָב Judges xi. 18, with suff. וַיְשֻׁמֵם he lays them waste Prov. xi. 3, Q°ri.

3. Of final Pathach in the Inf., Fut., and Imp. (קָטֹל, יִקְטַל), the following are examples; Inf. שַׁח to stoop Jer. v. 26, Imp. גַּל roll Ps. cxix. 22, Fut. יַמַּר he is bitter Is. xxiv. 9, יַקַּל he is slighted Gen. xvi. 4, יַרַךְ he is soft Is. vii. 4. Examples of the Chaldaising Fut. are: יִסַּב, though יָסֹב is also in use; יִשַּׁם he is astonished, 1 Kings ix. 8; וַיִּקְרוּ and they bowed themselves, from קָרַר.

In the Participle occurs the Aramæan form שָׂאֵם for שֹׂמֵם Jer. xxx. 16, K°thibh.

* Hebrew יִקְטַל from יַקְטַל, § 9, 5. The a appears also in verbs ב guttural, especially in verbs פא, § 68; and verbs עו, § 72.

† The terminations for gender and number in the Participles take the tone, as these are not a part of the verbal inflexion, as נִסָּבָה, מְסֻבִּים.

II. On Niphal.

5. Besides the most usual form with Pathach in the second syllable, as given in the Paradigm, there is still another with Tsere, and another with Cholem (analogous with קָטֹל, יֵרֵא, יָכֹל, § 43, 1), extending through the whole conjugation; e. g. Pret. נָקֵל (also נָקֹל) it is a light thing Is. xlix. 6, Part. נָמֵס wasted away 1 Sam. xv. 9. With Cholem נָגֹלּוּ they are rolled together Is. xxxiv. 4, Fut. תִּדֹּמִי thou shalt be laid waste Jer. xlviii. 2. In the Inf. and Imp. forms with Pathach do not even exist, but those with Tsere and Cholem, as Inf. הֵמֵס to melt Ps. lxviii. 3 Inf. Abs. הָבוֹז to be plundered Is. xxiv. 3, Imp. הֵרֹמוּ take yourselves up Num. xvii. 10. Chaldaising forms of Niphal are נְחַל Eze. xxv. 3 (from חָלַל), נְחַר (from חָרַר) Ps. lxix. 4; cii. 4 (also נָחַר Jer. vi. 29), נְחַת fractus est (from חָתַת), Mal. ii. 5.

III. On Hiphil and Hophal.

6. Besides Tsere the final syllable has also Pathach, especially with gutturals, as הֵמַר he made bitter; Inf. הָבַר to cleanse, Jer. iv. 11. But also without a guttural, as הֵדַק he pounded small, 2 Ki. xxiii. 15; plur. הֻסַּבּוּ 1 Sam. v. 10, Part. מֵצַל shadowing, Eze. xxxi. 3.

7. The Future with the tone retracted is formed like יָסֹךְ he protects Ps. xci. 4, וַיָּגֶל and he rolled Gen. xxix. 10.

8. Chaldaising forms of Hiphil and Hophal: נִיפַב Ex. xiii. 18, נִיכְּתוּ and they smote Deut. i. 44, אֶחַל profanabo Eze. xxxix. 7, הָמְכוּ they perish Job xxiv. 24, יָבַת Is. xxiv. 12, יֶחֱקוּ in pause (Job xix. 23) for יֶחָקוּ.

IV. In General.

9. Verbs עַע are very nearly related to verbs עִי (§ 72), as is already apparent from the great similarity in their conjugations throughout. In form the verb עַע is generally shorter than the other (comp. יָסֹב and יָקוּם, הֵסֵב and הֵקִים). In some cases they have precisely the some form as in the Fut. convers. of Kal and Hiphil, in Hophal, and in the unfrequent conjugations. On account of this relation, they have sometimes borrowed forms from each other, e. g. יָרֹן for יָרֵן he rejoices, Prov. xxix. 6.

N.B. 10. Along with the contracted forms there are found, especially in certain conjugations and tenses, others which are wholly regular; e. g. Pret. Kal. בָּזַז to plunder, plur. בָּזָזוּ, בָּזְזוּ (also בָּזֹזוּ Deut. iii. 7); Inf. סָבֹב and סב. Fut. יָחֹנֵן he is gracious, Amos v. 15, elsewhere יָחֹן. Hiph. הֵרִנִּין, Fut. יָרִנִּין he will rejoice (which is never contracted), Part. מְיֻשָּׁמִים astonished, Eze. iii. 15. The full form appears to be more poetic and intended for emphasis (Ps. cxviii. 11).

11. We have seen above (No. 5), that in the Fut. of the Chaldee form, the Daghesh of the third radical, together with the preceding vowel, is omitted before afformatives, which however take the tone, as וַיִּקְדוּ. Of the same omission in other forms there are unquestionable examples, as נֵבְלָה Gen. xi. 7 for נָבֹלָה we will confound (Cohortative from בָּלַל); יֵזֻמּוּ for יָזֹמּוּ verse 6 they will devise; Pret. Niph. נֵסְבָּה for נָסַבָּה Eze. xli. 7; נִמַלְתֶּם for נְמַלְתֶּם Gen. xvii. 11 (from מָלַל=מוּל to circumcise); comp. Is. xix. 3; Jer. viii. 14. Without Daghesh, but with the accented full vowel: הַעָזָה for הַעֲזָה Prov. vii. 13, נָבֹזָה 1 Sam. xiv. 36, נֵחָמִים Is. lvii. 5, for נֶחָמִים.

12. Although the afformatives here attract the tone less (see No. 7, p. 111), yet it is occasionally thrown on them, as רַבּוּ Jer. v. 6; Ps. iii. 2; civ. 24; and also when suffixes are appended, as סַבּוּנִי, סְבוּנִי Ps. xviii. 11. The vowels suffer before Daghesh the changes pointed out in § 27, 1, viz., Cholem in the Fut. becomes Qibbuts, less frequently Qamets-chatuph, Tsere in Hiph. becomes Chireq (after the analogy of תִּסְבֹּנָה, הַסְבֹּתָה); the preformatives then, in place of the full vowel, take Sh°va; e. g. יְסַבֵּנִי Ps. xlix. 6, יְקַבּוּהוּ Job xl. 22, יְחַנֵּנוּ Ps. lxvii. 2, Hiph. יְסַבֵּנִי Eze. xlvii. 2.

C. FEEBLE VERBS (VERBA QUIESCENTIA).

SECT. 68.

FEEBLE VERBS פֹּא. E. g. אָכַל to eat. Parad. I.

So far as א is treated as a consonant and a guttural, these verbs have all the properties of verbs Pe Guttural exhibited in § 63. But here we regard them only in so far as the א quiesces, i. e. loses its consonant sound, and is blended with the foregoing vowel, which happens only in certain verbs and forms, as follows:—

1. In the Fut. Kal of five verbs, viz., אָבַד to perish, אָבָה to be willing, אָכַל to eat, אָמַר to say, אָפָה to bake, the א always quiesces in a long ô (Cholem), as יֹאבַד. In some others, the form in which it retains its power as a consonant is also in use, as יֹאחַז and יֶאֱחֹז he takes hold. The ô in this case is but a corruption of the vowel â (§ 9, 10, 2), which is itself derived by contraction from ◌ַ◌ֲ or ◌ֶ◌ֲ. The feebleness of these verbs (§ 41, c) affects also their last syllable, so that it receives, instead of the stronger vowel, ō an ē (Tsere), particularly with distinctive accents at the end of a period or clause; but with conjunctive accents, which mark the continuance of the discourse, it takes ă (Pathach), e. g. תֹּאבַד לָעַד Ps. ix. 19, on the contrary, תֹּאבָד Ps. i. 6 (comp. a similar exchange of ē and ă, § 65, 1, c). When the tone moves back, the last stem-syllable has sometimes Pathach, as יֹאבַד יום perish the day Job iii. 3, וַיֹּאכַל and he ate, and sometimes Seghol, as וַיֹּאמֶר (Milêl) with conjunctive accents, but וַיֹּאמֶר (Milra) with distinctives (only in Job a few times וַיֹּאמַר in pause).

It is but very seldom that Tsere stands before א in the Fut. Kal, as תֵּאתֶה it shall come, Mic. iv. 8, contracted from תֵּאָתֶה: always, however, in the form לֵאמֹר dicendo (Inf. with לְ), for לֶאֱמֹר.

2. In the 1*st pers. sing. Fut.* the radical א (to avoid the repetition of this letter) is regularly dropped (§ 23, 4), as אֹמַר for אֶאֱמַר I will say.

Except in this case, the radical א is seldom dropped, as תִּסַּף for תֹּאסִף thou takest away Ps. civ. 29, יִמְרוּךָ for יֹאמְרוּךָ they speak of thee Ps. cxxxix. 20, תָּזֻלִי thou goest away (from אָזַל) Jer. ii. 36.

The Parad. I shows the forms in which א is treated as a quiescent (viz., Fut. Kal), and merely indicates those in which it retains its character as a guttural.

Rem. 1. In the derived conjugations, the א but very seldom quiesces, as in Niph. נֹאחָזוּ Jos. xxii. 9; Hiph. וַיֹּאצֵל and he took away Num. xi. 25, וַיֹּרֶב (for וַיֹּאֲרֶב) and he lay in wait 1 Sam. xv. 5, אֹזִין I hearken Job xxxii. 11, אֹבִידָה I will destroy Jer. xlvi. 8, מֹזִין attending Prov. xvii. 4, Imp. הָבִיאוּ bring ye (from אָתָה) Is. xxi. 14.

2. In Piĕl, א is sometimes dropped by contraction (like ה in יְהַקְטִיל, יַקְטִיל), e. g. מַלֵּף (so prevalent in Syr., Chald., and Samar.) for מְאַלֵּף teaching, Job xxxv. 11.

SECT. 69.

FEEBLE VERBS פֵּי. FIRST CLASS, OR VERBS ORIGINALLY פֵּו.

E. g. יָשַׁב to dwell. Parad. K.

Verbs פֵּי are divided principally into two classes, which are different from each other in their origin and inflexion. The first embraces those verbs which have properly a וֹ for their first stem-letter. In Arabic they are written with וֹ (e. g. יָלַד, Arab. wálada), but in Hebrew, by a difference of dialect, they take י instead of it, wherever the first stem-letter begins the form. The second embraces those which are properly פ׳, and which have Yodh also in Arabic (§ 70). A few of these verbs פ׳ form, in some respects, a third class inflected like verbs פֵּן (§ 71).

In יָצַר the forms are distinguished according to the signification; viz., a) יָצַר (1st class, for וצר), Fut. יִצַּר, וַיִּצַּר to be in a strait; b) יָצַר (2nd class), Fut. יִיצַר, וַיִּיצַר to form.

pass.	יָשׁוּב				יָטוּב

The peculiarities in the inflexion of the first class, which is analogous with the Arabic פَ, are the following:—

1. In the Fut., Imp., and Inf. constr. of Kal there is a twofold inflexion. About the half of these verbs have here the feeblest forms, viz.—

Fut. יֵשֵׁב with a tone-lengthened ē in the second syllable, which may be shortened to Seghol and vocal Sh'va; and with a somewhat firmer ē in the first syllable, which in a degree still embodies the first radical ' that has been dropped (but scarcely ever written יֵישֵׁב);

Imp. שֵׁב from יָשַׁב by omission of the feeble ';' and—

Inf. שֶׁבֶת shortened in like manner, and with the feminine-ending תְ־, which again gives to the form more length and body.

The other half of these verbs are inflected with stronger forms, have the Fut. A, and retain the Yodh at the beginning, viz., in—

Imp. יְרַשׁ and Inf. יְסֹד as a consonant, but in—

Fut. יִירַשׁ as a quiescent, or resolved into the vowel ī (§ 24, 2).

That the latter mode of inflexion belongs to verbs actually פֵּי (which has often been overlooked and falsely denied), is shown, partly by the numerous verbs which take these forms in Kal, and at the same time have ו in Niphal, Hiphil, and Hophal, partly by the analogy of the Arabic, where the verbs פֵּי have precisely the same double inflexion.

Even in the same verb are found both forms, one with the Yodh, the other without it, as צַק 2 Kings iv. 41, and יְצַק pour Eze. xxiv. 3, רַשׁ 1 Kings xxi. 15, יָרַשׁ Deut. ii. 24, and יְרַשׁ possess, with lengthening יְרִשָׁה Deut. xxxiii. 23, Fut. יִיקַד Deut. xxxii. 22, and יִקַּד he will burn up, Is. x. 16.

To the first mode of inflexion belong, e. g. יָלַד to bear, יָצָא to go forth, יָשַׁב to sit, יָרַד to descend, יָדַע to know (Fut. יֵדַע with Pathach in the last syllable on account of the guttural); to the second belong יָגַע to weary, יָעַץ to counsel, יָבֵשׁ to be dry, though the latter is in Arabic פֵּי.

2. The original Vav appears always in the Inf., Imp., and Fut. Niph., where it ought to be doubled, as a consonant, as הִוָּשֵׁב, יִוָּשֵׁב (just like הִקָּטֵל, יִקָּטֵל); and also in the Hithp. of some verbs, e. g. הִתְוַדַּע, from יָדַע, and in two nominal forms, viz., וָלָד offspring, from יָלַד to bear [and וָוֵר guilty]. The ו at the end of the syllable becomes a vowel, as ū (וּ) in all Hophal, e. g. הוּשַׁב for הָוְשַׁב; and in combination with a preceding a, as a diphthongal ô (וֹ) in Pret. and Part. of Niphal, and in all Hiphil, e. g. נוֹשַׁב for נָוְשַׁב, הוֹשִׁיב for הָוְשִׁיב.

3. The other forms, with few exceptions (see Rem. 3, 4), are quite regular.

In those forms in which Yodh does not appear, these verbs may be distinguished, in the Fut. of Kal by the Tsere under the preformatives in Niph., Hiph., and Hoph., by the Vav (וֵ, וִ, וּ) before the second radical. (The defective orthography, as in הֵלִיד, is not frequent.) Forms like שֵׁב, שֶׁבֶת, they have in common with verbs פֵּן. Hophal has the same form as in verbs עַע and שַׁע.

Rem. 1. The Inf. of Kal without the radical Yodh (see No. 1), has very seldom the masculine form like יְדַע to know Job xxxii. 6, 10, or the feminine ending ־ָה, like דַּעַת Exod. ii. 4. With a guttural, the latter takes the form ־ַת instead of ־ָת e. g. דַּעַת to know. לָדַת to bear, in 1 Sam. iv. 19 is contracted to לַת (§19, 2). Examples of the regular strong form occur with suffixes, יָסְרִי Job xxxviii. 4, יָסְרוּ Ezra iii. 12. The strong form has seldom the feminine-ending, as יְכֹלֶת to be able.

2. The Imp. Kal often has the lengthening ־ָה, as שְׁבָה sit, רְדָה descend. From יָהַב to give, the lengthened Imp. is הָבָה, fem. הָבִי, plur. הָבוּ, with accented Qamets, owing to the influence of the guttural.

3. The Fut. of the form יֵשֵׁב takes Pathach in its final syllable when it has a guttural, as יֵרַע, also תֵּרַד Jer. xiii. 17. When the tone is drawn back upon the penultima, the final syllable takes Seghol, viz., before a word of one syllable, and after Vav conversive; e. g. וַיֶּשֶׁב־נָא Gen. xliv. 33; וַיֵּרֶד, וַיֶּשֶׁב, but in pause וַיֵּשֶׁב and וַיֵּרֶד׃ A very rare exception, in which a Fut. of this kind is written fully, is אֵילְכָה Mic. i. 8. The Fut. יִירַשׁ, when lengthened, can also lose its radical י, as יַעֲפוּ Is. xl. 30, יָנֻעוּ lxv. 23. Yet the cases are rare and doubtful where this occurs after other preformatives than י (see Is. xliv. 8).

4. In some stems the feebleness affects also the Pret. Kal, so far, that the a under the second radical becomes e or i, as יֵרְשׁוּהָ, יִרְשָׁתָם, יָלְדְתִּיךָ, from יָרַשׁ, יָלַד. Examples are found in Num. xi. 12; Deut. iv. 1; viii. 1; xix. 1; xxvi. 1; Ps. ii. 7; lxix. 36, etc. In Syriac e is here predominant: in Hebrew the feeble vowel is found only in such forms of the Pret. as have not a full vowel under the first radical. For a similar case, see § 73, Rem. 1.

5. As an exception, the Fut. Niph. sometimes has י instead of the ו; e. g. וַיִּיָּחֶל and he waited, Gen. viii. 12; comp. Ex. xix. 13. The first pers. sing. has always the form אִוָּשֵׁב not אָוּשֵׁב; comp. § 51, Rem. 4.

6. In Piel, the radical Yodh is sometimes dropped after י preformative, which takes its punctuation (comp. § 68, Rem. 2); e. g. יְבַשֶּׁהָ for וַיְיַבְּשֶׁהָ and he dried it up, Nah. i. 4.

7. Fut. Hiph., like Fut. Kal, takes Seghol when the tone is drawn back, as יֹסֶף let him add Prov. i. 5, וַיֹּסֶף and he added. On forms like יְהוֹשִׁיעַ, see § 53, Rem. 7. In Hoph. are some cases of וֹ for וּ, as הוֹרַע for הוּרַע Lev. iv. 23, 28.

N.B. 8. The verb הָלַךְ to go, is connected with verbs פֵּי of the first class, for it forms (as if from יָלַךְ) Fut. יֵלֵךְ, with Vav וַיֵּלֶךְ, in pause וַיֵּלֶךְ, Inf. constr. לָכֶת, Imp. לֵךְ, lengthened לְכָה, and also לֶךְ, and so Hiph. הוֹלִיךְ. Rarely and almost exclusively in later books and in poetry, we find also the regular inflexions from הָלַךְ, as Fut. יְהַלֵּךְ, Inf. הָלַךְ (Num. xxii. 14, 16; Eccles. vi. 8, 9), Imp. pl. הִלְכוּ (Jer. li. 50); on the contrary Pret. Kal is always הָלַךְ, Part. הֹלֵךְ, Inf. abs. הָלוֹךְ, Piël הִלֵּךְ, Hithp. הִתְהַלֵּךְ, so that a י nowhere distinctly appears as first radical.* An obsolete stem יָלַךְ may however be assumed, although in a word so much used as הָלַךְ, the feeble letter ה may itself be treated like י, and so the inflexion resemble פֵּי. Comp. also the feeble פֵּא, e. g. תֵּזֵלִי from אָזַל (§ 68, 2), and תִּלְכִי from הָלַךְ, Fut. Hiph. אֹבִידָה from אָבַד and אוֹלִיכָה 2 Kings vi. 19, from הָלַךְ.

SECT. 70.

FEEBLE VERBS פֵּי. SECOND CLASS, OR VERBS PROPERLY פֵּי.

E. g. יָטַב to be good. Parad. L, § 69.

The most essential points of difference between verbs properly פֵּי and verbs פֵּו are the following:—

* But comp. אֵילְכָה under Rem. 3.

1. Kal has only the stronger of the two forms described in § 69, 1, viz., that in which the radical י remains, Inf. יָטַב, with the Fut. A, as יִיטַב, יִיקַץ, the Pathach of which becomes Seghol when the tone shifts back, as וַיִּיקַץ and he awoke Gen. ix. 24, יִיצַר, וַיִּיצֶר and he formed Gen. ii. 7.

2. In Hiphil the י is regularly retained in writing, and is pronounced as a diphthongal ê (Tsere), e. g. הֵיטִיב (for הֵיְטִיב), Fut. יֵיטִיב; seldom with the diphthong ai, ay, as in יְיַשְּׁרוּ they make straight, Prov. iv. 25; comp. Ps. v. 9, Q°ri.

The following are the only verbs of this kind: יָטַב to be good, יָנַק to suck, יָקַץ to awake, יָצַר to form, יָלַל Hiph. הֵילִיל to bewail, יָשַׁר to be straight.

Rem. Of the Fut. Hiph. there is an anomalous form with preformatives put before the 3*rd pers.* יְלִיל, as יְיֵלִיל he wails, אֲיֵלִיל I wail, תְּיֵלִילוּ ye wail, Is. xv. 2; lxv. 14; Jer. xlviii. 31; Hos. vii. 14; also יְיֵטִיב Job xxiv. 21; and once even in Fut. Kal יֵיֵרַע Ps. cxxxviii. 6, from יָרַע. This anomaly is explained by supposing that the י of the simple form was superficially taken to belong to the stem. For וַיְבִישֵׁהוּ Nah. 1. 4, see § 69, Rem. 6.

Sect. 71.

VERBS פִּי. THIRD CLASS, OR CONTRACTED VERBS פִּי.

This class embraces those verbs פִּי, of the first and second class, whose י does not quiesce in long ī or ē, but is assimilated like נ. Some verbs are exclusively of this class, e. g. יָצַע to spread under, Hiph. הִיצִיעַ, Hoph. הָצַע; יָצַת to burn up, Fut. יִצַּת, Hiph. הִצִּית. Others have two forms; one sharp with the י assimilated, the other weaker with the י quiescent, as יָצַק to pour, Fut. יִצֹּק and וַיִּצֹק (1 Kings xxii. 35); יָצַר to form, Fut. וַיִּיצֶר and יִצֹּר (Is. xliv. 12; Jer. i. 5); יָשַׁר to be straight, Fut. יִישַׁר and יִשַּׁר (1 Sam. vi. 12) — It is worthy of notice that the verbs which are thus inflected have an s sound as the second radical, with the only exception of הָלְדָה (Gen. xl. 20; Ezc. xvi. 5). Inf. Hoph. from יָלַד.

Verbs of this class (which seldom occur) are inflected like verbs פֵּ for which they may easily be mistaken by the learner. When, therefore, a form has not a root פֵּ in the lexicon, he should look for one of this class.

The first two classes are exhibited in their distinctive forms in Paradigms K and L, § 69. The third exactly follows verbs פֵּ, and is besides very rare.

pass.	קוּם						בִּין בֹּן

1. In these verbs the middle stem-letter ו always gives up its consonant sound and quiesces; not merely in the usual cases (according to § 24, 1) when a Sh•va precedes or follows, as בּוֹשׁ bôsh for בְּוֹשׁ b'vōsh, but also when it is both preceded and followed by a full vowel, as קוּם Part. pass. for קָוּם; קוֹם Inf. absol. for קָוֹם. Hence the stem appears always a monosyllable.

2. The vowel in which ו quiesces is essentially the vowel of the second syllable, which, in the verb, almost universally characterises the form (§ 67, 2). But this vowel, in consequence of the union of the Vav with it, is mostly made fuller and firmer, e. g. Inf. and Imp. קוּם for קוֹם, Pret. קָם for קָוַם; it is, therefore, not destructible though changeable, for we have לַקַּמְתָּ (with short a) from קָם, and Fut. Hiph. יָקִים (from יָקְוִים) is shortened in the jussive to יָקֵם.

The verb intransitive middle E takes in Pret. Kal the form of מַת (from מָוַת) he is dead: the verb middle O takes the form of אוּר (from אָוֹר) luxit, בּוּשׁ (from בָּוֹשׁ) he was ashamed. Comp. Rem. 1.

The preformatives in the Fut. Kal and Pret. Niph., and throughout Hiph. and Hoph., which before the monosyllabic stem form a simple syllable, take instead of the short vowel of the regular form the corresponding long one (§ 27, 2); e. g. יָקוּם for יְקוֹם; הֵקִים for הְקִוִים; הוּקַם for הָקְוַם.

This vowel is changeable, and becomes Sh•va when the tone is thrown forward, e. g. before suff. יְמִיתֶנּוּ he will kill him, and with the full plural form of the Fut. יְמוּתוּן they will die.

The ו in Hoph. forms an exception; for it has become a quite firm and unchangeable vowel, as if it had been transposed, so that הָקְוַם became הָוְקַם, hence הוּקַם.

4. In some cases, forms of the regular verb not now in use lie at the foundation of the present inflexion; e. g. Fut. Kal יָקוּם for יְקוֹם (see § 67, 6), Part. קָם, either for קָוֵם (like קָטֵל, the original form of קָטַל, Chal. and Arab. qâtel, § 9, 10, 2, and § 50, 2) or for קָוְם (after the form of the verbal adjective קָטְל; comp. § 84, No. 1). Those which conform to the regular Hebrew verb are generally the most unfrequent, as יָבוּשׁ (after the form יְבֹשׁ). The ô in Niph. comes from va (= ua), נָקוֹם from נָקְוַם, Fut. יָקוֹם from יְקָוֵם.

5. In the Pret. Niph. and Hiph., the harshness of pronunciation in such forms as נָקוֹמְתָּ, הֲקִמְתָּ, is avoided by the insertion of ו before the afformatives of the 1st and 2nd person. For the same purpose, ֶ_ is inserted in the Fut. Kal before the termination נָה (comp. § 67, 4). These inserted syllables take the tone and shorten the preceding vowels, as נָקוֹם, נְקוֹמוֹתָ; הֲקִימוֹתָ, or הֲקִימֹתָ, also הֲקֹמְתָ; תְּקוֹמֶינָה.

Yet in some cases the harder forms, without the inserted syllable, are also in use. Thus, Fut. Kal תִּשְׁבְּנִי Eze. xvi. 55 (also תְּשׁוּבֶינָה in the same verse), and rather oftener in Hiph., as הַנְפֵּחַ Ex. xx. 25, though also הֲנִיפוֹתִי Job xxxi. 21, תְּשַׁבְּנָה Job xx. 10, once תְּקִימְנָה Jer. xliv. 25. Imp. only לְמְנָה, הָמְנָה.

6. The tone, as in verbs עַע, is not thrown forward upon the afformatives ־ָה, וּ, ־ִי, as קָמָה, קָמוּ, except with the full plural form יְקוֹמוּן. For the tone on the וֹ and ־ֵי, see No. 5. In those forms which do not take either of these, the accentuation is regular, as קָמְתָּ; so in Hophal הוּקַמְתָּ.

7. The conjugations, Piël, Pual, and Hithpaël, are very seldom found in verbs properly עָי. The only instance in which ו remains as a consonant is עֲוֵר to surround, the Piël of עור (yet see Rem. 10). In some others י has taken the place of ו, as in קַיָּם from קום, חַיָּב from הוב, which forms belong to the later Hebrew, having been borrowed from the Aramæan. On the contrary, the unfrequent conjugation Pilel (§ 55, 2), with its passive and reflexive, is the common form employed in the signification of Piël, and as a substitute for it; e. g. קוֹמֵם to raise up, from קוּם; רוֹמֵם to elevate, pass. רוֹמַם, from רום; הִתְעוֹרֵר to rouse one's self, from עור. Less frequent is the conjugation Pilpel (§ 55, 4), e. g. כִּלְכֵּל to sustain, to nourish, from כול.

REMARKS.

I. On Kal.

N.B. 1. Of verbs middle E and O, which in the regular verb also have their Pret. and Part. the same (§ 50, 2), the following are examples; viz. Pret. מֵת he is dead (for מָוַת), 1 sing. מַתִּי, 1 pl. מַתְנוּ, 3 pl. מֵתוּ; בּוֹשׁ he is ashamed (for בָּוַשׁ), בַּשְׁתִּי, בַּשְׁנוּ, בֹּשׁוּ; אוֹר he has shined. Part. מֵת; בּוֹשִׁים Eze. xxxii. 30. Of the Preterite and Participle, the usual form קָם is very seldom written with א (after the Arab. mode, § 9, 1), as in קָאַם Hos. x. 14, שָׁאטִים Eze. xxviii. 24, 26; comp. xvi. 57. The Part. appears now and then also in the form of קוֹם for קָם 2 Kings xvi. 7, even with a transitive sense, as לוֹם occultans, Is. xxv. 7; Zech. x. 6.

2. In the Inf. and Imp. of some verbs, ו always quiesces in Cholem, as בּוֹא, טוֹב, אוֹר. In most verbs, however, it quiesces only in Shureq; but even in these the Inf. absol. has וֹ in the final syllable (after the form קָטוֹל), as קוֹם יָקוּמוּ surgendo surgent, Jer. xliv. 29. Those verbs which have וֹ in the Inf. retain it in the Fut., as יָבוֹא. In one verb alone the preformatives of the Fut. have Tsere, viz., בּוֹשׁ, Fut. יֵבוֹשׁ (for יִבְוַשׁ); see in No. 4, above.

3. In the Imp. with afformatives (קוֹמִי, קוֹמוּ) the tone is on the stem syllable, with a few exceptions, as in Judges v. 12. The lengthened form [with ־ָה] has, on the contrary, the tone usually on the last syllable (קוּמָה, שׁוּבָה), with a few exceptions where the word is Milel (Ps. vii. 8; Jer. iii. 12; xl. 6).

N.B. 4. The shortened Fut. as Jussive (§ 48, 4) has the form יָקָם (very seldom יָקוֹם, יְקֵם); e. g. יָשֹׁב let him return, Deut. xx. 5—8; אַל יָשֹׁב let him not return, Ps. lxxiv. 21; וְיָמֹת and may he die, 1 Kings xxi. 10. Comp. § 27, Rem. 1. In poetic language as Indicative, as יָרֹם, תָּרֹם, he, it, shall be high, Num. xxiv. 7; Mic. v. 8. After Vav conversive, and before words of one syllable the tone is also drawn back upon the penultima, and the last syllable takes Qamets-chatuph, as וַיָּקָם, יָקָם לָךְ Job xxii. 28. In pause, however, the tone remains on the last syllable, as וַיָּקָם; compare Gen. xi. 28, 32, with v. 5, 8. With a guttural or a Resh, the final syllable may take Pathach, e. g. וַיָּסַר and he turned aside, Ruth iv. 1 (from סוּר).

The full plural-ending ין has the tone (according to No. 6 of this section), hence תְּמָתוּן Gen. iii. 3, 4, יְנוּסוּן Ps. civ. 7, יְרוּצוּן Joel ii. 4, 7, 9.

II. On Niphal.

5. Anomalous forms are: Pret. נְפֻצוֹתֶם ye have been scattered, Eze. xi. 17; xx. 34, 41, 43; Inf. constr. הֲרוֹשׁ Is. xxv. 10. Comp. also Rem. 9.

III. On Hiphil.

6. Examples of the Preterite without the inserted ו: הִנַּפְתָּ thou liftest, Ex. xx. 25; הִמַּתָּה thou killest, and even הֲמִתָּם Num. xvii. 6, etc.

7. In the Imp., besides the shortened form הָקֵם, the lengthened הָקִימָה also occurs; with suff. הֲקִימֵנִי.

N.B. The shortened Fut. has the form יָקֵם, as וְיָסֵר that he may take away, Ex. x. 17. After Vav conversive, the tone is drawn back upon the penultima, as וַיָּקָם; וַיָּפֶץ and he scattered. The final syllable, when it has a guttural or Resh, takes Pathach, as in Kal, e.g. וַיָּסַר and he removed, Gen. viii. 13. Still the 1 sing. is usually like וְאָשִׁיב Neh. ii. 20, more rarely וְאָשֹׁב Jos. xiv. 7.

IV. In General.

8. On account of the intimate relation between verbs עֹ and עַע (§ 67), it is necessary, in analysing forms, to note particularly the points in which these classes differ. Several forms are exactly the same in both, e. g. Fut. Kal with Vav conversive; Pilel of עֹ and Poël of עַע. Hence it is that they often borrow forms from one another, as in Pret. Kal בָּז he despised (from בּוּז, as if from בָּזָז) Zech. iv. 10, טָח he besmeared (for טָחַח) Is. xliv. 18.

9. In common with verbs עַע (§ 67, 5), these verbs have also in Niphil and Hiphil the Chaldee and Rabbinic formation, which substitutes, for the long vowel under the preformatives, a short one followed by Daghesh forte. This form and the common one are often both in use; e. g. הִסִּית to incite, Fut. יַסִּית (also הַסִּית, יְסִית); יַתֵּר and he shows the way, 2 Sam. xxii. 33 (also יְתַר Prov. xii. 26); הָסִיג to remove, Fut. יַסִּיג (from סוּג), also Hoph. הָסַג Is. xlix. 14; sometimes with a difference of signification, as הִנִּיחַ to cause to rest, to give rest, הִנִּיחַ, Fut. יַנִּיחַ to set down, to lay down; יָלִין to spend the night, to abide; יִלֵּין, מָלִין to be headstrong, rebellious. Other examples: Niph. נָמוֹל (from מוּל, not נָמַל) to be circumcised Gen. xvii. 26, 27; xxxiv. 22, with a guttural נָעוֹר Zech. ii. 17; Hiph. הֵזִיל to despise Lam. i. 8, יָלִיזוּ they depart Prov. iv. 21.

To this class are to be referred some forms of verbs Pe guttural with Daghesh forte implicitum, which others have derived from a false root, or uncritically altered; viz., וַתָּחֶשׁ for וַתָּחָשׁ and she hastens (from חוּשׁ) Job xxxi. 5, וַיַּעַט, וַתָּעָט 1 Sam. xv. 19; xxv. 14, from עוּט, עִיט to rush upon.

10. Verbs, in which the middle stem-letter Vav is sounded as a consonant, are, in respect to this letter, perfectly regular; e. g. חָוַר to be white, Fut. יְחֲוַר, גָּוַע to expire, Fut. יִגְוַע; especially in those which are besides also verbs לה, as צָוָה, Piël צִוָּה to command, קִוָּה to wait, etc.

FEEBLE VERBS עי. E. g. בִּין to discern. Parad. N, § 72.

1. These verbs have the same structure as verbs עו, and their י is treated in the same manner as the ו of that class; e. g. Pret. Kal שָׂת (for שָׂיַת) he has set, Inf. שִׂית, Inf. absol. שׂוֹת (for שָׂיֹת), Imp. שִׂית, Fut. יָשִׂית, Jussive יָשֵׂת, with Vav conv. וַיָּשֵׂת. But the Pret. Kal has, in several verbs, still a second set of forms, which resemble a Hiphil with the characteristic ה elided, e. g. בִּינֹתִי (similar to הֲבִינֹתִי) Dan. ix. 2, also בַּנְתָּ Ps. cxxxix. 2; רִיבֹתָ thou contendest Job xxxiii. 13, also רַבְתָּ Lam. iii. 58. Often also complete Hiphil forms occur, e. g. Pret. הֵבִין, הֵבִינוֹתָם, Inf. הָבִין (also בִּין), Imp. הָבֵן (also בִּין), Part. מֵבִין, so likewise מֵרִיב (also רָב), מֵשִׂים (also שָׂם), מֵצִיץ glittering, also in Pret. צָץ. Moreover, as passive, we find a few times Hoph. Fut. יוּשַׁר from שִׁיר to sing, יוּשַׂת from שִׂית to set.

2. These Hiphil forms may easily be traced to verbs עו, and possibly they in part belong strictly to that class. The same may be said of Niph. נָבוֹן, Pil. בּוֹנֵן, and Hithpalel הִתְבּוֹנֵן (as if from בּוֹן). These verbs are in every respect closely related to verbs עו. Hence it is that we find several verbs used promiscuously, as עו and עי, and with the same meaning in both forms, as לִין (denom. from לַיִל) to spend the night, Inf. also לוּן; שִׂים to place, Inf. also שׂוּם, Fut. יָשִׂים, once יָשׂוּם. In other verbs one of the two is the predominant form, as גִּיל to exult (גול is found only in Prov. xxiii. 24). But few are exclusively עי, as רִיב to contend, שִׂית to set, שִׂישׂ to rejoice; so also כָּל to comprehend, to measure, Is. xl. 12; and the denom. קַיֵּץ (from קַיִץ) to pass the summer, Is. xviii. 6.

The older grammarians did not recognise this class of verbs, but referred all its forms to verbs עו, which may indeed be right in some cases. In modern Arabic we find an exactly corresponding abbreviation of the Hiphil (Conj. IV.) of verbs עו. Yet the Arabic, as also the Æthiopic, has actual verbs עי, and the Hebrew has some with a Yodh as a consonant, like אָיַב to hate, and עָיַף to tire. A fluctuation and interchange between the closely-related stems must certainly be assumed.

The Paradigm N is placed in connexion with that of verbs עו, in order to exhibit the parallel between the two classes. The conjugations which it omits have the same form as in Parad. M.

Rem. 1. Examples of the Inf. absol. are רֹב litigando Judges xi. 25, שֹׁת ponendo Is. xxii. 7, also רִיב Jer. l. 34.

2. The Fut. apoc. is יָבֵן; with retracted tone it takes the form with Seghol, as יָרֶב לוֹ Judges vi. 31. So with Vav conversive, וַיָּשֶׂם and he placed, וַיָּבֶן and he perceived.

3. As Part. act. Kal we find once לָן spending the night, Neh. xiii. 21; Part. pass. שָׂם or שׂוּם (according to a various reading) 2 Sam. xiii. 32.

4. Verbs עֹא scarcely ever suffer their א to quiesce, and hence are irregular only as represented in § 64. A few examples where the א has lost its force as a consonant are: נָאוּ they are fair, יַנְאֵן he blooms, Fut. Hiphil of נָאַן, for יַנְאֲאֵן Eccl. xii. 5.

pass.	מְצוּא

The א is here, as in verbs פא, treated partly as a consonant with a soft guttural sound (scarcely audible at the end of a word), partly as a quite inaudible (quiescent) letter, according to the following rules:—

1. In those forms which end with the third radical, the final syllable has always the regular vowels, e. g. מְצָא, מָצָא, מָצוֹא, הִמְצִיא; but Pathach before the feeble letter א is lengthened into Qamets (§ 23, 1), viz., in the Pret., Fut., and Imp. Kal, in the Pret. Niph., and in Pual and Hoph. This (ֹ) however is changeable (§ 25, 2, Rem.), hence in the plural יִמְצְאוּ.

The Fut. and Imp. Kal have A after the analogy of verbs Lamedh guttural.

2. Also before afformatives beginning with a consonant (ת, נ) the א is not heard, but is quiescent in the Pret. Kal, in Qamets, מָצָאתָ; in the Pret. of all the other conjugations, in Tsere, נִמְצֵאתָ; in the Imp. and Fut. of all the conjugations, in Seghol, תִּמְצָאנָה, מְצָאנָה.

The use of Tsere and Seghol in these forms arose doubtless from the great resemblance between verbs לא and לה (comp. 75, 2), and an approximation of the former to the latter.

Before the suffixes ךָ, כֶם, כֶן, the א retains its character as a guttural, and takes (ַ); as אֶמְצָאֲךָ Cant. viii. 1, הִבָּרְאֲךָ Eze. xxviii. 13; comp. § 65, 2, Rem. The reason (as in verbs Lamedh guttural) is, that those suffixes require before them a half-vowel.

3. Before afformatives beginning with a vowel, א is a consonant, and the form regular, as מְצָאוּ.

Parad. O gives a complete view of the inflexion.

REMARKS.

1. Verbs middle E, like מָלֵא to be full, retain Tsere in the other persons of the Pret., as מָלֵאתִי. Instead of מְצֵאָה is sometimes found the Aramæan form מְצֵאת for מְצֵאַת she names, Is. vii. 14; comp. Gen. xxxiii. 11 (after the form קְטֶלֶת, § 44, Rem. 4).

2. In the Inf. occurs the fem. form מְלֹאת to fill, Lev. xii. 4, for מְלֹאַת.

3. The Part. fem. is commonly, by contraction, מְצֵאת, seldom מְצֵאַת Cant. viii. 10, and defectively written יוֹצֵת (from יָצָא) Deut. xxviii. 57. In the forms חִטְאִים 1 Sam. xiv. 33, and בִּרְאִם Neh. vi. 8, the vowel is drawn back after the manner of the Syriac.

4. The א is sometimes lost, as in מָצֹתִי Num. xi. 11, מָלֹתִי Job xxxiii. 18. Niph. נִטְמֵתֶם ye are defiled, Lev. xi. 43. Hiph. הַחֲטִי Jer. xxxii. 35.

SECT. 75.

FEEBLE VERBS לה. E. g. גָּלָה to reveal. Parad. P.

These verbs, like those פי (§§ 69, 70), embrace two different classes of the irregular verb, viz., לי and לו, which in Arabic, and especially in Æthiopic, are more clearly distinguished. But in Hebrew the original י and ו have passed over into a feeble ה, as a substitute for a final vowel (§ 23, 5), in all those forms which end with the third radical, and which hence are called verbs לה; e. g. גָּלָה for גָּלַי he has revealed; שָׁלָה for שָׁלַו he has rested. By far the greater number, however, of these verbs are originally לי; only a few forms occur of verbs לו. The two classes are therefore less prominently distinguished than verbs פו and פי.

A true verb לו is שָׁלָה to be at rest, whence שַׁלְוָתִי, Part. שָׁלֵו, and the derivative שַׁלְוָה rest; yet in the Fut. it has יִשְׁלָיוּ (with Yodh). In עָנָה (Arab. عني) to answer, and עָנָה (Arab. عنو) to suffer, to be oppressed, are two verbs originally distinct, but with the same form in Hebrew (see Gesenius's Lex. art. עָנָה). In Syriac the intermingling of these forms is carried still farther, verbs לא also being confounded with those לה, i. e. with the two classes לו and לי of the Arabic.

As an entirely different class are to be regarded those verbs whose third stem-letter is a consonantal ה (distinguished by Mappiq); e. g. גָּבַהּ. They are inflected throughout like verbs Lamedh guttural. It is certain, however, that some verbs לה originated in verbs with final ה, this letter having lost its original strong and guttural sound, and become softened to a feeble ה, e. g. כָּהָה, Arab. كهه to be blunt. Hence it is that verbs לה are often related to those לה, for which the verb לה may be assumed as an intermediate form; e. g. קָשָׁה and קָשַׁח to be hard; פָּתָה properly = פָּתַח to be open.

The grammatical structure of these verbs (which Paradigm P exhibits) is as follows:—

1. The original Yodh or Vav, in all forms which end with the third radical, gives place to ה as a vowel-letter, and representing the final vowel; which is the same in each form through all the conjugations, viz.—

ה־ in all the Preterites, גָּלָה, נִגְלָה, גִּלָּה, etc.

ה־ in all the Futures and Participles active, יִגְלֶה, גֹּלֶה, etc.

ה־ in all the Imperatives, גְּלֵה, גַּלֵּה, etc.

ה– in the Inf. absol. (except in Hiph. and Hoph.), גָּלֹה, etc.

The Part. pass. Kal forms the only exception, in which, at the end, the original י appears, גָּלוּי, as also in some derivatives (§ 85, V.).

The Inf. constr. has always the feminine form in ת; hence in Kal גְּלוֹת, in Piël גַּלּוֹת, etc.

In explanation of these forms we observe—

That in the Pret. Kal, גָּלָה stands for גָּלַי, according to § 24, 2, c; so in Niph. and Hophal. Piël and Hithp. are based on the forms קִטֵּל, הִתְקַטֵּל (§ 52, Rem. 1), Hiph. on the form הִקְטִל, after the manner of the Arabic aqtala (§ 53, 1).

In the Fut. Kal, יִגְלֶה is a Fut. A for יִגְלַי (according to § 24, 2, Rem. a), whence also are such plural forms as יִגְלְיוּ (see Rem. 4). The same is true of the other conjugations, all of which, even in the regular verb, have, in connexion with the usual form, another with Pathach in the final syllable. See § 51, Rem. 2; § 54, Rem.

Tsere in the Imp. גְּלֵה is, at all events, a shorter vowel than the accented Seghol with a broad sound in the Fut. יִגְלֶה. Comp. the constr. state of nouns in ה־, § 89, 2, c.

2. Before the afformatives beginning with a consonant (ת, נ), the original י remains, but not as a consonant. Properly it would here form with the foregoing ă (Pathach) the diphthong ai; but this diphthong in the Pret. is contracted first into ê (ֵי־), and then further attenuated into ī; but in the Fut. and Imp. it is changed into the broad and obtuse ֶי־. Thus, in Pret. Piël, from גִּלַּיְתָּ (after קִטַּלְתָּ) we get first גִּלֵּיתָ, and then, by attenuating the ê into ī, גִּלִּיתָ; in the Fut. Piël תְּגַלֶּינָה. In the passives the ê is always retained; in the actives of the derived conjugations and in the reflexives, both ê and ī are used alike (see Rem. 7, 9, and 13); on the contrary, in Kal (the conjugation more in use than the rest) we find only ī. Accordingly we have in the—

Preterite Kal ī, as גָּלִיתָ;

Preterites of the other active conjugations and also the reflexive promiscuously ê and ī, as גִּלֵּיתָ and גִּלִּיתָ;

Preterites of the passives only ê, as גֻּלֵּיתָ;

Futures and Imperatives always ֶי־, as גְּלֶינָה, תִּגְלֶינָה.

The diphthongal forms are throughout retained in Arabic and Æthiopic, and the diphthong is contracted only by way of exception and in the popular idiom. In Chaldee and Syriac, the contracted forms predominate, yet these dialects have in Kal גְּלַיְתָּ as well as גְּלֵית.

3. Before the afformatives beginning with a vowel (וּ, ִי, ָה), the Yodh with the foregoing vowel is usually dropped, e. g. גָּלוּ (for גָּלִיוּ), תִּגְלִי (for תִּגְלִיִי), גֹּלָה, גֹּלִים; yet it is retained in ancient full forms, particularly in pause, as יִגְלֶיהָ (see Rem. 4 and 13). Before suffixes it is also dropped, as גָּלְךָ (Rem. 19).

4. The Yodh disappears also in 3 Pret. sing. fem., since with the feminine-ending ַת the form גָּלָת is obtained. But this ancient form is become rare (see Rem. 1); and, as if this mark of the gender were not sufficiently distinct, a second feminine-ending ָה is appended, so as to form גָּלְתָה. So in all conjugations, e. g. Hiph. הִגְלָת, common form הִגְלְתָה, in pause הִגְלָתָה.

5. The formation of the shortened Future, which occurs in this class of verbs in all the conjugations, is strongly marked, consisting in the rejection of the ָה, by which some other changes are occasioned in the form (see Rem. 3, 8, 11, 16). The shortened Imperative is also formed by apocope of the ֶה (Rem. 11, 15).

6. Of the Future lengthened by ָה (§ 48, 3), only the following examples are found in verbs לה :—from Kal, אֶשְׁעָה, Ps. cxix. 117, אֶהֱמְיָה (retaining the 3 radical, see Rem. 4), Ps. lxxvii. 4, and from Niph. נִשְׁתָּעָה, Is. xli. 23.

REMARKS.

1. On Kal.

1. For the 3 Pret. fem., the older and simpler form גָּלָה, from גָּלְיָה (comp. the verb לאֹ, § 74, Rem. 1), is almost entirely banished from common use. One instance is עָשָׂת she did, Lev. xxv. 21. So in Hiph. and Hoph., e. g. הִרְצָת she pays, Lev. xxvi. 34, הָגְלָת she is taken captive, Jer. xiii. 19. But with suffixes it is always used; see Rem. 19.

2. The Inf. absol. has also the form רָאוֹ videndo, Gen. xxvi. 28. As the Inf. constr. occurs also, though seldom, רְאֹה Gen. xlviii. 11, עֲשֹׂה, l. 20, or עֲשׂוֹ xxxi. 28, as well as the feminine form רְאוֹת to see, Eze. xxviii. 17, like קְטֹלָה, § 45, 2, letter b.

N.B. 3. The apocope of the Fut. (see above, in No. 5) occasions in Kal the following changes:—

a) The first stem-letter most commonly receives the helping vowel Seghol, or, when the middle radical is a guttural, Pathach (§ 28, 4); e. g. יֶגֶל for יִגְלְ; וַיִּבֶן and he built; יִשַׁע let him look, for יִשְׁעְ.

b) The Chireq of the preformative is also sometimes lengthened into Tsere (because it now stands in an open syllable), as יֵרָא let him see, from רָאָה, וַתֵּכֶהּ from כָּהָה to become feeble.

c) The helping vowel is sometimes omitted, especially in the cases mentioned in § 28, 4; e. g. וַיִּשְׁבְּ and he took captive, Num. xxi. 1, וַיִּשְׁתְּ and he drank, וַיִּבְךְּ and he wept. The verb רָאָה has the two forms יֵרָא let him see, and וַיַּרְא and he saw, the latter with Pathach on account of the Resh.

d) Examples of verbs which are Pe guttural (§ 58) as well as Lamedh He: וַיַּעַשׂ and he made, from עָשָׂה, וַיַּעַן and he answered, from עָנָה. Sometimes the pointing of the first syllable is not affected by the guttural; as in יַחַר, וַיִּחַן, יַחַר (with Dag. lene, according to § 28, 4) let him rejoice, Job iii. 6.

e) The verbs הָיָה to be, and חָיָה to live, where analogy would require the Fut. apoc. to be יְהִיְ, יְחִיְ, change these forms to יְהִי and יְחִי, because the second Yodh draws to itself the vowel i, and makes with it a long ī. (Comp. the derivatives בְּכִי for בְּכִיְ, עֲנִי for עֲנִיְ, etc., § 84, No. V.) From הָוָה to be, occurs once the form יְהוּא for יְהִיְ he will be, Eccles. xi. 3.

The full forms without the apocope of ־ָה occur sometimes even after Vav. conv., especially in the 1st person and in the later books, e. g. וְאֶרְאֶה and I saw, twenty times, but never in the Pentateuch, וַיַּעֲשֶׂה and he made, four times.

4. The original י is sometimes retained before the afformatives beginning with a vowel (comp. No. 3 and 6, above), especially in and before the pause, and before the full plural ending ־ִין, or where for any reason an emphasis rests upon the word. Pret. חָסָיָה she trusts, Ps. lvii. 2, חָסָיוּ they trust, Deut. xxxii. 37. Imp. בְּקָשָׁיוּ ask ye, Is. xxi. 12. Fut. יְרַבִּיוּן they increase, Deut. viii. 13. more frequently like יִשְׁתּוּיִן they drink, Ps. lxxviii. 44 (comp. Rem. 12 and 16).

5. The Part. act. has also a fem. of the form צוֹפִיָּה spying, Prov. xxxi. 27, פּוֹרִיָּה fruitful, Ps. cxxviii. 3, in the plur. like אוֹתִיּוֹת Is. xli. 23. The Part. pass. is sometimes without י, as עָשׂוּ for עֲשׂוּיִ made, Job xli. 25, צָפוּ xv. 22.

6. The second syllable is but seldom written defectively, as הָיֹתָ 2 Sam. xv. 33, תַּצְדֶּנָּה Job v. 12, and (according to the Qri) תִּרְאֶינָּה Mic. vii. 10.

II. On Niphal.

7. Besides the form with ־ֵי in 1 and 2 Pret., the form also with ־ִי is found, as נִגְלִינוּ 1 Sa. xiv. 8.

8. The apocope of the Fut. occasions here simply the rejection of ־ָה, יִגְלֶה from יִגְלָה; yet in one verb, Ayin guttural, we find a form with (־ָ) shortened to (־ַ), viz., יִפַח (for יִפָּח) Ps. cix. 13. Similar also in Pi. תְּעַר (from תְּעָרֶה) Ps. cxli. 8, and in Hithp. תִּתְרַע (from תִּתְרָעֶה) Prov. xxii. 24.

III. On Piël, Pual, and Hithpaël.

N.B. 9. In the Pret. Piël, the second syllable has Chireq instead of the diphthongal ־ֵי in the greater number of examples, as קִוִּיתִי, דִּפִּיתָ, which is therefore adopted in the Paradigm. Before suffixes, Chireq is always employed, e. g. דִּפִּיתָנִי Ps. xliv. 20. In Hithp. not only ־ֵי, but also ־ִי is sometimes found (Prov. xxiv. 10; 1 Ki. ii. 26; Jer. l. 24). Yet Pual has always Tsere (־ֵי).

10. The usual form of the Inf. abs. Pi. is like בַּלֵּה, קַוֵּה (according to קַטֵּל, also the more frequent form with the strong verb, see § 52, Rem. 3) rarely like קַוֹּה, Ps. xl. 2.

N.B. 11. The Fut. loses, after the apocope, the Daghesh forte of the second stem-letter (comp. § 20, 3, a); hence Piël וַיְצַו and he commanded; Hithp. וַיִּתְגַּל and he uncovered himself, Gen. ix. 21 Less frequently is Pathach, in this case, lengthened into Qamets, as וַיָּתוֹ and he marked, 1 Sam. xxi. 14, יִתְאָו he craves, Ps. xlv. 12. Comp. Rem. 8.

12. In Piël and Hithp. are found also apocopated forms of the Imp., as צַו for צַוֵּה command; נַס for נַסֵּה prove, Dan. i. 12; הִתְחַל feign thyself sick, 2 Sam. xiii. 5.

13. Examples of Yodh being retained in cases where it is more commonly omitted: Fut. תְּרַמְיוּנִי will ye liken me, Is. xl. 25, יְכַסְיוּמוּ they cover them, Ex. xv. 5.

IV. On Hiphil and Hophal.

14. In the Pret. Hiph. 3 sing. הָגְלָה is also found besides הִגְלָה, especially הָרְאָה, הָלְאָה. The forms הִגְלִיתָ and הִגְלֵיתָ are about equally common; before suffixes the latter is used as somewhat shorter than the other. The Paradigm exhibits the older with ־ִי. In Hoph. only ־ֵי occurs.

15. The Tsere of the Inf. absol. Hiph. is the regular vowel (as in הַקְטֵל); to this the Inf. absol. Hoph. conforms, as in הָפְרֵה Lev. xix. 20. The verb רָבָה to be much, has three forms of the Inf., viz., הַרְבֵּה (used adverbially) much, הַרְבָּה used when the Inf. is pleonastic, הַרְבּוֹת the Inf. constr. Comp. Gen. xli. 49; xxii. 17; Deut. xxviii. 63.

N.B. 16. The Fut. apoc. Hiph. has either the form יַרְדְּ Is. xli. 2, יַפְתְּ Gen. ix. 27, יַשְׁקְ or (with a helping vowel) יַגֶּל, for which, however, is invariably substituted the form יָגֶל (§ 27, Rem. 2, c), as וְיָגֶל 2 Kings xviii. 11, יָפֶר Ps. cv. 24. Examples with gutturals: וַיַּעַל Num. xxiii. 2, וְאַעַל, etc., which can be distinguished from the Fut. Kal only by the sense. The Imp. apoc. Hiph. has invariably the helping vowel Seghol or Pathach, as הָרֶב increase for הַרְבֵּה, הַרְבֵּת Ps. li. 4; הָרֶף let alone for הַרְפֵּה, הַרְפֵּת Deut. ix. 14; הַעַל for הַעֲלֵה Ex. xxxiii. 12.

16. The Fut. Hiph. with Yodh retained occurs only in תְּגֵיוֵן Job xix. 2, from יָגָה.

V. In General.

17 In the Aramæan, where as before remarked, the verbs לא and לה flow into one another, both classes terminate in the Fut. and Part. of all the conjugations, without distinction, in ־א or ־י. As imitations of this mode of formation, we are to regard those forms of the Inf., Imp., and Fut. in ־ה, more seldom ־א and ־י, which are found in Hebrew also, especially in the later writers and the poets. Inf. הֱיֵה to be, Eze. xxi. 15. Imp הֱוֵא be thou, Job xxxvii. 6. Fut. אַל־תְּהֵיהּ Jer. xvii. 17, אַל תִּבְאִי follow not, Prov. i. 10; אַל־תַּעֲשֵׂהּ do not, 2 Sam. xiii. 12.* Inf. Piel חַבֵּי Hos. vi. 9.

The Yodh is found at the end of the word (which is also a Syriasm) for ־ָה in the Fut. Kal, וַתִּזְנִי and she committed fornication, Jer. iii. 6; (according to others even instead of ־ֶה in the Pret. Hiph. הָחֱלִי he made sick, Is. liii. 10), comp. the plur. הִמְסִיו they intimidated, Jos. xiv. 8.

18. In three verbs is found the unfrequent conjugation Pilel, or its reflexive (§ 55, 2), where the third radical, which the conjugation requires to be doubled, appears under the form וה; viz., נַאֲוָה, contracted נָאוָה to be beautiful, from נָאָה; מְמַחֲוִים the archers, Gen. xxi. 16; but especially שָׁחָה to bow, Pilel שִׁחֲוָה, hence the reflexive הִיְּתַחֲוָה to bow one's self, to prostrate one's self, 2nd pers. ־יְתָ and ־יִתָ, Fut. יִשְׁתַּחֲוֶה, apoc. וַיִּשְׁתַּחוּ for וַיִּשְׁתַּחֲו (analogous with יְהִי for יְהִיוְ).

N.B. 19. Before suffixes, the ה final, and the preceding vowel, are displaced by the union-vowel (§ 58, 3, b), as עָנַנִי he answered me, עָנָךְ, עָנָם, Fut. יַעֲנֶהוּ, יַעַנְךָ, Hiph. הִכַּנִי, הֶעֱלָךְ. Very seldom ־ֵי takes the place of the final ־ָה or ־ֶה, as in יְכַפֵּימוֹ he will cover them Ps. cxl. 10, הַכֵּינִי smite me 1 Kings xx. 35. The 3 Pret. fem. always takes before suff. the older form גָּלְתָ (see No. 4), yet with a short a, as in the regular verb, e. g. כָּלְתָהוּ for כִּלְתָהוּ Zech. v. 4; in pause עִנְּתָנִי Job xxxiii. 4.

VI. Relation of Verbs לה and לא to each other.

20. The verbs of each of these classes, in consequence of their intimate relation, being quite identical in Aramæan, often borrow the forms of the other, especially in the usage of the later writers and of the poets.

21. Thus there are forms of verbs לא—

a) Which have adopted the vowel points of verbs לה, e. g. Pret. כָּלֵאתִי I restrain, Ps. cxix. 101; Part. חֹטֵא Eccles. ix. 18; viii. 12; Piël. Pret. מִלֵּא Jer. li. 34; רִפֵּאתִי 2 Kings ii. 21; Fut. יִנְמָא Job xxxix. 24; Niph. Pret. נִפְלֵאתָה (after נִגְלֵתָה) 2 Sam. i. 26; Hiph. Pret. הָחְבֵּאתָה Jos. vi. 17. [Imp. Kal יְרֵאוּ Jos. xxiv. 14.]

b) Which retain their own pointing, but have adopted the ה, e. g. Imp. רְפָה heal, Ps. lx. 4; Niph. הֵחָבֵה to hide one's self, 1 Kings xxii. 25; Piël Fut. יְמַלֶּה he will fill, Job viii. 21.

c) Which in all respects have the appearance of verbs לה, e. g. צָמִת thou thirstest, Ruth ii. 9; מָלְאוּ they are full, Eze. xxviii. 16; Inf. חֲמוֹ to sin, Gen. xx. 6; Ful. תִּרְפֶּינָה they heal, Job v. 18; Part. fem. יְצָא Eccles. x. 5; Part. pass. נְשׁוּי Ps. xxxii. 1; Niph. נִרְפָּתָה Jer. li. 9. Pi. Fut. וַיְרַפּוּ Jer. viii. 11. Hithp. הִתְנַבֵּיתָ thou prophesiest, 1 Sam. x. 6; Inf. הִתְנַבּוֹת 1 Sam. x. 13.

* The Jussive signification in these examples is the reason that they have Tsere like the Imp. But this will not apply to all other cases; and, besides, the reading in many instances is doubtful between (־ֵ) and (־ֶ). See Gen. xxvi. 29: Lev. xviii. 7; Jos. vii. 9; ix. 24; Dan. i. 13; Eze. v. 12.

22. On the contrary, there are forms of verbs לה which, in some respects, follow the analogy of verbs לא; e. g. in their consonants, יִשָּׁנֶא it is changed, Lam. iv. 1; שְׁנֵא 2 Kings xxv. 29; וַיֶּחֱלָא and he was sick, 2 Chron. xvi. 12; in their vowels, תְּכֵלָה 1 Kings xvii. 14; in both, תְּלָאוּם 2 Sam. xxi. 12.

Sect. 76.

VERBS DOUBLY ANOMALOUS.

1. Such are verbs which have two stem-letters affected by the anomalies already described, not including, however, those occasioned by gutturals. These verbs exhibit no new changes; and even in cases where two anomalies might occur, usage must teach whether the verb is actually subject to both, or but one of them, or, as sometimes happens, to neither.

Thus, from נָדַד to flee are formed Fut. יִדֹּד Nah. iii. 7, and יִדַּד Gen. xxxi. 40 (after the analogy of verbs פֵּן), Hiph. הֵנִיד (as a verb עַי), but in Fut. Hoph. יֻדַּד (as פֵּן).

2. The following are examples of doubly anomalous verbs, and of difficult forms derived from them:—

a) Verbs פֵּן and לֵא (comp. §§ 66 and 74); e. g. נָשָׂא to bear, Imp. שָׂא, Inf. constr. שְׂאֵת (for שָׂאֶת), also שֵׂאת (comp. § 73, Rem. 3), Fut. תִּשֶּׂאנָה for תִּשָּׂאנָה Ruth i. 14.

b) Verbs פֵּן and לה (comp. §§ 66 and 75), as נָטָה to bend, נָכָה to smite. Hence, Fut. Kal יִטֶּה, apoc. וַיֵּט, וַיִּט and וַיִּז and he sprinkled (from נָזָה); Pret. Hiph. הִכָּה he smote, Fut. יַכֶּה, apoc. יַךְ, וַיַּךְ; so also וַיִּז; Imp. הַכֵּה, apoc. הַךְ; Inf. הַכּוֹת; Part. מַכֶּה.

c) Verbs פֵּא and לה (comp. §§ 68 and 75), as אָתָה to come, אָפָה to bake. Hence Fut. יֹאפֶה, plur. יֹאפוּ, וַיֹּתֵא Deut. xxxiii. 21, for וַיֹּאתֶה; Fut. apoc. וַיֹּאת Is. xli. 25, for וַיֹּאתִי; Imp. אֹתִי for אֲתִי, אָתִי (§ 23, 4, Rem. 2; § 75, Rem. 4); Hiph. Imp. הֹתִי for הַאֲתִי Is. xxi. 14; Fut. apoc. וַיֹּאֶל 1 Sam. xiv. 24, from אָלָה to swear.

d) Verbs פֵּי and לֵא (comp. §§ 69, 70, and 74), as יָצָא to go forth, Imp. צֵא, Inf. צֵאת, Hiph. הוֹצִיא.

e) Verbs פֵּי and לה (comp. §§ 69, 70, and 75), e. g. יָרָה to throw, in Hiph. to confess, to praise, properly פֵּו, and יָרָה to throw, יָפָה to be beautiful, which are properly פֵּי. Inf. יָרֹה, יְרוֹת; Imp. יְרֵה; Fut. וַיֵּט, with suff. נְיָרֻם we shot at them (from יָרָה) Num. xxi. 30; Piël יִרֵּד for יְיָרֵד (§ 69, Rem. 6); Hiph. הוֹרָה, הוֹרֶה, Inf. הוֹרֹת; Fut. יוֹרֶה, apoc. וַיּוֹר.

f) Verbs עֵו and לֵא, particularly the verb בּוֹא to come; Pret. בָּא, בָּאתָ, once בָּנוּ for בָּאנוּ 1 Sam. xxv. 8; Hiph. הֵבִיא, הֲבֵאתָ, and הֲבִיאֹתָ; Fut. אָבִי for אָבִיא Mic. i. 15; Imp. הָבִי Ruth iii. 15. So יָנִי he refuses, Hiph., from נוּא Ps. cxli. 5.

Moreover, g) the verb חָיָה to live, deserves to be noticed, being treated as a verb עַי, and hence has חַי in the 3 Pret. Kal, Gen. iii. 22. In Hebrew it occurs only in this form. But of more frequent occurrence is the synonymous הָיָה as a verb לה.

Sect. 77.

RELATION OF THE IRREGULAR VERBS TO ONE ANOTHER.

1. Several classes of irregular verbs, e. g. those פֵּו and פֵּי, לֵא and לה, עֵו and עַי, stand in a very intimate relationship, as appears from the similarity in their meaning and inflexion, from the forms which they have in common, and from their mutual interchange of forms. The affinity consists, as a rule, in the essential equality of two stem-consonants of firm sound, to which the common signification attaches (biliteral root, § 30, 2), so that the third feebler radical is not taken into account. Thus, דָּכָא, דָּכַךְ, דּוּךְ, דָּכָה all mean to strike, to beat in pieces; נוּד, נָדַד, נָדָה to flee.

In this manner are related in form and signification—

1. Verbs עֹ and עַע (in which the essential stem-letters are the first and last), e. g. מוּךְ and מָכַךְ to become poor; מוּשׁ and מָשַׁשׁ to feel, to touch; נוּד and נָדַד to flee.

2. Verbs סִי and סַן (in which the two last are the essential stem-letters), both to each other and to the former class. They are related to each other in the verbs יָצַב and נָצַב to place, נָקַשׁ and יָקֹשׁ (yaqosh) to fowl; to the former class, especially to verbs עֹ, in נוּר and יָנַר to fear; טוּב and יָטַב to be good; נָסַךְ and סוּךְ to anoint; יָפַח and פּוּחַ to blow; נָפַץ and פּוּץ to break in pieces. Verbs פֹּא are less frequently found connected with these classes, as אָשַׁם and יָשַׁם to be destroyed; אָרַשׁ and דּוּשׁ to thresh, etc.

3. Verbs לֹא and לֹה (in which the first two consonants properly form the stem), both to each other and to the former classes; to each other in דָּכָא and דָּכָה to break in pieces, קָרָא and קָרָה to meet; to verbs of the former classes, in מָצָה and מָצַץ to suck, דָּחָה and דּוּחַ to thrust, etc.

SECT. 78.

DEFECTIVE VERBS.

It often happens, when two kindred irregular verbs are in use in the same signification, that both are defective, i. e. do not occur in all the forms. As these, however, are not generally the same in both, the two are combined to make out a complete verb, as in Greek ἔρχομαι, Aor. ἦλθον, Fut. ἐλεύσομαι, and in Latin, fero, tuli, latum, ferre; with this difference, that in Hebrew these verbs are almost universally related in form as well as signification, like the Greek βαίνω, Aor. 2. ἔβην, from the original form βά-ω.

Of these verbs the following are the most common:—

בּוֹשׁ to be ashamed, Hiph. הֵבִישׁ, but also הוֹבִישׁ (from יָבֵשׁ), especially with the intransitive signification to feel ashamed.

טוֹב to be good. Pret. טוֹב. Fut. יִיטַב (from יָטַב). Inf. טוֹב. Hiph. הֵיטִיב.

יָנֹר to fear. Fut. יָנוּר (from נוּר).

יָצַב and נָצַב to place, neither used in Kal. Niph. נִצַּב to stand. Hiph. and Hoph. הִצִּיב and הָצַב. Hithp. הִתְיַצֵּב.

נָפַץ to break in pieces. Fut. יָפוּץ (from פּוּץ). Imp. פּוּץ. Niph. נָפוּץ. Piel נִפֵּץ (from נָפַץ). Pil. פּוֹצֵץ (from פּוּץ). Reflex. הִתְפּוֹצֵץ. Hiph. הֵפִיץ. Pilpel פִּצְפֵּץ Job xvi. 12.

צָרַר and יָצַר to be strait. Hence Pret. לִי צַר I am in a strait, lit. it is strait to me, from צָרַר. Fut.

יָצַר (from יָצַר and צוּר). Piph. יִצֵּר, צִיֵּר, to bring into a strait, to distress. The related form צוּר is transitive, to press, hence to besiege.

יָהָה to drink, used in Kal; but in Hiph. הִשְׁקָה to give to drink, from שָׁקָה.

On יָלַךְ to go, see above, § 69, Rem. 8.

Rem. 1. The case is similar when different conjugations of the same verb, having the same signification, borrow forms from each other;—

יָכֹל to be able, יָכַל Fut. Hoph. he will be able, used for Fut. Kal, which is wanting.

יָסַף to have added, borrows its Inf. and Fut. from Hiph. הוֹסִיף, יוֹסִיף.

נָגַשׁ to approach. Pret. Niph. נִגַּשׁ for the Pret. Kal, which is not in use; yet the Fut. יִגַּשׁ, Imp. גַּשׁ, and Part. נֹגֵשׁ of Kal are all in use.

נָחָה to lead. Pret. usually in Kal, also the Imp. נְחֵה; but the Fut. always in Hiphil יַנְחֶה; rarely also the Pret. הִנְחָה.

נָתַךְ to pour out. Pret. Niph. נִתַּךְ, along with Fut. Kal יִתֹּךְ, but Fut. Niph. and Pret. Kal are not in use.

Rem. 2. The early grammarians often speak of mixed forms (formis mixtis) in which, as they maintain, are united the character and significations of two tenses, genders, or conjugations. On correct grammatical principles most of the examples adduced are set aside (e. g. יַחְמְנָה, § 47, Rem. 3); in others, the form seems to have originated in misapprehension and inaccuracy, e. g. בְּבִנְיָתִיךְ in thy building, Eze. xvi. 31 (where the plural suffix is appended to the ending וֹת, as if a plural-ending). Others again are merely false readings.

CHAPTER III.

[SUBSTANTIVE AND ADJECTIVE].

SECT. 79.

GENERAL VIEW.

1. IN treating of the formation of the noun, it is very important to keep in view its relation to the verb, since most nouns may be derived from verbs (considering the 3 sing. Pret. as the stem-form, according to § 30, 1), and even those which are not, whether primitives or derived from other nouns, follow the form and analogy of the verbals. Besides, on this relation is based the explanation of the form of the feminine gender (§ 80, 2; comp. § 94).

The adjective agrees entirely with the substantive in form, though it is manifestly only by a figure of speech that forms with an abstract signification can be treated as adjectives (§ 83, Rem. 1).

2. A regular inflexion of the noun by cases does not exist in Hebrew, although perhaps some ancient traces of case-endings remain (§ 90). The relation of case in a noun is either learned simply from its position in the clause, or indicated by prepositions. In the form of the noun there is no change; and hence the matter belongs not to this division of grammar, but to the Syntax (§ 117). On the contrary, the connexion of the noun with suffixes, with the feminine, dual, and plural terminations, and with a noun following in the genitive, produces numerous changes in its form, which is all that is meant by the inflexion of nouns in Hebrew.* Even for the comparative and superlative, the Hebrew has no appropriate form, and these relations must be expressed by circumlocution, as taught in the Syntax (§ 119).

SECT. 80.

FORMS WHICH MARK THE GENDER OF NOUNS.

1. The Hebrew, like all the Shemitic languages, has but two genders, the masculine and the feminine. Inanimate objects properly of the neuter gender, and abstract ideas, for which other languages have a neuter form, are regarded in Hebrew as either masculine or feminine, particularly the latter (see the Syntax, § 107, 3).

2. The masculine, as being the most common and important form of the noun, has no peculiar mark of distinction.

The ending for the feminine was originally תַ־, as in the 3 sing. Pret. of verbs (§ 44, 1). But when the noun stands without a genitive following (i. e. when it is not in the construct state, § 87), the תַ־ usually appears in the weakened form הָ־, or is shortened to תְ־ unaccented. The original תַ־ is very seldom found, except when the noun is in close connexion with a succeeding genitive, or has a pronominal suffix. Irrespective then of these two cases (for which see § 89, 2, b, § 91, 4), we have as feminine-ending—

a) Most commonly an accented הָ־ as סוּס horse, סוּסָה mare;

b) An unaccented תְ־, after a guttural תַ־ (which also remains unchanged before the genitive), as קָטַל, fem. קְטָלָה killing, מוֹרֵעַ fem. מוֹדַעַת acquaintance. Here the termination of the noun follows the manner of segholate forms (§ 94, 2). When the masc. ends with a vowel, we have for תְ־ simply ת, as מוֹאָבִי Moabite, מוֹאָבִית Moabitess; חֹטֵא sinner, חַטָּאת sinfulness, sin. The vowel-changes occasioned by these endings are exhibited in § 94.†

---

* This has been called, by Gesenius himself and others, the declension of the Hebrew noun.

† On the feminines not distinguished by the form, see § 107, 1, 3, 4.

Rem. 1. The feminine form in תָ֫ is, in general, less frequent than the other, and occurs almost exclusively when the other is also in use. It is only in the Participles and Infinitives that it is found more frequently than the other (e. g. קֹטֶלֶת oftener than קִטְלָה, לֶדֶת than לִדְתָּ); it is, moreover, in common with תַ֫, a form for the construct state (§ 95, 1).

2. Unusual feminine terminations:

a) ת֫ accented, as בָּרְקַת emerald Eze. xxviii. 13, קָאַת pelican Is. xxxiv. 11, שְׁפַעַת crowd 2 Kings ix. 17, and often in proper names among Phœnicians and other neighbouring tribes, as צָרְפַת Sarepta, אֵילַת Aelana in Idumea, on the Arabian Gulf, גָּלְיַת pr. n. Goliath.

b) ת֫, almost exclusively poetical, e. g. נַחֲלַת heritage Ps. xvi. 6, עָזְרַת help Ps. lx. 13, פֹּרַת fecunda Gen. xlix. 22; but in prose also is found מָחֳרַת morrow Gen. xix. 34.

c) א֫, Aramæan orthography for ה֫, found chiefly in the later writers, e. g. שְׁנָא sleep Ps. cxxvii. 2, קָרְחָא baldness Eze. xxvii. 31, כְּתָבָא mark Lam. iii. 12.

d) ה֫ very rarely, a weakened form of ה֫ (§ 27, Rem. 4), as זוּרָה for זוֹרָה, Is. lix. 5.

e) הָ֫, without the accent, as רָחְמָה, Deut. xiv. 17, תַּנּוּר בֹּעֵרָה burning furnace, Hos. vii. 4; comp. Eze. xl. 19; 2 Kings xvi. 18. In all these examples there should be the usual accented ה֫, but the punctators, not comprehending the feminine here, marked the ה (by depriving it of the tone) as not feminine, which is however no rule for us. Also לַיְלָה night appears by the tone to be a masc. form, particularly as it is always construed as masc., and we find לַיִל, לֵיל also occurring. Like it are הַחַרְסָה the sun Judges xiv. 18 (else חֶרֶס), נַחֲלָה brook Ps. cxxiv. 4, הַמָּוְתָה death Ps. cxvi. 15, and some other words. Much of this is doubtful.*

f) תָ֫ in poetry, properly a double ending (as in הַזֹּאתָה this f.=הַזֹּאת, Jer. xxvi. 6 K'thibh, and in the verbal form נָפְלָתָה, § 75, 4), e. g. עָזְרָתָה help (=עָזְרַת, עָזְרָה), יְשׁוּעָתָה salvation (=יְשׁוּעָה), עַוְלָתָה wickedness (= עַוְלָה), see Ps. iii. 3; xliv. 27; xcii. 16; Job v. 16; Ex. xv. 16, and other places.†

3. It is wholly incongruous to consider (as Gesenius and Nordheimer did) the vowel-ending ה֫‡ as the original termination of the feminine and the consonant-ending ת֫ as derived from it. The Æthiopic still has the ת constantly, and in the Phœnician also the feminines end generally in ת (not ה or א), which is sounded ath in the words found in Greek and Roman authors (see Gesenii Monumenta Phœnicia, pp. 439, 440; Movers in Ersch. and Gruber's Encyclop., Sect. III., T. 24, p. 439). The ancient Arabic has the weakened vowel-ending scarcely anywhere but in the pause; the modern Arabic is, in this respect, much like the Hebrew.

Sect. 81.

DERIVATION OF NOUNS.

Nouns are either primitive (§ 82), as אָב father, אֵם mother, or derivative. The latter are derived either from the verb (Verbals, §§ 83—85) in the sense given

* The ending ה֫ in these words has been taken for the termination of the Aramæan emphatic state, so making נַחֲלָה pass for הַנַּחַל. But there are these objections: a) That some examples have the Heb. article, which implies at least that the Aramæan form was not recognised; b) That the examples in part belong to the more ancient books; and c) That we find among them so old and familiar a word as לַיְלָה. Yet לַיְלָה might be strictly an accusative with adverbial signification noctu, and then used simply for nox, no regard being had to the ending, something like בִּנְגִינָה, § 90, 2, c. See Gesenius's Lexicon under לַיִל in the Note.

† This ending תָ֫, too, has been compared with that of the Aram. emphatic state, or has been regarded as an accusative-ending.

above in § 79, 1, as צַדִּיק just, צֶדֶק, צְדָקָה righteousness, from צָדַק to be just; רָם high, רָמָה high place, מָרוֹם height, from רוּם to be high; or from another noun (Denominatives), as רֶגֶל foot, מַרְגְּלוֹת place at the feet. The verbals are by far the most numerous class.

Rem. 1. Many of the early grammarians, who admitted none but verbs as stem-words, classed all nouns among the verbals, and divided them into, a) Formæ nudæ, i. e. such as have only the three (or two) stem-letters, and b) Formæ auctæ, such as have received formative letters or syllables at the beginning or end, as מַמְלָכָה, מַלְכוּת. These formative letters are:

(הָאֲמָנְתִּיו)*, ה, א, מ, נ, ת, י, ו

According to the view of roots and stems given in § 30, 1, the relation of the noun to the verb is, strictly speaking, somewhat different, since, according to it, many nouns are formed immediately from the (ideal) root. But we here retain the common view, as being easier for beginners. Comp. § 79, 1.

2. Of compound nouns, as appellatives, the number in Hebrew is very small, e. g. בְּלִיַּעַל properly worthlessness, baseness. As proper names, they occur pretty frequently, e. g. גַּבְרִיאֵל man of God, יְהוֹיָקִים whom God raises up, חִזְקִיָּהוּ strength of Jehovah, אֲבִימֶלֶךְ father of the king.

SECT. 82.

PRIMITIVE NOUNS.

1. The number of primitives is, strictly speaking, very small, the nouns which are in most languages primitive being here usually derived from verbal ideas; e. g. most of the names of natural objects, as שָׂעִיר he-goat (prop. shaggy, from שָׂעַר), שְׂעֹרָה barley (prop. bearded, also from שָׂעַר), חֲסִידָה stork (prop. pia, sc. avis), זָהָב gold (from זָהַב = צָהַב to be yellow). There are but few nouns, e. g. the names of members of the body, in men and beasts, for which no stem-verb can be found, as קֶרֶן horn, עַיִן eye.

2. The form of the primitives is that of the simplest verbals, as קָטֶל, קָטֹל, etc.; and it makes no difference, in the grammatical treatment, to which class the nouns are reckoned.

E. g. אָדָם man, follows the analogy of the verbals No. 1 (§ 84), whether it comes from אָדַם (to be red) or not; אָב father, אֵם mother, have the same form as if derived from אָבָה, אָמַם, which is very improbable.

SECT. 83.

VERBAL NOUNS IN GENERAL.

1. In Hebrew, as in Greek and Latin, the verbal nouns are connected in form and signification with certain forms of the verb, viz., the Participles and Infinitives, which, even without any change, are often employed as nouns; e. g. דֵּעָה (to know) = knowledge, אֵיב (hating) = enemy. Still oftener, however, are predominantly employed for the verbal noun certain forms of the Infinitive and Participle, which are seldom or never found as such in the regular verb itself, though in use in the irregular verb and in other dialects; e. g. the participial form קֹטֵל, the Infinitives מִקְטַל, קְטֹלֶת (§ 45, 2), etc. Some, as the Arabic shows, are properly intensive forms of the Participle.

* From this vox memorialis (§ 5, p. 14, Note †) the nomina aucta are also called, by the old grammarians, nomina heemantica.

2. As to signification, it follows from the nature of the case, that nouns which have the form of Infinitives regularly denote the action or state, with other closely-related ideas (such as the place of the action), and are therefore mostly abstract; that participial nouns, on the contrary, denote, for the most part, the subject of the action, or of the state, and hence are concrete. It often happens, however, that a certain signification is found in single examples of derivative nouns, which is not characteristic of the form.

Rem. 1. It need not, therefore, appear strange (for it is found in all languages) that a noun which in form is properly abstract, should be employed metaphorically as a concrete, and vice versâ. So, in English, we say, his acquaintance, for those with whom he is acquainted; the Godhead, for God himself; in Heb. יְדִיעָה acquaintance and an acquaintance; פְּתִי simplicity and a simple one; on the contrary, הַחֹטֵאת that which sinneth for sin, which is a frequent use of the fem. concrete (§ 54, 5, 6, 11).

2. For facilitating the general view, we treat first of the derivatives from the regular verb (§ 84) and then of those from the irregular (§ 85).

SECT. 84.

NOUNS DERIVED FROM THE REGULAR VERB.*

We distinguish here—

I. Forms originally Participles, or participial Nouns, from Kal.

1. קָטֶל fem. קְטֻלָה, the most simple form of this class and analogous to the two following (Nos. 2 and 3), but not in use as a Participle. It is most frequently employed as an adjective expressing quality, as חָכָם wise, חָדָשׁ new, יָשָׁר upright. It occurs, however, also with an abstract sense (No. 12).

2. קָטָל, fem. קְטָלָה, Part. of verbs middle E (§ 50, 2), mostly serves for intransitive notions (§ 43) and for adjectives of quality; e. g. זָקֵן old, old man; יָבֵשׁ dry; דָּשֵׁן fat.

3. קָטֹל and קָטוֹל (with firm o), fem. קְטֹלָה, next to Part. of verbs middle O, and properly with intransitive sense; e. g. יָרֵא fearing, קָטֹן small, יָקֹשׁ fowler; then frequently as an adjective, even when no Pret. with Cholem is found, as גָּדוֹל great, רָחוֹק far, קָדוֹשׁ holy. As a substantive abstr. כָּבוֹד honour, שָׁלוֹם peace. From this is to be distinguished No. 21, with the doubling of the last radical.

* Under the regular verb we here include the verb with gutturals, §§ 63—65.

4. קֹטֵל, קֹטֶל, fem. קֹטֶלֶת, קֹטֶלֶת, the usual active participial of transitive verbs, e. g. אֹיֵב enemy, יוֹנֵק suckling; hence of the instrument by which the action is performed, as חֹרֵשׁ a cutting instrument. A feminine with a collective signification is found in אֹרְחָה caravan, properly the wandering, wandering host.

5. קָטוּל and קָטִיל, passive Participles of Kal, the latter (the usual Aramæan form) employed rather as a substantive, like the Greek verbals in τός; e. g. אָסוּר imprisoned, מָשׁוּחַ anointed, אָסִיר prisoner, מָשִׁיחַ anointed one. Also in intransitive verbs with an active signification, as צָעִיר small, עָצוּם strong. Some words of the form קָטִיל express the time of the action, as קָצִיר time of cutting, harvest, חָרִישׁ time of ploughing, like the Greek verbals in τός; e. g. ἀμητός, ἀροτός, properly the being harvested, or ploughed. The feminines are apt to take the abstract signification (Synt. § 107, 3 b), e. g. יְשׁוּעָה deliverance (the being delivered).

6. קַטָּל (Arabic קַטָּאל), with unchangeable vowels. In Arab. it is the usual intensive form of the participle, and hence in Heb. expresses what is habitual, e. g. נַגָּח apt to butt, קַנָּא (also קַנּוֹא) zealous, חַטָּא sinner (diff. from חֹטֵא sinning), גַּנָּב thief; so of occupations and trades, e.g. טַבָּח cook, חָרָשׁ (for חַרָּשׁ) faber. Here again the feminine (קַטָּלָה or קַטָּלֶת) often takes the abstract signification, as חַטָּאָה female sinner and sinfulness, sin; דַּלֶּקֶת burning fever, with a guttural טַבָּעַת signet. Such intensive forms are also the three following:

7. קַטִּיל and קַטּוּל, of which forms are most adjectives in the Chaldee, as צַדִּיק righteous, אַבִּיר strong, חַנּוּן compassionate. In Heb. from intrans. verbs alone.

8. קְטוֹל, as יְסוֹר censurer, שְׁכוֹר drunken one, גְּבוֹר strong one, hero; seldom in a passive sense, as יְלוֹד born.

9. קִטֵּל indicates very great intensity, often excessive, so as to become a fault or a defect, e. g. גִּבֵּן hunch-backed, קֵרַח bald-headed, אִלֵּם dumb, עִוֵּר blind, פִּסֵּחַ lame, חֵרֵשׁ deaf. The abstr. signification is found in the fem., as אִוֶּלֶת folly.

II. *Nouns after the manner of Infinitives of Kal.

10. קָטַל, קֶטֶל, קָטֹל, (with changeable vowels), are with No. 11 the simplest forms of this class, of which the latter is the predominant, and the first the unfrequent form in the verb as Infinitive (§ 45, 2). As nominal forms they are rare, e. g. גֶּבֶר man, פְּאֵר ornament, צְחֹק laughter. Instead of these, the three kindred segholate forms—

11. קָטֶל, קֶטֶל, קֹטֶל, are far more frequent; e. g. מֶלֶךְ, king (for מַלְכְּךָ, מִלְכְּךָ, § 27, Rem. 2 c), סֵפֶר (for סִפְרְךָ) book; קֹדֶשׁ (for קֹדְשׁ) sanctuary; these have the characteristic vowel in the first syllable, and the helping vowel Seghol (§ 28, 4) in the second. Instead of the Seghol, a Pathach is used with gutturals in the second or third place, as זֶרַע seed, נֶצַח eternity, פֹּעַל work. Examples of feminines, מַלְכָּה queen, יִרְאָה fear, עֶזְרָה help, חָכְמָה wisdom.

In masculines as well as feminines the abstract is the proper and prevailing signification, yet not unfrequently the concrete occurs, especially in the form קָטֶל, e. g. מֶלֶךְ king, נַעַר a youth, בֹּעַר brutish, עֶבֶד servant, בַּעַל lord, גֶּבֶר man. In such forms the concrete sense is secondary and derived from the abstract, as in בֹּעַר prop. brutishness, נַעַר prop. season of youth (comp. Eng. youth and a youth), or the form of the word is shortened from another with a concrete sense, as מֶלֶךְ, עֶבֶד from participial forms, meaning ruling, serving.† But altogether the meaning of these forms is very

* All these forms are found, mutatis mutandis, in the Arabic as Infinitives, or so-called nomina actionis.

† Such an origin of מֶלֶךְ may be proved from the Arabic; and in some other nouns it is obvious. Comp. גֶּדֶר as the name of a town, with גֶּדֵר a wall; and כֶּתֶף shortened (in the constr. state) from כְּתֵף shoulder.

various, e. g. even for the instrument, as חֶרֶב sword, חֶרֶשׁ graving-tool, and passively לֶחֶם bread. In the passive sense the form קֹטֶל is more common, as אֹכֶל food; this form לֶטֶל is also more used in the abstract sphere, hence נַעַר a youth, נֹעַר youth.

12. קֶטֶל, like No. 1, fem. קְטָלָה, both very often with the abstr. sense; e. g. רָעָב hunger, אָשֵׁם guilt, שָׂבַע satiety (besides their concretes רָעֵב hungry, אָשֵׁם, שָׂבֵעַ); fem. צְדָקָה righteousness, נְקָמָה vengeance. Less frequent is the form קֶטֶל, as שֵׁכָר strong drink, עֵנָב grape.

13. קָטֶל, קָטַל, קָטִיל, קָטוֹל, קָטוּל, all with an unchangeable vowel (§ 25) between the second and third radicals, and a Sh•va under the first, as כְּתָב, book, כְּאֵב pain, שְׁבִיל way, חֲלוֹם dream, זְבוּל dwelling; sometimes with Aleph prosthetic, as אֱזוֹר=זְרוֹעַ arm, אֶפְרֹחַ brood. The corresponding feminines will readily suggest themselves; the forms קְטִילָה, קְטוּלָה coincide with those of feminines in No. 5.

14. מִקְטָל, the Aramæan form of the infinitive, e. g. מִשְׁפָּט judgment. Related forms are: מִזְמוֹר song, מִחְמָד desire, מַלְקוֹחַ booty, מַמְלָכָה kingdom, מַשְׂכֹּרֶת wages. Under this form, besides the action itself, is specially also expressed the place of the action, as מִזְבֵּחַ altar, מִדְבָּר (from דָּבַר to drive) place of driving, i. e. to which cattle are driven, wilderness; and the instrument, as מַאֲכֶלֶת knife, מַזְלֵג fork, מַפְתֵּחַ key.

15. קִטְלוֹן, קִטְלָן, and other similar forms, with the terminations וֹן and ָן, as פִּתְרוֹן interpretation, שֻׁלְחָן table, קָרְבָּן offering; but there are also forms like זִכָּרוֹן remembrance, חִזָּיוֹן prophetic vision.

For וֹן there is a truncated form ו, written also ה, which occurs especially in proper names, as מְנַדּוֹ and מְנַדֹּן, שִׁלְמָה for שִׁלְמוֹן (comp. Πλάτων, Plato). In patronymic and gentilic nouns (§ 86, 5), the Nun is restored, e. g. שִׁילֹנִי from שִׁילֹה the city Shilo (also still Shilun).

16. With the feminine-ending וּת, e. g. סִכְלוּת folly, רְפָאוּת healing. In the Aramæan, this is a usual termination of the Infinitive in the derived conjugations (comp. No. 28). Its frequent use appears only in the later books. As a synonymous ending we find at times ִית in earlier use, as שְׁאֵרִית remnant. Comp. the denominative nouns, § 86, 6.

III. Participials of derived Conjugations.

17. From Niph. נִקְטָל, as נִפְלָאוֹת (plur.) wonders.

18. 19. From Piël and Hiph., e. g. מְזַמֶּרֶת snuffers, מַזְמֵרָה pruning-knife.

20. From Poël, as עוֹלֵל and עוֹלָל child.

21. From Pilel קָטַל, fem. קְטַלָּה, and 22. קִטְלֵל, for the most part adjectives of colour, as אָדֹם, fem. אֲדֻמָּה red, רַאֲנָן green, שַׁאֲנָן quiet.*

23. קְטַלְטַל, קְטַלְטָל, forms of adjectives with a diminutive signification (§ 55, 3), as אַדַמְדָּם reddish, שְׁחַרְחֹר blackish; hence in a contemptuous sense (like miser, misellus, Germ. Gesinde, Gesindel), as אַסַפְסָף (with the passive form for אָסוּף) collected rabble.

IV. Infinitives of the derived Conjugations.

24. From Niph. the form נִפְתּוּלִים struggles.

25. From Piël, like נְפֻצִים dispersion, more frequently in the fem., as בַּקָּשָׁה request, with Qamets unchangeable in the second syllable.

26. קְטֹל, and 27. תַּקְטִיל, תַּקְטֹל, likewise Infinitives of Piël (the latter very common in Arabic), e. g. שְׁלֹם requital; חִבּוּק folding of the hands; תַּגְמוּל benefit; תַּכְרִיךְ mantle.

* No. 21 may be regarded also as a mere modification of No. 3.

28. From Hiph. of the form אַזְכָּרָה remembrance-offering, הַשְׁמָעוּת announcing (with firm Qamets), Aramæan Infinitives.

29. From Hithp. הִתְיַחֵשׂ register.

30. From Polel, like הוֹלֵלָה folly, and perhaps also 31. as קִימוֹר smoke. צִינֹק prison.

32. From Pilel סַנְוֵר rain, נַאֲפוּף adultery.

33. פְּקַחְקוֹחַ opening, Inf. to No. 23.

34. שַׁקְמֵל, e. g. שַׁלְהֶבֶת flame (comp. § 55, 6).

35. Quadriliterals, like סָלְעָם locust.

SECT. 85.

NOUNS DERIVED FROM THE IRREGULAR VERB.

These are formed fully after the analogy of those which we have already treated of. Accordingly we shall refer these forms to the corresponding ones already described, mentioning only such as exhibit a remarkable effect of the feebleness of the stem.

I. From Stems פֹּ.

Connected with the Inf. of Kal, 14. מַתָּן gift, מַגֵּפָה overthrow; Inf. of Hiph. 28. הַצָּלָה deliverance. The noun מַדָּע knowledge, from יָדַע; see § 71.

II. From Stems עֹ.

From the Part. Kal, 1. תָּם upright (like קָטֵל), commonly with Pathach (to indicate the sharpening of the syllable), דַּל abject, רַב much, fem. דַּלָּה, תַּמָּה;* 2. מַחַ fat. From the Inf. 10, 11. בַּז booty, חֵן favour, חֹק law, fem. מִלָּה word, חֻקָּה law; 14. מָעוֹז fastness, מֵסַב that which surrounds anything, fem. מְנוֹלָה roll. The form מֵסַב sometimes, by retraction of the tone, becomes a segholate form, as מָמָר bitterness, מֹרָךְ timidity (from רָכַךְ). 27. תְּהִלָּה praise, תְּפִלָּה prayer, with the segholate form also, as תֹּמֶס a melting away (from מָסַס), תֹּרֶן mast (from רָנַן to make a tremulous sound). From Pilpel (§ 55, 4), גִּלְגַּל wheel, from גָּלַל to roll, קִלְקַל contemned.

III. From Stems פֹּ and פֵּ.

The participial forms are regular. Forms originally Infinitives are: 10. דַּע, fem. דַּעַת, דֵּעָה knowledge, עֵצָה counsel. 13. סוֹר, for יְסוֹר divan. 14. מוֹרָא fear, מוֹקֵשׁ snare, מוֹלֶדֶת birth, מוּסָר punishment; from verbs prop. פֵּ, מֵיטָב the best. 27. תּוֹשָׁב inhabitant, תּוֹלֶדֶת generation, תֵּימָן the south.

IV. From Stems עֹ and עֵ.

Participles: 1. זָר foreign; 2. גֵּר stranger, עֵדָה a female witness, testimony; 3. טוֹב good, טוֹבָה what is good. Infinitives: 11. Different segholate forms, as מָוֶת death, and בַּיִת house; קוֹל voice, רוּחַ spirit; feminines, עַוְלָה and עוֹלָה evil, בּוּשֶׁת shame; 14. מָנוֹחַ, fem. מְנוּחָה rest, מָקוֹם place, also מְשׁוֹט oar (from שׁוּט); 27. תְּבוּנָה intelligence, תְּעוּדָה testimony; 28. הֲנָחָה rest.

---

* On the formation of feminines without the Daghesh, see § 94, Rem. 2.

V. From Stems לה.

Participles: 2. יָפֶה fair, קָשֶׁה hard, fem. יָפָה, קָשָׁה. Some lose the ־ֶה, as תָּו sign, for תָּוֶה. 4. רֹאֶה seer, fem. עוֹלָה burnt-offering. 5. כָּסוּי covering, נָקִי pure, עָנִי poor. Infinitives: 11. The segholates in different forms; not often with the ־ֶה retained, as in בֶּכֶה a weeping, רֵעֶה friend, חֹזֶה, רְאֵה vision, revelation (Is. xxviii. 7, 15), commonly without it, as רֵעַ (for רֵעֶה). Sometimes the original י or ו appears, which is then pronounced as a vowel, i or u (comp. on יְהִי, § 75, Rem. 3), as in פְּרִי fruit, חֳלִי sickness. The ו also quiesces, as in בֹּהוּ waste. In masculines, the third radical rarely remains a consonant, as in דַּוַי sickness, though in feminines it is always so, as in שַׁלְוָה rest, לְוָיָה garland. 13. סְתָו winter, שְׁתִי, fem. שְׁתִיָה a drinking; fem. מָנָת part, חֲצוֹת the half, שְׁחוֹת and שְׁחִית pit. 14. מִקְנָה possession, מַרְאֶה appearance; fem. מִצְוָה command. Apocopated form מַעַל height, for מַעֲלָה. 15. קִנְיָן wealth, כְּלָיוֹן destruction. 27. תַּכְלִית annihilation, תַּכְנִית structure, תַּרְבוּת brood. 28. אָשֶׁךְ testicle for אַשְׁכָּה, from שָׂכָה.

VI. From doubly anomalous Stems.

We present only some cases of especial difficulty to the beginner:

1. From a verb פֵּן and לֵא, שֵׁת elevation for שַׂאת, from נָשָׂא, Job xli. 17.
2. From a verb פֵּי and לה, תּוֹרָה instruction, law, מוֹפֵת sign, prob. from יָפָה.
3. From a verb עֵא and לה, שֵׁת tumult, Num. xxiv. 17, from שָׁאָה for שָׁאַת.
4. From a verb עֵו and לה, אִי island, from אָוָה to dwell for אָוַי; אוֹת sign for אָוָת, from אָוָה; וָ cord, from עָוָה; תָּא chamber for תָּו, from תָּוָה to dwell; גּוֹי people, from גָּוָה, Arab. to flow together; רִי irrigating for רָוִי, from רָוָה.

To the learner the stem is often obscured also by contraction, when it originally contains Nun, Daleth, or He; e. g. גַּת wine-press for גַּנְתּ, גַּנָּת (from גָּנַן); אַף anger for אַנְף; אֱמֶת faithfulness for אַמְנָת (from אָמַן), עֵת time for עֶרֶת (from עָרָה); זִו for זִהְיו (from זָהָה) brightness.

Sect. 86.

DENOMINATIVE NOUNS.

1. Such are all nouns which are formed immediately from another noun, whether the latter be primitive, or derived from a verb, e. g. קַדְמוֹן eastern, immediately from קֶדֶם the east, which is itself derived from the verb קָדַם.

2. Most of the forms which nouns of this class assume have already been given, —the denominatives (which seem in general to be a later phenomenon of language than verbals) being formed in imitation of nouns derived from the verb. The verbal with מ prefixed, e. g. was employed to express the place of an action (§ 84, No. 14); accordingly this מ was prefixed to a noun in order to make it a designation of place (see No. 3). Also in Greek and German (and so in English and Welsh), the verbals and denominatives are exactly analogous.

The principal forms are the following:—

1. In imitation of the Part. Kal (No. 4 of the Verbals), as שֹׁעֵר porter, from שַׁעַר gate; בּוֹקֵר herdsman, from בָּקָר cattle; כֹּרֵם vine dresser, from כֶּרֶם vineyard.

2. Like verbals of No. 6, קַשָּׁת archer, from קֶשֶׁת bow; מַלָּח seaman, from מֶלַח salt, sea. Both these forms (Nos. 1 and 2) indicate one's employment, trade, etc., like Greek nouns in της, τεύς, e. g. πολίτης, γραμματεύς.

3. Nouns with מ prefixed, expressing the place of a thing (comp. No. 14 of the Verbals), e. g. מַעְיָן place of fountains, from עַיִן fountain; מִרְגְּלוֹת, מְרַאֲשׁוֹת, place about the feet,—about the head, from רֶגֶל, רֹאשׁ; מִקְשֶׁה for מִקְשָׁאָה field of cucumbers, from קִשֶּׁא cucumber. Comp. ἀμπελών, from ἄμπελος.

4. Concretes formed by the addition of ון, ן־, as קַדְמוֹן eastern, from קֶדֶם; אַחֲרוֹן hinder, from אָחוֹר; לִוְיָתָן wound, hence coiled animal, serpent, from לִוְיָה a winding.

5. Peculiar to this class of nouns is the termination ־ִי, which converts a substantive into an adjective, and is added especially to numerals and names of persons and countries, in order to form ordinals, gentilics, and patronymics; e. g. נָכְרִי strange, from נֵכָר anything foreign; שִׁשִּׁי the sixth, from שֵׁשׁ six; מוֹאָבִי Moabite, from מוֹאָב; יִשְׂרְאֵלִי Israelite, from יִשְׂרָאֵל. When the substantive is a compound, it is commonly resolved again into two words, e. g. בֶּן־יְמִינִי Benjaminite, from בִּנְיָמִין (for the use of the article with such forms, see § 111, 1, Rem.). Rarely instead of ־ִי we have, a) the ending ־ַי (as in Aramæan), as כִּילַי deceitful, and in proper names, as בַּרְזַלַּי (ferreus) Barzillai; and, b) the corresponding ־ָה, as לִבְנָה (prop. milky) white poplar.

6. Abstract nouns formed from concretes by the addition of וּת and ־ִית (comp. the Eng. terminations dom, hood, ness, etc.); e. g. מַלְכוּת kingdom, immediately from מֶלֶךְ; אַלְמָנוּת widowhood, from אַלְמָן, אַלְמָנָה, widower, widow; רֵאשִׁית principium, from רֵאשׁ = רֹאשׁ princeps. (See the Verbals No. 16.)

SECT. 87.

THE PLURAL.

1. The plural termination for the masculine gender is ־ִים, e. g. סוּס horse, plur. סוּסִים horses, at times written defectively ־ִם, as in Gen. i. 21, תַּנִּינִם. Nouns ending in ־ִי take ־ִיִּם in the plural, as עִבְרִיִּם Hebrews, from עִבְרִי (Ex. iii. 18), but usually a contraction takes place, as עִבְרִים (§ 93, VIII.), שָׁנִים crimson garments from שָׁנִי. Nouns in ־ָה lose this termination when they take the plural-ending, e. g. חוֹזֶה seer, plur. חוֹזִים.

This ending im is also prevalent in Phœnician, e. g. צדנם Sidonians, in Aramæan it is in, in Arabic ûn (nominative) and în (oblique cases) in Æthiopic ân. Compare also the ending ון in 3*rd pers. pl. masc.* of verbs.*

Unusual terminations of the plur. masc. are:

a) ־ִין, as in Chaldee and Syriac, almost exclusively in the later and poetical books, e. g. מְלָכִין kings, Prov. xxxi. 3; יְמִין days, Dan. xii. 13; defectively אִיִּין islands, Eze. xxvi. 18. Comp. Judges v. 10; Job xv. 13; xxiv. 22; xxxi. 10; Lam. i. 4; and other places.

* On the connexion between all these endings, see Dietrich's Abhandlungen zur Heb. Grammatik, Leipzig, 1846, 8vo., p. 62.

b) יַ (with ם cast off, as in dual יָדַי for יָדַיִם, Eze. xiii. 18; comp. the constr. st. § 89, 2), e. g. מְנֵי chords, Ps. xlv. 9, for מְנִים (if it is not to be written so); עַמֵּי peoples, 2 Sam. xxii. 44 (yet in the parallel passage, Ps. xviii. 44, we have עָם, but the other form in Lam. iii. 14, and Ps. cxliv. 2). This ending is, however, doubted by some in these single passages (see also 2 Sam. xxiii. 8; comp. 1 Chron. xi. 11; 1 Sam. xx. 38 K'thibh) or in general, see Gesenius's Lehrgebäude der Heb. Sprache, S. 524 ff. More doubtful still is—

c) יַ (like the constr. state in Syriac). Here are reckoned, e. g. חוֹרַי white cloths, Is. xix. 9; שָׂרַי for שָׂרִים princes, Judges v. 15; חַלּוֹנַי windows, Jer. xxii. 14. Yet this last is perhaps dual (§ 88, Rem. 1) two windows, שָׂרַי may be my princes (with suff.), and יַ in חוֹרַי may be a formative syllable. Further חֲשׂוֹפַי, in Is. xx. 4, is constr. st., but the יַ belongs to the stem in נוֹבַי locust-swarm, Nah. iii. 17 (from נָבָה): and in שַׁדַּי (= שָׁדַי after the form קַטָּל) the Almighty; finally, in אֲדֹנַי the Lord (prop. my lord, from אֲדֹנִים lord) it is originally a suffix; see § 121, Rem. 4.

d) ָם, obsolete and rare, e. g. כְּנָם = כִּנִּים flies, סֻלָּם ladder (from סָלַל) (prop. steps), comp. our stairs.*

2. The plural termination for the feminine gender is וֹת. This takes the place of the feminine termination תַ, תָ, הָ, when the noun in the singular ends with one of these; otherwise (§ 80, 2) it is merely appended to the form of the singular, as תְּהִלָּה song of praise, plur. תְּהִלּוֹת; אִגֶּרֶת letter, plur. אִגְּרוֹת; בְּאֵר a well, plur. בְּאֵרוֹת. Feminines in ִית form their plural in ִיוֹת, and those in וֹת, in ֵיוֹת, e. g. מִצְרִית an Egyptian woman, plur. מִצְרִיּוֹת; מַלְכוּת kingdom, plur. מַלְכֻיּוֹת. These plural terminations have, however, for their basis, the endings ֶיָה and ָיָה in the singular with double Yodh.

It is only from a disregard of the origin of the terminations וֹת and ִית that some words ending with the same, form their plural by the addition of ִים, e. g. חֲנִית spear, plur. חֲנִיתִים and חֲנִיתוֹת; זְנוּת whoredom, plur. זְנוּתִים; אַלְמְנוּתַיִם widowhood, and many other instances. Strictly in the manner of the Syriac is the formation of the plural עֵדוֹת (ēdh'-vóth) laws, with Vav as a consonant, from the singular עֵדוּת.

This ending וֹת (-óth) stands for -âth (as it sounds in Arab., Æth., and Chaldee, see on the change of â to ó, in § 9, 10, 2), and -âth is properly only a longer and stronger form of the singular-ending ăth (§ 80, 2). The strengthening is intended to denote the plural. But this ending is then by a further application appended also to such nouns as have not -ăth in the singular.

For the changes of vowels occasioned by the addition of the plural endings, see §§ 92—95.

3. Words which are of two genders (§ 80, 2, b, and § 107, 3) have often, in the plural, both the masculine and feminine terminations, e. g. נֶפֶשׁ soul, plur. נְפָשִׁים and נְפָשׁוֹת: both forms may be employed as masculine and feminine, but their gender must be determined by observing the usage of the language in respect to each word. This is also true of several other words of both genders and both (masc. and fem.) terminations, e. g. דּוֹר an age, masc., plur. דּוֹרִים and דּוֹרוֹת; שָׁנָה a year, fem., plur. שָׁנִים and שָׁנוֹת. The gender of the singular is here retained in both the plural forms, e. g. אַרְיֵה masc., a lion, אֲרָיוֹת masc., Zeph. iii. 3, דּוֹרוֹת masc., Job xlii. 16.

Sometimes usage makes a distinction between the two plural forms of the same word. Thus, יָמִים days, and שָׁנִים years, are the usual, but יָמוֹת, שָׁנוֹת the unfrequent and poetical forms. This distinction appears especially in the use of several words which designate members of the human body. The dual of these words (see § 88) is employed as the name of the living members themselves, while the plural in וֹת (which is here regarded as neuter) represents something similar, but inanimate; e. g. כַּפַּיִם hands, כַּפּוֹת handles, manubria; קְרָנַיִם horns, קְרָנוֹת cornua altaris; עֵינַיִם eyes, עֵינוֹת fountains.

4. A considerable number of masculines form their plural in וֹת, while many feminines have a plural in ־ִים. The gender of the singular, however, remains the same in such case; e. g. אָב father, plur. אָבוֹת; שֵׁם name, masc., plur. שֵׁמוֹת; on the contrary, מִלָּה word, fem., plur. מִלִּים; פִּלֶגֶשׁ concubine, fem., plur. פִּלַגְשִׁים, etc.

5. It is chiefly only in adjectives and participles that we find the plural-endings regularly and constantly distinguished according to the gender, e. g. טוֹבִים boni, טובות bonæ; קְטָלִים masc., קְטָלוֹת fem. So also in substantives of the same stem, when the difference depends on sex, as בָּנִים filii, בָּנוֹת filiæ; מְלָכִים reges; מְלָכוֹת reginæ.

Rem. 1. In some few words, there is added to the plural form in וֹת the other termination of the plural ־ִים (before the genitive ־ֵי, comp. § 89, 2), or that of the dual ־ַיִם; e. g. בָּמָה height, plur. בָּמוֹת, construct state בָּמוֹתֵי; מֵרַאשׁוֹתֵי שָׁאוּל from the head of Saul, 1 Sam. xxvi. 12; חוֹמָה wall, plur. חומות (mœnia), חומוֹתַיִם double wall. This double designation of the plural appears also in the manner of connecting suffixes with the plural forms in וֹת (§ 91, 3).

2. Some nouns are used only in the plural, e. g. מְתִים men (in the Æthiopic, sing. mĕt, man); and some of these have a singular sense (§ 108, 2), as פָּנִים face. Also when the actual plural of the latter is required, there is but the same way of expressing it; hence, פָּנִים means also faces in Eze. i. 6.

SECT. 88.

THE DUAL.

1. As a modification of the plural, we have the dual, which however is used only in substantives (not in adjectives, verbs, and pronouns). It is indicated in both genders by the ending ־ַיִם, appended to the singular, as יָדַיִם both hands, יוֹמַיִם two days; but the feminine termination ־ָה always becomes in this case ־ֹת, as שְׂפָה lip, שְׂפָתַיִם both lips, and the ת of the termination ־ַת remains, as נַחֲשֶׁת, dual נְחָשְׁתַּיִם double fetters.

The vowel-shortening in the noun upon the addition of the dual-ending is rather greater than in the plural, particularly in the segholate forms (§ 84, 1-1), as רֶגֶל foot, plur. רַגְלַיִם, dual רִגְלַיִם; yet קַרְנַיִם is used as well as קְרָנַיִם from קֶרֶן horn. לְחָיַיִם from לֶחִי cheek.

Rem. 1. Unusual forms of the dual, mostly occurring only in proper names, are: a) יַ֫ and contr. י֫, as דֹּתָיִן Gen. xxxvii. 17, and דֹּתָן 2 Kings vi. 13 (pr. name signifying two wells); b) ם֫ and ים֫, as עַיָם, עָנָם (pr. names); שְׁנֵים two in the combination עָשָׂר שְׁנֵים twelve; c) י֫ (with ם cast off), יָדַי Eze. xiii. 18, perhaps also חַלּוֹנַי (double window) Jer. xxii. 14 (but see § 87, 1, e.).

2. Only seemingly dual are the words מַיִם water, שָׁמַיִם heaven, יְרוּשָׁלַיִם or יְרוּשָׁלַם Jerusalem. The former two are plurals from the lost singulars מַי, שָׁמִי; the latter is a lengthened form for the older יְרוּשָׁלַם,* comp. the shorter form שָׁלֵם Ps. lxxvi. 3, and the Chaldee יְרוּשְׁלֶם.

2. The use of the dual in Hebrew is confined, except in the numerals 2, 12, 200, etc. (§ 97), chiefly to such objects as are by nature or art in pairs, as יָדַיִם both hands, אָזְנַיִם both ears, שִׁנַּיִם teeth (used of the two rows), נַעֲלַיִם pair of shoes, מֹאזְנַיִם pair of scales (Lat. bilances), or at least are thought of as forming a pair, as יוֹמַיִם two (successive) days, biduum, שְׁנָתַיִם two years (in succession), biennium, אַמָּתַיִם two cubits. In the former case the dual is used also for an indefinite plural, or a plural defined by a number, as שֵׁשׁ כְּנָפַיִם six wings, Is. vi. 2; Eze. i. 6; כָּל־בִּרְכַּיִם all knees, Eze. vii. 17; מְצִלְתַּיִם cymbals, Ezr. iii. 10; שְׁפָתַיִם two hooks, Eze. xl. 43. For additional stress the dual takes also the numeral two, Amos iii. 12; Judges xvi. 28.

For more remarks on the use of the dual, see in § 87, Nos. 3, 5 (Rem.).

It cannot be doubted that the Hebrew, at an earlier period, made a more extensive and free use of the dual, and that the restrictions above specified belong to a later phase of its development. The ancient Arabic forms the dual in the noun, pronoun, and verb almost co-extensively with the Sanskrit or the Greek; but the modern Arabic omits it almost entirely in verbs, pronouns, and adjectives. The Syriac has it only in a couple of words, but yet without living force, somewhat like the Roman forms ambo, duo. In like manner, the dual is lost in the newer East-Indian tongues. On the German dual, see Grimm's Gramm. I. S. 814, 2 Ausg.

SECT. 89.

THE GENITIVE AND THE CONSTRUCT STATE.

1. The Hebrew has no longer the living use of case-endings,† but indicates the relations of case, either by no outward means, as that of the nominative and generally also of the accusative, or by prepositions (§ 117); but the genitive relation is indicated by a close connexion between two nouns. The noun, which serves as genitive to limit the other, remains unchanged, and is only uttered in more close connexion with the preceding nomen regens. In consequence of this connexion, the tone hastens on to the second (the genitive) of the two nouns,* and the first is therefore commonly shortened, by changes partly in the consonants, but chiefly in the vowels (when changeable), e. g. דָּבָר word, דְּבַר אֱלֹהִים word of God, literally word-God (where we reverse the order, as God's-word, like fruit-tree); יָד hand; יַד הַמֶּלֶךְ hand of the king; דְּבָרִים words, דִּבְרֵי הָעָם words of the people. Thus in Hebrew,† the noun which stands before a genitive suffers the change (when there is any) by which this relation is indicated, and in grammatical language it is said to be in the construct state, while a noun which is not thus followed by a genitive is said to be in the absolute state.

---

* See Gesenii Thesaurus Ling. Hebrææ, p. 629.

† On some traces of obsolete case-endings, see § 90.

Such words are often connected by Maqqeph (§ 16, 1). The insertion or omission of it, however, does not affect their relation to each other, and depends merely upon the accentuation. On the further use of the construct state, see the Syntax, §§ 114, 116.

2. The vowel-changes which many nouns exhibit in the construct state are taught in the Paradigms, §§ 92—95. This form of the noun has, moreover, peculiar terminations better fitted for union with the following noun. Thus:

a) In place of the plural and dual terminations ־ִים and ־ַיִם, it has, by throwing off the m, simply ־ֵי (comp. Rem.); e. g. סוּסִים horses, סוּסֵי פַרְעֹה horses of Pharaoh; עֵינַיִם eyes, עֵינֵי הָאִישׁ eyes of the man.

b) The feminine-ending ־ַת is used, and it always takes the place of the usual termination ־ָה, as מַלְכָּה queen, מַלְכַּת שְׁבָא queen of Sheba. When the same word has also the termination ־ֹת, this form of it is adopted in the constr. st. (§ 80, 1, Rem. 1; § 95. 1).

c) Nouns in ־ָה from verbs לה (§ 85, V.) form their constr. st. in ־ֵה;‡ but nouns in ־ֵי change this termination to ־ֵי. Exs. רֹאֶה, constr. רֹאֵה seer; חַי, constr. חֵי life, and so also גַּיְא, constr. גֵּיא valley.

On the ending ו and ־ֵי in the constr. st., see § 90.

Rem. Probably the ם at the end of a word was pronounced obscurely, like the Latin -m before a vowel, and hence might be wholly lost in pronunciation, just as the m, in the case alluded to, was slurred over in the language of common life and in poetry. (Quinct. Inst. Orat. IX. 4, § 40.) So also the corresponding n of the plural-ending in Arabic and Aramæan is slurred over, and that

* In accordance with the universal tendency of the tone, in the Hebrew language, to hasten towards the end of words (§ 29, 1).

† What is here said of the Heb. mode of expressing the relation of the genitive, is applicable in almost every particular also to the Celtic. In Welsh, for instance, they express word of God by gair Duw, i. e. word-God, without any change in either noun. The close connexion in utterance is all that indicates the genitive case.—Tr.

‡ This ־ֵה stands in the same relation to the broader vowel sound ־ָה, as that in the Imp. גְּלֵה does to ־ָה of the Fut. יִגְלֶה, see § 75, Rem. 1.

of the plural-ending יִם in the verb (§ 44, 1, and § 47, Rem. 4). After the rejection of the m, the final vowel i of the plural-ending was strengthened by a foregoing a (Guna, in Sanskrit grammar), so that ai arose, which was then contracted to é (§ 7, 1, and § 9, 6). Instead of ַ֫י, the Syriac still has ַ֫ē: in Hebrew, too, this form may be clearly traced in the suffixes to the plural noun (§ 91, 2). Of this the Old Testament, perhaps, furnishes an example in the form חֲשׂוּפֵי שֵׁת Is. xx. 4 (according to some, also Judges v. 15). It is obvious that the ַ֫י of the dual has come from ַ֫ē.

SECT. 90.

TRACES OF ANCIENT CASE-ENDINGS (PARAGOGIC LETTERS).

ָה local, ַ֫י and ו appended to the construct state.

1. As the Arabic distinguishes three cases by terminations, so we find also in the Hebrew noun three endings, which correspond in sound to those of the Arabic, but have mostly lost their signification. These endings remain only as obscure traces of a fuller and more vital organic development than the language exhibits in the Old Testament, where it no longer ordinarily distinguishes the cases by terminations.

The Arabic case-endings are: -u for the nominative, -i for the genitive, and -a for the accusative (corresponding to the three principal vowels). In modern Arabic, these endings have almost entirely disappeared; and when they are now and then used, as by the Beduins, it is done without regularity, so that one is used for the other (Wallin, in Zeitschr. d. morgenl. Gesellsch. Vol. V., 1851, p. 9). Already, in the inscriptions upon Sinai, the regular use is not adhered to (Beer, Studia Asiatica, III., 1840, p. xviii; Tuch, in Zeitschr. d. morgenl. Ges. Vol. III., p. 139); and even at present may be heard among the Arabs of the peninsula of Sinai, e. g. ámmuk (thine uncle, nom.) used also for ámmik (gen.) and ámmak (acc.). The Æthiopic, likewise, has preserved only the a-, which is, however, still used for the whole range of the accusative, and, moreover (the distinction of case being dropped), as a termination of the constr. st. for connecting it with a following genitive.

2. The accusative relation is still very obvious in the toneless-ending ָה, which is appended to the substantive—

a) Most generally to denote direction towards an object or motion to a place,* (answering to our -ward), e. g. יָמָּה towards the sea, westward, צָפוֹנָה towards the north, northward, אַשּׁוּרָה to Assyria, בָּבֶלָה to Babylon, אַרְצָה to the earth, בַּיְתָה into the house; עַזָּתָה to Gaza (from עַזָּה) Jud. xvi. 1; with the article, הָהָרָה to the mountain, הַבַּיְתָה into the house; הָאֹהֱלָה into the tent; after the plural, כַּשְׂדִּימָה to the Chaldeans, הַשָּׁמַיְמָה towards the heavens; even after the constr. state with a following genitive, בַּיְתָה יוֹסֵף into Joseph's house, מִדְבְּרָה דַּמָּשֶׂק towards the wilderness of Damascus, מִזְרְחָה שֶׁמֶשׁ (here with the tone, contrary to rule) towards the rising of the sun, eastward.

* See on this force of the accusative, § 118, 1.

b) Sometimes in a weaker sense, as merely pointing to the place where,* as בָּבֶלָה in Babylon Jer. xxix. 15, זְבֻלָה in the dwelling Hab. iii. 11, also שָׁמָּה there Jer. xviii. 2 (usually thither).

c) The proper sense of the ending ־ָה is still more suppressed when a preposition is prefixed to the word, as לִשְׁאֹלָה to hades Ps. ix. 18, לְמַעְלָה upwards, בַּנֶּגְבָּה in the south Jos. xv. 21, מִבָּבֶלָה from Babylon Jer. xxvii. 16, עַד אֲפֵקָה unto Aphek Jos. xiii. 4.

This termination ־ָה has usually reference to place (hence called He local); yet it also, in rare cases, refers to time; so, perhaps, עַתָּה (with the tone on the last syllable) now, at this time (from עֵת), מִיָּמִים יָמִימָה from year to year. Its use is peculiar in חָלִילָה, prop. ad profanum! = absit! As accusative of the object (but bordering on the local sense) we may regard אַרְצָה זְבֻלוּן and אַרְצָה נַפְתָּלִי Is. viii. 23; comp. Job xxxiv. 13.

As this ending is properly unaccented, the vowels of the word, as the above examples show, undergo scarcely any change, except that the helping vowel of segholate forms becomes Sh•va (§ 93, 6), and also the Chireq in שָׁמַיִם. Moreover, the ־ָה itself is in some cases shortened to ־ָה, as נֹבָה to Nob, 1 Sam. xxi. 2; comp. Eze. xxv. 13.

3. Much less frequent, and almost exclusively poetical, is the use of the two other endings, which along with the accusative in ־ָה are presumed to correspond to the Arabic terminations of case, ־ִי for the genitive, ו (also וּ in proper names) for the nominative. Yet the reference to case in these forms is quite lost, and they are to be regarded only as archaisms, which occur in poetry or in stately speech, and are besides found in many compound names handed down from early times. As in these names, so also elsewhere, these terminations stand only with a noun closely connected with another, viz., in the constr. state.†

a) The ending ־ִי is not very unfrequent, and it usually has the tone, e. g. עֹזְבִי הַצֹּאן forsaking the flock Zech. xi. 17, שֹׁכְנִי סְנֶה dweller of the bush Deut. xxxiii. 16; appended to the feminine, גְּנֻבְתִי לַיְלָה stolen at night Gen. xxxi. 39 (in prose), מְלֵאתִי מִשְׁפָּט full of justice Is. i. 21, עַל דִּבְרָתִי מַלְכִּי־צֶדֶק after the manner of Melchizedek, Ps. cx. 4; very often when a preposition follows (comp. § 116, 1), as רַבָּתִי בַגּוֹיִם mistress among the nations Lam. i. 1, אֹסְרִי

* So likewise at times the accusative, § 118, 1.

† In ancient combinations of words, endings are often retained which have disappeared elsewhere, or are but seldom employed; e. g. the feminine-ending ־ַת with the noun in the genitive connexion (§ 89, 2, b) and with the verb in connexion with suffixes (§ 59, 1). In like manner, many peculiarities of the language are retained in proper names, and also by the poets.

לַגֶּפֶן binding to the vine Gen. xlix. 11; comp. Is. xxii. 16; Micah vii. 14; Ps. cxiii. 5—9, and other passages: in like manner it is found with many particles which are strictly nouns in the constr. st., as זוּלָתִי (=זוּלַת) besides, מִנִּי (=מִן) from, בִּלְתִּי not, and in compound names, as מַלְכִּי־צֶדֶק (i. e. king of righteousness), גַּבְרִיאֵל (man of God), חַנִּיאֵל (grace of God), and many others; comp. the Punic name Hannibal, i. e. חַנִּיבַעַל (favour of Baal).

b) The ending ו is of much rarer occurrence, in prose only in the Pentateuch, and that in solemn style, Gen. i. 24, חַיְתוֹ אֶרֶץ the beasts of the earth for חַיַּת אֶרֶץ; the same is copied in Ps. l. 10; lxxix. 2; civ. 11, 20; Zeph. ii. 14; Is. lvi. 9; other cases are בְּנוֹ בְעֹר son of Beor Num. xxiv. 3, 15, and מַעְיָנוֹ מָיִם fountain of water Ps. cxiv. 8, perhaps also נַפְשׁוֹ עָצֵל soul of the sluggard Prov. xiii. 4.

The effect these endings have on the vowels may be seen from the examples given. The Pathach of the feminine ending ־ַה becomes sometimes vocal Sh°va, sometimes Qamets.

Rem. As these two terminations ־ַי and ו have wholly lost their significance, they can no longer pass for proper case-endings; yet it is probable that once they as well as ־ָה (No. 2) were so used in the living language; for we find that the ancient Arabic had exactly corresponding endings, and like the Hebrew (see above) lost them at a later period. This is the case also in other tongues. In Latin, for instance, we find a trace of the local case with the same ending as in Sanskrit (in names of towns, ruri, domi, etc.); in modern Persian the plural-endings án and há are ancient terminations of case, which are no longer so used,—not to mention the Germanic languages and the lingua Romana. Even in cases where the ancient Arabic attached, with stronger sound, case-endings to the stem, as in אֲבוּ, אֲבִי, אֲבָא (constr. st. of אָב father), the modern uses all three forms without distinction of case. Hence also probably in the Hebrew constr. state אֲבִי, אֲחִי, we have properly a genitive-ending, and in Chald. אֲבוּ, in Heb. מְחוּשָׁלַח (מְתוּשָׁלַח), שְׁמוּאֵל (שְׁמוֹאֵל), פְּנוּאֵל (פְּנוֹאֵל), a nominative-ending, so that פְּנִיאֵל could more readily occur along with פְּנוּאֵל, and אֲחוּמַי with אֲחִימָן.

SECT. 91.

THE NOUN WITH PRONOMINAL SUFFIXES.

In connecting the noun with pronominal suffixes, which in this case denote the genitive of the pronoun (§ 33, 2, b), we have, as in the verb (§ 57, etc.), two things to notice, viz., the form of the suffixes themselves and the change in the noun that receives them. Here we take up chiefly the first, as the second will be treated of under the inflexion of nouns in § 92. A general view of the suffixes is given also in Paradigm A. We exhibit the suffixes, first, as appended to the singular, and then as appended to the plural and dual of the noun.

1. The suffixes appended to the singular are the following:—

	Singular.		Plural.
1. com.	־ִי	my.	1. com. ־ֵנוּ, נוּ	our.
2. m.	ךָ, ךָ־, in pause ־ְךָ	thy.	2. m. ־כֶם, כֶם	your.
2. f.	ךְ, ךְ־	thy.	2. f. ־כֶן, כֶן	your.
3. m.	הוּ, וֹ; ־ֵהוּ, ו, ה	his.	3. m. הֶם, ־ָם, poet. ־ֵמוֹ	their.
3. f.	הָ, ה־, ־ָהּ	her.	3. f. הֶן, הֵן, ־ָן	their.

Rem. 1. There is less variety of forms here than when they are attached to the verb, and their use is as follows:—

a) The forms without a union-vowel are joined to nouns which end with a vowel, as אָבִיךָ, אָבִיהוּ and אָבִיו, אָבִינוּ אָבִיהָ, אֲבִיכֶם, אֲבִיכֶן, אֲבִיהֶם אֲבִיהֶן, אָבִיהֶן. Yet it must be distinctly understood, that nouns ending in ־ָה (see below, in No. 4) and ־ָה (see letter b) do not come under this rule.

b) The forms with a union-vowel (§ 58, 3, b) are joined to nouns ending with a consonant, which include the great mass. The union-vowel is usually a in the 3rd sing. וֹ, ה (contracted from ־ָהוּ), fem. ־ָהּ, and 3rd plur. ־ָם, ־ֵמוֹ, ־ָן and in these cases e is rarely used (e. g. אוֹרֵהוּ his light Job xxv. 3,) and almost exclusively with nouns in ־ָה, where the termination either blends with the union-vowel, or is displaced by it, as שָׂדֵהוּ his field, שָׂדֵהּ her field, מַרְאֵהָ her look; but ־ֶךָ, ־ֵנוּ, are the customary forms, while ־ָךְ, ־ֵנוּ are of rare occurrence; see Rem. 2.

2. Rare forms are—

Sing. 2nd pers. m. ־ֵכָה in כַּפֵּכָה thy hand, Ps. cxxxix. 5; fem. ־ַיִךְ Eze. v. 12, ־ֵבִי Ps. ciii. 4, once ־ַבַּה Nah. ii. 14 (several MSS. ־ַכָּה, prob. ־ָה=־ַ).—3rd pers. ה, e. g. in the frequent אֱהָלָה Gen. ix. 21; xii. 8; xiii. 3; xxxv. 21; קְצֵהּ 2 Kings xix. 23, for which we find קְצֵוֹ in Is. xxxvii. 24, סוּהּ Gen. xlix. 11 (K•ri סוּתוֹ).

Plur. 1st pers. ־ֵנוּ, as קִיְּמָנוּ Job xxii. 20, and so in Ruth iii. 2, Is. xlvii. 10.—2nd pers. כָּנָּה Eze. xxiii. 48, 49.—3rd pers. m. הֵם־ 2 Sam. xxiii. 6 for ־ָם (from which by contraction the usual form ־ָם). Fem. ־ֵהֶנָּה 1 Kings vii. 37, ־ֵנָּה Gen. xli. 21, ־ֶנָּה Ruth i. 19, else mostly in pause; also ־ֵן is unfrequent (Is. iii. 17), usually ־ָן.

2. In appending the suffixes to the plural masc. in ־ִים and the dual in ־ַיִם, these endings are changed for the construct-ending (§ 89, 2) in ־ֵי, which becomes blended with the suffixes; and hence we have these

Suffixes of Plural (and Dual) Nouns:

	Singular.		Plural.
1. com.	־ִי	my.	1. com. ־ֵינוּ	our.
2. m.	־ֶיךָ	thy.	2. m. ־כֶם	your.
2. f.	־ַיִךְ	thy.	2. f. ־כֶן	your.
3. m.	־ָיו, poet. ־ֵיהוּ	his.	3. m. ־הֶם, poet. ־ֵימוֹ	their.
3. f.	־ֶיהָ	her.	3. f. ־הֶן	their.

In most of these forms the ending of the plural construct, ־ֵי, remains unchanged, as סוּסֶיהוּ, סוּסֵינוּ, סוּסֵיכֶם; in some it takes Seghol in place of Tsere, as סוּסָיוֹ, סוּסָיוֹהָ; in three forms, with very short suffixes, it takes Pathach (the original ending ־ָי, § 89, Rem.), as סוּסָיו from סוּסַיִו, סוּסַיִךְ from סוּסַיוֹךְ (comp. § 28, 4), סוּסַי sūsaï from sūsaï-i.

Rem. 1. The Yodh, which distinguishes these suffixes, is occasionally omitted in most of the persons; e. g. דְּרָכְךָ for דְּרָכֶיךָ thy ways Ex. xxxiii. 13, רֵעֵהוּ for רֵעֶיהוּ his friends Job xlii. 10. לְמִינֵהֶם after their kinds Gen. i. 21. This happens most commonly with the suff. 3rd pers. m. sing., where we very often find ־ָיו, which is, however, almost invariably changed in the K•ri to ־ָיו; e. g. חִצָּו his arrows Ps. lviii. 8, K•ri חִצָּיו.

2. Unusual forms are: sing. 2nd pers. fem. ־ָיִךְ Eccles. x. 17, ־ָיְכִי Ps. ciii. 3—5; 3rd pers. masc. ־ָיְהִי (quite a Chaldee form) Ps. cxvi. 12; 3rd fem. ־ָיְהָא Eze. xli. 15.—Plur. fem. ־ָיכָנָה Eze. xiii. 20, 2nd pers. masc. ־ָיכֶמָה Eze. xl. 16, fem. ־ָיכֶנָה Eze. i. 11.

3. On ־ָיְמוֹ, see further in § 103, 2, in the Note.

3. It is clear and beyond doubt that the Yodh in these suffixes, in reality, belongs to the ending of the constr. st. of the masculine plural. Yet this was so far lost sight of by those who spoke the language, that there arose the strange peculiarity (in a sense, inaccuracy) of appending these suffix-forms (already embracing the plural-ending ־ָי) to the feminine plural in וֹת, as סוּסוֹתֵינוּ, סוּסוֹתֶיךָ, סוּסוֹתָיו, where in reality a double indication of the plural occurs.*

N.B. This is the rule; yet the bare suffix (as in No. 1) is sometimes appended to the ending וֹת, as עֶרוֹתַי Ps. cxxxii. 12, מַכּוֹתְךָ Deut. xxviii. 59. This is even the more prevalent mode in the 3rd plur.; e. g. אֲבוֹתָם their fathers, oftener than אֲבוֹתֵיהֶם; so also שְׁמוֹתָם their names, דּוֹרוֹתָם their generations.

4. We now subjoin, in illustration of the preceding statements, a Paradigm of the masculine and feminine; and choose for the purpose a word whose stem-vowel is unchangeable. Instead of the feminine-ending ־ָה in the singular, the construct-ending ־ַת is employed, which retains its Pathach before כֶם, כֶן, but changes it to Qamets before the others, because it then comes to stand in an open syllable (§ 89, 2, b).

SECT. 92.

VOWEL CHANGES IN THE NOUN.

1. The vowel changes of nouns (to which is commonly given the name declension), are caused, a) by a noun following in the genitive, b) by pronominal suffixes, c) by the plural and dual terminations; to which is added, again, the effect of a genitive following, or suffix.

2. The tone, in all these cases, is moved forward more or less, or even thrown upon the following word. We here distinguish three cases, viz.—

a) When the tone is moved forward only one place. This effect is produced by most of the suffixes for singular nouns (ִי ; ךָ, ֶךָ ; וֹ, ֹהוּ ; הָ, ֶהָ ; ֵנוּ ; ם, ֹמוֹ), and by the plural and dual terminations, as דָּבָר word, דְּבָרִי my word, plur. דְּבָרִים; כָּנָף, dual כְּנָפַיִם wings; אוֹיֵב enemy, אוֹיְבִי, plur. אוֹיְבִים. The same applies to the light suffixes for plural nouns,* as ַי ; ֶיךָ, ָיךָ ; ָיו, ֶיהָ, ָיהָ ; ֵינוּ, ֵיכֶם, e. g. דְּבָרֵינוּ, דְּבָרַי.

b) When the tone is moved forward two places, as in the plural construct, and when the grave suffixes are appended to the plural (ֵיהֶם, ֵיכֶם). In this case both vowels, if mutable, are shortened to the utmost, e. g. דִּבְרֵי הָעָם words of the people; דִּבְרֵיכֶם your words; דִּבְרֵיהֶם their words.

In Segholates, as they have the tone on the penultima, there is here a difference. The suffix has not so great effect as the (heavier) plural-ending ִים, וֹת: the former leaves the chief vowel still under the first letter, as מַלְכֵי; but in the latter vocal Sh°va is substituted for it, but a Qamets is put under the second consonant, as מְלָכִים. Comp. § 93, 6.

c) When the suffix is preceded by a semi-syllable with vocal Sh°va, which is the case with ךָ, כֶם, כֶן, also הֶם, הֶן, הֵן (for which we have more commonly ם, ן). Of these the first is a light suffix, and regularly affects the vowels in just the same manner as ִי, וֹ, e. g. דְּמֵךְ, דְּבֶרְךָ, זְקָנֶךָ. The others are grave suffixes, and have more effect in shortening the vowels, as דִּבַּרְכֶם, Eze. xiii. 17, etc., as is shown in the Paradigms. A similar effect is seen in the construct state of the singular number, as דְּבַר אֱלֹהִים; חֲצַר הַבַּיִת (from חָצֵר).

3. The vowel changes in fem. nouns (§ 95) are not so considerable, the addition of the feminine-ending having already occasioned a shortening of the vowels (§ 94.)

Most of the vowel changes, which form this internal inflexion of the noun, are based on the principles laid down in §§ 23—29. There are others, however, which are occasioned by the peculiar structure of certain forms of nouns exhibited in §§ 84, 85, 86. They are nearly all confined to the last two syllables of the word, the third syllable from the end seldom having a mutable vowel (§ 27 at commencement).

There is a striking difference between the vowel changes in the verb and the noun. In the verb the second of two changeable vowels mostly disappears (קָטַל, קָטְלָה, קָטְלוּ), in the noun the first (דָּבָר, דְּבָרִי, דְּבָרִים), comp. § 27, 3.

Changes of consonants are very few, and occur only in Paradigm IX.

SECT. 93.

PARADIGMS OF MASCULINE NOUNS.

Masculine nouns may be most conveniently arranged, with reference to their vowel changes, in nine classes, as in the Tables on the two following pages. See the necessary explanations in the pages which immediately follow these Tables We here only remark in general,—

* About light and grave suffixes, see Note on the two following pages.

a) That all feminines without a distinctive termination (§ 107, 1, 3) are inflected like masculine nouns, except that in most cases they take the plural ending וֹת; e. g. חֶרֶב sword. Plur. absol. חֲרָבוֹת, construct state חַרְבוֹת, which is also the form before all the suffixes; see § 95.

b) That, in the plural, light suffixes are without exception attached to the absolute, and grave suffixes to the construct state, as may be seen from the Paradigm.

Explanations.

1. To Paradigm I. belong all nouns whose vowels are immutable. Of course there are no vowel changes in this Paradigm, and it is inserted only for comparison with the others.

pers. plural, whether joined to the singular, as כֶּם, כֶן, הֶם, הֶן, but not ־כֶם, ־מוֹ, or to the plural, as ־יכֶם, ־יכֶן, ־יהֶם, ־יהֶן, but not ־יהוֹ. The other suffixes are called light.

Exs. קוֹל, לְבוּשׁ, זְרוֹעַ, (§ 25, 1); קָם for קָאם, עִיר for עִיִר, (§ 25, 2); נְבוֹר, צַדִּיק, חַנּוּן, מַשְׁחִית, (§ 25, 3); פָּרָשׁ for פָּרְאשׁ (§ 25, 4). Here belong the classes of verbal nouns given in § 84, Nos. 6, 7, 8, 13, 26, 27.

2. To Parad. II. belong nouns which have a changeable Qamets in their final syllable, and are either monosyllabic or have the preceding vowels immutable; c. g. יָד hand, כּוֹכָב star, מִדְבָּר wilderness.

With the suffix כֶם we have the regular shortening, as in עוֹלְמְכֶם, but יָד becomes יֶדְכֶם (for יַדְכֶם), and דָּם becomes דִּמְכֶם; see § 27, Rem. 2, 3.

There are some nouns which resemble, in form, the above examples, but which have an unchangeable Qamets in their final syllable; and hence they do not belong to this class, e. g. forms like קָטֹל, קָטָל, (§ 84, Nos. 6, 13), קָם as Part. of verbs עו, etc. Derivatives from verbs לא also commonly retain their Qamets, e. g. מִקְרָא, plur. constr. מִקְרָאֵי.

3. Parad. III. embraces those nouns which have an immutable vowel in the final syllable, and a mutable Qamets or Tsere in the penultima as a pretonic vowel (§ 26, 3). Exs. גָּדוֹל great, אָדוֹן lord, עָצוּם strong, אֱמוּן (plur. אֱמוּנִים) faithfulness, רָעָבוֹן hunger, זִכָּרוֹן remembrance. The last two take in the constr. st. the forms רַעֲבוֹן and זִכְרוֹן.

Here also are to be distinguished nouns which resemble the above forms, but which have an immutable Qamets before the tone-syllable. Exs. עָרִיץ for עַרִיץ, חָרוּץ for חַרוּץ (see verbal nouns, § 84, No. 7); also שָׁלִישׁ, plur. שָׁלִישִׁים, Ex. xiv. 7. Many fluctuate, as שָׁבוּעַ week; see Lexicon.

4. Parad. IV. embraces nouns of two syllables with Qamets changeable in both. For the changes in these vowels, see § 92, 2. Nouns of this form are very numerous. The influence of a guttural, especially on the form of the plur. constr., is seen in the second of the two examples given in the Paradigm. Other examples are: זָהָב gold, זָנָב tail; with a guttural, אָשָׁם guilt, רָעָב hunger.

In like manner are declined nouns of the less frequent form, קַטָל, e. g. לַבָּב heart, שַׁכָּר strong drink; with a guttural, שַׂעַר hair, עֲנָב grape.

A few nouns of this class take a segholate form in the constr. st. singular; e. g. נֹכַר, constr. st. נֹכֶר Deut. xxxi. 16; צֹלַע, constr. צֹלַע also צֹלֶע 2 Sam. xvi. 13; שַׂעַר, constr. שַׁעַר and שַׁעַר; once followed by Makkeph, לְבָן (for לִבֵּן) from לָבָן white Gen. xlix. 12; הָדָר, constr. הֲדַר and הָדַר Dan. xi. 20; עָשָׁן, constr. עֲשַׁן and עָשַׁן Ex. xix. 18 (comp. זְכַר and זָכָר § 84, Nos. 10 and 11). Qamets is immutable in both syllables of חָרָשׁ for חַרְאשׁ, and פָּרָשׁ for פַּרְאשׁ, § 84, No. 6.

5. Parad. V. is properly a mere variation of the preceding one. The final Tsere is treated like final Qamets in Parad. IV. except that in the constr. st. זְקֵן stands for זְקָן. Some nouns, however, take the segholate form (No. VI.) in the constr. st.; c. g. כָּתֵף shoulder, constr. st. כֶּתֶף for כְּתֵף; גֶּדֶר wall, constr. st. גֶּדֶר for גְּדֵר; יֶרֶךְ thigh, constr. st. יֶרֶךְ for יְרֵךְ. In a few cases both forms occur, as כָּבֵד heavy, constr. st. כִּבַד Ex. iv. 10 and כָּבֶד Is. i. 4; עָרֵל uncircumcised, constr. st. עֲרַל and עָרֶל.

Rare exceptions are forms like אֶבֶל Ps. xxxv. 14, where Maqqeph follows. Examples of the first sort are: יָחֹד, שָׁבֹן, קָצֹר, שָׁבֹעַ, constr. st. שְׂבַע.

Some nouns of this form retain their Tsere in constr. st. plural; e. g. יָשֵׁן plur. constr. יְשֵׁנֵי; so also אֲבֵלִי, שְׂמֵחִי (but also שְׂמָחִי), שְׂכֵחִי, חֲפֵצִי.

6. To Parad. VI. belongs the large class of nouns denominated Segholate forms (§ 84, No. 11). Before suffixes, and in the constr. st. of the plural and dual, they resume their original monosyllabic form and primary vowel (ă, ĭ, ŏ) under the first radical, as מַלְכִּי, סִפְרִי, קָדְשִׁי. But the plur. absol. takes an ā (in an open syllable, hence Qamets) immediately before the accented termination, while only a vocal Sh'va remains in the proper place of the stem-vowel (i. e. after the first radical), as מֶלֶךְ, plur. מְלָכִים. Comp. § 92, 2.

These forms may be arranged in three classes, the first having A, the second I, the third O, in the first syllable. The Paradigm exhibits, under a, b, c, derivatives of the regular verb; under d, e, f, forms which have a guttural in the final syllable; under g, h, derivatives from verbs עֹ and עִ; and under i, a derivative from a verb לֹה. Comp. § 85, IV. No. 11, V. No. 11.

REMARKS.

1. The form מָלָךְ (for מַלַךְ, § 27, Rem. 2, c) exhibits the original A, not only before suffixes, as in מַלְכִּי, but also in pause (§ 29, 4), e. g. בֶּרֶם, and before He local (§ 91, 1), as אַרְצָה. In the Septuagint, also, the proper names like הָבֶל, יָפֶת are uniformly written with A in the first syllable, Ἀβελ, Ἰαφέθ. The word אֶרֶץ, with the article, is invariably written הָאָרֶץ; derivatives from verbs עֹ also take Qamets for their first vowel, as סָתוֹת. The original monosyllabic form is seen in the word גַּיְא a valley. Many of these Segholates keep the Seghol also in pause, e. g. צֶדֶק, פֶּלֶא, קֶדֶם; also מֶלֶךְ; but generally A appears, as in נֶפֶשׁ, שֶׁמֶשׁ, חֶרֶב, especially in connexion with gutturals.

There are, however, nouns of this form which take i instead of a, either because the a is shortened (§ 27, Rem. 3), or because they pass over to the form סֵפֶר; e. g. קֶבֶר (in pause, קֶבֶר), קִבְרִי, pl. constr. קִבְרֵי; בֶּטֶן, בִּטְנִי; צֶדֶק, צִדְקִי; בֶּגֶד, בִּגְדִי (by way of exception without Dagesh lene in ד, hence to be read big'di, differing from מַלְכִּי); זֶבַח, זִבְחִי. At times both forms occur, as יֶלֶד, יַלְדֵי Hos. i. 2, and יִלְדֵי Is. lvii. 4.

Nouns of the form סָלָע, when their third stem-letter is a guttural, are pointed like זָבַח, זָרַע, סָלַע; when the second stem-letter is a guttural, like נַחַל, כַּשׂ (see Parad. d), seldom like לֶחֶם, without the influence of the guttural. It is to be observed, moreover, that in the hard combination (viz., when the second radical has quiescent Sh'va, and when the third radical in סָלָע would take Daghesh lene, as in מַלְכִּי) simple Sh'va may be retained here also, as in לִחְמִי; on the contrary, the forms corresponding to מַלְכִּי are always pointed as שַׁעֲרִי, נַחֲלִי.

2. The form סֵפֶר, נֵצַח (b, e), when its first letter is a guttural, takes Seghol in the plur. constr. and before suffixes in the singular; e. g. עֶגֶל, עֶגְלִי, עֶגְלֵי. The monosyllabic form appears in חֵטְא. With He local Tsere is retained, as אַדְמָה, from אֵדֶם. Examples of this form are: שֵׁבֶט, גֵּדֶר, חֵפֶץ.

3. The form עֹרֶשׁ (c) sometimes, though not often, takes Qibbuts in the cases mentioned in the preceding number; e. g. גֻּדְלוֹ, גְּדֻלוֹ Ps cl. 2. From כֹּתֶב, though without a guttural, we have in

Hos. xiii. 14 קֶטֶב similar to פְּעָלֶם pŏŏl'khem. From פֹּעַל (letter f) comes with suff. also פֹּעֲלוֹ for פָּעֳלוֹ (not from פֹּעַל) Is. i. 31, and so also תֹּאֲרוֹ Is. lii. 14 for תָּאְרוֹ 1 Sam. xxviii. 14, where the Qamets-chatuph supported by Methegh is lengthened to a long vowel; comp. § 63, Rem. 4.

In the plural absolute, only few nouns have the form with Chateph-qamets under the first radical as it is given in the Paradigm; e. g. חֳדָשִׁים, עֳנָיִים, אֳרָחוֹת; most take simple Sh°va, as בְּקָרִים from בֹּקֶר, רְמָחִים from רֹמַח, hence רָמְחֵיהֶם with Qamets-chatuph, but also סִבְכֵי from סֹבֶךְ; two have Qamets-chatuph, as קָדָשִׁים (kŏ-dhâ-shîm) hence also with light suff. קָדָשָׁי, קָדָשָׁיו (but also אֶת־קָדָשָׁיו and with the art. regularly הַקָּדָשִׁים with Chateph-qamets), and שָׁרָשִׁים (shŏ-râ-shîm), with light suff. שָׁרָשָׁיו, שָׁרָשֶׁיהָ, from שֹׁרֶשׁ (see § 9, Rem. 2). The word אֹהֶל has, by a Syriacism, אֳהָלִים for אָהֳלִים with light suff. אָהֳלִי, אָהֳלֵךְ, אָהֳלָיו (see § 23, 4, Rem. 2); but with a prefix and the article it is pointed as בְּאָהֳלִים, in the constr. st., and with grave suffixes אָהֳלִי, אָהֳלֵיכֶם. With He local the Cholem is retained, as הָאֳהֳלָה.

4. According to the same analogy, are inflected the kindred monosyllabic forms which have their vowel between their last two stem-letters (§ 84, No. 10); as שְׁכֶם, with suff. שִׁכְמִי; Infin. קְטֹל. קָטְלִי; שָׁכַב, שִׁכְבִי (thus the Inf. usually without Dag. lene in third radical, not like סָלְקִי).

5. Only derivatives from verbs עו and עי change their form (by contracting the dipthongal aw and ay to ô and ê, § 24, 2, b) in the constr. st., as מָוֶת prop. mawth, contracted מוֹת. Before He local this contraction does not take place; e. g. מָוְתָה, לֵילָה (except in constr. st., as בֵּיתָה יוֹסֵף). On the contrary, the middle radical becomes sometimes a consonant in the plur. abs., as תְּיָשִׁים from תַּיִשׁ, עֲנָוֹת from עָנִי. This is the case even with such in which this radical has already become a vowel by contraction in the general form; e. g. שׁוֹר, plur. שְׁוָרִים; דּוֹד, דְּוָדִים; שׁוֹק, שְׁוָקִים.

6. Of Segholates from verbs לה there are also properly three classes, distinguished by the A, E. and O sounds (§ 84, V. 11); e. g. חֶלִי, לֶחִי, חֶלִי; in pause, אֳרִי, לֳחִי, חֳלִי; with suffixes, אֶרְיִי, לֶחְיִי, חֶלְיִי; in the plur. and dual, אֳרָיִים, לֳחָיַיִם, חֳלָיִים. In the plur., some nouns take א instead of י on account of the preceding Qamets (§ 24, 2, c); as צָבִי, plur. צְבָאִים; פִּתִי, plur. פְּתָאִים.

7. To Parad. VII. (which approximates itself to Parad. II.) belong nouns which have mutable Tsere in their final syllable, and are either monosyllabic, or have their preceding vowels immutable. It accordingly embraces all participles in Kal (of the form קֹטֵל, not קָטֵל), and those in Piël and Hithpaël, the form קִטֵּל (§ 84, No. 9), and several others, e. g. מַקֵּל staff, מוֹעֵד season, צְפַרְדֵּעַ frog, etc.

The following deviations from the Paradigm are to be noted: a) Several nouns take Pathach in the constr. st. (as in Parad. V.); e. g. מִסְפָּר, constr. st. מִסְפַּר; especially with gutturals, as מִזְבֵּחַ, constr. st. מִזְבַּח. b) Before the suffixes which begin with a consonant occur such forms as מַקֵּלְכֶם, מוֹפְתֶכֶם from מוֹפֵת, or כְּסָאֲךָ from כִּסֵּא, or as שִׁלְחֵךְ. c) In words of one syllable, Tsere is retained in the plur. absol., as the Paradigm shows; it is also retained in several words which are not monosyllabic, as שַׁלִּשִׁים, מַקֵּהֵלִים.

8. Parad. VIII. embraces all nouns which double their final stem-letter when they receive any accession at the end. This doubling may be either the result of a contraction within the stem, or more of a euphonic character. The vowel preceding the doubling is then short; and the syllable sharpened (according to § 27, 1). If the word is of more than one syllable, the vowel of the penultima conforms to the principles which regulate the vowel changes; e. g. גָּמָל camel, plur. גְּמַלִּים, גְּמַלֵּי; Etymology refers to this Paradigm the following classes of nouns; viz., a) All derivatives of verbs עֹ״ע (§ 85, II.), as דַּל, חַן, חֹק, מָגֵן, etc., and primitives which follow the same analogy, as הַר, יָם, אֵשׁ. b) Contracted forms, like אַף (for אָנָף, § 19, 2), with suff. אַפּוֹ, בַּת (for בָּנָת), with suff. בִּתִּי, שֵׁת (for שָׁרַת), plur. שִׁתִּים or שִׁתּוֹת. c) Denominatives, especially patronymic and gentilic forms in ־ִי, as לֵוִי, יְהוּדִי, though the forms יְהוּדִים, נָכְרִים are at least equally common. d) Derivatives of the regular verb (§ 84) under the following forms: 10. זָמָן; 14. סַחֲרַר, סְחָרַר; 15. אָתְנָן, גָּבְנֹן, plur. גְּבְנִים; 21. אָדֹם; 36. כַּרְמֶל, with suff. כַּרְמְלוֹ, חַרְטֹם, plur. חַרְטֻמִּים. But there are also words of all these five forms which do not take Daghesh in the plural, and those which are here adduced are to be regarded rather as exceptions to the prevailing usage. They are pointed out in the Lexicon.

אוֹפָן wheel, plur. אוֹפַנִּים; גַּלְגַּל wheel, plur. גַּלְגִּלִּים. Nouns of almost every form are found among those which are inflected according to this Paradigm. Whether a noun belongs here cannot, therefore, be known from its form, though its etymology will generally decide.

Before suffixes having vocal Sh'va as union-vowel (like ־ֶךָ, ־ָכֶם), the Daghesh may be omitted; the same vowel is generally retained, however, except that in words of the form חֹק it is more commonly Qamets-chatuph.

Pathach before the doubled letter is either retained, as רַב, plur. רַבִּים; or is shortened into Chireq, as פַּת, פִּתִּי.

9. Parad. IX. embraces derivatives from verbs לה (§ 85, V.) which terminate in ־ֶה; as יָפֶה beautiful, רֹאֶה seer, מַרְאֶה appearance. Only the changes which affect the final syllable ־ֶה (which is treated as in verbs לה) are peculiar to this Paradigm, the vowel of the first syllable being treated according to the general rules.

The original termination ־ַי for which ־ֶה is substituted (§ 24, 2, and § 75, 1, Rem.) is often restored, and affects the inflexion of the word. Thus, with suff. מְכַסְּיִךְ (sing., thy covering, which might also be expressed by מְכַסֶּךָ) Is. xiv. 11, מִקְנְיָךְ thy cattle Is. xxx. 23, מַרְאַיִךְ thy form Cant. ii. 14, מַרְאֵיהֶם, Dan. i. 15, Gen. xli. 21, מַעֲלָלָיו his deed 1 Sam. xix. 4, מִקְנַי my cattle Ex. xvii. 3, and so perhaps also עֹשָׂי my maker Job xxxv. 10. But forms also occur in which (as the Parad. shows) the ־ֶה falls away, as מִקְנֵךְ Gen. xxx. 29, מִקְנֵהוּ Gen. xxxi. 18. In the plural מְמָחִים (from מְמָחֶה for מְמָחַי Part. Pual), Is. xxv. 6.

SECT. 94.

VOWEL CHANGES IN THE FORMATION OF FEMININE NOUNS.

1. The termination ־ֶה (§ 80, 2) appended to a masculine noun, affects the tone of the word, and consequently its vowels, in the same manner as the light suffixes beginning with a vowel (see § 92, 2, a). The following are examples of the formation of feminines in the several Paradigms:—

Parad. I. סוּס horse, fem. סוּסָה. II. מוֹצָא, fem. מוֹצָאָה outgoing. III. גָּדוֹל great, fem. גְּדוֹלָה. IV. נָקָם, fem. נְקָמָה vengeance. V. זָקֵן old, fem. זְקֵנָה. VI. מֶלֶךְ, fem. מַלְכָּה queen; סַתָּר, fem. סִתְרָה covert; עֲדָן, fem. עֲדָנָה delight; אֹכֶל, fem. אָכְלָה food; נַעַר, fem. נַעֲרָה young woman; צַיִד, fem. צֵידָה game; לָוִי (not in use), לִוְיָה garland. VII. קַטַל, fem. קִטְלָה. VIII. רַב, fem. רַבָּה much; חֹק, fem. חֻקָּה law; מַר, fem. מְדָה measure. IX. קָצֶה, fem. קָצָה end.

2. The vowel in the penultima is affected in the same manner when the feminine-ending תָ֫ is employed,* e. g. עֲטָרָה and עֲטֶרֶת crown; חָבֵר companion, fem. חֲבֶרֶת. The final vowel is also affected in several ways, so that the termination of the word is formed after the analogy of the Segholates:

a) Qamets and Pathach are both changed to Seghol, e. g. חוֹתָם seal, fem. חוֹתֶמֶת.

b) Tsere in some words is retained, in others is changed to Seghol, e. g. חָמֵשׁ, fem. חֲמֵשֶׁת five; גָּדֵר, fem. גְּדֶרֶת wall.

c) Vowels which are long and immutable (וֹ, וּ, יִ) pass over into the corresponding mutable, e. g. בּוֹשׁ, fem. בֹּשֶׁת shame; אַשְׁמוּר, fem. אַשְׁמֹרֶת night-watch (also אַשְׁמוּרָה); גְּבֶרֶת lady (also גְּבִירָה), from גְּבִיר.

Hence there are three segholate forms for feminine nouns, ־ֶ֫ת (for ־ֵ֫ת or ־ָ֫ת), ־ֶ֫ת, and ־ֶ֫ת, corresponding exactly to the forms of masculine nouns in Parad. VI. The same correspondence appears also in their inflexion in the singular. The termination ־ַ֫ת (when the word ends with a guttural) always changes the preceding vowel to Pathach, e. g. מוֹדָע, fem. מוֹדַעַת acquaintance; דַּע, fem. דַּעַת knowledge; נֹחַ (not in use), fem. נַחַת rest.

Rem. 1. A rare form, ־ָ֫ת for ־ֶ֫ת, has already been noticed in § 74, Rem. 3. Another form, after the manner of the Arabic, viz., יִלַּדְתְּ for יָלַדְתְּ, occurs in Gen. xvi. 11; Judges xiii. 5, 7 (like מָלַךְ=מָלָךְ). Since this form, in all the three places where it occurs, stands in connexion with the 2nd pers. sing. fem. Preterite, it may perhaps be owing to a wish to copy after that Preterite form; for, in connexion with the 3rd pers., we find the regular form יָלְדָה, Gen. xvii. 19; Is. vii. 14.

2. When masculines of Parad. VIII. receive the termination ־ָ֫ת, they necessarily omit the doubling of their final stem-letter; hence חֲמִשָּׁה and חֲמִשִּׁית; אַדְמָדֹם, plur. אַדְמַדִּים, fem. אַדְמָדָּה. So דַּל and דָּלָת from דָּלַל, דָּפָת from דָּפַף.

SECT. 95.

PARADIGMS OF FEMININE NOUNS.

The inflexion [or declension] of these nouns is more simple than that of masculines (§ 92, 5), the addition of the feminine-ending having already occasioned as much shortening of the vowels as can be admitted; e. g. from Parad. III. גְּדֹלָה; VII. קְטֻלָה; VIII. חַקָּה, מִדָּה, רַבָּה. All these feminine forms belong to the single Parad. A. In the plural, no distinction is made between the light and the grave suffixes, the former, as well as the latter, being appended to the construct state.

* This is contrary to the general rule (§ 27, 3), since the tone is not thrown forward. But as ־ָ֫ה is merely a secondary form (§ 80, 2) derived from the original accented termination ־ָה, it is not strange that they should similarly affect the pointing of words to which they are appended.

These nouns have only three modes of inflexion, Parad. A (inserted merely for the sake of comparison) having no vowel changes. A general view of these inflexions is presented in the subjoined Table, which is followed by the necessary explanations.

EXPLANATIONS.

1. To Parad. B belong those feminines which have a changeable Qamets or Tsere before the feminine-ending הָ־; e. g. קָצָה end, עֵצָה counsel, צְדָקָה righteousness, תּוֹעֵבָה abomination. It accordingly embraces the feminine forms from the masculine nouns belonging to Parad. II., IV., V., and several belonging to Parad. IX.

For the formation of the new syllable in words having Sh'va (§ 26, 4) before their mutable Qamets or Tsere (which falls away by inflexion as in the Parad. צְדָקָה), see § 28, 1. Compare נְבֵלָה corpse, נִבְלַת, נִבְלָתוֹ; עֶגְלָה a wain, עֶגְלָתִי.

Many nouns of this form, however, take in the construct state, and before suffixes, the co-existing form in ־ַת or ־ֶת (§ 89, 2, b, § 94, 2); e. g. מַמְלָכָה kingdom, constr. st. מַמְלֶכֶת, with suff. מַמְלַכְתִּי; תִּפְאָרָה ornament, תִּפְאֶרֶת; מִשְׁפָּחָה family, מִשְׁפַּחַת, מִשְׁפַּחְתִּי.

Qamets is firm in all nouns like בַּקָּשָׁה, אַוְכָּרָה (§ 84, Nos. 25, 28), constr. st. בַּקָּשַׁת, אַוְכֶּרֶת. Tsere is also firm in most verbals of the form אֲבֵדָה, גְּוֵלָה (§ 84, No. 13); but in others it is shortened, as in שְׁאֵלָה (§ 84, No. 2). The character of the vowel, in each case, is given in the Lexicon.

2. To Parad. C belong feminines derived from the segholate forms (Parad. VI.). These two Paradigms are also analogous in their inflexion, the plural absolute in both taking Qamets under the second consonant of the original form; e. g. מֶלֶךְ, מְלָכִים; מַלְכָּה, מְלָכוֹת; כֶּבֶשָׂה, כְּבָשׂוֹת lambs.

Care must be taken not to confound with nouns of this class those feminines of the same form which are not derived from Segholates, particularly the derivatives from verbs לה of the form מִצְוָה, מַרְאָה, whose masculine form is מִצְוָה, מַרְאֶה. The first syllable of these nouns is immutable.

3. To Parad. D belong segholate nouns formed by the addition of the feminine-ending ־ַת (§ 94, 2). These correspond, in the inflexion of the singular, to masculine Segholates (§ 93, Parad. VI.). To the examples in the Paradigm may be added, מִסְגֶּרֶת enclosure, אִגֶּרֶת letter, מַשְׂכֹּרֶת wages.

Of the form שֹׁפָר, which is not frequent in this class of nouns, אִשָּׁה woman, with suff. אִשְׁתִּי, is an example. The same inflexion, however, is exhibited by some words ending in ־ַת, viz., those in which this termination takes the place of ־ַת; e. g. לֹבֶן (for לָבָן), with suff. לִבְנִי; in like manner, שֹׁבֶךְ, שִׁבְכִי (from the masc. שֹׁבֵב).—מוֹדַעַת takes with suffixes the form מוֹדַעְתִּי.

Many nouns of this class borrow their plural from the co-existing form in ־ֶה, ־ָה (Parad. B); as כּוֹתֶרֶת capital of a column, plur. כְּוֹתָרוֹת; מַחֲרֵשֶׁת ploughshare, plur. מַחֲרֵשׁוֹת; תּוֹכַחַת correction, plur. תּוֹכָחוֹת; עַשְׁתֹּרֶת Astarte, plur. עַשְׁתָּרוֹת.

Sect. 96.

LIST OF THE IRREGULAR NOUNS.

1. There are several anomalous inflexions of the noun, chiefly in respect to some particular words only, or a few analogous among themselves, which may be best exhibited in an alphabetical list of the words in which they are found. They require the more attention, because, as in all languages, the words which they affect are those in most common use.

2. Most of these irregularities of inflexion consist in the derivation of the construct state, or of the plural, not from the absolute state of the singular, but from another wholly different form; precisely similar to what we have seen in the inflexion of the irregular verb (§ 78). Comp. γυνή, γυναικός; ὕδωρ, ὕδατος.

אָב (as if for אָבָה, from אָבָה*) father; constr. st. אֲבִי, with suff. אָבִי (my father), אָבִיךָ, אָבִיו, אֲבִיכֶם, plur. אָבוֹת (§ 87, 4).

אָח brother, constr. אֲחִי, with suff. אָחִי, אָחִיךָ, אֲחִיכֶם, plur. constr. אֲחֵי, אֲחֵיכֶם. All these forms follow the analogy of verbs לה, as if אָח stood for אָחָה from אָחָה. But the plur. absol. is אַחִים with Dag. f. implicitum (§ 22, 1), as if from אָחַח; hence אַחֵי, אַחֶיךָ, אַחֶיהָ, etc. On the form אָחִיו (which is invariably used instead of אַחָיו), see § 27, Rem. 2, b.

אֶחָד one (for אַחַד, with Dag. f. implicitum, see § 22, 1, and comp. § 27, Rem. 2, b), constr. st. אַחַד, fem. אַחַת for אַחְתָּ una (see § 19, 2), in pause אֶחָת. In one instance, Eze. xxxiii. 30, it takes the form חַד (by aphæresis, § 19, 3), as in Aramæan. Plur. אֲחָדִים some.

אָחוֹת sister (contr. for אֲחָוָת, as if from a masc. אָחוּ = אָח), plur. אָחָיוֹת, with suff. אַחְיוֹתַי (from a sing. אַחְיָה fem. from אָחִי), also אֲחוֹתֵיךָ (as if from a sing. אָחָה).

אִישׁ a man, a softened form of אִנְשׁ, אֱנָשׁ (§ 19, 5, Rem.); in the plur. it has very seldom אִישִׁים, the usual form being אֲנָשִׁים (from אֱנָשׁ), constr. אַנְשֵׁי. Comp. אִשָּׁה.

אָמָה maid-servant, plur. (with ה as a consonant) אֲמָהוֹת, אַמְהוֹת. Comp. in Aram. אֲבָהָן fathers.

אִשָּׁה woman (for אִנְשָׁה, fem. from אֱנָשׁ, see אִישׁ), constr. st. אֵשֶׁת (fem. from אִישׁ, for אִאֵשֶׁת); with suff. אִשְׁתִּי, אִשְׁתְּךָ, plur. נָשִׁים, abbreviated from אֲנָשִׁים, constr. נְשֵׁי.

* As these nouns, though primitives, follow the analogy of verbals (§ 82, 2), it is necessary, in order to understand their inflexions, that we should know to which class of irregular verbs they respectively conform.

בַּיִת house (probably a softened form from בָּנְת (בִּנְתְּ), § 19, 5, Rem., from בָּנָה to build, like δόμος from δέμω), constr. st. בֵּית, plur. בָּתִּים bŏt-tīm, perhaps for בָּנְתִים from another sing. בֹּת for בֹּנֶת (like בַּת for בָּנְת) which others read bāttīm.

בֵּן son (for בַּנָה, from בָּנָה), constr. st. בֶּן־, seldom בִּן־, once בְּנִי (§ 90, 3, a) Gen. xlix. 11, and בְּנוֹ (§ 90, 3, b) Num. xxiv. 3, 15 With suff. בְּנִי, בִּנְךָ; plur. בָּנִים (as if from בָּן, for בָּנָה), constr. st. בְּנֵי.

חָם father-in-law, with suff. חָמִיךָ, and חָמוֹת mother-in-law, compare אָח brother, אָחוֹת sister.

יוֹם day, dual יוֹמַיִם, but plur. יָמִים, יְמֵי (as if from יָם for יָמָה).

כְּלִי vessel, plur. כֵּלִים (as if from כֵּל, כֵּלָה).

מַיִם plur. water (comp. § 88, 1, Rem. 2), constr. st. מֵי and also doubled מֵימֵי, with suff. מֵימֵיכֶם.

עִיר city, plur. עָרִים, עָרֵי (from עָר, which is still found in proper names).

פֶּה mouth (for פַּאָה, from פָּאָה to breathe), constr. st. פִּי (for פִּאִי), with suff. פִּי my mouth, פִּיךָ, פִּיו.

רֹאשׁ head (for רַאְשׁ); plur. רָאשִׁים (for רְאָשִׁים, § 23, 2).

NUMERALS. I. CARDINAL NUMBERS.

1. The cardinal numbers* from 2 to 10 are, in Hebrew, substantives with abstract meaning, like triad, decad, πεντάς, though they are also used adverbially

* That the Hebrew numerals, from 1 to 10, are words of very high antiquity may be inferred from their essential coincidence in all the Shemitic tongues. Moreover, a principal ground for maintaining the historical affinity between these languages and the Indo-Germanic, is the fact that in both families the numerals from 1 to 7 appear at first sight to be very similar. With שֵׁשׁ (prop. שְׁדָשׁ as the Arab. and Æth. show) is compared the Sanscrit shash [Celtic se, also chvech], ancient Persian csvas, Gr. ἕξ, Lat. sex, ancient Slavic shestj; with שֶׁבַע, Sansk. saptan, ancient Per. haptan, modern Per. haft, Gr. ἑπτα, Lat. septem [Celtic seacht, also saith], our seven; with שָׁלֹשׁ (Aram. תְּלָת), Sansk. tri, fem. tisri, ancient Per. thri, fem. tisarô [Celt. tri], Gr. τρεῖς, Lat. tres; with אֶחָד, Sansk. êka [perhaps also Welch ychydig, i. e. few]; with חָמֵשׁ, Sansk. pantshan, Gr. πέντε [=Æolic πέμπε, Welsh pump], Lat. quinque [Gaelic cuig]; with אַרְבַּע, Lat. quatu or [Celtic ceathar, also pedwar]; with שְׁנַיִם (Aram. תְּרֵין), Sansk. dva, Lat. duo [Celt. dau, do], etc. But a close analysis makes these apparent coincidences again doubtful (but not in the judgment of Gesenius, Ewald, etc.), because there is a great probability, on the other side, that at least the numerals שְׁנַיִם (prop. folds), חָמֵשׁ (prop. the five fingers) and עֶשֶׂר (prop. combination, multitude) are to be traced back to the pure Shemitic stems שָׁנָה to bend, to fold, to change, to repeat, חָמַשׁ to contract (comp. קָמַץ, קָפַץ) and עָשַׂר to bind together (comp. אָסַר, קָשַׂר, etc.)

(§ 120). Only אֶחָד one (unus), fem. אַחַת (una, see § 96), is construed as an adjective. Of the remaining numbers, each has different forms for the two genders, but usage employs the feminine form in connexion with masculine nouns, and vice versâ.

It is only in the dual form for two, שְׁנַיִם, fem. שְׁתַּיִם, that the gender of the numeral agrees with that of the object numbered.

	Masculine.		Feminine.
	Absol.	Constr.	Absol.	Constr.
1.	אֶחָד	אַחַד	אַחַת	אַחַת
2.	שְׁנַיִם	שְׁנֵי	שְׁתַּיִם *	שְׁתֵּי
3.	שְׁלֹשָׁה	שְׁלֹשֶׁת	שָׁלֹשׁ	שְׁלֹשׁ
4.	אַרְבָּעָה	אַרְבַּעַת	אַרְבַּע	אַרְבַּע
5.	חֲמִשָּׁה	חֲמֵשֶׁת	חָמֵשׁ	חֲמֵשׁ
6.	שִׁשָּׁה	שֵׁשֶׁת	שֵׁשׁ	שֵׁשׁ
7.	שִׁבְעָה	שִׁבְעַת	שֶׁבַע	שִׁבַע
8.	שְׁמֹנָה	שְׁמֹנַת	שְׁמֹנֶה
9.	תִּשְׁעָה	תִּשְׁעַת	תֵּשַׁע	תִּשַׁע
10.	עֲשָׂרָה	עֲשֶׂרֶת	עֶשֶׂר	עֲשַׂר

The other Shemitic languages exhibit the same peculiarity in respect to the genders. For the explanation of this phenomenon the following observations may perhaps suffice. These numerals, being originally abstract substantives, like decas, trias, had both the masculine and feminine form. The feminine was the chief form, and hence became connected with words of the predominant masculine gender; and the other form without the feminine-ending was used with words of the feminine gender.† Usage made this a settled law in all the Shemitic languages. The exceptions are very rare; e. g. שְׁלֹשֶׁת נָשִׁים, Gen. vii. 13 (where the use of the feminine termination is manifestly occasioned by the masculine form of the word נָשִׁים), Eze. vii. 2; Job i. 3; Jer. xxxvi. 23.

2. The numbers from 11 to 19 are expressed by adding to the units the numeral ten (in the form עָשָׂר masc., עֶשְׂרֵה fem.) written as separate words and without a conjunction. In such as are of the feminine gender (masculine in form), the units are in the construct state, which in this case indicates merely a close connexion, not the relation of the genitive (§ 116). These numerals have no construct state, and are always construed adverbially.

* Shortened from שְׁנֹתַיִם (according to others, it is for אֶשְׁתַּיִם with Aleph prosthetic, § 19, 4), hence the Daghesh lene in the Tav.

† In the vulgar dialects of the Arabic, and in the Æthiopic, the feminine form of the numerals is used almost exclusively. This form appears in Hebrew also in the abstract use of the numerals (Gen. iv. 15). It may be added, that the feminine form is very frequently used for expressing the idea of plurality, as in collectives; see § 107, 3, d.

In the first two of these numerals there are some deviations from analogy: the third shows the manner in which the rest are formed.

	Masc.		Fem.
11.	אַחַד	עָשָׂר	אַחַת	עֶשְׂרֵה
	*עַשְׁתֵּי	עָשָׂר	עַשְׁתֵּי	עֶשְׂרֵה
12.	שְׁנַיִם	עָשָׂר	שְׁתֵּים	עֶשְׂרֵה
	שְׁנֵי	עָשָׂר	שְׁתֵּי	עֶשְׂרֵה
13.	שְׁלֹשָׁה	עָשָׂר	שְׁלֹשׁ	עֶשְׂרֵה

Unusual forms are חֲמִשָּׁת עָשָׂר fifteen, Judges viii. 10; שְׁמֹנַת עָשָׂר eighteen, Judges xx. 25. Here the masculine too has the units in the constr. state.

3. The tens from 30 to 90 are expressed by the plural forms of the corresponding units (so that the plural here always denotes ten times the singular); as שְׁלֹשִׁים 30, אַרְבָּעִים 40, חֲמִשִּׁים 50, שִׁשִּׁים 60, שִׁבְעִים 70, שְׁמֹנִים 80, תִּשְׁעִים 90. Twenty is an exception, and is expressed by עֶשְׂרִים, plur. of עָשָׂר ten.† They are of common gender, and have no construct state. When units and tens are written together, the earlier writers commonly place the units first (e. g. two and twenty, as in Arabic); but in the later writers the order is almost invariably reversed (twenty and two, as in Syriac). Exs. Num. iii. 39; xxvi. 14; 1 Chron. xii. 28; xviii. 5. The conjunction is always used.

200	מָאתַיִם dual (for מְאָתַיִם).
300	שְׁלֹשׁ מֵאוֹת, 400 אַרְבַּע מֵאוֹת, etc.
1000	אֶלֶף, constr. אֶלֶף, plur. אֲלָפִים thousands.
2000	אַלְפַּיִם dual.
3000	שְׁלֹשֶׁת אֲלָפִים, 4000 אַרְבַּעַת אֲלָפִים, etc.

---

* The etymology of this word is obscure. R. Jona explains it by עַד שְׁתֵּי עֶשְׂרֵה to twelve, as if close to twelve, an expression like undeviginti, but yet not so passable here. Besides, this explanation would properly apply only to the fem., whereas the masc. also has עַשְׁתֵּי עָשָׂר, where we should expect עַד שְׁנֵי עָשָׂר for עַד שְׁנֵי עָשָׂר, or else must assume an inaccuracy. Others explain thus: something thought of in addition to ten, from עָשַׁת to think.

† The plural forms עֶשְׂרִים, שִׁבְעִים, תִּשְׁעִים, from the Segholates עֶשֶׂר, שֶׁבַע, תֵּשַׁע, take in the absolute state the shortened form, which, in other words of this class appears first in the construct state. Analogy requires עֶשְׂרִים, שִׁבְעִים, תִּשְׁעִים.

30000	רִבֹּאוֹת שְׁלֹשׁ, 400000 אַרְבַּע רִבֹּאוֹת, etc.

Rem. 1. The dual form occurs in some of the units, with the effect of the English fold: as אַרְבָּעָתַיִם fourfold, 2 Sam. xii. 6; שִׁבְעָתַיִם sevenfold, Gen. iv. 15, 24; Ps. lxxix. 12. The plural אֲחָדִים [comp. Welsh ychydig] means some, some few, and also the same (iidem); עֲשָׂרוֹת decads (not decem), Ex. xviii. 21, 25.

2. The suffixes to numerals are, as with nouns, prop. genitives, though we translate them as nominatives, as שְׁלִשְׁתְּכֶם you three, prop. your triad.

Sect. 98.

NUMERALS. II. ORDINAL NUMBERS.

The ordinal numbers from 2 to 10 are expressed by the corresponding cardinals with the termination ־ִי (§ 86, No. 5), besides which another ־ִי is also sometimes inserted in the final syllable. They are as follows: שֵׁנִי, שְׁלִישִׁי, רְבִיעִי, חֲמִשִּׁי, and שִׁשִּׁי, הַמִּישִׁי, שִׁבִיעִי, שְׁמִינִי, תְּשִׁיעִי, עֲשִׂירִי. The ordinal first is expressed by רִאשׁוֹן for רֵאִישׁוֹן, from רֹאשׁ head, beginning, with the termination וֹן (§ 86, No. 4). The feminine forms have the termination ־ִית, rarely ־ִיָה, and are employed also for the expression of numerical parts, as חֲמִשִּׁית fifth part, עֲשִׂירִית and עֲשִׂירִיָה tenth part. The same meaning is found also in forms like חֹמֶשׁ fifth part, רֹבַע and רְבִיעַ fourth part.

For the manner of expressing other relations of number, for which the Hebrew has no appropriate forms, see Syntax, § 120.

THE PARTICLES.

Sect. 99.

GENERAL VIEW.

1. The particles, in general, serve to modify the thought expressed by another word or words, and to exhibit more nearly the relations of words, or of sentences, to each other. They are for the most part borrowed or derived (§ 30, 4) from nouns, a few from pronouns and verbs. The number of really primitive particles is very small.

2. The origin of those that are not primitive is twofold; 1) they are borrowed from other parts of speech; i. e. certain forms of the verb, noun, or pronoun, are employed as particles, retaining more or less of their original signification, like the Lat. verum, causa, and the Eng. except, away; 2) they are derived from other parts of speech, either a) by the addition of formative syllables, like יוֹמָם by day, from יוֹם (§ 100, 3), or most commonly b) by abbreviation occasioned by frequent use. This abbreviation is effected in various ways; and many of the forms resulting from it are so obscure in respect to their origin that they have generally been regarded as primitives; e. g. אַךְ only (prop. certainly, certe) for אָכֵן.

Compare in German, gen from gegen, Gegend; seit from Seite; weil (orig. a particle of time) from Weile=our while; in English, since (old Eng. sithence), till, contr. from to while.

Such words suffer still greater changes in the Greek and Latin languages, and in those derived from the Latin; e. g. ἀπὸ, ab, a; ἐξ, ex, e; ad, Fr. à; aut, Fr. ou, Ital. o; super, Ital. su.*

In some instances the particle has been so much abbreviated, that it has lost its character as an independent word, and has been reduced to a single letter prefixed to the following word, as is the case with the preformatives of the Future (§ 47, 1, 2); e. g. the prefix לְ from אֶל (§ 102).

That this reduction of a whole word to a single letter has actually taken place, and is to be regarded as a part of the process in the formation of the language, is evident from the fact, that in the subsequent stages of this process, as exhibited in the later Hebrew, the Aramæan, and all the Shemitic dialects, such abbreviations become more and more striking and frequent. Thus, for אֲשֶׁר, so early as the period of the later Biblical Hebrew, שֶׁ and even שְׁ had come into use, and in Rabbinic authors the full form אֲשֶׁר very seldom occurs; the דְּ of the Biblical Chaldee at a later period became דְ; in modern Arabic we have hallaq (now) from hâlwaqt, lêsh (why?) from li-ayyi-sheiin, and many more. This view derives confirmation from the analogy of the Western languages. Yet the use of the simplest particles belongs to the earliest epochs of the Hebrew language, or at least to the earliest documents in our possession.

It is not strange that the derivation of these particles, which often differ widely from the original form, should sometimes be obscure. This is the case, however, with only few of them; and it is but just to infer, that even in these some change has been effected analogous to that which may be readily traced in others.

3. Particles are also formed, but less frequently, by composition; as מֵרֵעַ

* Even short phrases are contracted into one word, e. g. German zwar from es ist wahr (il est vrai), Lat. forsitan from fors sit an, Fr. peut-être. In the Chinese, most of the particles are verbs or nouns; e. g. iù, to give, employed as a sign of the dative; î, to make use of, hence for; nëi, the interior, hence in.

wherefore? for מַהֵ֫יָדוּעַ how taught? i. e. qua ratione ductus? comp. τί°μαθών; בִּלְעָדַי besides, from בַּל and עָדַי; מִלְמַעְלָה from above, from מִן, ל, מַעְלָה.

More frequent is the combination of two words without contraction; as כִּי אִם, אַף כִּי, אַחֲרֵי כֵן, כִּי עַל כֵּן.

Sect. 100.

ADVERBS.

1. Primitive adverbs are those of negation לֹא not = οὐ, οὐκ, אַל = μή, אֵין there [is] not, and some few others of place and time, as שָׁם there, אָז then.

These adverbs may at least, for grammatical purposes, be regarded as primitive, even if it be possible to trace them to other roots, particularly pronominal roots.

2. Examples of other parts of speech, which, without any change of form, are used adverbially, are—

a) Substantives with prepositions; e. g. בִּמְאֹד (with might), very, greatly; לְבַד alone (prop. in separateness), with suff. לְבַדִּי I alone (prop. in my separateness); מִבַּיִת within; כְּאֶחָד (as one), together.

b) Substantives in the accusative (the casus adverbialis of the Shemites, § 118), comp. τὴν ἀρχήν, as מְאֹד (might), very, greatly; אָפֶס (cessation), no more; הַיּוֹם (this day), to-day; יָחַד (union), together. Many of these substantives very seldom exhibit their original signification as nouns, e. g. סָבִיב (circuit), around; others have wholly lost it, as כְּבָר (length), long ago; עוֹד (repetition), again, farther, longer.

c) Adjectives, especially in the feminine (which answers to the neuter), as כֵּן recte, ita (prop. rectum), רִאשׁוֹנָה (primum) at first, formerly, רַבָּה and רַבַּת much, enough, נִפְלָאוֹת wonderfully (prop. mirabilibus, sc. modis), שֵׁנִית the second time, יְהוּדִית Jewish, i. e. in the Jewish language.

d) Verbs in the Infinitive absolute, especially in Hiphil, which are also to be regarded as accusatives (§ 130, 2); e. g. הַרְבֵּה (prop. doing much), much.

e) Pronouns, as זֶה (prop. this = at this place), here.

See a list of the adverbs most in use, with their meanings, in § 150.

3. Other adverbs are formed by the addition of the formative syllable ־ָם (more seldom ־ַם) to substantives, as אֱמֶת and אֱמֶתְנָם truly, from אֹמֶן truth; חִנָּם (for thanks), gratis, in vain, from חֵן; יוֹמָם by day, from יוֹם; פִּתְאֹם for פִּתְעֹם in a twinkling, from פֶּתַע twinkling.

The termination ־ָם, ־ַם, occurs also in the formation of substantives like ־ֹן, ־ֶן (§ 84, No. 15); e. g. פְּדְיוֹם and פְּדְיֹן ransom, λύτρον, סֻלָּם ladder (from סָלַל). Such forms might therefore be regarded as denominative nouns used adverbially. But the ־ָם is more probably nothing else than the obsolete plural-ending of the noun (mentioned in § 87, 1, d), and these adverbs are properly nouns in the accusative plural, hence אֱמֶת like מֵישָׁרִים as adv. in Ps. lviii. 2, חִנָּם, like Lat. gratis, i. e. gratiis.

4. Adverbs formed by the abbreviation or mutilation of longer words; such, for example, as אַךְ only (prop. an affirmative particle, certainly, from אָכֵן, Chald. הָכֵן, לָכֵי), and especially the interrogative הַ, e. g. הֲלֹא nonne? הֲגַם num etiam? which originated in the fuller form הַל Deut. xxxii. 6.

This ה is pointed, 1) generally with Chateph-pathach, as הֲשַׂמְתָּ hast thou set? (see the examples in § 153, 2); 2) usually with Pathach and Daghesh forte (like the article) before a letter that has Sh'va, as הַלְבָן Gen. xvii. 17, xviii. 21, xxxvii. 32, once without this condition, viz., הַיִּטַּב in Lev. x. 19; 3) with Pathach (and Daghesh f. implicitum) before gutturals, as הַאֵלֵךְ shall I go? הַאַתָּה (art) thou? 4) with Seghol before gutturals that have Qamets, as הֲאָנֹכִי num ego? הֲהָיְתָה was there? The place of this interrogative particle is always at the beginning of the clause.

5. Some adverbs, involving a verbal idea, admit also of pronominal suffixes, which are here used generally in the same form as with verbs, viz., with Nun epenthetic (§ 57, 4); e. g. יֶשְׁנוֹ he (is) present; אֵינֶנִּי I (am) not; אֵינֶנּוּ he (is) not; עוֹדֶנּוּ he (is) still; אַיּוֹ where (is) he? The same applies to הֵן and הִנֵּה behold! (prop. here, here is), with suffixes; as הִנֵּנִי, in pause הִנֵּנִי and הִנָּנִי behold me; הִנְּךָ; הִנּוֹ; הִנֶּנּוּ, in pause הִנֵּנוּ and הִנָּנוּ; הִנָּם.

SECT. 101.

PREPOSITIONS.

1. Most of the words, which by usage serve as prepositions, were originally—

a) Substantives in the accusative case and in the construct state, so that the noun governed by them is to be considered as being in the genitive, which is actually indicated in Arabic by the genitive-ending: compare in German statt dessen, in Latin *hujus rei causa, gratia. Exs. אַחַר (*hinder part), behind, after; אֵצֶל (*side), close by; בֵּין (*intermediate space, midst), between; בְּעַד, בַּעַד (interval of space, distantia), behind, about; זוּלַת (remoteness, absence), besides; יַעַן (purpose), on account of; מוּל before, over against; מִן (part), from, out of; נֶגֶד (that which is before), before, over against; עַד (*progress, duration), during, until; עַל (upper part), upon, over; עִם (connexion, also עִמַּת, לְעֻמַּת), with; תַּחַת (*under part), under, in place of.

* In these examples, the signification of the noun is put in parentheses, and marked with an asterisk when it is still in use. On a similar feature in other languages, see W. Von Humboldt uber die Kawisprache, Bd. III., p. 621.

b) Substantives in the construct state with prefix prepositions (spec. the inseparable); as לִפְנֵי (in face of), before; כְּפִי, לְפִי (*in accordance with the mouth, i. e. the command), according to; בִּגְלַל (in consideration), on account of, לְמַעַן (for the purpose), on account of.

2. Substantives used adverbially very readily take, in this manner, the construction of prepositions; e. g. בְּאֶפֶס, בְּאֵין, בִּבְלִי (in the want of), without; בְּעוֹד (in the continuing of), during; כְּדֵי, בְּדֵי (for the sufficiency of), for, according to proportion.

SECT. 102.

PREFIX PREPOSITIONS.

1. Of the prepositions given in the preceding section, מִן is frequently written as a prefix, yet without wholly losing its Nun, which is represented by a Daghesh forte in the following letter, as מִיַּעַר from a forest.

On the ways of using מִן, the following particulars should be noticed. Generally it stands entire and apart only before the article, as מִן הָאָרֶץ, also here and there before feeble letters, as מִדְאָז Jer. xliv. 18, מִן בְּנֵי 1 Chron. v. 18, and elsewhere in the later books (like the usage of the Aramæan): there is besides a poetical form מִנִּי (comp. § 90, 3, a). More generally it is prefixed (as in מִיָּם) by means of Daghesh forte, which can be omitted only in letters that have Sh'va (according to § 20, 3, b); before gutturals it becomes מַ (according to § 22, 1) e. g. מֵאָדָם, מֵעָם; before ה also מָ, as מָחוֹז, מְחוֹז Gen. xiv. 23.

2. There are also three other prepositions, the most common in the language, which have been reduced by abbreviation (§ 99, 2) to a single prefix consonant with the slightest vowel (Sh'va); viz.—

בְּ in, at, on, with (from בַּיִת, בַּי), לְ towards, to (from אֵל),
כְּ like, as, according to (from כֵּן).*

On the pointing of these [inseparable] prefixes we observe—

a) They have strictly Sh'va, which is, however, changed according to the remarks in § 28, 1, 2, thus, לִפְרִי to fruit, כַּאֲרִי as a lion; and before feeble letters it follows the rules in § 23, 2, and § 24, 1, a, e. g. לַאֲשֶׁר for לְאֲשֶׁר, לַיהוָה.

b) Before the article they usually displace the ה and take its pointing, as בַּגָּן for בְּהַגָּן in the garden. See § 35, Rem.

c) Immediately before the tone-syllable, i. e. before monosyllables and words of two syllables that have the tone on the penultima, they have also Qamets (§ 26, 3), yet not always, but only in the

* Of the derivation of לְ from אֵל, there is no doubt; and אֵל itself may be derived from a root meaning to approach (Heb. and Aram. לָוָה, לָוָא adhæsit, Arab. ولي accessit). On the derivation of בְּ from בַּיִת, Aram. also בַּי, prop. in the house, hence, in (not from בֵּין between), see Gesenius's Heb. Lexicon: כְּ (from כֵּן) signifies prop. so, doubled כְּ—כְּ as—so.

following cases, α) before the Infinitives which have the fore-mentioned form, as לָתֵת for to give, לָדִין for to judge, לָלֶדֶת for to bear, except another word (the subject or object belonging to it § 133) becomes subordinate to the Inf., בְּנָשְׂתָּ Num. viii. 19, בְּשָׁבְתָּ Judges xi. 26; β) before many pronominal forms בָּזֶה, לָזֶה, כָּזֶה; כָּאֵלֶּה like these; particularly בָּכֶם, לָכֶם, כָּכֶם; and בָּהֶם, לָהֶם, כָּהֶם (see § 103, 2); γ) when the word is closely connected with the foregoing and not the following, e. g. פֶּה לְפֶה mouth to mouth 2 Kings x. 21, בֵּין מַיִם לָמָיִם between water and water Gen. i. 6, particularly at the end of a clause; see the instructive example in Deut. xvii. 8, likewise לָנֶצַח to eternity, but לְנֵצַח נְצָחִים to all eternity Is. xxxiv. 10.

δ) With the interrogative מָה they are quite closely joined by means of Pathach and Daghesh forte, as בַּמָּה by what? כַּמָּה how much? לָמָּה (Milēl) for what? why? Comp. the Vav conversive of the Future (§ 49, 2). Before gutturals לָמָּה is used instead of לָמָּה.

Rem. The word יְהוָה, which has not its proper original vowels (probably יַהְוֶה) but those of אֲדֹנָי (see the Lexicon under the word), takes the prefixes also after the manner of אֲדֹנָי, as לַיהוָה, בַּיהוָה, מֵיהוָה (because it is to be read לַאדֹנָי, בַּאדֹנָי, מֵאֲדֹנָי).

Sect. 103.

PREPOSITIONS WITH SUFFIXES AND IN THE PLURAL FORM.

1. As all prepositions were originally nouns (§ 101), they are also united with the pronoun after the manner of the nouns, i. e. the pronoun in construction with them takes the form of the nominal suffix (§ 91, 1, 2), as אֶצְלִי (prop. my side) by me, אִתִּי (my proximity) with me, תַּחְתִּי (my place) instead of me, like mea causa, on my account.

Rem. 1. The preposition אֵת near, with (from אָנָה), is distinguished from אֵת, the sign of the definite accusative (§ 117, 2), when suffixes are added, by the difference of pointing, the former making אִתִּי, אִתּוֹ, אִתָּכֶם, אִתָּם, while the latter retains its original o before most of the pronouns, as אֹתִי me, אֹתְךָ, אֹתָךְ thee, אֹתוֹ him, אֹתָהּ her; אֹתָנוּ us, אֶתְכֶן, אֶתְכֶם you, אֹתָם and אֶתְהֶם them. Yet in later books, particularly in the books of Kings and in Jeremiah and Ezekiel, אֵת with is incorrectly inflected אֹתִי, אֹתָם.

2. The preposition עִם with takes Qamets (pretonic) before כֶם and הֶם, in order that the doubling of the Mem may be distinctly heard, as עִמָּכֶם, עִמָּהֶם. In the first person besides עִמִּי we find עִמָּדִי.

3. It is but seldom that prepositions take the verbal suffixes, as תַּחְתֵּנִי 2 Sam. xxii. 37, 40, 48 (for which we find תַּחְתַּי in Ps. xviii. 37, 40, 48), תַּחְתֶּנָּה Gen. ii. 21, and בְּעַדֵנִי Ps. cxxxix. 11 (here for the sake of rhyming with יְשׁוּפֵנִי). But in these cases the form of the suffix may be certainly accounted for in this way, that the idea of direction whither is implied, so תַּחְתֵּנִי under-me-ward 2 Sam. (as above), which is somewhat different from תַּחְתַּי under me, תַּחְתֶּנָּה in its place ("he put flesh in-to its place"), בְּעַדֵנִי around me hither.

2. There is a tendency to obviate the extreme brevity and lightness of the forms resulting from the union of the prefix prepositions (§ 102) with the suffixes, especially with the shorter ones, by lengthening the preposition. Hence to בְּ is appended the syllable מוֹ, and מִן is lengthened into מִמֶּן (prop. a parte, from the side of —), and for בְּ and לְ we have at least בָּ and לָ with full vowel (§ 102, 1, c).

a) לְ with pronominal suffixes:

		Sing.	Plur.
1.		לִי to me.	לָנוּ to us.
2.	m.	לְךָ, לָכָה, in pause לָךְ to thee.	לָכֶם, לָכֶן* to you.
	f.	לָךְ	לָכֶנָּה
3.	m.	לוֹ to him.	לָהֶם, לָהֵמָּה, poet. לָמוֹ† to them.
	f.	לָהּ to her.	לָהֶן‡

בְּ takes suffixes in the same manner, except that for the 3*rd pers. plur.* we have both בָּהֶם and בָּם, fem. בָּהֵן, but not בָּמוֹ.

b) כְּ with pronominal suffixes:

		Sing.	Plur.
1.		כָּמֹנִי§ as I.	כָּמוֹנוּ as we.
2.	m.	כָּמוֹךָ as thou.	כָּכֶם, seldom כְּמוֹכֶם as ye.
	f.	—	— —
3.	m.	כָּמוֹהוּ as he.	כָּהֶם, כָּהֵמָּה, כְּמוֹהֶם as they.
	f.	כָּמוֹהָ as she.	כָּהֵנָּה, כָּהֵן —

c) מִן with pronominal suffixes:

		Sing.	Plur.
1.		מִמֶּנִּי, poet. מִנִּי, in p. מָנִּי from me.	מִמֶּנּוּ from us.
2.	m.	מִמְּךָ, in pause מִמָּךְ from thee.	מִכֶּם, מִכֶּן from you.
	f.	מִמֵּךְ
3.	m.	מִמֶּנּוּ, poet. מִנֶּהוּ, in p. מִנֵּהוּ from him.	מֵהֶם, מֵהֵמָּה, poet. מִנָּם, from them.
	f.	מִמֶּנָּה from her.	מֵהֶן, מֵהֵנָּה

* It can only be accidental that לָכֶן does not occur in the O. T.

† It has frequently been maintained, that the form לָמוֹ stands also for the sing. לוֹ, for which various explanations have been given. An analogy might certainly be found in the תִּקְטֹלְנָה used for תִּקְטֹל (§ 47, Rem. 3). But it is, in fact, so used only with reference to collectives; see Gen. ix. 26 (in reference to Shem — the Shemites), Ps. xxviii. 8, lxxiii. 10 (in reference to the people), Is. xliv. 16 (in reference to פֶּסֶל, אֵל, which the LXX have rendered θεοί), liii. 8 (in reference to the foregoing דּוֹרוֹ his generation, i. e. He and his like).

The same is true of עָלֵימוֹ for עֲלֵיהֶם; see Job xx. 23 (in reference to the ungodly man who, in the whole representation, vs. 5—20, is a collective, which obviously begins v. 5 with the plural רְשָׁעִים) and xxvii. 23 (comp. at the beginning of the representation, v. 13, עָרִיצִים). More striking is עָלֵימוֹ Job xxii. 2, in reference to גֶּבֶר man (human being). Yet this, too, is doubtless collective.

[It is proper to remark, that the use of לָמוֹ for the sing. לוֹ is still maintained by Ewald in his latest work, Ausführliches Lehrbuch der Heb. Sprache, 5te. Ausgabe, 1844. The same is maintained by other eminent scholars.—Tr.]

‡ Not לָהֵן, which signifies therefore.

§ The use of נִי for ִי here is simply for the sake of euphony.

The syllable מוֹ in כָּמוֹנִי (in Arabic מא = מה what, prop. according to what I, for as I) is in poetry appended to the pure prefixes בְּ, כְּ, לְ, even without suffixes, so that בָּמוֹ, כָּמוֹ, לָמוֹ appear again as independent words. In this case, poetry distinguishes itself from prose by the longer forms: in the case of מִן it has adopted the shorter ones, resembling those of the Syriac.

The preposition מִן with suff. makes מִמֶּנּוּ from him, which comes from מִמֶּנְּהוּ (according to § 19, 2, Rem.), and is identical in form with מִמֶּנּוּ from us, which comes from מִמֶּנְּנוּ. The Palestinian grammarians wanted to distinguish the last by writing it מִמֵּנוּ, but Aben Esra, with justice, objected. The form מִמֶּנָּה always stands without Mappiq, and comes from מִמֶּנְּהָ.

3. Several of these prepositions, especially those which express relations of space and time, are properly plural nouns, like the Germ. wegen (for the ground of this, see § 108, 2, a).* They occur (some of them exclusively, while others have also the singular) in the plural construct state, or in connexion with those forms of the suffixes which belong to plural nouns (§ 91, 2). These are—

אַחַר, more frequently אַחֲרֵי (prop. hinder parts), behind, with suff. always אַחֲרַי behind me, אַחֲרֶיךָ behind thee, אַחֲרָיו, אַחֲרֵיכֶם, etc.

אֶל-, poet. also אֵלַי (regions, directions), towards, to, with suff. always אֵלַי to me, אֵלָיו, אֲלֵיכֶם, אֲלֵיהֶם, for which latter also poet. אֲלֵימוֹ.

בֵּין (interval of space), between, with suff. בֵּינִי, בֵּינְךָ, but also בֵּינֶיךָ, בֵּינֵיכֶם, בֵּינוֹתֵינוּ, בֵּינוֹתָם (from בֵּינִים, בֵּינוֹת, intervals).

מִן from, out of, seldom מִנֵּי (plur. constr. st.), Is. xxx. 11.

עַד (progress, duration, from עָדָה) as far as, unto, plur. עֲדֵי (only poet.), but with suff. also in prose always עָדַי, עָדֶיךָ, עָדָיו, עֲדֵיכֶם (even the last with Qamets).

עַל upon, over, constr. st. of עָל that which is above (from עָלָה to go up), plur. עֲלֵי (only poet.) but with suff. also in prose always עָלַי, עָלֶיךָ, עָלָיו, עֲלֵיהֶם, for which עָלֵימוֹ is also used in poetry.

תַּחַת under (prop. that which is beneath), with suff. in plural תַּחְתַּי, תַּחְתָּיו, but also in the singular תַּחְתָּם.

SECT. 104.

CONJUNCTIONS.

1. Conjunctions serve to connect words and sentences, and to express their relation to each other. Most of them come originally from other parts of speech, viz.—

---

* Some of these words, which come from stems לה, viz., אֵלַי, עָלַי, עֲדֵי, may certainly be traced back to singular forms like אֵל, עָל, עַד; but the analogy of the others makes it more probable that these also should be regarded as plurals. Comp. the plural forms בְּנֵי from בֵּן; רֵעִי, רֵעֶיהָ, etc., from רֵעַ.

a) Pronouns, as אֲשֶׁר and כִּי that, because, for, the first being the common relative pronoun, and the last also having come from a pronominal stem (§ 36).

b) Adverbs, as אַל (not), that not, אִם (num?), if. Also adverbs with prepositions; e. g. בְּטֶרֶם (in the not yet), before that; or with a conjunction added, as אַף כִּי there is added that = much more or much less.

c) Prepositions which are fitted by the addition of the conjunctions אֲשֶׁר and כִּי to show the connexion between prepositions; e. g. יַעַן אֲשֶׁר because (from יַעַן on account of), prop. on this account, that, אַחַר אֲשֶׁר after that, כַּאֲשֶׁר according as, עֵקֶב כִּי and עֵקֶב אֲשֶׁר (in consequence that), because. The preposition may still be employed in this manner, even when the conjunction is omitted; e. g. עַל (for עַל אֲשֶׁר) because, עַל־כֵּן (for עַל־בֵּן־אֲשֶׁר) on this account that, because.

In like manner, all prepositions before the Infinitive may be rendered as conjunctions (§ 132, 2).

2. Even those words which are no longer in use except as conjunctions, seem to have belonged originally to other parts of speech, particularly nouns, and they generally betray their affinity with verbal roots, as אוּ (prop. desire, choice, from אָוָה to desire, comp. Prov. xxxi. 4) or, like vel, ve, kindred with velle; פֶּן (a turning away) that not. Even the only prefix conjunction וְ and must perhaps acknowledge relationship with יָו a fastening, a nail.

The pointing of the conjunction וְ is in many respects analogous to that of the prefixes בְּ, כְּ, לְ (§ 102, 2), but as a feeble letter it has some peculiarities.

a) Usually it has simple Sh'va (וְ).

b) Before words whose first consonant has simple Sh'va (excepting the cases under c), Vav becomes the vowel u, as וּלְכֹל (see § 26, 1, Rem). It is also sounded thus (yet with the exception of the case under d) before its cognate letters, the labials ב, מ, פ; as וּמָלָךְ and even before a Chateph (under letters not guttural), as וּזְהַב Gen. ii. 12.

c) Before יְ the Vav takes Chireq, as in וַיְהִי (for וְיְהִי, according to § 24, 1, a); and before הְ and חְ it is sometimes pointed with Chireq or Seghol, as וְהָיִיתֶם Jos. viii. 4, and וָחַיָּה Gen. xx. 7 (comp. § 63, Rem. 5).

d) Immediately before the tone-syllable, it often takes Qametz, like בְּ, כְּ, לְ, e. g. וָרֵע Ps. x. 15, and with the same limitation (§ 102, 2, c), especially when words are connected in pairs, as תֹּהוּ וָבֹהוּ Gen. i. 2, יוֹם וָלַיְלָה viii. 22, yet chiefly only at the end of a small clause, hence שֵׁם וְחָם וָיֶפֶת Gen. vii. 13, וּמָלָךְ אֱלֹהִים 1 Kings xxi. 10. It is otherwise when the word stands in close connection with the following, e. g. אִישׁ וְאִישׁ יֻלַּד בָּהּ Ps. lxxxvii. 5; and hence especially with monosyllabic words, the nature of which is to lean upon the following, as constantly וְזֶה, וְאֵת, וְלֹא, וְגַם and others.

SECT. 105.

INTERJECTIONS.

1. Among the interjections are several primitive words which are merely natural sounds expressed in writing, as אֲהָהּ, אָח ah! הוֹי, אוֹי woe! הָאָח ho! aha!

2. In Hebrew, many of our adjectives denoting a property, attribute, or habit, are expressed by circumlocution, viz., by an abstract noun or name of a thing, which designates the attribute, preceded by some general name of a person as the subject of the attribute. The subject is expressed by several words, viz.–

a) by אִישׁ man, e. g. אִישׁ דְּבָרִים an eloquent man, Ex. iv. 10: אִישׁ דַּעַת an intelligent man, Prov. xxiv. 5. b) by בַּעַל master, e. g. בַּעַל שֵׂעָר hairy, 2 Kings i. 8; בַּעַל הַחֲלמוֹת the dreamer, Gen. xxxvii. 19. c) by בֵּן son and בַּת daughter, e. g. בֶּן־חַיִל a valiant man, 1 Kings i. 52; בֶּן־קֶדֶם an oriental, Gen. xxix. 1; בֶּן־שָׁנָה one year old, Ex. xii. 5; בֶּן־מָוֶת doomed to death, 1 Sam. xx. 31; בַּת בְּלִיַּעַל a worthless woman, 1 Sam. i. 16.

A bolder construction, and merely poetic, is the use of the abstract in place of the concrete, as בְּלִיַּעַל worthlessness for worthless, like scelus for scelestissimus; and at the same time for the plural, as קֶשֶׁת bow for bowmen, Is. xxi. 17. So far as this is a common characteristic of language, see § 83, Rem. 1.

Rem. That, on the contrary, forms of adjectives and concretes often take the abstract signification, especially in the feminine, has been shown in § 84; comp. § 107, 3, b.

We may here remark, also, that the poets employ certain epitheta ornantia (which are at the same time perpetua) alone without the substantive; e. g. אָבִיר the Strong, i. e. God; אַבִּיר the strong, i. e. the bullock, in Jeremiah the horse; רוֹן the majestic, august, for the prince; לְבָנָה the pale, i. e. the moon. In Arabic this is even far more common. Comp. merum for vinum, ὑγρή i. e. the sea, Odyss. i. 97.

Sect. 107.

USE OF THE GENDERS.

Whether the Hebrew regarded a substantive as feminine is known partly from the feminine termination appended to it (§ 80, 1, 2), partly from its construction with a feminine predicate, and in most cases, though there are many exceptions (§ 87, 4), from the use of the feminine plural form. We have now to show for what purposes the designation of gender was employed.

1. The most natural use of it was with reference to the physical distinction of sex in men and beasts, but with several gradations, according as this natural distinction is more or less strongly indicated. The principal cases are the following, viz., a) when the female is designated by an entirely different word, which, of course, requires no feminine-ending, as father, mother, in Heb. אָב, אֵם; אַיִל ram, רָחֵל ewe, חֲמוֹר he-ass, אָתוֹן she-ass; b) when the female is indicated by the addition of the feminine-ending, as אָח brother, אָחוֹת sister; עֶלֶם young man, עַלְמָה young woman; פַּר juvencus, פָּרָה juvenca; עֵגֶל vitulus, עֶגְלָה vitula; c) when the feminine gender is shown only by the construction (communia), like ὁ, ἡ βοῦς; ὁ, ἡ παῖς, as גָּמָל camel, masc. Gen. xxxv. 63, but fem. xxxii. 16; בָּקָר masc. male cattle Ex. xxi. 37, but fem. for female cattle Job i. 14; d) when, without regard to the natural distinction of the sexes, only one form is employed in the same gender to designate both, as in ὁ λύκος, ἡ χελιδὼν (epicœna); e. g. דֹּב שַׁכּוּל masc. a bear robbed of her young, Hos. xiii. 8 (yet it is construed as feminine in 2 Kings ii. 24); אֶלֶף masc. ox, Ps. cxliv. 14, where the cow is intended.

Writers often neglect to avail themselves of the definite indications of gender given under a, b, c, where they exist in the language, and use less distinctive terms, e. g. חֲמוֹר and אַיִל as fem. for אָתוֹן and אַיָּלָה, 2 Sam. xix. 27, and Ps. xlii. 2; also נַעַר a youth for נַעֲרָה, in the Pent. and in Ruth ii. 21, comp. Job i. 19. Compare in German Gemahl for Gemahlin; in Arabic, also, the more ancient language avoids the feminine forms (e. g. בעלה mistress, ערוסה bride), which are common in later usage.

The same sparing use of the designation of sex appears also in other examples; viz., אָמוֹן masc. architect, Prov. viii. 30, where wisdom חָכְמָה fem. is meant (comp. artifex omnium natura, Plin. 2, 1); מֵת a dead body (masc.), spoken of the corpse of a woman, Gen. xxiii. 4, 6; אֱלֹהִים for a goddess, 1 Kings xi. 5, like Eng. friend, teacher, and Lat. auctor, martyr.

Among epicœne nouns are found names of whole species of animals, which the mind contemplated as masculine or feminine according as they appeared strong and powerful, or weak and timid; e. g. masc. כֶּלֶב dog, זְאֵב wolf; fem. יוֹנָה dove, חֲסִידָה stork, בַּת יַעֲנָה ostrich, אַרְנֶבֶת hare.

2. The most regular use is made of the feminine-ending for denoting the feminine gender, in the adjectives and participles. See § 87, 5.

3. Besides objects properly feminine, there are others (nearly the same which in Greek and Latin are neuter) for which the feminine form is preferred, viz.—

a) Things without life, for which the feminine, as the weaker, seemed to be the most suitable designation, as יָרֵךְ side (of the human body), thigh, יַרְכָה side (of the country), region; מֵצַח brow, מִצְחָה greave (from the resemblance).

b) Hence abstract ideas, which at least decidedly prefer the feminine form, even when the masculine is also in use; as נָקָם, נְקָמָה vengeance, עֵזֶר, עֶזְרָה help (§ 84, 11, 12). Adjectives when used abstractly or in a neuter sense (like τὸ καλὸν), commonly take the fem. form, as נְכוֹנָה the right, Ps. v. 10; so also in the plur. גְּדֹלוֹת great things, Ps. xii. 4.

c) At times the feminine form is applied, when a dignity or office is designated, which borders on the abstract sense, as פְּרָעוֹת princes (like highnesses), קֹהֶלֶת concionator, comp. סֹפֶרֶת as a man's name in Neh. vii. 57, Ezra ii. 55. Even the feminine plural, אָבוֹת fathers, appears to have some reference to dignity. These words are, however, agreeably to their signification construed with the masc. This use of words prevails more extensively in Arabic, Æthiopic, and Aramæan, e. g. in Caliph חליפה. A remote likeness is found in Lat. magistratus, Ger. Herrschaft (=Eng. lordship) for Herr (=Eng. lord), Obrigkeit for Oberer, Ital. podesta, etc.

d) Collectives, as אֹרֵחַ wanderer, traveller, אֹרְחָה caravan, prop. that which wandereth for the wanderers; גּוֹלָה (from masc. גּוֹלֶה) a company of exiles; יוֹשֶׁבֶת Is. xii. 6; Mic. i. 11, 12, prop. that which inhabiteth, for the inhabitants; אֹיֶבֶת, Mic. vii. 8, 10, for the enemies. So in Arabic often. Comp. the poetic בַּת צֹר for בְּנֵי צֹר sons=inhabitants of Tyre, Ps. xlv. 13 בְּנֵי עַמִּי=בַּת עַמִּי my countrymen. Examples of its application to things without life, עֲצָה timber, עֲנָנָה clouds, אַרְזָה cedar wainscot. Comp. τὸ ἱππικόν and ἡ ἵππος for the cavalry, ἡ κάμηλος (Herodotus I., 80).

e) But on the contrary the feminine appears, as in Arabic, now and then to denote an individual of a class, when the masculine is used of the whole class, e. g. אֳנִי ships, fleet (1 Kings ix. 26, comp. 2 Chron. viii. 18), אֳנִיָּה a single ship; שֵׂעָר hair (collectively), שַׂעֲרָה a single hair (see Judges xx. 16); so also תְּאֵנָה a fig, נֵצָה a blossom (besides the collective נֵץ Gen. xl. 10), and other instances. But the difference is partly overlooked in the Hebrew usage.

4. Many words (besides certain names of objects properly feminine, No. 1, a) are distinguished by the feminine construction, without the characteristic ending. They are chiefly embraced in the following classes:—

a) Names of countries and towns, contemplated as mothers,* or nurses, of the inhabitants, e. g. אַשּׁוּר fem. Assyria, אֱדוֹם fem. Idumæa, צוֹר Tyre; so also the appellative nouns which denote locality, as אֶרֶץ earth, תֵּבֵל the world, עִיר town, דֶּרֶךְ and אֹרַח way, חָצֵר court, מַחֲנֶה camp, שְׁאוֹל under-world, גֹּרֶן threshing-floor, בְּאֵר well, etc.; at times even מָקוֹם place, comp. Gen. xviii. 24, and 2 Sam. xvii. 12, K'thibh.†

As names of people are commonly masculine, it often happens that the same word is used as masc. for the name of a people, and as fem. for the name of a country; e. g. יְהוּדָה masc. Jews Is. iii. 8, fem. Judæa Lam. i. 3; אֱדוֹם masc. Idumæans Num. xx. 20, fem. Idumea Jer. xlix. 17.

But such a name is also even then construed as fem., when it is intended for the people, and this from a metaphorical use (like the German Pohlen ist im Aufstande), Job i. 15; 1 Sam. xvii. 21; Is. vii. 2; xxi. 2.‡

b) Members and parts of the body in man or beast, יָד and כַּף hand, רֶגֶל foot, עַיִן eye, אֹזֶן ear, זְרוֹעַ arm, לָשׁוֹן tongue, כָּנָף wing, קֶרֶן horn, שֵׁן tooth, בֶּטֶן womb, probably with reference to their subserviency as mere instruments,§ and hence also words for inanimate instruments and utensils, as חֶרֶב sword, יָתֵד peg, מַטֶּה and שֵׁבֶט staff, אָרוֹן chest, דַּד pail, עֶרֶשׂ bed, כּוֹס cup, also אֶבֶן stone, and many others. Most of these words and ideas have the same gender in the kindred dialects.

c) The words for light, fire, and other powers of nature, as שֶׁמֶשׁ sun, אֵשׁ fire (Æth. ĕsat), אוֹר (Job xxxvi. 32), and so אָח and תַּנּוּר oven, נֹגַהּ brightness, צֹהַר window, Gen. vi. 16, also רוּחַ wind and spirit, נֶפֶשׁ breath and soul, etc.‖

SECT. 108.

THE PLURAL AND COLLECTIVE NOUNS.

1. Besides the proper plural-endings (§ 87, 1, 2), the language employs some other means for the expression of plurality, viz., a) certain words, whose appropriate signification is collective, designating an indefinite number of a class of objects, and having their corresponding nomina unitatis, or nouns which designate

---

* Thus אֵם, 2 Sam. xx. 19, and on Phœnician coins, stands for mother-city, μητρόπολις (comp. μητήρ, mater), and by the same figure the inhabitants were called sons of the country, as sons of Zion, Ps. cxlix. 2; sons of Babylon, Eze. xxiii. 15 (comp. son of the house, son of the womb).

† As this word מָקוֹם is usually masc., we find also in the others more or less fluctuation in the gender.

‡ Here belongs the poetical personification of a people as a female, e. g. Is. xlvii.; l. 1; liv. 1 seq.; Eze. xvi.; Lam. i.

§ Of the masc. gender in these nouns the few examples are זְרוֹעַ Is. xvii. 5, שׁוֹק Ex. xxix. 27, עַיִן Zech. iv. 10, לָשׁוֹן Ps. xxii. 16.

‖ The particulars are found in the Lexicon. Some of these words, moreover, have the feminine-ending, as נְחֹשֶׁת brass, קֶשֶׁת bow (from the stem-word קוּשׁ), עֵת time (for עֶדֶת). These are only now and then construed as masculine, from a misapprehension of their origin.

an individual of the class, as שׁוֹר an ox (an individual of the ox kind), בָּקָר oxen, e. g. חֲמִשָּׁה בָקָר five oxen Ex. xxi. 37, צֹאן small cattle, viz., sheep or goats, שֶׂה an individual of the same, a sheep or a goat (comp. in Eng. twenty people); b) the feminine ending (§ 107, 3, d); c) nouns which have the proper signification of the singular, but which are also used as collectives; e. g. אָדָם man, the human race Gen. i. 26, אִישׁ collect. for men, דָּבָר words, אוֹיֵב the enemy for enemies. These words take the article, when all the individuals of the class are included (§ 109, 1). Comp. also § 107, 3, e.

2. On the other hand, the terminations which properly express plurality are employed in the expression of other kindred ideas, so that the Hebrew often uses plural forms where other languages employ the singular. The plural is used to denote—

a) Extension of space and time;* hence the frequent use of it to express portions of space, regions, or places, שָׁמַיִם heaven (§ 88, Rem. 2), מְרוֹמִים height Job xvi. 19, מַרְגְּלוֹת the place at the feet, מְרַאֲשׁוֹת the place at the head; certain portions of the body, which are parts of its extension,† as פָּנִים face, צַוָּארִים neck; spaces of time, as חַיִּים life, נְעוּרִים youth, זְקֻנִים old age; and finally states, qualities, which are permanent, or of long continuance, as עֲוָעִים perverseness, רַחֲמִים compassion, שְׁכוֹלִים childlessness.

b) Might and power, so far as these were originally conceived of as something distributed and complex (pluralis excellentiæ). So particularly we find אֱלֹהִים God (whether the use of this word originated in a polytheistic view, and then passed over to the "God of gods," or in a monotheistic view, and as such was intended to denote God's might in its manifestations), then a few times קְדֹשִׁים the Holy (God) Hos. xii. 1; Prov. ix. 10; xxx. 3 (comp. Jos. xxiv. 19, and Chald. עִלָּיִין the Highest Dan. vii. 18), and תְּרָפִים penates always in the plural, even when only one image is meant, 1 Sam. xix. 13, 16. Further אֲדֹנִים = אָדוֹן lord, e. g. אֲדֹנִים קָשֶׁה a hard lord Is. xix. 4, אֲדֹנֵי הָאָרֶץ the lord of the land Gen. xlii. 30; so also בַּעַל master with suff. often בְּעָלָיו his master, בְּעָלֶיהָ her master.‡

Rem. 1. The use of the plural, according to letter b, is very limited, and does not extend beyond the above words, which are used also in the singular as well. On the construction of these plurals with adjectives, see § 112, 1, Rem. 3; with verbs, in § 146, 2. On אֲדֹנָי used of God, see § 121 Rem. 4.

2. The plurals under a are also limited in common prose to few words, but in poetry there is a more extensive use of them, e. g. חֲשֵׁכִים tenebræ (of dark places), תַּעֲנוּגִים deliciæ, אֲמוּנִים faithfulness, and many others.

* By transferring an expression for numerical quantity to geometrical (comp. No. 4, Rem. 1). The language has other examples of the designation of great and many by the same word (see רַב, עָצוּם).

‡ Somewhat like is the use of we by kings when speaking of themselves (Ezra iv. 18; vii. 24; comp. 1 Mac. x. 19; xi. 31), a mode of speaking which is then applied to God (Gen. i. 26; xi. 7; Is. vi. 8). The Jewish grammarians call such a plural רִבּוּי הַכֹּחוֹת (pluralis virium or virtutum); the moderns call it pluralis excellentiæ or plur. majestaticus. The use of the plural as a form of respectful address, as modern languages have it, is somewhat different from the Hebrew usage.

3. When a substantive is followed by a genitive, and this compound idea is to be expressed in the plural, it is done, a) most naturally by the plural form in the governing noun, as גִּבֹּרֵי חַיִל strong heroes; so also in compounds, as בִּנְיָמִינִי Benjaminite, plur. בְּנֵי יְמִינִי 1 Sam. xxii. 7; b) in both, as גִּבֹּרֵי חֲיָלִים 1 Chron. vii. 5, בָּתֵּי כְלָאִים prison-houses, Is. xlii. 22, and hence בְּנֵי אֱלִים, Ps. xxix. 1, sons of Gods for sons of God; c) even only in the noun governed, as בֵּית אָב family, בֵּית אָבוֹת families Num. i. 2 foll., פְּרִי מְגָדִים precious fruits Cant. iv. 16. On this remark, which has hitherto been overlooked by grammarians, compare also Judges vii. 25 (the head of Oreb and Zeeb for the heads), 2 Kings xvii. 29, Dan. xi. 15. Here the two words, by which the compound idea is expressed, are treated as a *nomen compositum.

The connexion with suffixes is also effected according to letter c, as פִּימוֹ os eorum for ora eorum Ps. xvii. 10, יְמִינָם Ps. cxliv. 8, where we also can say their mouth, their right hand.

4. To the modes of expressing plurality belongs also the repetition of a noun, with or without the conjunction. By this is indicated the whole, all, every, as יוֹם יוֹם day by day, every day, אִישׁ אִישׁ every man, also אִישׁ וְאִישׁ Ps. lxxxvii. 5, וְיוֹם וְיוֹם Esth. iii. 4, דּוֹר וָדוֹר every generation Deut. xxxii. 7; hence distributively, as עֵדֶר עֵדֶר לְבַדּוֹ each flock by itself Gen. xxxii. 17; also a great multitude, even with the plural form, Gen. xiv. 10; בְּאֵרוֹת בְּאֵרוֹת חֵמָר asphalt-pits in abundance, nothing but asphalt-pits, 2 Kings iii. 16; Joel iv. 14; finally, diversity, more than one kind, as כֹּל signifies all and every kind, e. g. אֶבֶן וְאֶבֶן two kinds of weights Deut. xxv. 13, לֵב וָלֵב a double heart Ps. xii. 3; 1 Chron. xii. 33.

Not here but to rhetoric belongs impassioned repetition in exclamations (e. g. Jer. xxii. 29; Is. vi. 3). With many writers this appears to have but little emphasis, and to have become a habit (e. g. Is. xl. foll).

Rem. 1. Names of substances viewed as wholes (e. g. the metals, liquids, etc.) very seldom occur except in the singular, as זָהָב gold, כֶּסֶף silver, עֵץ wood, יַיִן wine (yet מַיִם water is expressed by the plural, but in Arabic it is singular). But when the word is used to express portions of a substance, then of course the plur. is used, as כְּסָפִים pieces of silver Gen. xlii. 25, comp. Is. i. 25; עֲצִים ligna, timber (for building or burning). So of grain, as חִטָּה wheat (growing in the field), חִטִּים wheat in the grain.

2. Even in cases where the plural is regarded as merely poetic, we are to connect with it the idea of real plurality, e. g. Job xvii. 1, the graves are my portion, equivalent to grave-yard, many graves being usually found together, xxi. 32; יַמִּים seas for sea Job vi. 3; comp. Gen. xli. 49.

* All the three methods occur also in Syriac and Æthiopic. See Hoffmanni Gram. Syriaca, p. 254; Ludolfi Gram. Æthiopica, p. 139; Dillmann Gram. d. äthiop. Spr., S. 364 ff.

SECT. 109.

USE OF THE ARTICLE.

The article (הַ, הָ, § 35) was originally a demonstrative pronoun (as in other, e. g. the Romance, languages, comp. ὁ, ἡ, τό in Homer); yet its force was so slight that it was used almost exclusively as a prefix to the noun.

The stronger demonstrative force of הַ (this) is still found in some connexions, as הַיּוֹם this day, to-day; הַלַּיְלָה this night, to-night; הַפַּעַם this time. To this demonstrative sense is to be referred in particular, a) the fact, that sometimes it stands for the relative before the verb, e. g. הַנִּמְצָאִ that are found, 1 Chron. xxix. 17; xxvi. 28; Jos. x. 24; Ezra viii. 25; comp. Gen. xviii. 21; xlvi. 27; Job ii. 11; and so הָעֹלָיִךְ i. q. אֲשֶׁר עָלַיִךְ 1 Sam. ix. 24; b) the case where it is employed, mostly before a participle, to connect and to point back to a subject noun, in order to make it again prominent, Ps. xix. 10, the laws of Jehovah are truth . . . . ver. 11, הַנֶּחְמָדִים they that are precious: here the article has nearly the force of הֵמָּה αὐτοί. So also in Ps. civ. 8 (three times); Is. xl. 22, 23; xlvi. 6; Gen. xlix. 21; Job xli. 25; and still more forcibly in Ps. xviii. 33, הָאֵל הַמְאַזְּרֵנִי חָיִל the God that girds me with strength; ver. 48; Jer. xix. 13; Neh. x. 38.

The article is employed with a noun to limit its application in nearly the same cases as in Greek and German (or English); viz., only when a definite object, one previously mentioned, or already known, or the only one of its kind, is the subject of discourse; e. g. Gen. i. 3, God said, Let there be light (אוֹר), ver. 4, and God saw the light (אֶת־הָאוֹר); 1 Kings iii. 24, Bring me a sword, and they brought the sword; comp. Eccles. ix. 15; הַמֶּלֶךְ שְׁלֹמֹה the king Solomon, הַשֶּׁמֶשׁ the sun, הָאָרֶץ the earth. Besides these examples, see Eccles. i. 12, I am king (מֶלֶךְ) over Jerusalem.

In such definite cases the article can be omitted only in poetry, where it is used, in general, less frequently than in prose; e. g. מֶלֶךְ for הַמֶּלֶךְ Ps. xxi. 2, אֶרֶץ for הָאָרֶץ Ps. ii. 2.

Special cases in which the article is commonly employed, are—

1. When a general word is used collectively to denote all the individuals belonging to it, as the righteous, the unrighteous, Eccles. iii. 17; the woman for the female sex, Eccles. vii. 26; the Canaanite, Gen. xiii. 7; xv. 19, 20, like the Russian, the Turk.*

2. When a common term is applied by way of eminence to a particular person, and thus becomes a kind of proper name, like ὁ ποιητής (Homer), as שָׂטָן adversary, הַשָּׂטָן the adversary, Satan; בַּעַל lord, הַבַּעַל (prop. name of the idol) Baal; הָאָדָם the first man, Adam; הָאֵל, הָאֱלֹהִים ὁ Θεός, the only, true God = יְהוָה (yet this word אֱלֹהִים is often so used without the article, because it approaches the nature of a proper name, § 110, 1); הַנָּהָר the river, i. e. the Euphrates; הַכִּכָּר the region around, viz., that around the Jordan

3. Hence it is used also with actual proper names of rivers, mountains, and of many towns, with reference to their original appellative signification (comp. the Hague, le Havre), as הַיְאֹר the Nile (prop. the river), הַלְּבָנוֹן Lebanon (prop. the white mountain), הָעַי the town Ai (prop. the stone-heap). But its use in connexion with names of towns is unfrequent, and in poetry is generally omitted. (Comp. § 110, 1).

Rem. 1. The Hebrew article certainly never stands for the indefinite article; but the Hebrew conceives and expresses many ideas definitely, which we are accustomed to conceive and express indefinitely. This is most commonly seen—

a) In comparisons, where fancy paints the image of an object, and causes a more distinct perception, e. g. white as the wool, as the snow, red as the scarlet Is. i. 18, as the cattle Ps. xlix. 15, he hurls thee like the ball Is. xxii. 18, the heavens are rolled up like the scroll xxxiv. 4; comp. x. 14; xxiv. 20; xxvii. 10; liii. 6; Ps. xxxiii. 7. Instructive examples in Judges xiv. 6; xvi. 9; Is. xxix. 8. Yet where the noun compared is already made definite by an adjective, the article does not stand any more than when a genitive follows, e. g. כְּיַיִן Is. x. 14, but כְּיַיִן מְשֻׁלָּח xvi. 2, comp. Ps. i. 4 with Is. xxix. 5. Exceptions are rare, as כְּגִבּוֹר Job xvi. 14, כְּאָב xxxi. 18.

b) In the names of classes of objects which are generally known, e. g. the gold, the silver, the cattle, the water. Hence Gen. xiii. 2, Abraham was very rich in the cattle, the silver, and the gold, where most languages would omit the article. He had much, is the Hebrew's conception, of these well-known treasures. Comp. Gen. xli. 42; Ex. xxxi. 4; xxxv. 32; Is. i. 22.

c) Often also in the expression of abstract ideas (like τὸ ἱππικόν, la modestie), hence of physical and moral evils, as the blindness Gen. xix. 11, the darkness Is. lx. 2, the falsehood Is. xxix. 21.

On these principles, it is easy to explain the use of the article in special cases, as in 1 Sam. xvii. 34, הָאֲרִי the lion, as the well-known enemy of the flocks (comp. τὸν λύκον, John x. 12); 1 Kings xx. 36; Gen. viii. 7, 8; xiv. 13. The frequent expression וַיְהִי הַיּוֹם should not be translated it happened on a day, but the day, (at) the time, viz., as referring to what precedes.

2. The vocative also takes the article, and for the most part in those cases where it is usually required; e. g. יְהוֹשֻׁעַ הַכֹּהֵן הַגָּדוֹל, O Joshua, high priest, Zech. iii. 8; 1 Sam. xxiv. 9.

SECT. 110.

The article is regularly *omitted—

1. Before the proper name of a person or a country (דָּוִד, מִצְרַיִם), and also of a people, when it coincides with the name of the founder of the race or the name of

---

* In these particulars (relating to the omission of the definite article, viz., before proper names, before nouns in construction with a genitive or with a possessive pronoun, and before predicates), the usage of our language corresponds to that of the Hebrew. The same is true of the Celtic tongues. In Greek, it is quite otherwise, the article being freely used in all these cases except the last.—TR.

their country (אֶרֶם, יִשְׂרָאֵל). On the contrary, gentilic nouns admit it both in the sing. and plur., as הָעִבְרִים, the Hebrews 1 Sam. xiii. 3, הַכְּנַעֲנִי the Canaanite (collect. § 109, 1).

2. Before substantives, rendered definite by a following genitive or a suffix, which renders the use of the article unnecessary; e. g. דְּבַר אֱלֹהִים God's word, אָבִי my father.

When the article is by way of exception used in these two cases, some special reason can generally be assigned for it; e. g.

a) In some cases the demonstrative power of the article is required; as Jer. xxxii. 12, I gave this bill of sale (אֶת־הַסֵּפֶר הַמְּקָנָה) with reference to verse 11; Jos. viii. 33, חֶצְיוֹ a half thereof; in the next clause הַחֶצְיוֹ the (other) half thereof, Is. ix. 12.

b) When the genitive is a proper name which does not admit the article (according to No. 1), as הַמִּזְבַּח בֵּית־אֵל the altar of Bethel 2 Kings xxiii. 17, הָאֵל בֵּית־אֵל the God of Bethel Gen. xxxi. 13, הַמֶּלֶךְ אַשּׁוּר the king of Assyria Is. xxxvi. 16; comp. Gen. xxiv. 67; Jer. xlviii. 32; Eze. xlvii. 15 (comp. xlviii. 1).

c) In others the connexion between the noun and the following genitive is somewhat loose, so that the first forms a perfect idea by itself, while the second conveys only a supplemental idea relating to the material or purpose, as הָאֶבֶן הַבְּדִיל the weight, the leaden one Zech. iv. 10, הַמִּזְבַּח הַנְּחשֶׁת the altar of brass 2 Kings xvi. 14, נִשְׁאֵי הָאָרוֹן הַבְּרִית Jos. iii. 14, Ex. xxviii. 39, כָּל־הַמַּמְלָכוֹת הָאָרֶץ Jer. xxv. 26.

3. Before the predicate, which from its nature is indeterminate, as Gen. xxix. 7, עוֹד הַיּוֹם גָּדוֹל yet is the day great, it is yet high day; xxxiii. 13; xl. 18; xli. 26; Is. v. 20, הָאֹמְרִים לַטּוֹב רָע who call the good evil; lxvi. 3.

Yet there are cases where the nature of the predicate requires the article, Gen. ii. 11 הוּא הַסֹּבֵב it is the encompassing, i. e. that which encompasses; xlv. 12, כִּי פִי הַמְדַבֵּר that my mouth (is) the speaking = it is my mouth that speaketh; Gen. xlii. 6; Ex. ix. 27; Num. iii. 24. See another case where the article stands before the predicate in § 109, beginning.

SECT. 111.

1. When a compound idea, expressed by a noun in the constr. st. followed by its genitive, is to be made definite, it is done by prefixing the article to the noun in the genitive; as אִישׁ מִלְחָמָה a man of war Jos. xvii. 1, אַנְשֵׁי הַמִּלְחָמָה the men of war Num. xxxi. 49; דְּבַר שָׁקֶר a word of falsehood Prov. xxix. 12, דְּבַר הַנָּבִיא the word of the prophet Jer. xxviii. 9.

The article is put in the same way when only the genitive, and not the nomen regens, is definite, as חֶלְקַת הַשָּׂדֶה a part of the field 2 Sam. xxiii. 11 (see on the contrary Jos. xxiv. 32, Gen. xxxiii. 19), אִישׁ הָאֲדָמָה a husbandman Gen. ix. 20 (on the contrary אִישׁ שָׂדֶה Gen. xxv. 27). Yet in this case we usually find another construction, in order to avoid the ambiguity, see § 115.

N.B. This explains the use of the article after כֹּל prop. totality, the whole. The article is inserted after it to express definitely all, whole (like tous les hommes, toute la ville), and is omitted when it is used indefinitely for of all kinds, any thing, or distributively for every (tout homme, à tout prix);* e. g. כָּלהָאָדָם all men, כָּלהָאָרֶץ the whole earth, prop. the whole of men, the whole of earth; but כָּלאֲבָנוֹ stones of all kinds 1 Chron. xxix. 2, כָּלדָּבָר any thing Judges xix. 19, כָּלהַיּוֹם every day Ps vii. 12. Yet also כל חַי every living thing = all living.

Even compound proper names may be resolved again into two words, and then the second takes the article; e. g. בִּנְיָמִינִי Benjaminite (§ 86, 5), בִּנְיָמִינִי Judges iii. 15, בֵּית הַלַּחְמִי the Bethlemite 1 Sam. xvii. 58.

Exceptions where the article stands before the governing noun and not before the genitive, see in § 110, 2, b. So in the later style, Dan. xi. 31; comp. xii. 11.

2. When the substantive has the article, or (which is equivalent) is made definite by a following genitive or a suffix, then the adjective, as well as the pronoun זֶה, הוּא (§ 122, 1), belonging to the substantive, takes also the article. Gen. x. 12, הָעִיר הַגְּדֹלָה the great city; xxviii. 19, הַמָּקוֹם הַהוּא that place; Deut. iii. 24, יָדְךָ הַחֲזָקָה thy strong hand; מַעֲשֵׂה יְהוָה הַגָּדוֹל the great work of Jehovah.

Not quite unfrequent is the use of the article—

a) With the adjective alone, which then serves to make the noun definite, e. g. יוֹם הַשִּׁשִּׁי, Gen. i. 31, day the sixth = the sixth day (on the contrary יוֹם שֵׁנִי a second day, i. 8); xli. 26; 1 Sam. xix. 22; Ps. lxii. 4; civ. 18; Neh. iii. 6; ix. 35; Zech. xiv. 10. So also נֶפֶשׁ הַחַיָּה Gen. i. 21; ix. 10. This is the usual construction, when the adjective is properly a participle, as Jer. xlvi. 16, חֶרֶב הַיּוֹנָה the sword that doeth violence.

b) With the substantive only, as in Eze. xxxix. 27; 2 Sam. vi. 3 (perhaps to be amended); yet rather frequently in connexion with the pronouns הוּא and זֶה, which are sufficiently definite of themselves, as בַּלַּיְלָה הוּא Gen. xxxii. 23, הַדּוֹר זֶה Ps. xii. 8; particularly when the noun is made definite only by a suffix, עֲבָדֶיךָ אֵלֶּה 1 Kings x. 8; comp. Ex. x. 1; Jos. ii. 20; Judges xvi. 5, 6, 15. Designedly indefinite is דִּבָּתָם רָעָה Gen. xxxvii. 2, an evil report respecting them (דִּבָּתָם הָרָעָה would be the evil report); compare Num. xiv. 37; Gen. xlii. 19, אֲחִיכֶם אֶחָד in the sense of one of your brethren.

Sect. 112.

CONNEXION OF THE SUBSTANTIVE WITH THE ADJECTIVE.

1. The adjective, which serves to qualify the substantive, stands after it, and agrees with it in gender and number (as אִישׁ גָּדוֹל, אִשָּׁה גְּדוֹלָה); and also in being made definite (according to § 111, 2). Comp. § 117, 2.

Rem. 1. It very seldom occurs that the qualifying adjective stands before its substantive; when this is the case, some emphasis rests on it, as Is. xxviii. 21; liii. 11; Ps. lxxxix. 51; cxlv. 7; compare also Ps. xviii. 4. Merely poetic is the form of expression אֲפִיקֵי מְגִנִּים, Job xli. 7, the strong of shields for strong shields (comp. ver. 22; Is. xxxv. 9); or with a collective noun instead of the plural, אֶבְיוֹנֵי אָדָם the poor of men = the poor, Is. xxix. 19; Hos. xiii. 2. Similar is the Lat. canum degeneres.

2. When substantives of the feminine gender or those which incline to it (§ 107, 4) take two adjectives, the feminine form sometimes appears only in the one which stands nearest the substantive; as סְלָאָה וְנָמֵס 1 Sam. xv. 9; רוּחַ גְּדֹלָה וְחָזָק 1 Kings xix. 11, Ps. lxiii. 2. Comp § 147, Rem. 1.

* What is here said of כל applies also to its Greek equivalent, pâs; e. g. pâsa ἡ polis the whole city (Matt viii. 34), but pâsa polis every city (Matt. xii. 25).—Tr.

N.B. 3. In regard to number, the nouns in the dual take adjectives in the plural, as עֵינַיִם רָמוֹת lofty eyes Prov. vi. 17; Ps. xviii. 28; Job iv. 3, 4; Is. xxxv. 3. Moreover, the constructio ad sensum is frequent. Collectives are construed with the plural in 1 Sam. xiii. 15; Jer. xxviii. 4; but the pluralis majestatis (108, 2, b) on the contrary with the singular, as אֱלֹהִים צַדִּיק Ps. vii. 10; Is. xix. 4 (but with the plur. 1 Sam. xvii. 26).

2. An adjective, when its meaning is more fully determined by a substantive, is followed by it in the genitive case,* as יְפֵה־תֹאַר beautiful in form Gen. xxxix. 6, נְקִי כַפַּיִם pure in hands Ps. xxiv. 4, אֲנְמֵי נָפֶשׁ sorrowful in spirit Is. xix. 10. (Comp. the construction of the Participle, § 132.) In the same manner are often construed the participles and verbal adjectives, only that they govern also the cases of their verbs; see § 135.

3. On the adjective as predicate of the sentence, see § 144 foll.

APPOSITION.

1. By this is meant the placing together of two substantives, so that one of them (commonly the second†) serves to limit or qualify the other, as אִשָּׁה אַלְמָנָה a woman (who is) a widow, 1 Kings vii. 14; נַעֲרָה בְתוּלָה a damsel (who is) a virgin, Deut. xxii. 28; אֲמָרִים אֱמֶת words (which are) truth, Prov. xxii. 21. Sometimes the first of the two substantives has the form of the constr. st., see § 116, 5.

Also two adjectives may stand in apposition, in which case the first modifies the sense of the second, as בַּהוֹת לְבָנוֹת בַּהֶרֹת pale white spots, Lev. xiii. 39; in verse 19, בַּהֶרֶת לְבָנָה אַדְמֳדֶמֶת a white red (bright red) spot.

Sect. 114.

THE GENITIVE.

1. It has been shown above (§ 89) that the Hebrew regularly expresses the genitive relation by making the noun in the genitive dependent upon, and closely connected with, the nomen regens in the constr. st. A genitive is always dependent only upon one governing noun. The language avoids,* also, letting a noun in the constr. st. be followed by several connected genitives, but, instead of it, rather repeats the nomen regens; e. g. Gen. xxiv. 3, אֱלֹהֵי הַשָּׁמַיִם וֵאלֹהֵי הָאָרֶץ the God of the heavens and the God of the earth. But several genitives may follow in succession when they depend on each other. Even then the repetition of the constr. st. has indeed often been avoided (see § 115), though this was not always attended to; e.g. יְמֵי שְׁנֵי חַיֵּי אֲבוֹתַי the days of the years of the life of my fathers, Gen. xlvii. 9; שְׁאָר מִסְפַּר־קֶשֶׁת גִּבּוֹרֵי בְנֵי־קֵדָר the residue of the number of the bows of the mighty ones of the children of Kedar, Is. xxi. 17.*

---

* In Greek and Latin, the genitive is employed in the same manner, as tristis animi; see Ruhnken. ad Vell. Paterculum, 2, 93.

† The first only in certain formulas, as הַמֶּלֶךְ דָּוִיד, הַמֶּלֶךְ שְׁלֹמֹה, like our the king David, the king Solomon: where the arrangement דָּוִיד הַמֶּלֶךְ, 2 Sam. xiii. 39, like Cicero consul, is of rare occurrence.

In these examples (comp. also Is. x. 12, Job xii. 24 and others) all the nouns but the last are in the construct state. Yet we find also examples where the genitives, being subordinate to the main thought and serving merely as a periphrasis for the adjective, stand in the absolute state, while only the following genitive is dependent on the main thought. Thus, in Is. xxviii. 1, גֵּיא שְׁמָנִים הַלּוּמֵי יָיִן the fat valley (prop. valley of fatness) of the smitten of wine, 1 Chron. ix. 13; Ps. lxviii. 22.

Similar but rare is the case when a noun has first an adjective and then a genitive after it, as אֶבֶן שְׁלֵמָה מַסָּע unhewn stones of the quarry, 1 Ki. vi. 7. The usual construction is like עֲטֶרֶת זָהָב גְּדֹלָה a large crown of gold, Esth. viii. 15.

2. The noun in the genitive expresses not only the subject, but at times also the object; e. g. Eze. xii. 19, חֲמַס הַיֹּשְׁבִים the wrong which the inhabitants did, on the contrary Obad. verse 10, חֲמַס אָחִיךָ the wrong against thy brother;† Prov. xx. 2, אֵימַת מֶלֶךְ the fear of a king, זַעֲקַת סְדֹם the cry concerning Sodom Gen. xviii. 20, שֵׁמַע צֹר the report about Tyre; comp. also § 121, 5. Other applications of the genitive are, דֶּרֶךְ עֵץ way to the tree Gen. iii. 24, קְצִינֵי סְדֹם judges like those in Sodom Is. i. 10, זִבְחֵי אֱלֹהִים sacrifices pleasing to God Ps. li. 19, שְׁבֻעַת יְהוָה an oath sworn by Jehovah 1 Ki. ii. 43.

3. Not unfrequently the genitive construction stands also in the place of apposition, as נְהַר פְּרָת river of Euphrates; see more in § 116, 5.

Rem. 1. Between the noun in the constr. st. and the following genitive is found, in some rare cases, a word intervening, as in Hos. xiv. 3; 2 Sam. i. 9; Job xxvii. 3 (in all these passages the word intervenes after כֹּל, comp. also Is. xxxviii. 16).

2. Proper names, as being in general of themselves sufficiently definite, seldom take a genitive for further specification; yet this is the case with geographical names, אוּר כַּשְׂדִּים Ur of the Chaldees Gen. xi. 28, אֲרַם נַהֲרַיִם Aram of the two rivers=Mesopotamia; so also יְהוָה צְבָאוֹת Jehovah of hosts for Jehovah the Lord of hosts.

* It would be contrary to the Hebrew idiom to say בְּנֵי וּבְנוֹת דָּוִד the sons and daughters of David, but this must be expressed by בְּנֵי דָוִד וּבְנֹתָיו the sons of David and his daughters. [See note on verse 12, p. 275.—Tr.]

† In Latin, the genitive is similarly used after injuria (Cæs. B. Gall. 1, 30), metus (like metus hostium, metus Pompeii), spes, and other words. Comp. Aul. Gell. 9, 12. In Greek compare πίστις τοῦ Θεοῦ, λόγος τοῦ σταυροῦ, 1 Cor. 1. 18.

SECT. 115.

EXPRESSION OF THE GENITIVE BY CIRCUMLOCUTION.

Besides the indication of the genitive relation by the construct state (see in § 89, and § 114), there are certain periphrastic indications, chiefly by means of the preposition לְ, denoting the relation of belonging, which is not unlike that of the genitive. Accordingly, we find—

1. לְ אֲשֶׁר, used principally for the genitive of possession, as הַצֹּאן אֲשֶׁר לְאָבִיהָ Gen. xxix. 9, xlvii. 4, the flock of her father (prop. the flock which to her father belonged); and also where there would be several successive genitives (to avoid the repetition of the constr. st., but see § 114, 1), as אַבִּיר הָרֹעִים אֲשֶׁר לְשָׁאוּל the chief of the herdsmen of Saul 1 Sam. xxi. 8, שִׁיר הַשִּׁירִים אֲשֶׁר לִשְׁלֹמֹה the song of songs of Solomon Cant. i. 1; Gen. xl. 5; 2 Sam. ii. 8; 1 Chron. xi. 10. (Hence the Rabbinic designation of the genitive שֶׁל; in Syriac and Chaldee, the relative דִּי, also דְ alone is the usual sign of the genitive.)

2. לְ (without אֲשֶׁר), which also denotes the idea of belonging, and hence the genitive of possession,* as הַצֹּפִים לְשָׁאוּל the watchmen of Saul, 1 Sam. xiv. 16. This is used particularly, a) when the governing (or first) noun is expressly regarded as indefinite, e. g. בֶּן לִישַׁי a son of Jesse 1 Sam. xvi. 18 (whereas בֶּן יִשַׁי signifies as well the son of Jesse), כֹּהֵן לְאֵל עֶלְיוֹן a priest of the most high God Gen. xiv. 18, xli. 12, שְׁנֵי עֲבָדִים לְשִׁמְעִי two servants of Shimei 1 Kings ii. 39, אֹהֵב לְדָוִד a friend of David (was Hiram) 1 Kings v. 15, מִזְמֹר לְדָוִד also מִזְמוֹר לְדָוִד a psalm of David (i. e. belonging to him as the author), and elliptically לְדָוִד of David Ps. xi. 1, xiv. 1; b) when several genitives depend on one substantive, e. g. חֶלְקַת הַשָּׂדֶה לְבֹעַז a portion of the field of Boaz Ruth ii. 3, 2 Kings v. 9, דִּבְרֵי הַיָּמִים לְמַלְכֵי יִשְׂרָאֵל the chronicles of the kings of Israel 1 Kings xv. 31, רָאשֵׁי הָאָבוֹת לְמַטּוֹת בְּנֵי יִשְׂרָאֵל Josh. xix. 51, where the pairs of more closely-connected nouns which form one conception are joined by means of the constr. state, while there is between them the לְ indicating a looser connexion (yet comp. § 114, 1); c) after specifications of number, e. g. בְּשִׁבְעָה וְעֶשְׂרִים יוֹם לַחֹדֶשׁ on the seven and twentieth day of the month, Gen. viii. 14.

SECT. 116.

FURTHER USE OF THE CONSTRUCT STATE.

The construct state, as it serves in general to put two nouns in close connexion, is, in the flow of speech, used not only for the genitive relation, but also—

1) Before prepositions, particularly in poetry, and mostly when the governing word is a participle, e. g. before בְּ, as שִׂמְחַת בְּקָצִיר the joy in the harvest, Is. ix. 2,

* Philologically considered, the Gascon says no less correctly la fille à Mr. N., than the written language la fille de —; the former expresses the idea of belonging, the latter that of descent. The Arabians distinguish a twofold genitive; viz., one which has the force of ל, and one which has that of מן. We have the latter conception of this relation in the de of modern languages that are derived from the Latin (the Romance languages). In Greek, we may compare the so-called σχῆμα Κολοφώνιον, e. g. ἡ κεφαλὴ τῷ ἀνθρώπῳ for τοῦ ἀνθρώπου (see Bernhardy's Syntax, p. 88).

v. 11; before לְ, as אֹהֲבֵי לָנוּם Is. lvi. 10, xxx. 18, Ps. lviii. 5, Job xviii. 2; before אֶל Is. xiv. 19; before מִן, as גְּמוּלֵי מֵחָלָב weaned from milk, Is. xxviii. 9; before עַל in Judges v. 10.*

2) Before the relative pronoun, e. g. מְקוֹם אֲשֶׁר the place where —, Gen. xl. 3.

3) Before relative clauses without אֲשֶׁר, e. g. קִרְיַת חָנָה דָוִד the city where David dwelt Is. xxix. 1, מְקוֹם לֹא יָדַע אֵל the place of him who knows not God Job xviii. 21, 1 Sam. xxv. 15, Ps. xc. 15. Comp. § 123, 3, Rem. 1.

4) Rarely even before Vav copulative, as חָכְמַת וְדַעַת Is. xxxiii. 6, xxxv. 2, li. 21.

5) In appositions (viz., where an actual genitive relation cannot be supposed, as in § 114, 3), e. g. 1 Sam. xxviii. 7, אֵשֶׁת בַּעֲלַת אוֹב a woman, mistress of a sooth-saying spirit (comp. παιδισκη ἔχουσα πνεῦμα πύθωνος, Acts xvi. 16), as also in בְּתוּלַת בַּת צִיּוֹן virgin daughter of Zion, Is. xxxvii. 22; Jer. xiv. 17.

6) Also in other cases where close connexion is to be expressed: thus, at times we have אַחַד one for אֶחָד 2 Sam. xvii. 22, Zech. xi. 7, Is. xxvii. 12; and moreover Is. xxviii. 4, 16. Compare besides the constr. st. in the numerals as in thirteen, fourteen (§ 97, 2), and in the adverb (§ 100, 2, c).

Rem. While in the above cases the absolute st. could in general stand quite as well as the construct, there are yet also constructions where the constr. st. might be expected rather than the absolute. Thus, for example—

a) In geographical names like אָבֵל בֵּית מַעֲכָה Abel Beth-Maachah† (i. e. Abel of Beth-Maachah, to distinguish it from other places called Abel). Comp. on the contrary, § 114, Rem. 2.

b) In some other instances where the connexion is not close enough for the genitive relation, so that it must rather be considered as apposition, or the second noun as an adverbial accusative (§ 118). Here belongs Eze. xlvii. 4, מַיִם בִּרְכַּיִם not water of the knees, so much as water up to the knees; Is. xxx. 20, מַיִם לָחַץ water of affliction, or rather water in affliction.

c) In the expression אֱלֹהִים צְבָאוֹת God hosts elliptical for אֱלֹהֵי צְבָאוֹת God (the God) of hosts.

Sect. 117.

INDICATION OF THE OTHER CASES.

1. As the Hebrew language has lost the living use of case-endings (§ 90), we must consider what substitutes it adopted for expressing the different relations of case. The nominative is always to be known only from the syntactical construction.

---

* The constr. state appears also before אֵת, the sign of the accusative, in Jer. xxxiii. 22, מְשָׁרְתַי אֹתִי.

† So in English, York-street, Covent-garden, for near Covent-garden. But in Latin the genitive is used in such cases, as Augusta Vindelicorum.

On the modes of expressing the genitive, see §§ 114–116. Other cases are periphrastically expressed by means of prepositions, the dative by לְ, the ablative by מִן (from, out of), and the locative and instrumental by בְּ (in, at); but the Shemite regards the nouns dependent on these prepositions as genitives, because these particles were themselves originally nouns. In Arabic they have also the genitive termination. Comp. § 101, 1.

On the use of the dative particle לְ, in so far as it serves to express also our genitive, see § 115, 1, 2.

2. The accusative, when expressing direction or motion to a place, has still frequently its ending ־ָה (§ 90, 2). Else it is, like the nominative, to be known only from the structure of the sentence. Yet we may often know it by the preceding אֶת־ or אֵת (before suffixes also אוֹת), which, however, is not used before a noun except when that noun is made definite by the article, the construct state, a suffix, or otherwise (Gen. vi. 2; 2 Sam. xiii. 17, xviii. 18), or is a proper name. Such is the usage in prose, but not so much in poetry; e. g. Gen. i. 1, אֵת הַשָּׁמַיִם וְאֵת הָאָרֶץ (on the contrary, אֶרֶץ וְשָׁמַיִם Gen. ii. 4, vi. 10, Ex. i. 11).*

The cases are rare in which אֵת stands before an indeterminate noun, but somewhat oftener in the loftier style, where the article also may be omitted before a noun that is definite according to the sense (§ 109), as Prov. xiii. 21, אֶת־צַדִּיקִים, Is. l. 4, Job xiii. 25, Eze. xliii. 10. Very seldom in prose, like 1 Sam. xxiv. 6, Ex. ii. 1 (where, however, the noun is made definite by the context). (See also Ex. xxi. 28, Num. xxi. 9).

SECT. 118.

USE OF THE ACCUSATIVE.

The accusative is employed, 1) to express the object of the transitive verbs (§ 138); but also, 2) in certain adverbial designations, where it is no longer governed immediately by the verb. We shall here treat only of the latter.

* אוֹת, which, in close connexion with a following word and without the tone, becomes אֶת־ and then again with the tone אֵת, is properly a substantive derived from a pronominal stem. It signifies essence, substance (comp. אוֹת a sign), but in construction with a following noun or suffix it stands for the pronoun ipse, αὐτός (comp. a similar usage in § 124, Rem. 3). But in common use it has so little stress, that it only points out a definite object. Its force is here as feeble as that of the oblique cases αὐτοῦ, αὐτῷ, αὐτόν; ipsi, ipsum; Germ. desselben, demselben, denselben; and the Hebrew אֵת הַיְּקָמִים prop. αὐτὸν τὸν οὐρανόν (comp. αὐτὴν Χρυσηΐδα Il. i. 144) it, the heaven, is not stronger than τὸν οὐρανόν. That אֵת may denote also the nominative, is not of itself inconceivable, and appears to be actually the case in some instances, like Hag. ii. 17, 2 Kings xviii. 30 (yet it is wanting in the parallel passage Is. xxxvi. 15), perhaps also Jos. xxii. 17, Dan. ix. 13. Yet in other places, which some rather reckon with the foregoing (e. g. 2 Sam. xi. 25, Neh. ix. 32, and even 1 Sam. xvii. 34), it may be considered as a loosely-governed accusative, which it certainly designates when connected with the passive (see § 143, 1, a). In Eze. xlvii 17, 18, 19, אֵת stands for זֹאת, and perhaps ought to be so emended in the text; comp. verse 20.

The second of the above usages is undoubtedly derived from the first, and to this still belong several constructions in which the accusative is commonly supposed to be used adverbially (§ 138, 1, Rem. 3). But we are not therefore authorised to reject altogether the adverbial use of the accusative.

Accordingly, the accusative is employed—

1. In designations of place; a) in answer to the question whither? after verbs of motion, as נֵצֵא הַשָּׂדֶה let us go out into the field 1 Sam. xx. 11, לָלֶכֶת תַּרְשִׁישׁ to go to Tarshish 2 Chron. xx. 36, Ps. cxxxiv. 2;* b) in answer to the question where? after verbs of rest, as בֵּית אָבִיךָ in the house of thy father Gen. xxxviii. 11, פֶּתַח הָאֹהֶל in the door of the tent xviii. 1. It is then employed also with reference to space and measure, in answer to the question how far? Gen. vii. 20, the water rose fifteen cubits.

In both cases, of a and b, especially the first, the accusative-ending ־ָה is often appended, on which see § 90, 2. The first relation may also be expressed by אֶל (as it commonly is with reference to persons), and the second by בְּ; but we are by no means to suppose that, where these particles are omitted, the construction is incomplete.

2. In designations of time; a) in answer to the question when? as הַיּוֹם the day, i. e. on the day, then, or on this day, to-day; עֶרֶב at evening, הַלַּיְלָה by night; צָהֳרַיִם at noon Ps. xci. 6; שְׁלֹשׁ עֶשְׂרֵה שָׁנָה מָרְדוּ the thirteenth year (in the 13*th year*) they revolted Gen. xiv. 4; תְּחִלַּת קְצִיר שְׂעֹרִים at the beginning of barley harvest 2 Sam. xxi. 9 (K'thibh); b) in answer to the question how long? שֵׁשֶׁת יָמִים six days (long) Ex. xx. 9. [With אֵת in Ex. xiii. 7; Deut. ix. 25.]

3. In other adverbial designations: Gen. xli. 40, רַק הַכִּסֵּא אֶגְדַּל only in respect to the throne will I be greater; 2 Sam. xxi. 20, four and twenty מִסְפָּר in number (comp. τρεῖς ἀριθμόν three in number); 1 Kings xxii. 13, פֶּה אֶחָד with one mouth i. e. with one voice; Zeph. iii. 9, they served God שֶׁכֶם אֶחָד with one shoulder i. e. with one mind. With a following genitive, יִרְאַת שָׁמִיר for fear of thorns, Is. vii. 25; Job i. 5, he brought burnt-offerings מִסְפַּר כֻּלָּם according to the number of them all. Here belong also cases like מִשְׁנֶה כֶּסֶף the double in money Gen. xliii. 15, אֵיפָה שְׂעֹרִים an ephah of barley Ruth ii. 17, שְׁנָתַיִם יָמִים two years' time Gen. xli. 1. Comp. also § 116, Rem. b.

Similar cases in connexion with verbs are explained, § 138 and § 139. By the same process, carried still farther, many substantives have come to be distinctly recognised as adverbs (§ 100, 2, b).

Rem. Similar reference to place, time, etc., may be denoted by a noun when it is connected with בְּ (as, according to, after the manner of), but in that case the prefix כְּ alone is in the accusative relation, while the noun is to be considered in the genitive. Thus, a) of place; כְּדָבְרָם as in their pasture, Is. v. 17, comp. xxviii. 21; כְּאֶבֶן after the manner of the stone i. e. as in stone (the water is collected when frozen) Job xxxviii. 30, xxx. 14; כְּמוֹ לְבוּשׁ as in gorgeous apparel, Job xxxviii. 14; כַּחֲלוֹם as in a dream, Is. xxix. 7, comp. xxiii. 15; b) of time, especially in the forms כְּיוֹם as the day= as in the day, Is. ix. 3; Hos. ii. 5; כִּימֵי as in the days of —, Hos. ii. 17; ix. 9; xii. 10; Amos ix. 11; Is. li. 9; c) with another reference, as in Is. i. 25, I will purge away thy dross כְּבֹר as with lye; Job xxviii. 5, כְּמוֹ אֵשׁ after the manner of fire=as by fire.

* So in the Greek, but only poetically, Il. i. 317, κνίσσῃ δ'οὐρανὸν ἷκε.

Rarely another preposition is used after such a כְּ, e. g. כְּבָרִאשֹׁנָה Is. i. 26, 1 Sam. xiv. 14.

It is, moreover, obvious that a substantive with כְּ may stand either for the accusative of the object or for the nominative relation.

Sect. 119.

MODES OF EXPRESSING THE COMPARATIVE AND SUPERLATIVE.*

1. When the comparative is to be expressed, the particle מִן (מִ·) is prefixed to the word with which comparison is made, e. g. 1 Sam. ix. 2, גָּבֹהַּ מִכָּל־הָעָם taller than any of the people; Judges xiv. 18, מָתוֹק מִדְּבַשׁ sweeter than honey; so also after verbs, especially those denoting an attribute, as וַיִּגְבַּהּ מִכָּל־הָעָם and he was taller than any of the people, 1 Sam. x. 23; אָהַב אֶת־יוֹסֵף מִכָּל־בָּנָיו he loved Joseph more than all his (other) sons, Gen. xxxvii. 3.

In other cases also the particle מִן is employed in expressing pre-eminence (e. g. יִתְרוֹן מִן pre-eminence over, Eccles. ii. 13; comp. Deut. xiv. 2), which the Hebrew conceives as a taking from, marking out. Compare the Latin ablative with the comparative, also the etymology of the Latin words eximius, egregius, and in Homer ἐκ πάντων μάλιστα, Il. iv. 96, and merely ἐκ πασέων, xviii. 431). Hence the signification more than connects itself with the fundamental signification out from. (Compare the use of עַל in comparisons, Job xxiii. 2; Ps. cxxxvii. 6.)

The predicate is sometimes wholly omitted, and must be supplied from the connexion, e. g. Is. x. 10, פְּסִילֵיהֶם מִירוּשָׁלַם their idols are more numerous (mightier) than those in Jerusalem; Job xi. 17, מְצָהֳרַיִם clearer than noon.

The correlative comparatives, such as greater, less, are expressed only by great, little, Gen. i. 16.

2. The several modes of expressing the superlative are in principle the same; thus, in all of them the positive form, by means of the article, or a suffix, or a following genitive, is made to designate an individual as pre-eminently the pos-

* There exists in Arabic a strengthened form for the superlative and comparative, which would be like אַקְטָל. Perhaps of this origin are אַכְזָר cruel, אַכְזָב deceptive (of a drying brook), and its opposite אֵיתָן (contr. from aitan) constant, perennial, although these forms have lost their force and remain as solitary traces, in the same way as the Lat. comparative disappears in the Italian, and still more in French, and its place supplied by circumlocution (with più, plus) sessor of the quality expressed (comp. le plus grand); e. g. 1 Sam. xvii. 14, and David was הַקָּטָן the small (one), i. e. the smallest, and the three great (ones), i. e. greater, etc., Gen. xlii. 13; Jon. iii. 5, מִגְּדֹלָם וְעַד קְטַנָּם from the greatest among them (lit. their great one), even unto the least among them (lit. their little one); 2 Chron. xxi. 17, קְטוֹן בָּנָיו the youngest of his sons.

A kind of superlative in substantives of quality is made by the construction קֹדֶשׁ קָדָשִׁים the holiest of all, prop. the holy (holiest) of holy things; שִׁיר הַשִּׁירִים the choicest song, Canticles.

SECT. 120.

SYNTAX OF THE NUMERALS.

1. The numerals from 2 to 10 (which are properly substantives, but may also be used adverbially, § 97, 1), are connected with substantives in three different ways. They stand either, a) in the constr. st. before the substantive (the object numbered being accordingly in the genitive), שְׁלֹשֶׁת יָמִים three days, prop. triad of days; or, b) in the absol. st. before it (the thing numbered being then considered as in the accusative or in apposition), שְׁלֹשָׁה בָנִים three sons; or, c) in the absol. st. after it, as in apposition with the object numbered (a usage of the later books, where the adverbs also are so construed), בָּנוֹת שָׁלוֹשׁ three daughters, 1 Chron. xxv. 5.

In like manner, the constructions מֵאָה שָׁנָה Gen. xvii. 17, and מְאַת שָׁנָה xxv. 7, 17, a hundred years, are equally common.

2. The numerals from 2 to 10 are joined, with very few exceptions (e. g. 2 Kings xxii. 1), with the plural. But the tens (from 20 to 90), when they precede the substantive, are regularly joined with the singular (in the accusative), and when they follow it in apposition, they take the plural. The first is the more frequent construction; e. g. Judges xi. 33, עֶשְׂרִים עִיר twenty cities; on the contrary, אַמּוֹת עֶשְׂרִים twenty cubits, 2 Chron. iii. 3, seq. The plural may be used in the first case (Ex. xxxvi. 24, 25), but the singular never occurs in the second.

The numerals from 11 to 19 are joined to the singular form (in the accusative) only with certain substantives, which there is frequent occasion to number, as יוֹם day, שָׁנָה year, אִישׁ man, etc. (comp. our four year old, a thousand man strong); e. g. אַרְבָּעָה עָשָׂר יוֹם prop. fourteen day, Ex. xii. 6, With this exception, they are joined to the plural; and in the later books they then stand after the substantive (1 Chron. iv. 27; xxv. 5).

3. Numerals compounded of tens and units (like 21, 62) take the object numbered either after them in the singular (in the accusative), as שִׁתִּים וְשִׁשִּׁים שָׁנָה sixty-two years, Gen. v. 20; or before them in the plural, as in the later books

(Dan. ix. 26); or the object is repeated, with the smaller number in the plural, with the larger in the singular, as Gen. xii. 4, חָמֵשׁ שָׁנִים וְשִׁבְעִים שָׁנָה seventy-five years; Gen. xxiii. 1, מֵאָה שָׁנָה וְעֶשְׂרִים שָׁנָה וְשֶׁבַע שָׁנִים one hundred and twenty-seven years.

4. Beyond 10, the ordinals have no peculiar forms, but are expressed by those of the cardinals, which then stand either before the object numbered, or after it, as בְּשִׁבְעָה עָשָׂר יוֹם on the seventeenth day Gen. vii. 11, בִּשְׁנַת עֶשְׂרִים וָשֶׁבַע in the year twenty-seven 1 Kings xvi. 10. In the latter case, the word שָׁנָה is sometimes repeated, as in Gen. vii. 11; 2 Kings xiii. 10. In numbering days of the month and years, the forms of the cardinals are used, even for the numbers from 1 to 10, e. g. בִּשְׁנַת שְׁתַּיִם in the second year, בִּשְׁנַת שָׁלוֹשׁ in the third year, 1 Kings xv. 25; 2 Kings xviii. 1, בְּתִשְׁעָה לְהוֹשֵׁעַ on the ninth of the month, בְּאֶחָד לַחֹדֶשׁ on the first of the month, Gen. viii. 13; Lev. xxiii. 32.

Rem. 1. The numerals take the article when they stand without a substantive, and refer to subjects mentioned before, as הַשְּׁנַיִם the two, Eccles. iv. 9, 12. The case like שִׁבְעַת הַיָּמִים the seven days, Judges xiv. 17, is to be explained on the principle stated, § 111, 1.

2. Certain substantives employed in designations of weight, measure, or of time, are commonly omitted after numerals; e. g. Gen. xx. 16, אֶלֶף כֶּסֶף a thousand (shekels) of silver; so also before זָהָב gold, 1 Kings x. 16; Ruth iii. 15, שֵׁשׁ עֶשְׂרִים six (ephahs) of barley; 1 Sam. xvii. 17, עֲשָׂרָה לֶחֶם ten (loaves) of bread. Thus יוֹם is omitted Gen. viii. 5, and חֹדֶשׁ viii. 13. The number of cubits is often stated thus, מֵאָה בָאַמָּה a hundred cubits, prop. a hundred by the cubit, Ex. xxvii. 18.

5. Numbers are expressed distributively by repetition of the cardinals, as שְׁנַיִם שְׁנַיִם two by two, Gen. vii. 9, 15. One time, once, is expressed by פַּעַם (prop. a tread), פַּעֲמַיִם two times, twice, שָׁלוֹשׁ פְּעָמִים thrice. The same may be denoted also by the fem. forms of the cardinals, as אַחַת once, שְׁתַּיִם twice, שָׁלוֹשׁ thrice; also בְּאַחַת once, Num. x. 4. The ordinals are employed in the same way, as שֵׁנִית a second time, Gen. xxii. 15; Jer. xiii. 3; Eze. xxi. 19.

CHAPTER II.

SYNTAX OF THE PRONOUN.

SECT. 121.

USE OF THE PERSONAL PRONOUN.

1. WHEN a personal pronoun is the subject of a sentence, like a noun in the same position, it does not require for its union with the predicate a distinct word for the copula, when this consists simply in the verb to be (§ 144), e. g. אָנֹכִי הָרֹאֶה I (am) the seer 1 Sam. ix. 19, כֵּנִים אֲנַחְנוּ honest (are) we Gen. xlii. 11, תָּמִים אַתָּה upright (wast) thou Eze. xxviii. 15, כִּי עֵרְמִים הֵם that naked they (were) Gen. iii. 7, חֲלוֹם אֶחָד הוּא one dream it (is) Gen. xli. 26.

2. The pronoun of the third person frequently serves to connect the subject and predicate, and is then a sort of substitute for the copula or the verb to be; e. g. Gen. xli. 26, the seven good cows שֶׁבַע שָׁנִים הַנָּה seven years (are) they, Eccles. v. 18, זֹה מַתַּת אֱלֹהִים הִיא this is God's gift. Sometimes such a pronoun in the third person refers to a subject that is of the first or second person, e. g. אַתָּה הוּא מַלְכִּי thou art my king Ps. xliv. 5, where הוּא at the same time points to the predicate and makes it prominent (prop. thou (art) he, my king); Is. xxxvii. 16; Neh. ix. 6, 7; Deut. xxxii. 39. (Comp. in Chaldee Ezra v. 11.)

3. To the general rule (§ 33, 1), that the separate pronouns are in the nominative and the suffixes in the oblique cases, there is but one exception, viz., when the personal pronoun in an oblique case is to be repeated for the sake of emphasis (me, me; thy, thy), it is expressed the second time by the separate form, which is then in the same case with the preceding suffix, to which it stands in apposition; e. g. in the accusative, Gen. xxvii. 34, בָּרֲכֵנִי גַם אָנִי bless me, me also, comp. Prov. xxii. 19; oftener in the genitive, with a nominal suffix דָּמֵךְ גַּם אַתָּה 1 Kings xxi. 19, thy blood, yea thine (prop. sanguis tui, utique tui), Prov. xxiii. 15; Ps. ix. 7. So also in apposition under the influence of a preposition (i. e. in the genitive, according to § 101, 1, comp. § 154, 4), as Hag. i. 4, לָכֶם אַתֶּם for you, you; 1 Sam. xxv. 24, בִּי אֲנִי in me, me; 1 Sam. xix. 23, עָלָיו גַּם הוּא also on him; 2 Chron. xxxv. 21, לֹא עָלַיִךְ אַתָּה not against thee. On the same principle is to be explained Gen. iv. 26, לְשֵׁת גַּם הוּא to Seth, even to him; x. 21.

4. The suffix to the verb is properly always in the accusative (§ 33, 2, a, § 58), and is the most common form of expressing the accusative of the pronoun (see Rem.). In certain cases, however, it is used through an almost inaccurate brevity of expression for the dative, as Zech. vii. 5, הֲצַמְתֻּנִי did ye fast for me? i. e. to my advantage, for הֲצַמְתֶּם לִי; Job xxxi. 18, גִּדְּלַנִי כְאָב he (the fatherless) grew up to me as to a father, Eze. xxix. 3 comp. verse 9.

Rem. The accusative of the pronoun must be expressed by אֵת (§ 117), the sign of the accusative, a) when the pronoun, for the sake of emphasis, precedes the verb, as אֹתְךָ הֲרָגְתִּי Num. xxii. 33; b) when the verb has two pronouns in the accusative, only one of which can be a suffix, as הֶרְאַנִי אֹתוֹ 2 Sam. xv. 25. The use of this sign with the pronoun is found, however, in other cases; see Gen. iv. 14; xv. 13.

5. The suffixes to nouns, which are properly genitives (§ 33, 2, b), and supply the place of possessive pronouns,* express, like nouns in the genitive (§ 114, 2), not only the subject but also the object; e. g. חֲמָסִי the wrong done to me, Jer. li. 35; יִרְאָתוֹ the fear of him, Ex. xx. 20.

6. When one noun is followed by another in the genitive, so that they together express but one complex idea, a suffix which refers to this whole idea is appended to the second of the two nouns (compare the analogous position of the article, § 111, 1). This occurs most frequently in the case (mentioned, § 106, 1), where the second noun is used to express a quality of the first, and serves for an adjective to it; e. g. Ps. ii. 6, הַר קָדְשִׁי my holy mount; אֱלִילֵי כַסְפּוֹ his silver idols, Is. ii. 20, xxxi. 7; צַעֲדֵי אוֹנוֹ his strong steps, Job xviii. 7.

We seldom have constructions like דַּרְכֵּךְ זִמָּה thy lewd conduct, Eze. xvi. 27; comp. xviii. 7. So also Lev. vi. 3; Ps. xxx. 8.

Rem. 1. Through a certain inaccuracy, which probably passed from the colloquial language to that of books, masculine pronouns are sometimes used in reference to feminine substantives (Gen. xli. 23; Ex. i. 21). The reverse also occurs, but more rarely, Deut. v. 24; 2 Sam. iv. 6.

2. The accusative of the pronoun, as object of the verb, is often omitted, where it can be easily supplied from what has preceded, e. g. the accusative it, after verbs of saying, as וַיֹּאמֶר like dixit, he said it, Ex. xix. 25; וַיַּגֶּד and he told it, Gen. ix. 22; but also after other verbs, e. g. Gen. xxxviii. 17, till thou send (it); xxiv. 12, let (it) meet me.

3. There is, on the contrary, a redundancy of expression, when the noun, for which the pronoun stands, is itself employed in apposition after it, e. g. Ex. ii. 6, she saw him, the child; Prov. v. 22, Eze. x. 3, בְּבֹא הָאִישׁ when he went in, the man; 1 Sam. xxi. 14. So also Gen. ii. 19, לוֹ . . . נֶפֶשׁ חַיָּה to it, the living creature; and with repetition of the preposition Josh. i. 2.

* The possessive pronoun may be expressed by circumlocution, after the manner of the Aramæan; Ruth ii. 21, הַנְּעָרִים אֲשֶׁר לִי the servants which (are) to me, for my servants; especially after a substantive, which is followed by another in the genitive, as in 1 Sam. xvii. 40. (Comp. the analogous circumlocution for the genitive, § 115.)—In this case there is sometimes a pleonastic use of the suffix, as מִטָּתוֹ שְׁלֹמֹה prop. his litter of Solomon, Cant. iii. 7; comp i. 6.

4. In some instances the force of the nominal suffix or possessive pronoun has become so weak, that it has almost ceased to exist; e. g. אֲדֹנָי my Lord (prop. my lords, see § 108, 2, b), viz., in addressing God (Gen. xv. 2, xviii. 3; Ps. xxxv. 23), but then without regard to the pronominal suffix, the Lord, meaning God;* יַחְדָּו (prop. in his or its connexions = he, it together), e. g. כָּלֹהָעָם יַחְדָּו Ex. xix. 8, then even after the first person, without regard to the suffix, as אֲנַחְנוּ יַחְדָּו 1 Kings iii. 18; comp. Is. xli. 1, after the second person in Is. xlv. 20. Similar is—hear, ye nations כֻּלָּם Micah i. 2.

Sect. 122.

THE DEMONSTRATIVE AND INTERROGATIVE PRONOUNS.

1. The pronoun of the third person הוּא, fem. הִיא, plur. הֵמָּה, fem. הֵן, הֵנָּה (is, ea, id; ii, eæ, ea) is also used as a demonstrative pronoun, and then it takes regularly (see exceptions in § 111, 2, b) the article, but almost everywhere in connection with a substantive equally definite; e. g. הָאִישׁ הַהוּא is vir, בַּיּוֹם הַהוּא eo die [comp. in vulgar English, in them days for in those days].

When employed in this way, הוּא is to be distinguished from the demonstrative זֶה; for זֶה= οὗτος, hic, always points to an object present or near, but הוּא=αὐτός, is, indicates (like the article, § 109) an object already mentioned or known [the former answering to this, and the latter nearly to that]. The distinction is clearly seen in Judges vii. 4, of whom I say to thee, "this (זֶה) shall go with thee," that one (הוּא) shall go with thee; and of whomsoever I say to thee, "this (זֶה) shall not go with thee," that one (הוּא) shall not go. So also in Ps. xx. 8, אֵלֶּה οὗτοι, and הֵמָּה αὐτοι in verse 9. Hence הַיּוֹם הַזֶּה this day, means the day in which any one speaks or writes (Gen. xxvi. 33), but הַיּוֹם הַהוּא (that day) means the day or time, of which the historian has just made mention (Gen. xv. 18; xxvi. 32), or the prophet just predicted (Is. v. 30; vii. 18, 20), and goes on to relate or to predict.

2. The demonstrative זֶה (also זוּ, זוֹ) has also, especially in poetry, the force of the relative אֲשֶׁר, comp. in English that for which; e. g. Ps. civ. 8, to the place זֶה יְסַדְתָּ לָהֶם which thou hast destined for them. It is even employed (like אֲשֶׁר, § 123, 1) to give a relative sense to another word; e. g. Ps. lxxiv. 2, Mount Zion זֶה שָׁכַנְתָּ בּוֹ on which thou dwellest.

זֶה is used adverbially, a) for there, הִנֵּה זֶה see there! and then merely as an intensive particle, especially in questions, as לָמָּה זֶה wherefore then? (prop. wherefore there?); b) in reference to time, for now, as זֶה פְּעָמִים now (already) twice, Gen. xxvii. 36.

3. The interrogative מִי can be used in reference to a plural, as מִי אֵלֶּה Gen. xxxiii. 5 (for which, however, מִי וָמִי is more accurately used, Ex. x. 8), also in reference to things, yet only when the idea of persons is implied, e. g. מִי שְׁכֶם who are the Shechemites? Judges ix. 28; comp. Gen. xxxiii. 8.— מִי may also stand in the genitive, as בַּת מִי whose daughter? Gen. xxiv. 23. It is also used indefinitely for any one whoever, and מָה for any thing whatever (Job xiii. 13). For מָה in this sense, we have also the specific term מְאוּמָה (from מָה וּמָה quidquid).

* See Gesenii Thesaurus Linguæ Hebrææ, p. 329. Comp. the Phœnician names of idols, Adonis (אֲדֹנִי) and Baaltis (בַּעֲלְתִי), also the French Notre Dame.

On the use of מָה in the sense of negation, see § 153, 2, p. 239, Note.*

Sect. 123.

RELATIVE PRONOUN AND RELATIVE CLAUSES.

1. The pronoun אֲשֶׁר often serves merely as a sign of relation, i. e. to give a relative signification to adverbs or pronouns; e. g. שָׁם there, שָׁם — אֲשֶׁר where; שָׁמָּה thither, שָׁמָּה — אֲשֶׁר whither; מִשָּׁם thence, אֲשֶׁר — מִשָּׁם whence. In the same manner, the Hebrew forms the oblique cases of the relative pronoun, who, which, viz.—

Dative, לוֹ to him, לוֹ אֲשֶׁר to whom; לָהֶם, לָהֵן to them, לָהֶם אֲשֶׁר, לָהֵן אֲשֶׁר to whom.

Accusative, אֹתוֹ, אֹתָהּ him, her; אֹתוֹ אֲשֶׁר, אֹתָהּ אֲשֶׁר whom (quem, quam).

With prepositions, בּוֹ therein, בּוֹ אֲשֶׁר wherein, מִמֶּנּוּ therefrom, מִמֶּנּוּ אֲשֶׁר wherefrom.

Genitive, לְשֹׁנוֹ אֲשֶׁר whose language, Deut. xxviii. 49.

The accusative whom may, however, be expressed by אֲשֶׁר alone, as in Gen. ii. 2

Rem. 1. The Hebrew is able in this way, to give a relative sense to the pronoun of the first and second persons in the oblique cases, for which in German (and English) the third must be used; e. g. Gen. xlv. 4, אֲשֶׁר אֹתִי; Num. xxii. 30, אֲשֶׁר עָלַי; Is. xli. 8, Jacob אֲשֶׁר בְּחַרְתִּיךָ whom I have chosen; Hos. xiv. 4. But in the nom. of the 1st and 2nd persons, this is admissible also in German, e. g. der ich, der du, die wir, where der stands for welcher, and serves (like the Heb. אֲשֶׁר) merely as a sign of relation.

2. The word אֲשֶׁר is commonly separated from the one which it thus affects by one or more words, as אֲשֶׁר הָיָה שָׁם where was, Gen. xiii. 3. Only seldom are they written together, as in 2 Chron. vi. 11.

2. The relative pronoun אֲשֶׁר frequently includes the personal or demonstrative pronoun he, she, that, for which the Heb. has no appropriate word (see § 124, 2), as in Latin, qui is stands for qui; e. g. Num. xxii. 6, וַאֲשֶׁר תָּאֹר and (he) *whom thou curses*t; Is. lii. 15, אֲשֶׁר לֹא שֻׁמְּעוּ (that) which they have not heard. The pronoun is almost always to be supplied where a preposition stands before אֲשֶׁר; the preposition is then construed with the supplied pronoun, and the relative takes the case which is required by its connexion with the following part of the sentence; e. g. לַאֲשֶׁר to him who, and to them who; מֵאֲשֶׁר from him who, from those who or which; כַּאֲשֶׁר prop. according to that which, hence, as; אֶת־אֲשֶׁר him who, that which, or those who.*

Sometimes the idea of place or time is also to be supplied; as בַּאֲשֶׁר in (that place) where; מֵאֲשֶׁר from (that time) when.

3. The pronoun אֲשֶׁר may be omitted in all the cases which have been specified: there is then no expression of the relative, as in the English construction the friend I met; the book I told you of; where the only indication of relation is, that the relative clause is added to a preceding word, in the way of apposition. This omission of אֲשֶׁר (most frequent in poetry) takes place—

a) Where it would stand as a pronoun in the nominative or accusative; e. g. Gen. xv. 13, בְּאֶרֶץ לֹא לָהֶם in a land (which belongs) not to them; Ps. vii. 16, וַיִּפֹּל בְּשַׁחַת יָפָעַל and he falls into the pit (which) he made; Gen. xxxix. 4, כָּל־ יֶשׁ־לוֹ all (which) was, i. e. belonged, to him, comp. vs. 5, where אֲשֶׁר is inserted; Eccles. x. 5 (comp. vi. 1, where with the same words אֲשֶׁר is employed).†

b) When it would be merely a sign of relation, e. g. Ps. xxxii. 2, happy the man, לֹא יַחְשֹׁב יְהוָה לוֹ עָוֹן to whom Jehovah imputeth not sin; Job iii. 3; Ex. xviii. 20. Frequently in specifications of time, when it would have the signification when; Ps. iv. 8, עֵת דְּגָנָם וְתִירוֹשָׁם רָבּוּ in the time (when) their corn and new wine are abundant; Jer. xxxvi. 2.

c) When there is also an omission of the personal or demonstrative pronoun (No. 2); e. g. Is. xli. 24 תּוֹעֵבָה יִבְחַר בָּכֶם an abomination he who chooses you; Job xxiv. 19, Sheol [carries away] חָטָאוּ (those who) sin; comp. vs. 9. The pronoun thus omitted may include the idea of place or time, as 1 Chr. xv. 12, אֶל־הֲכִינוֹתִי לוֹ to (the place which) I have prepared for it; comp. Ex. xxiii. 20.

Rem. 1. When the pronoun to be supplied would be in the genitive, the preceding noun takes the constr. st.; e. g. Ex. iv. 13, בְּיַד תִּשְׁלָח by the hand (of him whom) thou wilt send; Hos. i. 2, תְּחִלַּת דִּבֶּר־יְהוָה the beginning (of that which) Jehovah spake; Ps. lxxxi. 6, שִׂפַת לֹא יָדַעְתִּי the speech (of one whom) I knew not; lxv. 5; Lam. i. 14; Jer. xlviii. 36. Comp. § 116, 3.

2. Relative clauses are joined on also by means of the copula (וְ), e. g. Job xxix. 12, the orphan, וְלֹא עֵזֵר לוֹ and that hath no helper.

* Very rare are the examples in which the preposition before אֲשֶׁר refers, as with us, to the relative itself, viz. עִם אֲשֶׁר Gen. xxxi. 32, for אֲשֶׁר עִמּוֹ with whom (xliv. 9, 10); perhaps בַּאֲשֶׁר Is. xlvii. 12, for בָּהֶם אֲשֶׁר in which. Comp. also אֵת אֲשֶׁר־דָּקְרוּ Zech. xii. 10, for אֲשֶׁר דָּקְרוּ אֹתוֹ.

† The Arabic omits the relative when the substantive to which it refers is indeterminate, as above; but inserts it when the substantive is determinate. In the latter case, the Hebrew commonly inserts it in prose (see Jer. xxiii. 39; Ex. xiv. 13); though it is sometimes omitted, Ex. xviii. 20; 2 Sam. xvii. 14; especially in poetry, Ps. xviii. 3; xlix. 13, 21; Deut. xxxii. 17; Job iii. 3.

Sect. 124.

MODE OF EXPRESSING THOSE PRONOUNS FOR WHICH THE HEBREW HAS NO PROPER FORMS.

1. The reflexive pronoun in the oblique case, myself, thyself, himself, is expressed, a) by the conjugations Niphal and Hithpael, see § 51, 2, § 54, 3; b) by the pronominal suffix of the 3rd pers.,* e. g. וַיַּעַשׂ לוֹ אֲהוּד חָרֶב and Ehud made himself (sibi) a sword; Gen. xxii. 3, Abraham took two of his servants אִתּוֹ with him, for with himself; viii. 9; 1 Sam. i. 24, she carried him up עִמָּהּ with her, for with herself; Jer. vii. 19; Eze. xxxiv. 2, 8, 10. In like manner is the pronoun suus, sua, suum expressed by the pronominal suffix of the 3rd pers. with the noun, since סוּסוֹ signifies as much equus suus (prop. sui, genit.) as equus ejus; c) by circumlocution with substantives, especially נֶפֶשׁ, e. g. לֹא אֵדַע נַפְשִׁי I know not myself, Job ix. 21; Jer. xxxvii. 9; בְּקִרְבָּהּ within herself (prop. in her inner part), Gen. xviii. 12. Comp. Rem. 3.

The Arabic, in a similar manner, expresses the idea self by soul, spirit, and so the Sanskrit (âtman); the Arabic also by eye; the Rabbinic by עֶצֶם, גֶּרֶם bone, גּוּף body; the Amharic by רֹאשׁ head; the Egyptian by mouth.† Comp. in middle High German mîn lîp, dîn lîp.

2. The personal or demonstrative pronoun is generally omitted (comp. 123, 2) before אֲשֶׁר in all the cases, both singular and plural: very seldom it is expressed by the interrogative pronoun, as מַה־שֶּׁ that which, Eccles. i. 9; iii. 15.

Rem. 1. Each, every one, with reference to a person, is expressed by אִישׁ a man, sometimes repeated אִישׁ אִישׁ Ex. xxxvi. 4, וְאִישׁ אִישׁ Ps. lxxxvii. 5; with reference either to persons or things, by כֹּל, commonly without the article (§ 111, 1); by repetition בַּבֹּקֶר בַּבֹּקֶר every morning; also by the plural לַבְּקָרִים every morning, Ps. lxxiii. 14.

2. Any one, some one, is expressed by אִישׁ Ex. xvi. 29; Cant. viii. 7; and by אָדָם Lev. i. 2; anything, something (especially in connexion with a negation), by דָּבָר, כָּל־דָּבָר without the article. Comp. besides, § 122, 3.

3. Self is expressed, independent of No. 1, c, in reference to persons or things, by הוּא, הִיא, as אֲדֹנָי הוּא the Lord he, i. e. the Lord himself, Is. vii. 14; הַיְּהוּדִים הֵמָּה the Jews themselves, Est. ix. 1. The same is הוּא, הִיא with the article; e. g. הָאִישׁ הַהוּא Job i. 1, the same man, בָּעֵת הַהִיא at the same time (but this signifies also that man, at that time, comp. § 122, 1). In reference to things, the noun עֶצֶם prop. bone, body (in this case fig. for essence, substance), is also employed as a periphrasis for the pronoun; e. g. בְּעֶצֶם הַיּוֹם הַזֶּה on the self-same day, Gen. vii. 13; comp. בְּעֶצֶם חָמוֹ in his very prosperity, i. e. in the midst of his prosperity, Job xxi. 23.

4. The one—the other (alter—alter) is expressed by זֶה or אַחֵר repeated, or by אִישׁ with אָח brother or רֵעַ friend; and where the feminine is required, by אִשָּׁה woman, with אָחוֹת sister or רֵעוּת friend; both the masc. and fem. forms are used also with reference to inanimate objects of the same

* So also in the German of Luther's time, as er machte ihm einen Rock (where ihm stands for sich), which may be literally rendered into old-fashioned English thus, he made him (i. e. for himself) a coat.—Tr.

† M. G. Schwartze, Kopt. Gram. Berlin, 1850, p. 346, 351.

gender. See the Lex. under these words. The same form is used to express one another, as Gen. xiii. 11, and they separated, אִישׁ מֵעַל אָחִיו the one from the other, i. e. from one another; Ex. xxvi. 3, five curtains shall be joined אִשָּׁה אֶל־אֲחוֹתָהּ to one another. (But comp. Ex. xxxii. 27, for the usual sense of these words.)

5. Some is often expressed by the plural form alone, as יָמִים some days Dan. viii. 27, שָׁנִים some years Dan. xi. 6, 8; and sometimes by יֵשׁ אֲשֶׁר sunt qui Neh. v. 2—4.

CHAPTER III.

SYNTAX OF THE VERB.

SECT. 125.

USE OF THE TENSES IN GENERAL.

FROM the poverty of the Hebrew language in the means of expressing the absolute and relative divisions of time (§§ 40 and 48), we might naturally expect some variety in the uses of the same tense.

We are not to infer from this, however, that there was scarcely any well-defined and regular use of the two existing tenses; on the contrary, each of them has its distinct sphere, as already intimated in the first Note in § 47. The Preterite serves to express what is finished and past, whether it actually belongs to the past, or properly lies in the present or even in the future, and is only represented as past, that it may thus appear as certain as if it had already happened, or that it may stand, as relatively earlier, in comparison with a subsequent event. The Future [called also Imperfect and Tempus Infectum], on the contrary, expresses what is unfinished, hence what is continued and in progress (even in the past), what is coming to pass and about to be. The Future is, besides, especially used in a modified form (§ 48) for expressing the relations of the Optative, the Jussive, and the Subjunctive. We must further add the peculiarity of the Hebrew diction already mentioned in § 49, viz., that of joining, by means of Vav conversive, Futures to a Preterite and Preterites to a Future. Fuller information on these points will be found in the following sections.

It is a false view, which regards the so-called Preterite and Future not as tenses, but as designed originally to express distinction of *mood rather than relations of time.

* Much nearer the mark would be the distinction of them into Actio perfecta and Actio infecta, according to the designation introduced into Latin grammar after Varro.

As examples of the Preterite and Future used expressly to denote opposite relations of time, we refer to Is. xlvi. 4, אֲנִי עָשִׂיתִי וַאֲנִי אֶשָּׂא I have done it, and I will (still) bear (you); and vs. 11, דִּבַּרְתִּי אַף אֲבִיאֶנָּה יָצַרְתִּי אַף אֶעֱשֶׂנָּה I have spoken it, and will bring it to pass; I have purposed, and will accomplish it; Deut. xxxii. 21; Nah. i. 12; 1 Kings ii. 38.

Sect. 126.

THE USE OF THE PRETERITE.

The Preterite stands—

1. In itself and properly, for absolutely and fully past time (Præteritum perfectum), e. g. Gen. iii. 10, 11, מִי הִגִּיד לְךָ who has declared to thee? vs. 13, why hast thou done this? Comp. verses 14, 17, 22. Hence it is used [for the historic tense] in the narration of past events, Gen. i. 1, in the beginning God created (Pret.) the heaven and the earth (comp. iv. 1; xxix. 17). Job i. 1, there was (Pret.) a man in the land of Uz; ii. 10.

For this latter purpose, the Future with Vav conversive is commonly used in continued narrative (see § 129, 1).

2. For the Pluperfect. Gen. ii. 2, מְלַאכְתּוֹ אֲשֶׁר עָשָׂה his work which he had done; vs. 5, Jehovah had not yet caused it to rain; vii. 9; xix. 27; xx. 18; xxvii. 30; xxxi. 20; Jonah i. 5.

3. For our Present, where this denotes, a) a condition or attribute already long continued and still existing, as יָדַעְתִּי [comp. οἶδα] I know, Job ix. 2, x. 13; לֹא יָדַעְתִּי I know not, Gen. iv. 9; שָׂנֵאתִי I hate,* Ps. xxxi. 7; צָדַקְתִּי I am righteous, Job xxxiv. 5; גָּדַלְתָּ thou art great, Ps. civ. 1; קָטֹנְתִּי I am little, Gen. xxxii. 11; or, b) a permanent or habitual action (often in statements of general experience), e. g. אָמַרְתִּי I say, I mean, Ps. xxxi. 15, Job vii. 13.—Ps. i. 1, happy the man who walks (הָלַךְ) not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor stands (עָמַד) in the way of sinners, nor sits (יָשַׁב) in the seat of scorners; x. 3, cxix. 30, 40.

Here (in the expression of our present) the Preterite and the Future are used with equal propriety, according as the speaker views the action or state expressed by the verb as already existing before, but still continuing or perhaps just now ending, or as then first about coming to pass, in progress, or perhaps occurring at the instant (comp. § 127, 2). Accordingly, we find in nearly the same sense לֹא יָכֹלְתִּי Ps. xl. 13, and לֹא אוּכַל Gen. xix. 19, xxxi. 35. In such cases the two tenses are often employed interchangeably, e. g. Is. v. 12, Prov. i. 22, Job iii. 17, 18.

* Similar in Latin are novi, memini, odi.

4. Even for the Future, in protestations and assurances, in which the mind of the speaker views the action as already accomplished, being as good as done. In German [and English] the Present is sometimes used, in this case, for the Future. So in stipulations or promises in the way of a compact, Gen. xxiii. 11, I give (נָתַתִּי) to thee the field; vs. 13, I give (נָתַתִּי) money for the field; particularly in promises made by God, Gen. i. 29, xv. 18, xvii. 20. Also in confident discourse, especially when God is said to be about to do something, (perhaps, with reference to the divine counsel, where it is present as an accomplished fact,) e. g. פָּדִיתָה אוֹתִי יְהוָה thou deliverest me, O Jehovah, Ps. xxxi. 6; hence frequently used in lively representations of the future, and in prophecies, e. g. Is. ix. 1, the people who walk in darkness see (רָאוּ) a great light; v. 13, therefore my people goes into captivity (גָּלָה); verses 14, 17, 25, 26; xi. 1, 2, 4, 6, 10. (In these cases also the Preterite may be interchanged with the Future, see, e. g., Is. v. 12; Prov. i. 22; Job iii. 17, 18.

In Arabic, the Preterite, made still stronger by the particle قَدْ, is likewise employed in emphatic promises, etc. They say, I have already given it to thee, meaning, it is as good as done. A similar usage is that of the Lat. perii, Gr. ὄλωλα, διέφθορας. (Il. 15, 128).

5. For those relative tenses, in which the past is the principal idea, viz., a) for the Imperfect Subjunctive (which is, however, expressed by the Fut. also, § 127, 5); e. g. Is. i. 9, כִּסְדֹם הָיִינוּ לַעֲמֹרָה דָּמִינוּ we should have been [essemus] as Sodom, we should have resembled Gomorrha; Job iii. 13; b) for the Pluperfect Subjunctive, Is. i. 9, לוּלֵי הוֹתִיר if he had not left; Num. xiv. 2, לוּ מַתְנוּ if we had but died! (לוּ with the Future would be, if we might but die! § 136, 2); Judges xiii. 23; Job x. 19, כַּאֲשֶׁר לֹא הָיִיתִי אֶהְיֶה I should be as if I had never been; c) for the Future Perfect (futurum exactum), e. g. Is. iv. 4, אִם רָחַץ when he shall have washed away, prop. he has washed away; vi. 11.—Gen. xliii. 14, כַּאֲשֶׁר שָׁכֹלְתִּי שָׁכָלְתִּי if I am bereaved (for, if I shall be, ubi orbus fuero), then I am bereaved (the language of desponding resignation).

6. In all the foregoing cases, we have viewed the Preterite in its independent use, when not connected with preceding verbs. But its use is no less diversified, when it is joined to preceding verbs by the conjunction וְ (Vav conversive of the

---

* The assurance that something will happen, can also serve to express the wish that something may happen. So Gen. xl. 14. וְעָשִׂיתָ־נָּא עִמָּדִי חָסֶד וְהִזְכַּרְתַּנִי וגו׳ and do thou a kindness I pray, to me (prop. thou surely doest kindness to me, I hope), and make mention of me to Pharaoh. The addition of נָא makes this sense of the Pret. here unquestionable. In Arabic, likewise, the Pret. is employed in wishes and obtestations. In Heb. further, Job xxi. 16, the counsel of the wicked רָחֲקָה מֻנִּי be far from me! xxii. 18. Comp. the use of the Preterite when following the Imperative, in No. 6, c.

Preterite). It then takes the tense and mood of the verb going before, and it shifts the tone forward, as explained above in § 49, 3. Hence it stands—

a) Most frequently for the Future, when that tense goes before it, e. g. Gen. xxiv. 40, Jehovah will send his angel וְהִצְלִיחַ דַּרְכֶּךָ and prosper thy way (prop. and then he prospers). Judges vi. 16; 1 Sam. xvii. 32. Here the Future, in the progress of the discourse, passes over by means of the Pret. into easy description, and the sense of the Pret. follows the usage explained in No. 4 above; also—

b) For the Present Subjunctive, when the preceding Future form has this sense (according to § 127, 3); e. g. Gen. iii. 22, פֶּן יִשְׁלַח יָדוֹ וְלָקַח וְאָכַל lest he put forth his hand and take and eat (prop. and so takes and eats); xxxii. 12; xix. 19; Num. xv. 40; Is. vi. 10.

c) For the Imperative, when a verb in that form goes before; e. g. Gen. vi. 21, קַח לְךָ וְאָכַפְתָּ take for thyself and gather (prop. and then thou gatherest); Gen. xxvii. 43, 44; 1 Ki. ii. 36. As in the case under letter a, the command here passes over into a description of that which is to be done. At times the Pret. in this sense is put separate from the Vav, as in Ps. xxii. 22.

d) For the past or the present time, according as the preceding Pret. or Fut. may require.

Rem. 1. The Pret. with Vav conv. relates to futurity, also when it is not preceded by a Future tense, but by some other indication of futurity. Exod. xvi. 6, 7, עֶרֶב וִידַעְתֶּם at even, then ye shall know; xvii. 4, yet a little while וְסָקְלוּנִי and they will stone me; 1 Sam. xx. 18; 1 Ki. ii. 42; Eze. xxxix. 27. After a participle which relates to futurity 1 Ki. ii. 2.

The Pret. with Vav conv. may be thus employed in the sense of the Fut. (and Imp.), even when there is no indication of futurity, e. g. after antecedent clauses which imply, a) a cause, or, b) a condition. Comp. for letter a, Num. xiv. 24, because another spirit is with him וְהֵבִיאֹתִיו and (therefore) I will bring him; and without the causal particle, Gen. xx. 11, there is no fear of God in the place וְהָרָגוּנִי and (therefore) they will kill me (for because there is, etc.); xlv. 12, 13; Ex. vi. 6. Comp. Ps. xxv. 11, for thy name's sake וְסָלַחְתָּ so forgive (or thou will forgive). For letter b, Gen. xxxiii. 10, if I have found favour וְקַחְתָּ then take; and without the conditional particle (§ 155, 4, a), Gen. xliv. 22, should he leave his father וָמֵת then he (the father) would die; xxviii. 20; xlii. 38; Is. vi. 7, lo, this touches thy lips וְסָר and so is taken away thy iniquity.—Also to other very various specifications of the present we find appended by means of וְ with the Pret. those of the future (e. g. Judges xiii. 3, thou art barren וְהָרִית וְיָלַדְתְּ but thou shalt conceive and bear; 1 Sam. ix. 8, here is the fourth part of a shekel וְנָתַתִּי that will I give), or expressions of a wish (e. g. Ruth iii. 9, I am Ruth וּפָרַשְׂתָּ then spread), or also of interrogation (e. g. Exod. v. 5, the people are many in the land וְהִשְׁבַּתֶּם אֹתָם and will you let them rest? Gen. xxix. 15; 1 Sam. xxv. 10, 11).

2. A very frequent formula in prophetic language (like וַיְהִי and it came to pass in the language of history) is וְהָיָה and it will come to pass. This is found both with a preceding Future and without it (see Rem. 1), especially when a particular time is named, as Is. vii. 18, וְהָיָה בַּיּוֹם הַהוּא יִשְׁרֹק.

SECT. 127.

USE OF THE FUTURE.

The significations of the Future are perhaps still more various than those of the Preterite. But the language has here a more definite expression for certain relations of mood, inasmuch as it has (according to § 48) a shortened and a lengthened form of the Future, the former in the jussive sense and the latter in the cohortative (see § 128). The Vav conversive also has a very extensive influence on the force of this tense (§ 129). Yet the shortening, as has been shown in treating of the verb, is not obvious in all the forms, and in other respects, also, there is some uncertainty, so that the common form occurs in almost all the relations, for which the shortened form is especially designed.

The Hebrew Future forms, in general, the exact contrary of the Preterite, and expresses, accordingly, what is unfinished, what is coming to pass and future, but also what is continued and in progress at any point of time, even of the past (see the first Note on § 47).

Hence the Future stands—

1. For strictly future time: Gen. ix. 11, לֹא יִהְיֶה עוֹד מַבּוּל there shall not again be a flood; also in narrative for the future with relation to some past point of time, as 2 Kings iii. 27, the first-born who was to reign (regnaturus erat).

2. For present time; 1 Kings iii. 7, לֹא אֵדַע I know not; Is. i. 13, לֹא אוּכַל I cannot bear. Gen. xxxvii. 15. It is employed especially in the expression of permanent states, which exist now and always will exist, hence also in the expression of general truths (where the Pret. also is used, but less frequently, § 126, 3, a, b,), e. g. Gen. xliii. 32, the Egyptians may not eat with the Hebrews; Job iv. 17, is man more just than God? ii. 4; Prov. xv. 20, בֵּן חָכָם יְשַׂמַּח אָב a wise son gladdens a father; and very often so in Job and Proverbs.

In the same formula is used sometimes the Preterite, and sometimes the Future, but not necessarily without difference of meaning, e. g. Job i. 7, מֵאַיִן תָּבֹא whence comest thou? Gen. xvi. 8, אֵי־מִזֶּה בָּאת whence didst thou come?

3. For a series of relations which in Latin are expressed by the Subjunctive, especially by the Present Subjunctive. In this way is expressed what is future or what is expected to occur, according to a subjective view or according to some other condition. It stands—

a) For the Subjunctive after particles signifying that, that not (ut, ne), as אֲשֶׁר, כִּי, לְמַעַן אֲשֶׁר, and לְמַעַן (without אֲשֶׁר), also יַעַן אֲשֶׁר *that, in order that; e. g. Gen. xi. 7, אֲשֶׁר לֹא יִשְׁמְעוּ that they may not understand; Num. xvii. 5, לְמַעַן אֲשֶׁר לֹא יִקְרַב that there come not near; Deut. iv. 1, לְמַעַן תִּחְיוּ that ye may live; Eze. xii. 12, יַעַן אֲשֶׁר לֹא יִרְאֶה that he see not; and after פֶּן that not, lest, e. g. פֶּן יִשְׁלַח יָדוֹ Gen. iii. 22.

b) For the Optative; Job iii. 3; יֹאבַד יוֹם pereat dies; vs. 5, 6, 8; vi. 9. In this sense the lengthened or shortened form is properly used (§ 128, 1, 2), followed often by the particle נָא;† e. g. יִגְמַרְנָא, Ps. vii. 10, O that might cease—! יְדַבֶּרְנָא עַבְדְּךָ Gen. xliv. 18, might thy servant speak, for let thy servant speak; ver. 33, יֵשֶׁבְנָא may he now abide. Yet, at times, the full form is employed even where the shortened one clearly exists, e. g. תֵּרָאֶה let appear, Gen. i. 9; comp. xli. 34; אַל יֵרָאֶה Job iii. 9.

c) For the Imperative, the place of which it always supplies in negative commands (prohibitions). When it expresses prohibition, it is preceded by לֹא, as לֹא תִגְנֹב thou shalt not steal Exod. xx. 15; when dehortatory, by אַל, as אַל־תִּירְאִי fear not Gen. xlvi. 3; Job iii. 4, 6, 7 (and in this connexion with אַל the jussive or shortened form is proper to be used, § 128, 2). It is also used for the Imperative when the third person is required, and for the Imperatives of the passive voice, so far as the forms of these are not in use (see § 46); e. g. יְהִי אוֹר let light be, Gen. i. 3; יוּמַת let him be put to death, Ex. xxxv. 2, 1 Ki. ii. 24. Comp. § 128, 2.

d) For the so-called Potential, where we use may, can, might, could, ought, etc.; e. g. Gen. ii. 16, אָכֹל תֹּאכֵל thou mayest eat; Prov. xx. 9, מִי יֹאמַר who can say? Gen. xliii. 7, הֲיָדֹעַ נֵדַע could we know? Gen. xx. 9, אֲשֶׁר לֹא יֵעָשׂוּ (deeds) that ought not to be done.

4. Even for time past. It is thus used chiefly in these cases:

a) After the particles אָז then,‡ טֶרֶם not yet, בְּטֶרֶם (when not yet) before; e. g. Jos. x. 12, אָז יְדַבֵּר יְהוֹשֻׁעַ then spake Joshua; Gen. ii. 5, טֶרֶם יִהְיֶה there was not yet; Gen. xxxvii. 18; בְּטֶרֶם תִּצָא before thou comest forth, (priusquam

* When these particles have a different signification, the Future is not used; e. g. יַעַן because, with the Pret. Judges ii. 20, אֲשֶׁר because, Gen. xxxiv. 27.

† The particle נָא (§ 105) gives to the verb the force of a request and of a wish. On its use with the first person, see § 128, 1.

‡ When אָז signifies then in respect to future time, this form of the verb has a future sense (Ex. xii. 48).

exires), Jer. i. 5. (Compare the use of the Pret. and Fut. in the same sentence, 1 Sam. iii. 7.)

b) Often also of customary or continued action, and in extended representation, like the Imperfect of the Latin and French languages. Repeated or customary action, as it involves the conception of something unfinished and yet to be, is properly expressed by the Future. Job i. 5, thus did (יַעֲשֶׂה) Job continually; xxii. 6, 7, 8; xxix. 12, 13; Judges xiv. 10; 1 Sam. i. 7; 1 Kings iii. 4 (a thousand burnt-offerings he offered, יַעֲלֶה) Is. x. 6; Ps. xxxii. 4; xlii. 5. Yet also—

c) Of single acts that are done and past, where the Preterite might be expected. Such is the case, at least, in poetry, on the same principle as we employ the Present tense in lively representations of the past. Job iii. 3, perish the day, אִוָּלֶד בּוֹ in which I was born; vs. 11, לָמָּה לֹא מֵרֶחֶם אָמוּת why died I not from the womb? iv. 12, 15, 16; x. 10, 11; very notable also is Judges ii. 2.

5. For the Imperfect Subjunctive, especially in conditional sentences (the modus conditionalis) both in the protasis and apodosis. Ps. xxiii. 4, גַּם כִּי־אֵלֵךְ . . . . לֹא אִירָא even if I should go . . . . . I should not fear; Job v. 8, I would apply unto God (were I in thy place); ix. 21, I should not know myself (if I spoke otherwise); x. 18, I had died, and no eye had seen me; iii. 16; vi. 14. In this case. also, the shortened form is properly used (§ 128, 2, c).

SECT. 128.

USE OF THE LENGTHENED AND SHORTENED FUTURE (COHORTATIVE AND JUSSIVE).

1. The Future as lengthened by the ending ־ָה (the Cohortative) is used almost exclusively in the first person; and is expressive of purpose or endeavour (see § 48, 3). Hence this form is employed, a) to express excitement of one's self, or a determination, spoken with some degree of emphasis. Ps. xxxi. 8, אָגִילָה וְאֶשְׂמְחָה let me be glad and rejoice! ii. 3; נְנַתְּקָה come! let us break asunder. Also, with less emphasis, in soliloquy; Ex. iii. 3, אָסֻרָה־נָּא וְאֶרְאֶה I will turn aside now and see; Gen. xxxii. 21. b) To express a wish, a request (for leave to do something); Deut. ii. 27, אֶעְבְּרָה let me pass through; Num. xx. 17, נַעַבְרָה־נָּא let us pass through, I pray thee. c) When a purpose is expressed, and the verb is commonly joined by ו to a preceding Imperative; Gen. xxvii. 4, bring it hither, וְאֹכְלָה and I will eat = that I may eat; xxix. 21; xlii. 34; Job x. 20. Less frequently, d) it stands in conditional sentences with if, though, expressed or implied, Job xvi. 6; xi. 17; Ps. cxxxix. 8. Moreover, it stands, e) frequently after Vav conversive (§ 49, 2).

In Jeremiah this form is used to give force and emphasis of almost every kind; iii. 25; iv. 19, 21; vi. 10.

2. The shortened Future (the Jussive) is used principally, a) in the expression of command or wish, as תּוֹצֵא proferat Gen. i. 24, תּוֹצִיא proferet Is. lxi. 11, יָקֹם sistat Jer. xxviii. 6, לוּ יְהִי utinam sit Gen. xxx. 34, also joined to a preceding Imper. by ו (comp. No. 1, c), Ex. viii. 4, intreat Jehovah וְיָסֵר and may he take away= that he may take away; x. 17; Judges vi. 30; 1 Kings xxi. 10; Esther vii. 2 (וְתֵיטֵב). b) In dissuasion, or negative entreaty, as לֹא תָשֵׁב bring not again Gen. xxiv. 8; 1 Ki. ii. 6; אַל־תַּשְׁחֵת destroy not Deut. ix. 26, in the tone of entreaty אַל־תָּשֵׁב אֶת־פָּנַי turn me not away, 1 Kings ii. 20, of warning אַל יַאֲמֵן ne confidat Job xv. 31, xx. 17.* c) Frequently in conditional sentences (like the Arabic usage) both in the protasis and apodosis. Thus, Ps. xlv. 12 (יִתְאָו); civ. 20 (תָּשֶׁת and וַיְהִי); Hos. vi. 1 (יְךִ); Is. l. 2 (תָּמֹת); Gen. iv. 12 (תֹּסֵף); Lev. xv. 24 (אִם . . . תְּהִי); Job x. 16, xiii. 5, xvii. 2, xxii. 28; 1 Sam. vii. 3 (וְיַצֵּל). d) After Vav conversive (§ 49, 2).

As the jussive form of the Future is far from being always orthographically distinguished from the usual form (§ 48, 4, and § 127, 3, b, c), its force may occasionally be doubtful, especially as the poets now and then employ the shortened form where the usual one might stand without materially altering the sense, e. g. Ps. xxv. 9. The jussive form, in that case, expresses rather a subjective judgment, such as we indicate by it may be, it might, could, should, must be, according as the sense and context of each passage may require.

USE OF THE FUTURE WITH VAV CONVERSIVE.

1. The Future with Vav conversive (וַיִּקְטֹל and he killed, § 49, 2), stands only in connexion with something preceding. Most commonly a narrative begins with a Preterite, and then proceeds in the Future with Vav conversive; which is the most usual way of relating past events;† e. g. Gen. iv. 1, and Adam knew (וַיֵּדַע) Eve his wife, and she conceived and bare (וַתַּהַר וַתֵּלֶד) Cain; vi. 9, 10, etc.; x. 9, 10, 15, 19; xi. 12—15, 27, 28; xiv. 5, etc.; xv. 1, 2; xvi. 1, 2; xxi. 1, etc.; xxiv. 1, 2; xxv. 19, 20, etc.; xxxvi. 2—4; xxxvii. 2.‡

* On the cases under a and b, see above in § 127, 3, b and c.

† This construction may perhaps be accounted for by supposing, that what was thus put in the Future was conceived of as relatively future, i. e. as later than and subsequent to what had been expressed by the preceding Preterite. This conjecture will obviously hold good in the first example given above. Compare Rödiger's own view of the Preterite in § 125.—Tr.

‡ The preceding Pret. is, at times, only implied in the sense, e. g. Gen. xi. 10, Shem (was) 100 years old וַיּוֹלֶד

2. If there be, however, any connexion with an earlier event, the Fut. with Vav conv. may even begin a narrative or a section of one. In this case we find a very frequent use of וַיְהִי (καὶ ἐγένετο) and it happened Gen. xi. 1, xiv. 1, xvii. 1, xxii. 1, xxvi. 1, xxvii. 1;* וַיֹּאמֶר יְהוָה and Jehovah said xii. 1.

This use of the Future is found also, especially, a) after an antecedent clause, e. g. after because, as in 1 Sam. xv. 23, because thou hast rejected Jehovah's word וַיִּמְאָסְךָ therefore he rejects thee, Gen. xxxiii. 10; after since (כִּי) Job iv. 5; b) after an absolute noun, e. g. 1 Kings xii. 17, as to the children of Israel, וַיִּמְלֹךְ עֲלֵיהֶם רְחַבְעָם so Rehoboam reigned over them; ix. 21; Dan. viii. 22.†

The Vav. conv. (1) may be rendered that in sentences like the following: Ps. cxliv. 3, what is man וַתֵּדָעֵהוּ that thou takest knowledge of him! (comp. Ps. viii. 5, where כִּי is used); Is. li. 12, who art thou וַתִּירָא that thou shouldest be afraid? But the idea in the former passage (Ps. cxliv. 3) is this, how insignificant is man! and yet thou dost notice him.

3. As to the relations of time indicated by this Future of consecution (see Note *, p. 83), we may remark that, in accordance always with the preceding tense, it may refer—

a) To the present time, viz., in continued descriptions of it, when preceded by a Preterite (in the sense of a Present), Gen. xxxii. 6; Is. ii. 7, 8; Job vii. 9; xiv. 2; or a Future (as a Present), Job xiv. 10; 1 Sam. ii. 29; or a Participle, Nah. i. 4; 2 Sam. xix. 2; Amos ix. 6.

b) Less frequently to futurity, when preceded by a Preterite (as a Future), Is. v. 15, 16, xxii. 7, 8; Joel ii. 23; Micah ii. 13; Ps. cxx. 1; or by a Jussive, Joel ii. 18, 19; or by an Imperative, Ps. l. 6 (also when joined to a clause without a verb, e. g. Gen. xlix. 15, or to an absolute noun, e. g. Is. ix. 11, or when it turns to the future, e. g. Is. ii. 9, ix. 13).

The form וַיְהִי stands for then had been in dependent clauses after לוּא, e. g. Is. xlviii. 18, 19; and וָאֹמַר in a conditional clause, e. g. Ps. cxxxix. 11 and (if) I should say (comp. the common Future, §. 127, 5).

SECT. 130.

THE IMPERATIVE.

1. The Imperative expresses not only command in the strict sense, but also exhortation (Hos. x. 12), entreaty (2 Kings v. 23, sometimes with נָא, verse 22; and he begat, x. 1. So also in this sentence, on the third day וַיִּשָּׂא אֶת־עֵינָיו and he lifted up his eyes; in full it would be, it happened on the third day that—, Gen. xxii. 4; Is. xxxvii. 19; vi. 1.

* This connexion is customary when a specification of time is to be made, e. g. Gen. xxii. 1, וַיְהִי אַחַר הַדְּבָרִים; וַיְהִי כִּי אֵרְכוּ לוֹ שָׁם הַיָּמִים וַיִּשְׁקֹף and it happened after these things, that God tried; xxvi. 8, הָאֱלֹהִים וַיִּנָּהּ xxxix. 13, 15, 18, 19; Judges xvi. 16, 25. See the numerous passages in Gesenius's Thes. Ling. Hebr. p. 372.

In a similar way, we found וְהָיָה used of the Future in § 126, Rem. 2.

† On the sentences which begin with the Infinitive or Participle, and then proceed with this Future of consecution, see § 132, Rem. 2, and § 134, Rem. 2.

Is. v. 3), wish (Ps. viii. 2, and with לוּ, Gen. xxiii. 13), permission (2 Sam. xviii. 23; Is. xlv. 11). It is employed especially in strong assurances (comp. thou shalt have it, which expresses both a command and a promise); and hence, in prophetic declarations, as Is. vi. 10, thou shalt make the heart of this people hard, for thou wilt make. These may be either, a) promises, Ps. cxxviii. 5, thou shalt see (וְרְאֵה) the prosperity of Jerusalem; Is. xxxvii. 30; lxv. 18; Ps. xxii..24; Gen. xx. 7; or, b) *threatenings Is. xxiii. 1, howl, ye ships of Tarshish, for ye shall (will) howl; vs. 2, 4, x. 30, xiii. 6. In all these cases the use of the Imp. approximates much to that of the Fut., which may therefore precede (Gen. xx. 7; xlv. 18) or follow it (Is. xxxiii. 20) in the same signification.

In nearly all its significations, the Imperative is enlivened or strengthened by the addition of the particle נָא age! (§ 105), thus, in the sense of command, both the milder (do now this or that), e. g. Gen. xxiv. 2, and the sterner or menacing, e. g. Num. xvi. 26; xx. 10; and in the sense of entreaty, e. g. אִמְרִי נָא Gen. xii. 13. In the sense of ironical permission we have עִמְדִינָא only persist! Is. xlvii. 12.

2. We may, from the above, explain the peculiar use of two Imperatives joined by and; a) where they are employed in a good sense, the first containing an admonition or exhortation, and the second a promise made on the condition implied in the first (like divide et impera), e. g. Gen. xlii. 18, זֹאת עֲשׂוּ וִחְיוּ this do, and (ye shall) live; Prov. xx. 13, keep thine eyes open (be wakeful, active), and thou shalt have plenty of bread; Ps. xxxvii. 27 (comp. vs. 3); Prov. vii. 2; ix. 6; Job xxii. 21; Is. xxxvi. 16; xlv. 22; Hos. x. 12; Amos v. 4, 6; b) where a threat is expressed, and the first Imp. tauntingly permits an act, while the second denounces the consequences; Is. viii. 9, רֹעוּ עַמִּים וְחֹתּוּ rage on, ye people, and ye shall surely be dismayed; Is. xxix. 9. Instead of the second Imp. the Fut. also may be used; Is. vi. 9; viii. 10; 1 Sam. xvii. 44.

Rem. 1. How far the Pret. and Fut. may be employed to express command has been shown in § 126, 6, c, § 127, 3, c, and § 128, 2.

2. It is incorrect to suppose that the form of the Imp. is used, as some grammarians maintain, for the third person (let him kill). Among the examples adduced of this usage is Gen. xvii. 10, הִמּוֹל לָכֶם כָּל־זָכָר every male among you shall be circumcised. (In verse 12, יִמּוֹל is used. But הִמּוֹל is the Infinitive which gives the same sense, § 131, 4, b.) Equally mistaken are the other examples, viz., Ps. xxii. 9 (לִבְטֹחַ Inf.); Gen. xxxi. 50; Judges ix. 28; Is. xlv. 21 (in the last three passages we have actual Imperatives of the 2nd person).

* Analogous is the form of menace in the comic writers, vapula, Terent. Phorm. V. 6, 10, vapulare te jubeo Plaut. Curculio, IV. 4, 12.

Sect. 131.

USE OF THE INFINITIVE ABSOLUTE.

The Infinitive absolute is employed, as has been remarked in § 45, 1, when there is occasion to express the action of the verb by itself, neither connected with something following nor dependent on a preceding noun or particle.* The most important cases of its use are—

1. When it is governed by a transitive verb, and consequently stands as an accusative. Is. xlii. 24, לֹא אָבוּ הָלוֹךְ they would not go; vii. 15, לָדַעְתּוֹ מָאוֹס בָּרָע וּבָחוֹר בַּטּוֹב until he learn to refuse the evil, and choose the good; Jer. ix. 4. Here, however, the Inf. constr. is oftener used, with or without a preposition, always according to the construction of the preceding verb, § 142, 1, 2.

In the same construction is Is. xxii. 13, behold! joy and gladness, הָרוֹג בָּקָר וְשָׁחוֹט צֹאן וגו the slaying (prop. to slay) oxen, the slaughtering sheep, the eating flesh, the drinking wine (where the Infinitives are mere accusatives governed by behold!) Is. v. 5, I will tell you what I will do to my vineyard הָסֵר מְשׂוּכָתוֹ . . . פָּרֹץ גְּדֵרוֹ the taking away (to take away) its hedge and the tearing down its wall,—q. d. that will I do.

2. When it is in the accusative and used adverbially† (in Latin as gerund in do); e. g. הֵיטַב bene faciendo for bene, הַרְבֵּה multum faciendo for multum. Hence—

3. When it is used for emphasis in connexion with a finite verb:

a) It then stands most commonly before the finite verb, to which it gives, in general, strength or intensity. 1 Sam. xx. 6, נִשְׁאֹל נִשְׁאַל מִמֶּנִּי he urgently besought of me; Gen. xliii. 3, he strictly charged us (הָעֵד הַעִיד). A very clear example is in Amos ix. 8, I will destroy it from the face of the earth, except that I will not utterly destroy (לֹא הַשְׁמֵיד אַשְׁמִיד) the house of Jacob. Judges i. 28. Its effect is often merely to give a certain prominence to the thought contained in the finite verb,—which in other languages is done chiefly by the tone of the voice or by particles,—as in assurances, questions (such especially as express excitement in view of something strange and improbable), and contrasts; Gen. xliii. 7, could we (then) know? xxxvii. 8, הֲמָלוֹךְ תִּמְלֹךְ עָלֵינוּ wilt thou (indeed)

* Here the Inf. constr. is always used. But when several successive infinitives are to have a preposition, it is often written only before the first; and the second, before which it is to be supplied by the mind, stands in the absolute form, as לֶאֱכֹל וְשָׁתוֹ to eat and (to) drink, Ex. xxxii. 6; comp. 1 Sam. xxii. 13; xxv. 26; Jer. vii. 18; xliv. 17. This case is analogous with that explained in § 121, 3. Comp. also No. 4, a, of this section.

† On the accusative as a casus adverbialis, see § 118. In Arabic it takes, in this case, the sign of the accusative. In general, the Inf. absol. answers in most cases (see Nos. 1, 2, 3, of this section) to the accusative of the Infinitive, to which No. 4 also is to be referred.

rule over us? xxxi. 30, *hadst thou even gone (הָלוֹךְ הָלַכְתָּ), since thou didst so earnestly long (נִכְסֹף נִכְסַפְתָּ); Judges xv. 13, we will bind thee, but we will not kill thee; 1 Sam. ix. 6; 2 Sam. xxiv. 24; Hab. ii. 3.

b) When the Inf. stands after the finite verb, this connexion generally indicates continued or lasting action. Is. vi. 9, שִׁמְעוּ שָׁמוֹעַ hear on continually; Jer. xxiii. 17; Gen. xix. 9, וַיִּשְׁפֹּט שָׁפוֹט and he will always be playing the judge! Two Infinitives absolute may be thus used; 1 Sam. vi. 12, הָלְכוּ הָלוֹךְ וְנָעוֹ they went going on and lowing, for they steadily went on lowing; 1 Kings xx. 37. Instead of the second Inf., a finite verb is sometimes used (Josh. vi. 13), or a participle (2 Sam. xvi. 5).

Rem. 1. This usage in regard to the position of the Inf. is certainly the common one, though not without exceptions. It sometimes follows the finite verb which it strengthens, when the idea of repetition or continuance is excluded by the connexion. Is. xxii. 17; Jer. xxii. 10; Gen. xxxi. 15; xlvi. 4; Dan. x. 11, 13. In Syriac, the Inf. when it expresses intensity stands always before, and in Arab. always after, the finite verb.—When a negative is used it is commonly placed between the two (Ex. v. 23), seldom before them both (Gen. iii. 4).

2. With a finite verb of one of the derived conjugations may be connected not only the Inf. absol. of the same conjugation (Gen. xvii. 13; xl. 15), but also that of Kal (e. g. טָרֹף טֹרַף Gen. xxxvii. 33; Job vi. 2), or of another of the same signification (Lev. xix. 20; 2 Kings iii. 23).

3. In expressing the idea of continuance (letter b), the verb הָלַךְ is frequently employed, with the signification to go on, to continue on, and thus denotes also constant increase; e. g. Gen. xxvi. 13, וַיֵּלֶךְ הָלוֹךְ וְגָדֵל he became continually greater and greater. 2 Sam. v. 10; Gen. viii. 3, וַיָּשֻׁבוּ הַמַּיִם . . . הָלוֹךְ וָשׁוֹב and the waters flowed off continually. (The participial construction is also frequent here; e. g. 1 Sam. ii. 26, הַנַּעַר שְׁמוּאֵל הֹלֵךְ וְגָדֵל וָטוֹב the child Samuel went on increasing in stature and in goodness; 2 Sam. iii. 1.) A similar mode of expression is found in the French: le mal va toujours croissant, la maladie va toujours en augmentant et en empirant, grows worse continually.

4. When it stands in place of the finite verb. We must here distinguish the two following cases, viz.—

a) When it is preceded by a finite verb. This is frequent, especially among the later writers, in the expression of several successive acts or states, where only the first of the verbs employed takes the required form in respect to tense and person, the others being simply put in the Infinitive with the same tense and person implied. (Comp. § 121, 3.) So with the Pret. Dan. ix. 5, מָרַדְנוּ וְסוֹר we have rebelled and (we have) turned away; Gen. xli. 43, he caused him to ride in the second chariot, וְנָתוֹן אֹתוֹ and placed him; 1 Sam. ii. 28; Jer. xiv. 5. With the Fut., Jer. xxxii. 44, they will buy fields for money (Fut.), and write and seal bills of sale, and take witnesses (three Infinitives), Num. xv. 35.

* As much as to say, I understand well wherefore thou art gone, viz., from earnest longing. The Vulgate renders it, esto, ad tuos ire cupiebas.

b) It may stand at the beginning of the sentence, without a preceding finite verb. The Infinitive (being the pure abstract idea of the verb) may serve as a short and emphatic expression for any tense and person, which the connexion requires; e. g. it stands a) for the Pret. in lively narration and description, like the Latin Infinitivus historicus. Is. xxi. 5, עָרוֹךְ הַשֻּׁלְחָן צָפֹה הַצָּפִית אָכוֹל שָׁתוֹ to prepare the table, to set the watch, to eat, to drink (sc. this they do), for they prepare, etc.; lix. 4; Hos. iv. 2; Eze. i. 14; Job xv. 35. Also, β) for the Fut. in its proper sense. 2 Kings iv. 43, אָכוֹל וְהוֹתֵר to eat and to leave thereof (sc. ye shall do); γ) most frequently for the emphatic Imp., as Deut. v. 12. שָׁמוֹר to observe (sc. thou art to, ye are to); so Ex. xx. 8, זָכוֹר to remember (oughtest thou); hence, with the full form, שָׁמוֹר תִּשְׁמְרוּן, Deut. vi. 17; זָכֹר תִּזְכֹּר, vii. 18. For the Cohortative Is. xxii. 13, אָכוֹל וְשָׁתוֹ to eat and to drink! (sc. let us eat and drink); 1 Kings xxii. 30 to disguise myself and go (will I do).

Rem. 1. The Inf. for the finite verb is seldom found in connexion with the subject, as in Job xl. 2; Eze. i. 14.

2. The examples are also few of the Inf. constr. employed in these cases. Such are Is. lx. 14, where it is used adverbially like the gerund in do; it is connected with a finite verb in Neh. i. 7 (חָבֹל), Ps. l. 21 (הָיֹה), Ruth ii. 16 (שֹׁל), Num. xxiii. 25 (קֹב).

SECT. 132.

INFINITIVE CONSTRUCT.

1. The Inf. constr. as a verbal substantive is subject to the same relations of case with the noun, and the modes of indicating them (§ 117) are also the same. Thus, it is found, a) in the nominative as the subject of the sentence, Gen. ii. 18, לֹא טוֹב הֱיוֹת הָאָדָם לְבַדּוֹ not good (lit. the being of man in his separation) that man should be alone; b) in the genitive, Gen. xxix. 7, עֵת הָאָסֵף tempus colligendi, here is to be referred the case where the Infinitive is dependent on a preposition (as being originally a noun), see No. 2; c) in the accusative, 1 Kings iii. 7, לֹא אֵדַע צֵאת וָבוֹא I know not (how) to go out and to come in, prop. I know not the going out and coming in. (In this case the Inf. absol. may also be used, § 131, 1.)

2. For the construction of the Inf. with prepositions, as in the Greek ἐν τῷ εἶναι, the German [and English] languages generally employ a finite verb with a conjunction which expresses the import of the preposition; e. g. Num. xxxv. 19, בְּפִגְעוֹ־בוֹ when he meets him, prop. in his meeting with him. Jer. ii. 35, עַל אָמְרֵךְ because thou sayest, prop. on account of thy saying. Gen. xxvii. 1, his eyes were dim מֵרְאוֹת so that he could not see (comp. the use of מִן before a noun to express distance from, and the absence or want of a thing). The lexicon must be consulted for particular information on the use of the different prepositions.

3. With respect to relations of time, the Infinitive refers also to the past (comp. on the Participle, § 134, 2), e. g. Gen. ii. 4, בְּהִבָּרְאָם when they were created (prop. in their being created).

Rem. 1. הָיָה לַעֲשׂוֹת (or לַעֲשׂוֹת with the omission of הָיָה) signifies, 1) he is about to do, intends or purposes to do, and he is intent upon, is eager to do (comp. I am to play), as Gen. xv. 12, וַיְהִי הַשֶּׁמֶשׁ לָבוֹא and the sun was about to go down. Hence, it serves for a periphrasis of the Fut., 2 Chr. xxvi. 5, וַיְהִי לִדְרֹשׁ אֱלֹהִים and he served God; without הָיָה in Is. xxxviii. 20, יְהוָה לְהוֹשִׁיעֵנִי Jehovah saveth me; xxi. 1, Eccles. iii. 15, Prov. xix. 8, comp. xvi. 20. 2) It is to do for it must be done (comp. I am to give). Jos. ii. 5, וַיְהִי הַשַּׁעַר לִסְגוֹר and the gate was to shut for was to be shut. More commonly without הָיָה; 2 Kings iv. 13, מָה לַעֲשׂוֹת what (is) to be done; 2 Chr. xix. 2. Also, 3) He was able to do (comp. the Latin non est solvendo). Judges i. 19, לֹא לְהוֹרִישׁ *he could not drive out.

2. The Hebrew writers frequently pass from the Infinitive construction (described in No. 2) to the use of the finite verb, before which the mind must then supply a conjunction answering to the preposition before the Infinitive. Thus, a Pret. follows, in Amos i. 11, עַל רָדְפוֹ—וְשִׁחֵת רַחֲמָיו because he pursued—and stifled his compassion; Gen. xxvii. 45; a Fut. with Vav conv. in Gen. xxxix. 18, בַּהֲרִימִי קוֹלִי וָאֶקְרָא when I raised my voice and cried. Is. xxx. 12, xxxviii. 9; most commonly a Fut. with only ו prefixed, as in Is. v. 24, x. 2, xiii. 9, xiv. 25, xxx. 26. (Comp. the participial construction, § 134, Rem. 2.)

SECT. 133.

CONNEXION OF THE INF. CONSTRUCT WITH SUBJECT AND OBJECT.

1. The Infinitive may be construed with the case of its verb, and hence, in transitive verbs, it takes the accusative of the object; e. g. Num. ix. 15, הָקִים אֶת־הַמִּשְׁכָּן to set up the Tabernacle; 1 Sam. xix. 1, לְהָמִית אֶת־דָּוִד to kill David; Gen. xviii. 25, לְהָמִית צַדִּיק to kill the righteous; 1 Kings xii. 15; xv. 4; 2 Kings xxi. 8; Eze. xliv. 30; Lev. xxvi. 15, עֲשׂוֹת אֶת־כָּל־מִצְוֹתָי to do all my commands; Gen. xix. 29, בְּהַפֵּךְ־אֶת־הֶעָרִים when he overthrew the cities; Prov. xxi. 15, עֲשׂוֹת מִשְׁפָּט to do judgment.† In like manner it takes the accusative of the pronouns, e. g. לְמַעַן הָקִים אֹתְךָ in order to establish thee, Deut. xxix. 12; הֲשִׁיבַנִי to bring me back, Jer. xxxviii. 26; לְהָרְגֵנִי to slay me, Ex. ii. 14; לְבַקְּשֵׁנִי to seek me, 1 Sam. xxvii. 1;

* This sense is necessary from the context, and in the parallel passage Jos. xvii. 12 it is expressed by לֹא יָכְלוּ לְהוֹרִישׁ. Comp. also the Hebrew אֵין לִי non licet mihi, and the Syr. לִית לִי non possum (Agrell. Suppl. Synt. Syr. pp. 9, 10).

† In cases like the last, מִשְׁפָּט might be easily regarded as genitive of the object (§ 114, 2), which construction is common in Arabic; but since in other instances אֵת is used, and since a form like הָקִים never occurs in such connexion, which form would decidedly mark the constr. state and also the genitive relation, we must suppose that the Hebrews considered, at least as a general rule, the object of the Inf. to be in the accusative. Compare Nos. 2. and 3

v. 10; xxviii. 9; 1 Chron. xii. 17; Gen. xxv. 26, בְּלֶדֶת אֹתָם quum (mater) eos pareret. If the finite verb governs two accusatives, then they will be employed also with the Infinitive, as אַחֲרֵי הוֹדִיעַ אֱלֹהִים אוֹתְךָ אֶת־כָּל־זֹאת since God has shown thee all this Gen. xli. 39.

The same construction takes place with a verbal noun analogous to the Infinitive, as דַּעַת אֶת־יְהוָה knowledge of Jehovah (prop. the knowing Jehovah), Is. xi. 9, לְיִרְאָה אוֹתִי to fear me Deut. v. 26, Is. xxx. 28, lvi. 6.*

2. The subject of the action is commonly put immediately after the Infinitive, sometimes (where the Inf. is regarded rather as a substantive) in the genitive, but generally in the nominative; e. g. 2 Chron. vii. 3, רֶדֶת הָאֵשׁ the descending of the fire; Ps. cxxxiii. 1, שֶׁבֶת אַחִים גַּם יָחַד that brethren dwell together; Ex. xvii. 1, there was no water לִשְׁתּוֹת הָעָם for the people to drink (prop. for the drinking of the people). The genitive relation of the subject is quite plain after Infinitives of feminine-ending, as in Is. xlvii. 9, בְּעָצְמַת חֲבָרַיִךְ מְאֹד although thy enchantments are very numerous; Gen. xix. 16, בְּחֶמְלַת יְהוָה עָלָיו by Jehovah's pity on him; and also when it is expressed by a suffix, like בְּקָרְאִי when I call, Ps. iv. 2, 4 (yet also incorrectly בְּשׁוּבַנִי when I return, Eze. xlvii. 7, for בְּשׁוּבִי). On the contrary, the genitive is excluded, and the subject to be considered rather in the nominative in such cases as these: Ps. xlvi. 3, בְּהָמִיר אֶרֶץ (not בְּהֲמִיר) when the earth moves; Deut. xxv. 19, בְּהָנִיחַ יְהוָה לְךָ when Jehovah gives to thee rest; 2 Sam. xix. 20, לָשׂוּם הַמֶּלֶךְ אֶל־לִבּוֹ that the king should lay it to heart; also when the Inf. and the subject are separated, as in Judges ix. 2, הַמְשֹׁל בָּכֶם שִׁבְעִים אִישׁ אִם מְשֹׁל בָּכֶם אִישׁ אֶחָד whether seventy men rule over you, or one man rules over you? Job xxxiv. 22, לְהִסָּתֵר שָׁם פֹּעֲלֵי אָוֶן that the evil-doers hide themselves there; Ps. lxxvi. 10. See further in No. 3.

3. When both subject and object are connected with the Infinitive, the rule is, that the subject should come immediately after the Inf., and then the object. When the latter is plainly in the accusative, the subject is then put, as in No. 2, sometimes in the genitive, but chiefly in the nominative. The genitive (which prevails in Arabic) appears, e. g. in Deut. i. 27, בְּשִׂנְאַת יְהוָה אֹתָנוּ because Jehovah hates us; Is. xiii. 19, כְּמַהֲפֵכַת אֱלֹהִים אֶת־סְדֹם as God overthrew Sodom; Is. xxix. 13, יִרְאָתָם אוֹתִי their fearing me; Gen. xxxix. 18, כַּהֲרִימִי קוֹלִי as I lifted up my voice: but the nominative is found, e. g. in Is. x. 15, כְּהָנִיף שֵׁבֶט אֶת־מֵרִימָיו as if the rod could shake them that lift it up (where we should have had כַּהֲנִיף, if שֵׁבֶט were in the genitive). Accordingly the subject is usually to be considered in the nominative, as 1 Kings xiii. 4, כִּשְׁמֹעַ הַמֶּלֶךְ אֶת־דְּבַר אִישׁ הָאֱלֹהִים as the king heard the word of the man of God. Gen. xiii. 10, Jos. xiv. 17, 2 Sam. iii. 11, Jer. xxi. 1, Eze. xxxvii. 13.

Now and then the order of the words is different, the object being put immediately after the Inf., and the nominative of the subject coming next (as a supplement) e. g. Is. xx. 1, בְּשָׁלְחַ אֹתוֹ סַרְגֹון when Sargon sent him; Ezra ix. 8, לְהָאִיר עֵינֵינוּ אֱלֹהֵינוּ that our God enlighten our eyes; 2 Chron. xii. 1, כְּהָכִין מַלְכוּת רְחַבְעָם when Rehoboam had established the kingdom. Jos. xiv. 11. Is. v. 24, xxix. 23, Ps. lvi. 1.

Sect. 134.

USE OF THE PARTICIPLE.

1. The only existing form of the Participle is used to express all the tenses, as מֵת dying (Zech. xi. 9); he who has died, dead (very frequently so); he who is to die (Gen. xx. 3); נֹפֵל he who falls, has fallen, will fall; עֹשֶׂה facturus (Gen. xli. 25; Is. v. 5); though it most frequently has the signification of the Present. The passive Participles, therefore, stand also for the Latin Participle in -ndus, e. g. נוֹרָא metuendus, terrible, Ps. lxxvi. 8; מְהֻלָּל laudandus, worthy to be praised, Ps. xviii. 4.

2. The Participle, standing in place of the finite verb as predicate of the sentence, denotes—

a) Most frequently the *Present: Eccles. i. 4, דּוֹר הֹלֵךְ וְדוֹר בָּא one generation goes, another comes; vs. 7, כָּל־הַנְּחָלִים הֹלְכִים all the rivers flow; Gen. iv. 10. If the subject is a personal pronoun, it is either written, in its separate form, in immediate connexion with the Participle, as יָרֵא אָנֹכִי I fear Gen. xxxii. 12, אֲנַחְנוּ יָרֵאִים we are afraid 1 Sam. xxiii. 3; or it is appended as a suffix to the word יֵשׁ (is), as Judges vi. 36, אִם יְשֶׁךָ מוֹשִׁיעַ if thou savest. In the same manner it is appended, in negative sentences, to אַיִן; e. g. אִם אֵינְךָ מְשַׁלְּחָ if thou send not away, Gen. xliii. 5.

Hence, b) the Future (conceived of as present, comp. § 126, 4). Is. v. 5, I will tell you אֵת אֲשֶׁר אֲנִי עֹשֶׂה what I do, for what I will do. Gen. xix. 13; xli. 25.

Also, c) the Past, especially when it stands connected with the statement of other past contemporaneous circumstances. Job i. 16, עוֹד זֶה מְדַבֵּר וְזֶה בָּא the one (was) still speaking, and another came; vs. 17. Gen. xlii. 35; Ex. ii. 6; Judges xiii. 9; 1 Sam. xvii. 23; 1 Ki. i. 5, 22. But it is also used with reference to past time, and even for the perfect Preterite, without any such connexion; e. g. Deut. iv. 3, עֵינֵיכֶם הָרֹאוֹת your eyes which have seen.†

With the verb הָיָה it serves to express the Imperfect.‡ Job i. 14, הַבָּקָר הָיוּ חֹרְשׁוֹת the oxen were ploughing, Gen. xv. 17; Judges i. 7; xvi. 21.

Rem. 1. In all the three cases alluded to above, a, b, c, הִנֵּה is employed before the Participle for awakening special attention; e. g. (a) For the Present, הִנְּךָ הָרָה behold! thou (art) with child,

---

* In Syriac and Chaldee, it is more frequently used for the Present than in its proper signification as a Participle.

† For the use of the article here before the predicate, see § 110, 3, Rem.

‡ In Syriac, the Present is expressed by interficiens ego (comp. letter a), and the Imperfect by interficiens fui = interficiebam.

Gen. xvi. 11; xxvii. 42; Ex. xxxiv. 11. (b) For the Future, Gen. vi. 17; Is. iii. 1; vii. 14; xvii. 1. (c) For the Past, Gen. xxxvii. 7; xli. 17.

2. By a change of construction, the Participle is often immediately followed by a finite verb; the pronouns that, who, etc. (אֲשֶׁר) implied in the Participle, must then be mentally supplied before the verb. So Part. and Pret. in Is. xiv. 17, that made (שָׂם) the world as a wilderness, and (who) destroyed (הָרַס) the cities thereof. Also Part. and Fut. (Present), so that the second clause begins with ו or without it, e. g. Is. v. 8, הוֹי מַגִּיעֵי בַיִת בְּבַיִת שָׂדֶה בְשָׂדֶה יַקְרִיבוּ woe to those who connect house with house, and (who) join field to field; vs. 11, 23; xxxi. 1; 1 Sam. ii. 8; Prov. xix. 26; also with Vav conversive, e. g. Gen. xxvii. 33, הַצָּד צַיִד וַיָּבֵא that hath hunted game and brought it; xxxv. 3; Ps. xviii. 33. (Compare the strictly analogous deviation from the Infinitive-construction, § 132, Rem. 2.)

Sect. 135.

CONSTRUCTION OF THE PARTICIPLE.

When Participles are followed by the object of the action which they express they are construed in two ways; 1) as verbal-adjectives having the same government as the verbs to which they belong; e. g. 1 Sam. xviii. 29, אֹיֵב אֶת־דָּוִד David's enemy (prop. one hating David); 1 Ki. ix. 23, הָרֹדִים בָּעָם they who rule the people; Ps. xxxiv. 13, הָהֵפֵץ חַיִּים he who desires life; Eze. ix. 2, לָבוּשׁ בַּדִּים clothed with linen garments; 2) as nouns followed by a genitive (§ 112, 2); e. g. Gen. xxii. 12, יָרֵא אֱלֹהִים one that fears (a fearer of) God; Ps. lxxxiv. 5, יֹשְׁבֵי בֵיתֶךָ inmates of thy house; Eze. ix. 11, לְבוּשׁ הַבַּדִּים the one clothed with linen garments; 2 Sam. xiii. 31, קְרָעֵי בְגָדִים having (their) clothes rent; Ps. xxxii. 1, נְשׂוּי־פֶשַׁע whose transgression is forgiven.

This latter construction with the genitive is properly confined to active verbs (§ 138). The Participle of the verb בּוֹא to enter in, is also construed thus, as this verb is followed by the accusative (comp. ingredi portam); e. g. Gen. xxiii. 10, בָּאֵי שַׁעַר those who enter in at the gate. But there are also examples of the Participle, regarded as a noun, being followed by a genitive in cases where the verb to which it belongs is construed only with a preposition; e. g. קָמַי, קָמָיו those who rise up against me,—against him, for עָלַי, עָלָיו, קָמִים, Ps. xviii. 40, 49; Deut. xxxiii. 11; Is. lix. 20, שָׁבֵי פָשַׁע those who turn from evil.

2. The difference explained in No. 1, holds also in regard to the suffixes. After the first method, we have עֹשַׂנִי he who made me, after the second עָשָׂי my maker.

Sect. 136.

EXPRESSION OF THE OPTATIVE.

We have already seen (§ 127, 3, b) that the Future, especially as cohortative with the ending ־ָה and with the particle נָא, is employed to express the Optative. Here must be added two other forms of circumlocution by which it is expressed, viz.—

1. By questions expressive of desire, e. g. 2 Sam. xv. 4, מִי יְשִׂמַנִי שֹׁפֵט who will make me judge? i. e. would that I were made judge! Judges ix. 29, מִי יִתֵּן אֶת־הָעָם הַזֶּה בְּיָדִי would that this people were placed in my hand! Ps. lv. 7; Job xxix. 2. In the phrase מִי יִתֵּן the proper force of the verb (to give) is often excluded, and nothing more is expressed than would that! (utinam!) God grant! It is followed, a) by an accusative, as Deut. xxviii. 67, מִי־יִתֵּן עֶרֶב would it were evening! prop. who will give evening? b) by an Infinitive, as Ex. xvi. 3, מִי־יִתֵּן מוּתֵנוּ O that we had died! c) by a finite verb (with or without וְ), Deut. v. 26, מִי־יִתֵּן וְהָיָה לְבָבָם זֶה לָהֶם O that they had this heart! Job xxiii. 3.

2. By the particles אִם si, O si! לוּ O si! especially by the latter, Ps. cxxxix. 19. The particle is followed by the Fut., Gen. xvii. 18, by the Part., Ps. lxxxi. 14, seldom by the Imp., Gen. xxiii. 13. When it is followed by the Pret., the desire expressed has reference to past time; as Num. xx. 3, לוּ גָוַעְנוּ would we had died!

SECT. 137.

PERSONS OF THE VERB.

1. In the use of the persons of the verb there is sometimes a neglect in respect to the distinctions of gender: especially are the masculine forms (as being the most readily occurring) employed with reference to objects which are feminine; e. g. יְדַעְתֶּם Eze. xxiii. 49, עֲשִׂיתֶם Ruth i. 8, וַתִּכְרֹת thou (fem.) hast made a league Is. lvii. 8; Joel ii. 22; Am. iv. 1; Cant. ii. 7. (Compare the analogous use of the pronoun, § 121, Rem. 1.)

2. The third person (most commonly in the masc.) is very often employed impersonally, e. g. וַיְהִי and it happened; צַר לוֹ and וַיֵּצַר לוֹ (lit. it was strait to him) he was in trouble; חַם לוֹ and וַיִּחַם לוֹ he became warm. It is also employed thus in the fem., e. g. 1 Sam. xxx. 6, וַתֵּצַר לְדָוִד and David was in trouble; Ps. l. 3; Jer. x. 7.

The Arabic and Æthiopic commonly employ here the masc. and the Syriac the fem. form.

3. The indeterminate third person (where the Germans use man, the French on, and we they, one,) is expressed, a) by the 3rd pers. singular, e. g. קָרָא they (prop. he) called Gen. xi. 9; xvi. 14; 1 Sam. xix. 22; xxiv. 11; b) by the 3rd pers. plural, as Gen. xli. 14, וַיְרִיצֻהוּ and they brought him in haste, for he was brought; c) by the 2nd person singular, e. g. Is. vii. 25, לֹא־תָבוֹא שָׁמָּה there shall no one go thither; so in the common phrase עַד בֹּאֲךָ or בֹּאֲךָ until one comes; d) by the passive voice, as Gen. iv. 26, אָז הוּחַל לִקְרֹא then they began to call upon —.*

Rem. 1. In the first case (letter a), the force of אִישׁ (impersonal, as we use one, men, they) is implied: the full construction occurs in one instance, 1 Sam. ix. 9, לְפָנִים בְּיִשְׂרָאֵל כֹּה אָמַר הָאִישׁ formerly they said thus in Israel. Sometimes another construction is employed, viz., the repetition of the verb in the form of the Participle as a nominative; e. g. Is. xvi. 10, לְאֵין דֹּרֵךְ הַדֹּרֵךְ the treader shall not tread, for they shall not tread = there shall be no treading; xxviii. 4; Jer. ix. 23; Eze. xxxiii. 4. The last not unfrequent in Arabic.

2. When the pronoun is to be expressed with emphasis, it is written separately before the corresponding verbal form; e. g. אַתָּה נָתַתָּ thou hast given, Judges xv. 18; 1 Kings xxi. 7; Ps. ii. 6; cxxxix. 2; also after the verbal form, Judges xv. 12, and this occurs in the later writers without any special emphasis, as דִּבַּרְתִּי אֲנִי Eccles. i. 16, beginning; ii. 11, 12, 13, 15, 20; viii. 15.

3. In the poets and prophets, especially, there is often, in the same construction, a sudden transition from one person to another. Is. i. 29, כִּי יֵבֹשׁוּ מֵאֵילִים אֲשֶׁר חֲמַדְתֶּם for they shall be ashamed of the groves in which ye delight, where both the third and second persons are employed with reference to the same subject. Isa. lxi. 7; Deut. xxxii. 15, 17; Mic. ii. 3.—In Job xiii. 28, the third person is probably employed δεικτικῶς for the first, compare also vi. 21 (according to the reading לוֹ).

SECT. 138.

VERBS WITH THE ACCUSATIVE.

All transitive verbs govern in general the accusative (§ 118). On this rule we remark—

1. There are many verbs which are construed both without an object (absolutely), and with one (in this latter case the verb in German and English often takes the prefix be); e. g. בָּכָה to weep, and to be-weep; יָשַׁב to dwell, and to dwell in, inhabit; יָצָא to go forth, and also like egredi in the form egredi urbem (Gen. xliv. 4).

Here notice further:

Rem. 1. Several verbs of this kind take after them their own substantive, i. e. one from the same root and with a corresponding signification, as פָּחַד פַּחַד Ps. xiv. 5, יָעַץ עֵצָה 1 Kings i. 12, like βουλεύειν βουλάς Il. x. 147; most frequently as a specification, or as a limitation of the general idea of the verb (as also in Greek); e. g. Gen. xxvii. 34, וַיִּצְעַק צְעָקָה גְּדֹלָה וּמָרָה he cried a loud and bitter cry; vs. 33; 2 Kings xiii. 14; Zech. i. 14; 1 Chr. xxix. 9. Comp. νοσεῖν νόσον κακήν, etc.

2. Verbs which signify to flow, to stream, take in the poets an accusative of that which is represented as poured forth in a stream. Lam. iii. 48, פַּלְגֵי־מַיִם תֵּרַד עֵינִי my eye flows down streams of water. Joel iv. 18, the hills flow milk. So נָזַל to run, to flow, Jer. ix. 17, נָטַף to distil, Joel iv. 18, and שָׁטַף to gush forth, to flow abundantly (hence, to bear along, as does a torrent), Is. x. 22: similar,

* Sometimes, on the contrary, the impersonal dicunt must be understood as strictly the passive dicitur, Job vii. 3, nights of pain have they appointed me, for are appointed me (sc. by God); iv. 19; xvii. 12; xxxii. 15; xxxiv. 20. So in Chaldee very frequently (Dan. ii. 30; iii. 4; v. 3), and in Syriac.

but more bold, is Prov. xxiv. 31, וְהִנֵּה עָלָה כֻלּוֹ קִמְשֹׁנִים and behold it (the field) has all gone up to thorns. Is. v. 6. Compare in Greek, προρρεῖν ὕδωρ, Hymn. in Apoll. 2, 202; δάκρυα στάζειν.

3. It is also to be regarded as a mere poetic usage, when verbs which signify to do, to speak, to cry, and the like, take an accusative of the instrument or member with which the act is performed. This is best illustrated by the example זָעַק קוֹל גָּדוֹל to cry a loud voice (comp. Rem. 1), for to cry with a loud voice, Eze. xi. 13; to speak a lying tongue (Ps. cix. 2), hence, Ps. iii. 5, קוֹלִי אֶקְרָא with my (whole) voice I cry; פִּי קָרָאתִי lxvi. 17, with my (full) mouth I cry: so, to speak with the mouth, Ps. xvii. 10, with the lips, xii. 3; to labour with the hand, Prov. x. 4; to help with the right hand, with the hand, with the sword, Ps. xvii. 13, 14; xliv. 3; lx. 7; יְמִינְךָ הוֹשִׁיעָה *; in which cases the accusativus instrumenti is employed. In the same cases בְּ instrumenti is also used, e. g. to praise with the mouth, Ps. lxxxix. 2; cix. 30; to supplicate with the mouth, Job xix. 16. But the same use of the accusative is found in Greek; e. g. προβαίνειν πόδα, παίειν ξίφος (see Porson and Schäfer ad Eurip. Orest. 1427, 1477, Bernhardy Synt. Gr. Sprach. S. 110); and that the accusative is actually dependent on the verb, in these cases, is clear from a comparison with those given under Rems. 1 and 2. In like manner,† in German, the instrument is sometimes construed as the object of the verb, as in the following examples, which are strictly analogous to those given above: Schlittschuhe laufen; eine herrliche Stimme singen; eine tüchtige Klinge schlagen [so in English, to ring the bell, to sound the timbrel, etc.].

2. Many verbs govern the accusative in consequence of a peculiar turn given to their signification, when the corresponding verbs in Greek, Latin, and German are construed with other cases; e. g. עָנָה to reply to (like ἀμείβομαι τινα, prop. to acquaint one); רִיב causam alicujus agere (prop. to defend him before the judge); בִּשֵּׂר to bring good news to one, to cheer him; נִאַף to commit adultery with one (prop. to embrace one adulterously); עָרַב to become surety for one (to bail him).

Rem. 1. In the same manner are construed even the passive and reflexive conjugations Niph., Hoph., Hithpa., the verb sometimes assuming under these forms a signification which requires the accusative, as נִבָּא to prophesy, Jer. xxv. 13; נָסַב to surround (prop. to place themselves around), Judges xix. 22; הִנְחַלְתִּי I am made (involuntarily) to possess, Job vii. 3; הִתְנַכֵּל to plot against, Gen. xxxvii. 18; הִתְחַבּוֹנֵן to consider, Job xxxvii. 14.

2. In very common forms of expression the accusative after such verbs may be omitted without injury to the sense (an elliptical expression), as כָּרַת, for כָּרַת בְּרִית to make a covenant, 1 Sam. xx. 16; שָׁלַח to stretch forth, sc. יָד the hand, Ps. xviii. 17.

3. Whole classes of verbs which govern the accusative are, a) those which signify to clothe and unclothe, as לָבַשׁ to put on a garment, פָּשַׁט to put off a garment,

* In 1 Sam. xxv. 26, 33, we have יָדְךָ and יָדִי as subjects to the Inf. הוֹשֵׁעַ, see § 133, 2.

† The Hebrews used also, on the other hand, the בְּ instrumenti where we have the accusative. They used indifferently, as we also may, the constructions to shake the head (Ps. xxii. 8), and to shake with the head (Job xvi. 4); to gnash the teeth (Ps. xxxv. 16), and to gnash with the teeth (Job xvi. 9), where head and teeth may be regarded as the object of the verb and as the instrument. But there is a deviation from our mode of expression in these phrases, viz., פָּעַר בְּפָה to open the mouth (Job xvi. 10, prop. to make an opening with the mouth), פָּרַשׂ בְּיָדַיִם to spread out the hands (Lam. i. 17, prop. to make a spreading with the hands), comp. נָתַן בְּקוֹל and נָתַן קוֹל.

עָרָה to put on as an ornament; e. g. לָבְשׁוּ כָרִים הַצֹּאן the pastures are clothed with flocks, Ps. lxv. 14; cix. 29; civ. 2; b) those which signify fulness or want, as מָלֵא to be full, שָׁרַץ to swarm with (Gen. i. 20, 21), שָׂבַע to be satiated, פָּרַץ to overflow (Prov. iii. 10), חָסַר to want, שָׁכַל to lose (children); e. g. וַתִּמָּלֵא הָאָרֶץ אֹתָם and the land was filled with them Ex. i. 7; אוּלַי יַחְסְרוּן חֲמִשִּׁים הַצַּדִּיקִם חֲמִשָּׁה lit. perhaps the fifty righteous will want five, i. e. perhaps there will be lacking five of the fifty Gen. xviii. 28; אֶשְׁכַּל גַּם שְׁנֵיכֶם (why) should I lose you both together Gen. xxvii. 45; c) most verbs of dwelling, e. g. שָׁכַן, גּוּר, יָשַׁב, not merely in a place (Judges v. 17; Is. xxxiii. 16; Gen. iv. 20), but also among a people, with any one (Ps. v. 5; cxx. 5); d) those which express going or coming to a place (petere locum); hence בּוֹא, with the accus. to befall one. With this is connected the accus. loci, § 118, 1.

SECT. 139.

VERBS WITH TWO ACCUSATIVES.

Two accusatives are governed by—

1. The causative conjugations (Piël and Hiphil) of all verbs which in Kal govern one accusative; e. g. מִלֵּאתִיו רוּחַ חָכְמָה I have filled him with the spirit of wisdom, Ex. xxviii. 3; וַיַּלְבֵּשׁ אֹתוֹ בִּגְדֵי שֵׁשׁ he clothed him in (caused him to put on) garments of fine cotton, Gen. xli. 42. And, further, אָזַר to gird one with Ps. xviii. 33, בֵּרַךְ to bless one with Deut. xv. 14, חִסַּר to cause one to lack something Ps. viii. 6.

2. A numerous class of verbs which have even in Kal a doubly-causative signification; such e. g. as, to cover or clothe one with anything (Ps. v. 13; Eze. xiii. 10; hence also to sow, to plant Is. v. 2; xvii. 10; xxx. 23; Judges ix. 45; to anoint Ps. xlv. 8); to fill, to bestow, to deprive (Eze. viii. 17; Gen. xxvii. 37; Pr. xxii. 23); to do one a favour or an injury (1 Sam. xxiv. 18); to make one something (Gen. xvii. 5); e. g. וְעָשִׂיתָ אֹתוֹ שֶׁמֶן מִשְׁחַת קֹדֶשׁ *and make it a holy anointing oil Ex. xxx. 25.

In such combinations as the one last mentioned, we often adopt another construction, viz., and make of it a holy anointing oil, i. e. we treat the first noun as an accusative of material, 1 Kings xviii. 32, וַיִּבְנֶה אֶת־הָאֲבָנִים מִזְבֵּחַ and he built of the stones an altar, prop. built the stones into an altar; Lev. xxiv. 5. More notable examples of this construction are those in which the material is placed last, as

 On the passives of these verbs see § 143, 1.

Ex. xxxviii. 3, כָּל־כֵּלָיו עָשָׂה נְחֹשֶׁת all its vessels he made of brass; Gen. ii. 7; Ex. xxv. 39; xxxvi. 14.

There is another use of two accusatives after the same active verb, viz., when the second serves to limit the first, by expressing more definitely the object of the action. This nearly resembles the adverbial use of the accusative (§ 118); e. g. הִכָּה אֶת לְחִי to smite one on the cheek, for to smite his cheek, Ps. iii. 8 (comp. Deut. xxxiii. 11; 2 Sam. iii. 27); הִכָּה אֶת נַפְשׁוֹ to smite one as to his life, i. e. to smite him dead, Gen. xxxvii. 21; and in the same manner with שׁוּף Gen. iii. 15.

Sect. 140.

VERBS WITH PREPOSITIONS.

The Hebrew language has no verbs compounded with prepositions. Those modifications of the verbal idea, which other languages indicate by composition with prepositions, are expressed in the Hebrew either, a) by appropriate verbal stems, as בּוֹא to go-in, יָצָא to go-out, שׁוּב to re-turn, קִדֵּם to pre-cede, קָרָה to oc-cur; or, b) by prepositions written after the verb [as in English], e. g. קָרָא to call, with לְ to call to, with בְּ to call upon, with אַחֲרֵי to call after; נָפַל to fall, with עַל to fall upon and also to fall off, with לִפְנֵי to fall down before; הָלַךְ with אַחֲרֵי to go after, to follow.

It is the task of the Lexicon to show the use of the several prepositions with each particular verb. The subject of whole classes of words construed with this or that particle will be best referred to § 154, 3, which treats of the construction and use of the prepositions. [See on the subject of this section, Nordheimer's Heb. Grammar, § 1037.]

Sect. 141.

CONSTRUCTIO PRÆGNANS.

The so-called constructio prægnans occurs in Hebrew particularly when a verb, in itself not a verb of motion, is connected with a particle which implies motion; so that, for the completion and correctness of the sense, another verb of motion is to be mentally supplied, so that the principal verb properly obtains the accessory idea of motion through the particle; e. g. תָּמַהּ אֶל to turn or look in astonishment to one, Gen. xliii. 33; מִלֵּא לָלֶכֶת אַחֲרֵי יְהוָה for מִלֵּא אַחֲרֵי יְהוָה to fill up to follow Jehovah, i. e. to follow him fully, Num. xiv. 24; Ps. xxii. 22, מִקַּרְנֵי רְמִים עָנִיתָנִי hear (and save) me from the horns of the buffaloes; Is. xiv. 17, אֲסִירָיו לֹא פָתַח בֵּיתָה his prisoners he did not release (and let go) to their homes; Ps. lxxxix. 40; Gen. xlii. 28; Is. xli. 1.

Sect. 142.

CONSTRUCTION OF TWO VERBS TO EXPRESS ONE IDEA.

When one verb serves to complete the meaning of another, the second (according to the sense, the principal verb) is construed as follows, viz.—

1. It stands in the Inf., both absol. (§ 131, 1) and (more commonly) constr., after the other verb, e. g. Deut. ii. 25, 31, אָחֵל תֵּת I begin to give; Gen. xxxvii. 5, וַיּוֹסִפוּ שְׂנֹא and they went on to hate; Ex. xviii. 23, יָכָלְתָּ עָמֹד thou canst endure; Is. i. 14, נִלְאֵיתִי נְשֹׂא I am weary to bear. But still more frequently—

2. It stands in the Inf. preceded by לְ, as Deut. iii. 24, הַחִלּוֹתָ לְהַרְאוֹת thou hast begun to show; Gen. xi. 8, וַיַּחְדְּלוּ לִבְנוֹת and they ceased to build; xxvii. 20, מִהַרְתָּ לִמְצֹא thou hast hastened to find, i. e. hast quickly found, etc.

These two are the usual constructions in prose after verbs signifying to begin (הוֹאִיל, הֵחֵל), to continue (הוֹסִיף), to hasten (מִהַר), to cease (כָּלָה, חָדַל), to be finished (תָּמַם); so also, to make good (הֵיטִיב), to make much or many (הִרְבָּה), and the like modes of action expressed, for the most part, by Hiphil, to be willing (אָבָה, חָפֵץ), to refuse (מָאֵן), to seek, to strive for (בִּקֵּשׁ) to be able (יָכֹל, יָדַע, the latter signifying to know [how] to do), to learn (לָמַד), *to permit. It is to be remarked, however, that in poetry the לְ is often omitted where it is used in prose, as אָבָה to be willing, with the לְ, Ex. x. 27, with the mere Inf. Job xxxix. 9; Isa. xxx. 9; xlii. 24.†

3. It has, like the first, the form of the finite verb: they are then construed—

a) With וְ before the second verb, which then agrees with the first in tense, gender, and number, both making up but one idea, as in Nos. 1 and 2. (Comp. our expression, he was pleased and went, for he was pleased to go.)—Judges xix. 6, הוֹאַל־נָא וְלִין be pleased now and lodge; Jos. vii. 7.—Gen. xxvi. 18, וַיָּשָׁב וַיַּחְפֹּר and he returned (repeated) and digged, for he digged again; xxxvii. 7; 2 Kings i. 11, 13; Gen. xxv. 1, he added and took a wife, for he took again a wife.—Esth. viii. 6, אֵיכָכָה אוּכַל וְרָאִיתִי how should I endure and witness? for how should I endure to witness?—Cant. ii. 3; Eccles. iv. 1, 7.

The construction can also begin with the Fut. and proceed in the Pret. with וְ (according to § 126, 6), as in Esther viii. 6; Deut. xxxi. 12, that they may learn (Fut.) and fear (Pret.), for to fear, Hos. ii. 11; Dan. ix. 25. And on the contrary, it may begin in the Pret. and proceed in the Fut. with וְ, Job xxiii. 3.

* To permit one to do a thing, is expressed by נָתַן פ' לַעֲשׂוֹת, and עָשׂוֹת נָתַן פ', prop. to give or grant one to do a thing; Gen. xx. 6, לֹא נְתַתִּיךָ לִנְגֹּעַ I have not permitted thee to touch.

† So after words which include an analogous verbal idea, e. g. אֵין לָבוֹא it is not permitted to enter in; אֵין עָרֹךְ (poet.) there is not to be compared Ps. xl. 6; עָתִיד ready, prepared, commonly with לְ, without it in Job iii. 8.

b) Ἀσυνδέτως, i. e. without the ו and, both verbs being of the same tense, gender, and number (as under letter a), but with a closer connexion of the second with the first. Deut. ii. 24, הָחֵל רָשׁ begin and take possession; Hos. i. 6, לֹא אוֹסִיף אֲרַחֵם I will not go on and have pity, i. e. I will no longer pity; 1 Sam. ii. 3, אַל תַּרְבּוּ תְדַבְּרוּ do not multiply and speak = speak not much; Lam. iv. 14, בְּלֹא יוּכְלוּ יִגְּעוּ so that they could not touch; Job xix. 3; Hos. v. 10.

This construction is more poetical than that under letter a. Comp. e. g. הוֹסִיף with ו following in Gen. xxv. 1; xxxviii. 5; but without ו in Hos. i. 6; Is. lii. 1; though it occurs also in common prose, as in Neh. iii. 20; Deut. i. 5; Jos. iii. 16; 1 Chron. xiii. 2.

c) Likewise ἀσυνδέτως, but with the second verb in a close subordinate connexion in the Future, depending on the conjunction that implied. Job xxxii. 22, לֹא יָדַעְתִּי אֲכַנֶּה I know not to flatter (prop. I know not to begin, that I should flatter = I cannot flatter). 1 Sam. xx. 19, וְשִׁלַּשְׁתָּ הַדָּר and cause on the third day (that) thou come down, for on the third day come down. Is. xlii. 21, הָפַץ יַגְדִּיל he desires to make great; Job xxiv. 14, יָקוּם רוֹצֵחַ יִקְטֹל, the murderer arises to kill.

In Arabic and Syriac, this construction is very common;* in Hebrew rare; but it was necessarily used in those cases where the second verb was to be distinguished from the first in person or number. Is. xlvii. 1, לֹא תוֹסִיפִי יִקְרְאוּ־לָךְ thou shalt not add (that) they shall call thee, for thou shalt not continue to be called; Num. xxii. 6, אוּלַי אוּכַל נַכֶּה־בּוֹ וְאֲגָרְשֶׁנּוּ perhaps I may be able (that) we shall smite him, and I shall drive him out.

All three constructions (letters a, b, c) and also another akin to that under letter c, are found alike in some verbs in Syriac. He could go, may, for example, be expressed by potuit et ivit (letter a), potuit ivit (letter b), potuit et iret (not in Hebrew), potuit iret (letter c). See Agrell. Suppl. Synt. Syr., p. 33.

4. It takes the form of the Participle, Is. xxxiii. 1, כְּהַתִּמְּךָ שׁוֹדֵד † when thou shalt cease as a destroyer, i. e. to be a destroyer = to destroy;‡ 1 Sam. xvi. 16.

In the same manner is construed also the verbal adjective, 1 Sam. iii. 2, his eyes הַחֵלּוּ כֵהוֹת began (to grow) dim. Of this construction is Gen. ix. 20, וַיָּחֶל נֹחַ אִישׁ הָאֲדָמָה and Noah began (to be) a husbandman.

Rem. 1. In very many of the above examples, the first verb only serves, in effect, to qualify in some manner the second, and hence we translate it by an adverb, as already shown above. Comp. further Gen. xxxi. 27, לָמָּה נֶחְבֵּאתָ לִבְרֹחַ wherefore hast thou secretly fled? xxxvii. 7, your sheaves

* The Arabian says volebat dilaceraret for he would rend; and so the Syrian, ܨܒܐ ܢܫܩ volebat tolleret (Luke xviii. 13), he would lift up, but oftener with the conjunction that, ܨܒܐ ܕܢܐܬܐ he would come. The Latin also may omit the conjunction in this case; Quid vis faciam? Ter. Volo hoc oratori contingat, Cic. Brut. 84. So in German [and in English] Ich wollte, es wäre; Ich dachte, es ginge [I would it were, I thought it went.]

† For בְּהַתַּמֵּךְ (§ 20, Rem.) Inf. Hiph. of תָּמַם.

‡ This construction is also common in Syriac (see Hoffmann's Gram. Syr., p. 343, b), where it is by no means to be taken (as is done by J. D. Michaëlis) for a Græcism.

stood around and bowed, for bowed around; 2 Kings ii. 10, הִקְשִׁיתָ לְשְׁאֹל thou hast made hard in asking, i. e. hast made a hard demand (comp. Ex. xiii. 15). The verb which qualifies the other may also occupy the second place, but never without special cause; e. g. Is. liii. 11, יִרְאֶה יִשְׂבַּע he shall see and be satisfied (with the sight), and lxvi. 11, that ye may suck and be satisfied (by that act); xxvi. 11. Jer. iv. 5, קִרְאוּ מִלְאוּ means, call ye (and that) with full voice=call aloud.

2. Of another construction are those verbs which take after them (in place of an accusative) a sentence or clause depending on כִּי or אֲשֶׁר that (§ 155, 1); such, e. g., as to see (Gen. i. 4, 10), to know (Gen. xxii. 12), to believe, to remember, to forget, to say, to think, to happen. On the omission of the conjunction before such clauses, see § 155, 4, c.

SECT. 143.

CONSTRUCTION OF PASSIVE VERBS.

1. When a causative conjugation (Piël, Hiphil) has two accusatives (§ 139), its passive retains only one of them (the second, more remote object), taking the other as a nominative, or including it in itself. Ps. lxxx. 11, כָּסּוּ הָרִים צִלָּהּ the mountains are covered with its (the vine's) shade; 1 Kings xxii. 10, מְלֻבָּשִׁים בְּגָדִים clothed with garments (prop. made to put on garments); Ex. xxv. 40, אֲשֶׁר־אַתָּה מָרְאָה which was shown thee (prop. which thou wast made to see).

Several striking phenomena in the construction of the passive are readily explained, if we regard it as an impersonal active (dicitur = one says, they say), just as, on the contrary, the impersonal active often supplies the place of the passive (see § 137 Note). We may thus explain those cases, in which—

a) It takes the object of the action in the accusative. Gen. xxvii. 42, וַיֻּגַּד לְרִבְקָה אֶת־דִּבְרֵי עֵשָׂו and they made known to Rebecca the words of Esau; iv. 18, וַיִּוָּלֶד לַחֲנוֹךְ אֶת־עִירָד one bore (for his wife bore) to Enoch, Irad; xxi. 5, בְּהִוָּלֶד לוֹ אֶת־יִצְחָק at the time of bearing (ἐν τῷ τεκεῖν) to him, Isaac; xl. 20, יוֹם הֻלַּדְתּ אֶת־פַּרְעֹה the day when Pharaoh was born; xvii. 5, לֹא יִקָּרֵא עוֹד אֶת־שִׁמְךָ אַבְרָם they shall no longer call thy name Abram. Ex. x. 8, וַיּוּשַׁב אֶת־מֹשֶׁה אֶל פַּרְעֹה and Moses was brought back to Pharaoh. Lev. xvi. 27; Jos. vii. 15.

b) It does not agree (as often happens) in gender and number with the noun, even when preceded by it (comp. § 147), because the noun is, in this case, regarded not as the subject but as the object of the verb passive. Is. xxi. 2, חָזוּת קָשָׁה הֻגַּד־לִי visionem diram nunciarunt mihi (the noun in the accusative); Dan. ix. 24, septuaginta septimanas destinarunt (נֶחְתַּךְ); 1 Kings ii. 21; Is. xiv. 3; Gen. xxxv. 26; Hos. x. 6; Job xxii. 9 (זְרֹעוֹת), xxx. 15.*

2. The efficient cause, after a passive verb, most frequently takes לְ, and is therefore in the dative (as in Greek), as בָּרוּךְ לְאֵל blessed of God (τῷ Θεῷ), Gen. xiv. 19, Prov. xiv. 20. More rare, but equally certain, is the same use of מִן (prop. from, by which origin, source, in general, is often denoted), Ps. xxxvii. 23, Gen. ix. 11, Job xxiv. 1, xxviii. 4; מִפְּנֵי a parte, Gen. vi. 13; בְּ by, Num. xxxvi. 2. Sometimes this relation is expressed without a preposition with accusat. instrumenti

* Comp. Olshausen Emendationen zum A. T., S. 24, 25.

(comp. § 138, 1, Rem. 3), as Is. i. 20, חֶרֶב תְּאֻכְלוּ by the sword shall ye be devoured, comp. Ps. xvii. 13.

Rem. Many neuter verbs are sometimes used as passive, in consequence of a peculiar application of their meaning; e. g. יָרַד to go down,—spoken of a forest, to be felled; עָלָה for to be brought up (on the altar), Lev. ii. 12; to be entered (in an account), 1 Chron. xxvii. 24; יָצָא to be brought out of, Deut. xiv. 22.

Sect. 144.

MANNER OF EXPRESSING THE COPULA.

The union of the substantive or pronoun, which forms the subject of the sentence, with another substantive or adjective as its predicate, is most commonly expressed by simply writing them together without any copula. 1 Kings xviii. 21. יְהוָה הָאֱלֹהִים Jehovah (is) the true God; Gen. ii. 4, אֵלֶּה תוֹלְדוֹת this (is) the history; ii. 12, זְהַב הָאָרֶץ הַהִוא טוֹב the gold of that land (is) good; Is. xxxi. 2, גַּם הוּא חָכָם also he (is) wise!—In this construction, a personal pronoun of the third person, which refers to the predicate, frequently serves to make prominent the union of the subject and predicate (see § 121, 2).

Less frequently the copula is expressed by the substantive verb הָיָה. Gen. i. 2, and the earth was (הָיְתָה) waste and empty; iii. 1, the serpent was (הָיָה) crafty; vs. 20. Also by יֵשׁ and אַיִן (which include the idea of the substantive verb) when the subject is a pronoun and the predicate is a participle (see § 134, 2, a).

Rem. Instead of the adjective, the Hebrew often employs the abstract substantive as a predicate (§ 106, 1, Rem. 2); especially when there is no adjective of the signification required (§ 106, 1), e. g. קִירוֹתָיו עֵץ his walls (are) wood = of wood, wooden. Here the sense is the same as if the substantive, which stands as subject of the sentence, were repeated, in the constr. st., before the predicate (קִירוֹתָיו קִירוֹת עֵץ). This full construction occurs Job vi. 12, אִם כֹּחַ אֲבָנִים כֹּחִי is my strength the strength of stones? Similar examples are, Cant. i. 15. עֵינַיִךְ יוֹנִים thy eyes (are) doves' eyes; Ezra x. 13, הָעֵת גְּשָׁמִים the time (is the time) of showers; Ps. xlv. 7, כִּסְאֲךָ אֱלֹהִים thy throne (is) a throne of God = solium divinum;* second member (with the full construction) שִׁבְטָם מִישׁר

* But see Hengstenberg's Psalmen, II., p. 415. Philology requires no other than the simple and natural construction, "Thy throne, O God!" &c., which is given in all the ancient versions as well as in our own.—Tr.

SECT. 145.

ARRANGEMENT OF WORDS IN A SENTENCE; CASE ABSOLUTE.

1. The most natural arrangement of words in the simple sentence, in calm discourse, is properly this, viz., subject, copula, predicate; or, when the predicate consists of the verb with its object, subject, verb, object. Adverbial designations (for example, of time or place) may stand either before or after the verb; a negative always immediately before it.*

But the Hebrew can, at pleasure, render either of these members prominent by giving it the first place in the sentence; thus—

a) The verb: Prov. xxviii. 1, they flee, when there is no pursuer, the wicked; Gen. xlii. 30. This is its common position when there is implied in it an indeterminate subject (the impersonal construction, § 134, 3), as Gen. i. 14, יְהִי מְאֹרוֹת let there be lights, עָנָה אִיִּים they howl (to wit) the jackals Is. xiii. 22 (comp. il vient des hommes); and also wherever the sentence or clause is connected with a preceding one by וְ (of course wherever the Future with וְ is employed), אֲשֶׁר or כִּי; as Gen. iii. 1, all beasts אֲשֶׁר עָשָׂה יְיָ which Jehovah had made; ii. 5, כִּי לֹא הִמְטִיר יְיָ for Jehovah had not caused it to rain.

b) The adjective; and this, when it is the predicate, is more commonly placed before than after the subject, as the most important member of the sentence. Jer. xx. 6, גָּדוֹל אַתָּה וְגָדוֹל שְׁמֶךָ great thou art, and great is thy name.

c) The object of the verb, which is then immediately followed by the verb, as Prov. xiii. 5, lying speech hates the righteous man; Is. xviii. 5, a ripening grape becomes the blossom; viii. 13; Gen. xlvii. 21. Very rare is the arrangement as in 2 Kings v. 13; some great thing had the prophet commanded thee. Ex. xviii. 23.

d) The adverbial expression, which is then immediately followed by the verb. Gen. i. 1; Jos. x. 12, אָז יְדַבֵּר יְהוֹשֻׁעַ; Judges v. 22.

* Rarely the object is inserted between the negative and the verb (Job xxii. 7, xxxiv. 23, Eccles. x. 10), also the subject (2 Kings v. 26), or an adverbial expression (Ps. vi. 2).

Another arrangement, viz. subject, object, verb, which is common in Aramæan (Dan. ii. 6, 7, 8, 10), is also found in Hebrew, though seldom and only in poetry. Ps. vi. 10, יְהוָה תְּפִלָּתִי יִקָּח; xi. 5; Is. xiii. 18; xlix. 6. See Gesenius's Comment. on Is. xlii. 24.

On the absence of inflexion in the predicate when put first, see § 147.

2. But the greatest prominence is given to any substantive in the sentence (whether it is the genitive, or accusative of the object, or employed by way of qualification of any kind) by permitting it to stand, absolutely, at the beginning of the sentence, and then representing it, in its proper place, by a pronoun (compare c'est moi, qu'on a accusé); e. g. the genitive, Ps. xviii. 31, הָאֵל תָּמִים דַּרְכּוֹ God—perfect is his way, for God's way is perfect; xi. 4, civ. 17;—the accusative, Ps. lxxiv. 17, winter and summer—thou hast made them, for thou hast made winter and summer; Gen. xlvii. 21, אֶת־הָעָם הֶעֱבִיר אֹתוֹ the people—he removed them; xxi. 13, comp. Jer. vi. 19.* The suffix may also be omitted, Ps. ix. 7, and the connexion indicated by ו (as sign of the apodosis). Ps. xviii. 41 (comp. 2 Sam. xxii. 41). Job xxxvi. 26, מִסְפַּר שָׁנָיו וְלֹא חֵקֶר, sc. לָהֶם the number of his years—there is no searching (to them). Gen. iii. 5; Job iv. 6, xxiii. 12, xxv. 5; 1 Sam. xxv. 27; 2 Sam. xv. 34.

The use of the participle in this manner is peculiar, and resembles the Latin ablative absolute, Prov. xxiii. 24, יוֹלֵד חָכָם וְיִשְׂמַח he who begets a wise son (i. e. when one begets, etc.), then he may rejoice. 1 Sam. ii. 13, כָּל־אִישׁ זֹבֵחַ זָבַח וּבָא נַעַר הַכֹּהֵן when any one brought an offering, then came the priest's servant; ix. 11; Gen. iv. 15.

SECT. 146.

RELATION OF THE SUBJECT AND PREDICATE IN RESPECT TO GENDER AND NUMBER.

The predicate (verb, adjective, substantive with copula) conforms, regularly, to the subject in gender and number. From this rule, common to all languages, there are many deviations, partly occasioned by regard to the sense rather than the grammatical form of words (constructio ad sensum), partly by the position of the predicate before the other members of the sentence.

In respect to the first cause, we remark—

1. Collective nouns, e. g. עָם, גּוֹי people, בַּיִת family, and nouns used as collective, as אִישׁ men (see 108, 1), are usually construed with the plural, Judges ix. 55, וַיִּרְאוּ אִישׁ־יִשְׂרָאֵל and the men of Israel saw; xv. 10. 1 Kings xx. 20, וַיַּכּוּ אִישׁ אִישׁוֹ and they slew every one his man; Prov. xi. 26. So when the collective is itself fem. but represents individuals which are of the masc. gender; e. g. 2 Sam. xv. 23, כָּל־הָאָרֶץ בוֹכִים the whole land (i. e. its inhabitants) *wept; 1 Kings x. 24; Gen. xlviii. 6; 1 Sam. ii. 33, xvii. 47; and vice versâ, Job i. 14, הַבָּקָר הָיוּ חֹרְשׁוֹת the cattle (cows) were ploughing. For examples of the predicate with the singular form in such cases, see Gen. xxxv. 11; Is. ii. 4 (comp. Micah iv. 3).

Often the construction begins with the singular (especially when the verb is placed first, § 147, a), and then, when the collective is introduced, proceeds with the plural. Ex. xxxiii 4, וַיִּשְׁמַע הָעָם . . . . וַיִּתְאַבָּלוּ and the people heard . . . . and mourned; i. 20.

2. On the other hand plural nouns with a singular signification (§ 108, 2) are construed with the singular, especially the pluralis excellentiæ. Gen. i. 1, 3.† Ex. xxi. 29, בְּעָלָיו יוּמָת his owner shall be put to death. So feminine forms with a masculine signification are construed with the masculine, as in Eccles. xii. 9, הָיָה קֹהֶלֶת חָכָם the preacher was wise.

3. Plurals which designate beasts or things (but not persons), whether they are masc. or fem. readily take the construction with the fem. sing.‡ (comp. the feminine form with collective meaning, in § 107, 3, d). Joel i. 20, בַּהֲמוֹת שָׂדֶה תְּעָרוֹג the beasts of the field pine for—. Job xiv. 19, תִּשְׁטֹף כְּפִיחָיהּ its floods wash away. Jer. xlix. 24, חֲבָלִים אֲחָזַתְהָ pains have seized upon her. Ps. xxxvii. 31; Job xii. 7. The same principle applies to pronouns in connexion with their antecedents, Job xxxix. 15; Is. xxxv. 7; 2 Kings iii. 3.

4. Moreover, those plurals also which designate persons are construed with the singular, when, instead of the whole sum of individuals spoken of, the attention is directed to each one of them (comp. כֹּל for omnes and omnis). Num. xxiv. 9, מְבָרְכֶיךָ בָרוּךְ וְאֹרְרֶיךָ אָרוּר blessed (be every one of) those who bless thee, and cursed (each of) those who curse thee; Prov. iii. 18, תֹּמְכֶיהָ מְאֻשָּׁר happy (is every one of) those who retain her; xxvii. 16, צֹפְנֶיהָ צָפַן־רוּחַ; xxviii. 1.

5. Dual substantives have their predicates in the plural, since verbs, adjectives, and pronouns have no dual form (§ 88, 1). Gen. xxix. 17, וְעֵינֵי לֵאָה רַכּוֹת and the * Sallust. Jugurth. 14, pars in crucem acti, pars bestiis objecti.

† אֱלֹהִים is here and there construed with the plur. only in the older biblical books, and in certain forms of expression which perhaps had their origin in polytheism. Gen. xx. 13; xxxv. 7; Ex. xxii. 8; Ps. lviii. 12. The later writers studiously avoid this construction, as polytheistic; comp. Ex. xxxii. 4, 8, and Neh. ix. 18; 2 Sam. vii. 23, and 1 Chron. xvii. 21. See the Lexicon [translated by S. P. Tregelles. Samuel Bagster and Sons].

‡ Perfectly analogous is the Greek construction τὰ πρόβατα βαίνει, where the Attics admit the plural only when persons are designated: τὰ ἀνδράποδα ἔλαβον. In Arabic, such a plural is called pluralis inhumanus (i. e. not used of men), and is construed chiefly with the fem. sing., like all its so-called pluralia fracta (collective forms).

eyes of Leah were tender; Ps. xviii. 28; Is. xxx. 20; 2 Sam. xxiv. 3; 1 Sam. i. 13, עֵינַי יִהְיוּ פְתֻחוֹת וְאָזְנַי קְשֻׁבוֹת; vi. 40; שִׂפְתֶיהָ נָעוֹת her lips moved; 2 Chron. vii. 15, עֵינַי הִרְאֶינָה my eyes shall see. Jer. xiv. 6; Is. i. 15; Job x. 8; xx. 10; xxvii. 4; Ps. xxxviii. 11. Rarely the principle stated in No. 3 of this section is extended also to the dual; e. g. Mic. iv. 11.

Sect. 147.

SUBJECT AND PREDICATE, IN RESPECT TO GENDER AND NUMBER.

The other cause of deviation from the general rule, is the position of the predicate at the beginning of the sentence. The subject, to which it would regularly conform, not being yet expressed, it often takes its simplest and readiest form, viz., the masc. sing., even when the subject, which comes after, is feminine or plural: the predicate in this case is not subject to inflexion; e. g.—

a) The verb: Is. xlvii. 11, בָּא עָלֶיךָ רָעָה there comes upon thee evil; Mic. ii. 6, לֹא יִסַּג כְּלִמּוֹת reproaches do not depart. Ps. lvii. 2; Deut. xxxii. 35; Esther ix. 23, וְקִבֵּל הַיְּהוּדִים and the Jews undertook. 2 Kings iii. 26, חָזַק הַמִּלְחָמָה hard was the battle. 1 Sam. xxv. 27. Often the verb may here be regarded as impersonal, as in il vient des hommes, il a paru deux volumes (§ 145, 1, a). More seldom before the plur. fem. we find (at least) the masc. plur. Judges xxi. 21, אִם־יֵצְאוּ בְנוֹת שִׁילֹה when the daughters of Shilo come forth.

b) The adjective: Psalm cxix. 137, יָשָׁר מִשְׁפָּטֶיךָ righteous are thy judgments; vs. 155, יְשׁוּעָה . . . רָחוֹק far (is) salvation. Job xxiv. 7, 10, עָרוֹם הָלְכוּ they go naked.

c) The participle as substantive: Gen. xlvii. 3, רֹעֵה צֹאן עֲבָדֶיךָ shepherds (are) thy servants. Also—

d) The copula, when it precedes the subject.* Is. xviii. 5, בֹּסֶר גֹּמֵל יִהְיֶה נִבְצָה the blossom becomes a ripening grape; Gen. xxvii. 39; xxxi. 8.

But if the construction is continued after the introduction of the subject, the verb must conform to it in its gender and number. Eze. xiv. 1, וַיָּבוֹא אֵלַי אֲנָשִׁים וַיֵּשְׁבוּ לְפָנָי; Gen. i. 14; Num. ix. 6.

* Independently of this arrangement, the הוּא, standing for the copula, is retained between plur. and fem. unchanged. Josh. xiii. 14, אִשֵּׁי יְיָ . . . . . הוּא נַחֲלָתוֹ the offerings of Jehovah . . . . . that is his inheritance. Comp. Jer. x. 3

Rem. 1. In general, the language is at times sparing in the use especially of the feminine forms (comp. § 112, 1, Rem. 2), and when a feminine substantive has more than one predicate, contents itself with giving to the nearest one the appropriate feminine form. The following are instructive examples; Is. xxxiii. 9, אָבַל אֻמְלְלָה אֶרֶץ the land mourneth and languisheth; xiv. 9, שְׁאוֹל מִתָּחַת רָגְזָה ..... עוֹרֵר לְךָ רְפָאִים Sheol beneath is moved . . . . it stirreth up the shades to thee. Examples of the masc. form in remote predicates, Gen. xxxii. 9; xlix. 15; Lev. ii. 1; v. 1; xx. 6; in such as stand in dependent sentences, Job vi. 10, לֹא יַחְמֹל (אֲשֶׁר) בְּחִילָה; xx. 26; after כִּי, vi. 20.

On the same principle, pronouns which refer to plural nouns take the form of the singular when they stand remote from their antecedents; Job xxxviii. 32; Deut. xxi. 10.

2. The cases in which the predicate follows the subject, without conforming to it in gender and number, are mostly those in which a verb passive is to be regarded as impersonal and in construction with the accusative (§ 143, 1, Rem.); or the predicate is a participle used as a substantive; e. g. Gen. iv. 7, לַפֶּתַח חַטָּאת רֹבֵץ at the door (is) sin a lurker (i. e. a lurking lion).—Eccles. ii. 7, בְּנֵי־בַיִת הָיָה לִי vernæ mihi sunt (where הָיָה לִי is to be understood as I have). Gen. xv. 17, וַעֲלָטָה הָיָה and darkness, there became (with a special emphasis on the noun,—the verb standing impersonally).

Sect. 148.

CONSTRUCTION OF COMPOUND SUBJECTS.

1. When the subject is composed of a nominative and genitive, the verb sometimes conforms in gender and number to the genitive instead of the governing noun,—viz., when the word in the genitive expresses the principal idea; e. g. Job xxxii. 7, רֹב שָׁנִים יֹדִיעוּ חָכְמָה the multitude of years (i. e. many years) should teach wisdom; Gen. iv. 10. 2 Sam. x. 9, הָיְתָה אֵלָיו פְּנֵי הַמִּלְחָמָה there was the battle-front against him, i. e. the battle was turned against him. Is. ii. 11; Job xxxviii. 21.

With the substantive כֹּל the whole, and the numerals, this construction is almost universal; e. g. Gen. v. 5, וַיִּהְיוּ כָּל־יְמֵי אָדָם and all the days of Adam were; Ex. xv. 20; Gen. viii. 19.

2. When several subjects are connected by and, their common predicate usually takes the plural form, especially when it follows them; Gen. viii. 22, זֶרַע וְקָצִיר וָקֹר וָחֹם . . . . לֹא יִשְׁבֹּתוּ seed-time and harvest, and cold and heat . . . . shall not cease; and in the masc. even with subjects of different genders, as, Gen. xviii. 11, אַבְרָהָם וְשָׂרָה זְקֵנִים Abraham and Sarah (were) old; Deut. xxviii. 32. When it precedes, it often conforms in gender and number to the first (as being the nearest) subject. Gen. vii. 7, וַיָּבוֹא נֹחַ וּבָנָיו there went in Noah and his sons; Ex. xv. 1; Num. xii. 1, וַתְּדַבֵּר מִרְיָם וְאַהֲרֹן there spoke Miriam and Aaron; Gen. xxxiii. 7; xliv. 14. Rarely the preference for the singular and also the masc. appears, when the predicate follows the subject; Prov. xxvii. 9, שֶׁמֶן וּקְטֹרֶת יְשַׂמַּח־לֵב ointment and perfume rejoice the heart. If the construction is continued, it is always with the plural form, e. g. Gen. xxi. 32, xxiv. 61; xxxi. 14; xxxiii. 7.

CHAPTER V.

USE OF THE PARTICLES.

Sect. 149.

Of the particles, as connected with the system of forms and inflexions (§§ 99—105), we have already treated in their relation to the other parts of speech. We are now to consider the signification and use of these words, which are so necessary to the nice perception of the sense, and hold so important a place in the philosophical treatment of the language. We shall present, in a general view, their most important peculiarities, leaving the more complete representation, as well as the necessary proofs, to the Lexicon.

Sect. 150.

THE ADVERBS.

The most important adverbs, classed according to their signification, are—

1. Adverbs of place: שָׁם there; פֹּה, כֹּה, זֶה and בָּזֶה, hic, here, הֵלֹם and הֵנָּה hither, the latter also here (from the Chald. דֵּן this), הָלְאָה thither, farther on (prop. to a distance), hence מִמְּךָ וָהֵנָּה (from thee hither) on this side of thee, and מִמְּךָ וָהָלְאָה (from thee farther on) beyond thee, 1 Sam. xx. 22, 37. Is. xviii. 2; עַל, more commonly מִמַּעַל above, מִתַּחַת below, מַעְלָה upwards, מַטָּה downwards, חוּץ outside, מִחוּץ on the outside, מִבַּיִת and פְּנִימָה within, קֶדֶם, מִקֶּדֶם before, on the east, אָחוֹר behind, אֲחֹרַנִּית backwards, נֶגֶד over against, יָמִין to the right, מִימִין on the right, יָם on the west (prop. on the sea side, סָבִיב and מִסָּבִיב around, קוֹמְמִיוּת upright.

To many of these adverbs מִן is prefixed, or the accusative-ending ־ָה appended, indicating respectively the relations from and towards; e. g. שָׁם there, מִשָּׁם thence, שָׁמָּה thither; חוּץ outside, חוּצָה outwards. There are several which occur only with ־ָה appended, as מַטָּה, הָלְאָה.

Both these additions, however, express also the relation of rest in a place, as שָׁמָּה sometimes there (not merely thither), מִימִין on the right (not from the right). The ־ָה is in both cases accusative-ending (§ 90, 2), and מִן properly denotes hanging off from an object, and hence being upon the side of it, like a dextra et sinistra, a latere, a tergo, and in French *dessous, dessus, dedans, dehors.

2. Adverbs of time; these are in part the same with those which have been mentioned as adverbs of place, and which, by an easy transition, are made to express relations of time; as שָׁם then, like ἐκεῖ; כֹּה now; הָלְאָה onward; עַד הֵנָּה and contr. עָדֶנָּה hitherto.

Exclusively such are; עֵת at the time, hence now, at this time, (also without the pure designation of time, like νῦν, νύν), and presently, soon; הַיּוֹם (this day) to-day; בַּיּוֹם, בְּהַיּוֹם at this day now; תְּמוֹל, אֶתְמוֹל yesterday, and then of old; אָמֶשׁ yester-evening, last night; שִׁלְשׁוֹם (from שָׁלֹשׁ three, and יוֹם) three days ago; מָחָר to-morrow; מִמָּחֳרָת on the morrow; יוֹמָם by day; לַיְלָה by night; בֹּקֶר and הַשְׁכֵּם in the morning early; כָּל־הַיּוֹם the whole day, then all the time, always; תָּמִיד perpetually, always, עוֹלָם, לָעוֹלָם for ever, לָנֶצַח נֶצַח continually; אָז then, with reference to both past and future time, מֵאָז long since, formerly, לְפָנִים, do., כְּבָר (length) long since; עוֹד (to repeat), again, repeatedly, commonly yet, with a negative no more; כְּאֶחָד (as one), at once, together; יַחְדָּיו, do., רִאשׁוֹנָה at first, אַחֲרֵי כֵן (after it was so) afterwards, מְהֵרָה speedily, פִּתְאֹם instantly.

3. Adverbs for other modal ideas, as a) of quality; כֹּה (see above) and כֵּן so; מְאֹד very, יָתֵר exceedingly, very יוֹתֵר more, too much, כָּלָה, נֶצַח wholly, בְּאַיִן, בִּמְעַט (about or near nothing, about, i. e. within a little = wanting little) almost, אֲפוֹא so, so then (Job ix. 24), hence often used intensively in questions (see § 153, 2, Rem.), טוֹב and הֵיטֵיב well, כֹּל (in connexion with other adverbs), wholly, just, as כָּל־עוֹד wholly or just so long, Job xxvii. 3.

b) Of quantity: הַרְבֵּה much, לָרֹב abundantly, הוֹן (riches) richly, דַּי followed by the genitive (prop. sufficiency), enough, as דֵּיךָ what is enough for thee, רַב much, enough; לְבַד, לָבָד (in separation), alone, the former also with suffixes, as לְבָדִי I alone; יַחַד together.

c) Of asseveration: אָמֵן, אָמְנָם truly, אָכֵן certainly, indeed, and by apocope אַךְ; אָבָל truly, also (corrective) nay rather, immo, Gen. xvii. 19; 1 Kings i. 43; אוּלַי perhaps.•

The expression of asseveration may easily pass over into that of opposition (comp. verum, vero) and of limitation; and hence some of the above-mentioned affirmative particles are partly adversative and restrictive, as אַךְ only, אָכֵן, אָבָל (especially in later usage) but. Most strongly adversative is אוּלָם on the contrary (the LXX. οὐ μὴν ἀλλὰ), thus used almost exclusively in the Pentateuch and Job. Restrictive also is רַק (used before adjectives like אַךְ) merely, i. e. only.

d) Of cause: עַל־כֵּן, לָכֵן, לָהֵן, therefore. e) Of accession: גַּם also, and (more poetical, and expressive of accession) אַף adeo, yea more, even,—both which, however, often take the character of conjunctions.

4. Adverbs of negation: on these, see § 152.

5. Interrogative adverbs include all the former classes: thus, the question may relate to place, as אַי, אַיֵּה, where? the first with suff. אַיּוֹ where (is) he? so אַי זֶה, אֵיזֶה, אֵיפֹה, אֵיכָה where?—מֵאַי, מֵאַיִן, אֵי מִזֶּה, whence? אָנָּה (from אַיְנָה) whither? to time, as מָתַי when? עַד מָתַי until when? how long? עַד אָנָה, the same; to quality, as אֵיכָה, אֵיךְ, אֵיכָכָה how? to quantity, as כַּמָּה how much? how often? to cause, as לָמָּה and מִדּוּעַ (§ 99, 3) wherefore?—Respecting the pure interrogative particles הַ, אִם, see § 153.

Most of these interrogative particles are formed by prefixing אַי, אֵי, which in itself signifies where (comp. Germ. wovon? wohin?), but by usage becomes also a mere sign of interrogation before particles of place, time, etc.

In this manner, and by the application of the ending ־ָה, of the prep. מִן, and of the relative אֲשֶׁר, are formed whole classes of correlative adverbs, as זֶה here, מִזֶּה hence, אַי זֶה where? אֵי מִזֶּה whence? אֲשֶׁר מִזֶּה whence (relative); שָׁם there, שָׁמָּה thither, מִשָּׁם thence, אֲשֶׁר שָׁם where, אֲשֶׁר שָׁמָּה whither, אֲשֶׁר מִשָּׁם whence.

• Compounded of אוֹ and לִי = לֹא, comp. Aram. דִּילְמָא whether not, perhaps, μήπορε. It is once employed in the sense of לוּלַי if not, in Num. xxii. 33, then whether not (who knows whether not), consequently perhaps, expressing doubt, solicitude, and also hope. •

Sect. 151.

CONSTRUCTION OF ADVERBS.

1. Adverbs not only serve, in general, to qualify a clause or sentence by expressing circumstances of time, place, etc., but also to qualify single words, as adjectives, e. g. טוֹב מְאֹד very good, and even substantives (like ἡ χθὲς ἡμέρα). With the latter they stand either, a) in apposition after them, אֲנָשִׁים מְעַט a few men Neh. ii. 12, חָכְמָה רַבָּה מְאֹד very much wisdom 1 Kings v. 9; or, b) in the genitive, קְלֻלַּת חִנָּם a curse uttered without a cause Pro. xvi. 2, עֵד חִנָּם a witness without a cause xxiv. 28, where the adverb is treated substantively, as in sponte sua.

The adverbs also appear in the nature of the substantive, when, as in the later writers, they take a preposition; e. g. בֶּחָנָּם in the so = בֵּן, Esth. iv. 16; אַלְחִנָּם, prop. for in vain, Eze. vi. 10.

2. The repetition of an adverb sometimes denotes intensity, and sometimes continual accession; e. g. מְאֹד מְאֹד exceedingly Num. xiv. 7, also more and more Gen. vii. 19, מַטָּה מַטָּה lower and lower Deut. xxviii. 43, מְעַט מְעַט by little and little (peu à peu) Ex. xxiii. 30.

On the use of verbs with the force of adverbs, see § 142, Rem. 1.

Sect. 152.

WORDS WHICH EXPRESS NEGATION.

1. The most important adverbs of negation are: לֹא = οὐκ not, אַל = μὴ that not, אַיִן (the opposite of יֵשׁ) there is not, טֶרֶם not yet, אֶפֶס no more. Almost exclusively poetic are בַּל, בְּלִי not; negative conjunctions, אַל, פֶּן, לְבִלְתִּי that not.

We subjoin a more particular view of the use of these words:

לֹא, like οὐ, οὐκ, is used principally for the objective, unconditional negation, and hence it is commonly connected with the Preterite or Future (as Indicative), and with the Future also to express prohibition (§ 127, 3, c). In connexion with כֹּל, when the latter is not followed by the article and therefore means any one, any thing, it expresses the Lat. nullus, none (comp. Fr. ne—personne). Ex. xii. 16, כָּל־מְלָאכָה לֹא־יֵעָשֶׂה no labour shall be done. Ex. x. 15; xx. 4; 2 Chron. xxxii. 15. Prov. xii. 21; xxx. 30. (The negative is here closely connected with the verb, and there does not happen anything is = there happens nothing. So also אֵין with כֹּל; Eccles. i. 9, אֵין כָּל־חָדָשׁ there is nothing new. But the case is different when כֹּל is made definite, where it means all, the whole; Num. xxiii. 13, כֻּלּוֹ לֹא תִרְאֶה all of him (his whole) thou shalt not see (but only a part). On the use of לֹא in interrogative sentences, see § 153, 1.

לֹא put before a noun, either substantive or adjective, forms sometimes with it a kind of compound, as לֹא־אֵל a not-god (Germ. ungott), who is not God at all, Deut. xxxii. 21; לֹא דָבָר a not-thing (Germ. unding) Am. vi. 13; לֹא חָסִיד impious, Ps. xliii. 1.

On the position of לֹא in the clause, see § 145, 1, and Note.

אַל, like μή, Lat. ne, for the subjective and dependent negation is connected with the future (as Jussive); hence the phrase אַל יָבֹא ne veniat, may stand either for he shall not come, or for may he not come. See above, § 127, 3, c, and § 128, 2.

Sometimes it stands absolutely, without the verb, (like μὴ for μὴ τοῦτο γένηται), nay I pray, not so, i. e. let it not be; e. g. Ruth i. 13, אַל בְּנֹתַי not so, my daughters; Gen. xix. 18. On the interrogative use of it, see § 153, 1.

אַיִן (prop. const. st. of אַיִן nothingness) is the negative of יֵשׁ (he, she, it) is, and includes the verb to be in all its tenses; e. g. Gen. xxxvii. 29, אֵין יוֹסֵף בַּבּוֹר Joseph was not in the pit; Num. xiv. 42, אֵין יְהוָה בְּקִרְבְּכֶם Jehovah is not among you. The same formulas are expressed positively with יֵשׁ, and negatively with אַיִן, as Gen. xxxi. 29, יֶשׁ לְאֵל יָדִי it is in my power (prop. it is in the power of my hand), Neh. v. 5, אֵין לְאֵל יָדֵנוּ it is not in our power. It follows, moreover, α) that the personal pronouns, when they are the subject of the sentence, are appended to אַיִן as suffixes; as אֵינֶנִּי I am not, I was not, I shall not be, אֵינָם אֵינֶנּוּ, etc. β) When the predicate is a verb, it almost universally takes the form of a participle, the verb of existence being implied in אַיִן; Ex. v. 16, תֶּבֶן אֵין נִתָּן straw is not given; vs. 10, אֵינֶנִּי נֹתֵן I will not give; viii. 17; Deut. i. 32. γ) As יֵשׁ sometimes signifies to be present, to be near or at hand, so אַיִן is used in the contrary sense, to be not present or at hand; אֵינֶנּוּ he was not present = was no more, Gen. v. 24.

From אַיִן is formed by abbreviation the negative syllable אִי, employed in compounds as a prefix: it is found in Job xxii. 30, אִי־נָקִי not-guiltless. In Æthiopic it is the most common form of negation, and is there used even as a prefix to the verbs. On the formation of the interrogative אַי from אַיִן, see § 153, 1.

לְבִלְתִּי (prop. constr. st. with the ending תִּי־ (§ 90, 3, a) from בֶּלָה want, non-existence, stem-word בָּלָה) is most frequently employed before the Inf. when it is to be expressed negatively with a preposition; as לֶאֱכֹל to eat, לְבִלְתִּי אֱכֹל not to eat, Gen. iii. 11. Rarely with a finite verb it means that not, Jer. xxiii. 14.

פֶּן (removing, a clearing away) is the same as ne, that not, lest, especially after the mention of an action by which an apprehended evil is to be prevented or shunned (Gen. xi. 4, xix. 15); or after verbs signifying to fear, to beware (like δείδω μὴ, vereor ne) xxxi. 24, 31;—also at the beginning of the sentence, especially in the expression of apprehension or fear, as Gen. iii. 22, וְעַתָּה פֶּן־יִשְׁלַח יָדוֹ and now, lest he stretch forth his hand.

2. Two negatives in the same sentence, instead of destroying each other, as in Latin [and English], make the negation stronger, like οὐκ οὐδείς, οὐκ οὐδαμῶς. 1 Kings x. 21, אֵין כֶּסֶף לֹא נֶחְשָׁב לִמְאוּמָה silver was not at all regarded for any thing, (in the parallel passage, 2 Chron. ix. 20, לֹא is omitted). Ex. xiv. 11.—Zeph. ii. 2, בְּטֶרֶם לֹא־יָבוֹא lit. before there shall not come (so in Germ. ehe er nicht kommt, and in Lat. priusquam . . . non). Is. v. 9, מֵאֵין יוֹשֵׁב, prop. without no inhabitant.

3. When one negative sentence follows another, especially in the poetic parallelism, the negation is often expressed only in the first, while its influence extends also to the second. 1 Sam. ii. 3, multiply not words of pride,—let (not) that which is arrogant come forth from your mouth. Ps. ix. 19; Job iii. 10; xxviii. 17; xxx. 20. (Compare the same usage in respect to prepositions, § 154, 4.)

SECT. 153.

INTERROGATIVE WORDS AND SENTENCES.

1. Interrogative sentences are sometimes, though rarely, distinguished as such merely by the tone of voice in which they are uttered; e. g. 2 Sam. xviii. 29, שָׁלוֹם לַנָּעַר is it well with the young man? Gen. xxvii. 24, אַתָּה זֶה בְּנִי עֵשָׂו art thou my son Esau? 1 Ki. i. 24. This is somewhat more frequent when the sentence is connected with the previous one by וְ; Jon. iv. 11, וַאֲנִי לֹא אָחוּס and should I not spare? Job ii. 10; x. 8, 9, 13; Judges xi. 23; xiv. 16; and also after the particles גַּם (Zech. viii. 6) and אַף (Job xiv. 3). But negative sentences still more readily take, in utterance, the interrogative character; e. g. with לֹא, when an affirmative answer is expected (nonne?) Job xiv. 16, לֹא תִשְׁמֹר עַל־חַטָּאתִי dost thou not watch for my sin? Jon. iv. 11; Lam. iii. 36, 38; with אַל in expectation of a negative answer, 1 Sam. xxvii. 10, אַל־פְּשַׁטְתֶּם הַיּוֹם *ye have not then made an excursion in these days?

Even the few interrogative particles originally expressed either affirmation or negation, and only acquired by degrees their interrogative power.†

Respecting הַ and its original demonstrative signification (being related to the article), see § 100, 4.

Probably אַי where? sprung from a negation;—full form אַיִן (hence מֵאַיִן whence?), prop. not there, is not there,—uttered interrogatively, is not there? = where is? אַיּוֹ is he not there? for where is he? Job xiv. 10 man dies וְאַיּוֹ and where is he? = וְאֵינֶנּוּ and he is no more. In Arabic, אַי has become an interrogative pronoun = מִי who? (comp. the Germ. wo (where), and Eng. who); but this is not its original use. On the abbreviation of אַיִן into אַי, see § 152, 1.

2. Most commonly the simple question begins with IIe interrogative הַ num,—the disjunctive question with הַ utrum followed in the second clause by אִם an (אִם—הַ=utrum—an?), as in 1 Kings xxii. 15, הַנֵּלֵךְ . . . . . אִם־נֶחְדַּל shall we go . . . . . or shall we forbear? The indirect form of inquiry differs only in having אִם more frequently in the simple question, and in the first member of the disjunctive question.

More particularly—

The הַ is strictly a sign of the simple and pure question, when the inquirer is uncertain what answer may or should be given. Job ii. 3, hast thou considered (הֲשַׂמְתָּ לִבְּךָ) my servant Job?

---

* In the same manner are used οὐκ (nonne?) and μή; the former (Hom. Il. x. 165, iv. 242) in expectation of an affirmative, the latter (Odyss. vi. 200) of a negative answer.

† So in Greek and Latin, originally affirmative and then interrogative are ἦ, num (—nunc), an (probably, perhaps); originally negative and then interrogative,—οὐκ, μή,—ne; in German, nicht wahr? (not true?) nicht? (not?)

Often the inquirer expects a negative answer (num?), which may be expressed in the tone itself; Gen. iv. 9, הֲשֹׁמֵר אָחִי אָנֹכִי am I the keeper of my brother? Job xiv. 14, if a man die, הֲיִחְיֶה will he live again? Such a question may have precisely the force of a negative assertion; 2 Sam. vii. 5, הַאַתָּה תִּבְנֶה־לִּי בַיִת shalt thou build a house for me? (in the parallel passage, 1 Chron. xvii. 4, לֹא אַתָּה וגו׳ thou shalt not build a house for me:) and, vice versâ, the negative form of the question has the effect of an affirmation; הֲלֹא nonne? is it not so? for הִנֵּה behold! 2 Kings xv. 21; xx. 20, comp. 2 Chron. xxvii. 7; xxxii. 32.* On the other hand, the question may be so uttered as to show that the speaker expects affirmation and assent, when it corresponds, in effect, with the negative form of the question in English; compare the use of ἦ γὰρ and ἦ γὰρ οὐ for is not? and of the Latin, ne for nonne?† Job xx. 4, הֲזֹאת יָדַעְתָּ dost thou (not) know this?—The simple question is very seldom introduced by אִם, and then always in connexion with something already implied which gives a disjunctive sense, like our or perhaps (German oder etwa), Lat. an, as in Is. xxix. 16; 1 Kings i. 27; Job vi. 12.

The disjunctive question (utrum—an?) is usually expressed under the form אִם—הֲ, also וְאִם—הֲ, Job xxi. 4, with emphasis on the first question וְאִם—הַאַף, xxxiv. 17; xl. 8, 9. Yet also as in German [and English], with אוֹ or before the second clause, Job xvi. 3, Eccles. ii. 19. The use of this combination אִם—הֲ does not, however, always require opposition between the clauses, but often stands in poetic parallelisms and in other passages (Gen. xxxvii. 8; Hab. iii. 8), where the same question is merely repeated in different words in the second clause, as in Job iv. 17, is man just rather than God; and (אִם) is a man pure rather than his Maker? vi. 5, 6; viii. 3; x. 4, 5; xi. 2, 7; xxii. 23; hence ! also stands before the second clause in such cases, Job x. 3; xiii. 7; xv. 7, 8, or there is no particle at all to connect the clauses, as in Job xxii. 4.

The form of the indirect question is, in general, the same. After verbs of inquiring, doubting, examining, the simple question takes הֲ (whether), Gen. viii. 8; Ex. xvi. 4, and אִם, Cant. vii. 13; 2 Kings i. 2; the disjunctive question (whether—or) אִם—הֲ, Gen. xxvii. 21, and also הֲ—הֲ, Num. xiii. 18.—The formula מִי יוֹדֵעַ אִם (who knoweth whether—not) is also used affirmatively like the Latin nescio an, Esther iv. 14.

For interrogative adverbs of place, time, etc., see § 150, 5.

The words זֶה (§ 122, 2) and אֶפוֹא quite, then, serve to give animation or intensity to a question (like worέ, tandem, Eng. then, now); as מַה־לְּךָ אֶפוֹא what aileth thee now? quid tibi tandem est? Is. xxii. 1; אַיֵּה אֶפוֹא where now? Job xvii. 15.

3. The affirmative answer is given, as in Latin, by repeating the predicate of the interrogative sentence; Gen. xxvii. 24; xxix. 6; Judges xiii. 11; the negative answer is לֹא no, Gen. xix. 2.

* In a similar manner, מָה what? [why?], spoken with indignation, expresses prohibition under the form of reproach or expostulation. Cant. viii. 4, מַה־תָּעִירוּ why do ye rouse? Job xvi. 6; xxxi. 1. This negative force of מָה is very frequent in the Arabic.

† See Heindorf ad Plat. Phædr. 266; Heusinger ad Cic. de Off. iii. 17.

THE PREPOSITIONS.

1. The *simple prepositions, like the adverbs, originally denote for the most part physical relations, viz. those of space, and are then used tropically of intellectual relations, as those of time, cause, etc. The prepositions of place originally denote either rest in a place, or motion from or to a place; but in each class there are some (several in the first, few in the second) which take also the signification of the other.

a) The most important prepositions of place are:

α) Of rest in a place, בְּ in, by, at, עַל upon and over, תַּחַת under, אַחַר, אַחֲרֵי after, לִפְנֵי before, נֶגֶד, נֹכַח, מוּל, before, opposite to, אֵצֶל, אֵת with (apud), by, near, בְּעַד, בַּעֲד (prop. in separation from), about (ἀμφὶ), behind, בֵּין between, עֵבֶר on the other side of, beyond.

β) Of motion, מִן from, אֶל and לְ to, towards, עַד unto, as far as,—and also (from the former class) בְּ to (usque ad), עַל upon, towards.

b) Very many of the above-mentioned prepositions express also relations of time, as בְּ in, within, מִן, אֶל, עַד.

c) Of those which denote other relations we may mention, בְּ as (כְּדִי, כְּפִי according to), עִם together with, with, זוּלַת, בִּלְעֲדֵי besides, בִּלְתִּי without, besides, יַעַן, לְמַעַן on account of, עֵקֶב (prop. as a reward), for, because.

2. The Hebrew language developes a great degree of dexterity and accuracy of discrimination in the composition of prepositions. Thus, those of motion are set before others denoting rest, so as to express not only a change of relation, but also the local one which was existing previously to the change, or which follows as the result of it, as in French de chez, d'auprès.† So—

a) With מִן: מֵאַחַר away from behind, מִבֵּין out from between, מֵעַל away from upon or above, מֵעִם, מֵאֵת de chez quelqu'un, מִתַּחַת away from under.

b) With אֶל (more seldom): אֶל אַחֲרֵי to behind or after; מִחוּץ לְ without, i. e. on the outside of, אֶל מִחוּץ לְ forth without, Num. v. 3.

Thus also compound prepositions, which have adopted an adverbial signification, take after them לְ (more seldom מִן), and again become prepositions; e. g. מֵעַל

* Among these we reckon such forms as לִפְנֵי, לְמַעַן, which in themselves considered are indeed compound words, but as prepositions they express only one idea, and are thus distinguished from the compounds under No. 2, e. g. מִלִּפְנֵי from above.

† When the Hebrew says, he took the offering, מֵעַל הַמִּזְבֵּחַ from upon the altar (away from the top of the altar), he presents the idea fully;—while it is but half expressed in the Fr. il prend le chapeau sur la table, the Germ. er nimmt den Hut vom Tische weg [and the Eng. he takes his hat from the table], the Fr. omitting one relation, the Germ. [and Eng.] another.

This accessory preposition may also precede the adverbial form; e. g., לְבַד מִן=מִלְּבַד besides, מִבַּלְעֲדֵי without, Syr. ܠܒܪ ܡܢ*; rarely it is wholly wanting, as מִתַּחַת for מִתַּחַת לְ, Job xxvi. 5.

3. We now present a few prepositions,—such as occur most frequently and have the greatest variety of meaning,—with their principal significations, in order to explain their construction with verbs (§ 140), and the most important idioms connected with them.†

a) בְּ, which, of all the prepositions, has the greatest variety of significations, denotes, 1) prop. rest in a place (ἐν), hence in with reference to time, and to state or condition, as בְּרֵאשִׁית, בְּאֶרֶץ, בְּשָׁלוֹם,—with reference to a company, or number of individuals, among, e. g. בַּגּוֹיִם,—with reference to bounds or limits, within, as בִּשְׁעָרִים within the gates,—of high objects, upon, as בַּסּוּסִים upon horses, Is. lxvi. 20; but it has rarely all these significations after verbs of motion=εἰς (like ponere in loco). The Hebrew says, a) to drink in a cup (for, to drink what is in it), Gen. xliv. 5 (so in Arabic and Chald., Dan. v. 2, ἐν ποτηρίῳ ἐν χρυσῷ πίνειν Xen. Anab. vi. 1, 4, 3, Ezra iii. 6, in ossibus bibere in Florus, French boire dans une tasse); β) in the manner, in the model or rule, for after the manner or model (comp. ἐν τῷ νόμῳ, hunc in modum), as בִּדְבַר ה׳ according to the command, בַּעֲצַת ה׳ according to the counsel of any one, בְּצַלְמֵנוּ כִּדְמוּתֵנוּ in (after) our image, after our likeness, Gen. i. 26; vs. 27, and v. 1, 3, Adam begat a son בִּדְמוּתוֹ כְּצַלְמוֹ. Somewhat different is the signification in Gen. xxi. 12, in Isaac (בְּיִצְחָק)=after Isaac thy seed shall call themselves. Especial attention is due to the passages, where we have, γ) the בְּ essentiæ or pleonasticum of the grammarians, which everywhere means, as, tanquam (Fr. en). Ex. vi. 3, I appeared to Abraham. etc., בְּאֵל שַׁדָּי as God Almighty. Is. xl. 10, the Lord will come בְּחָזָק as a strong one. The most striking use of it is before the predicate-adjective after the verb to be (=conduct or behave as), Eccles. vii. 14, in the day of joy הֱיֵה בְטוֹב be thou joyful; Ex. xxxii. 22, thou knowest the people הוּא בְרַע כִּי that they are evil; Job xxiii. 13, הוּא בְאֶחָד he is one [without a rival]. (In Arabic this idiom is frequent; see Thes. Ling. Heb. p. 174.)

2) Nearness, vicinity (Lat. ad, apud), at, by, on; בַּנָּהָר=ἐν ποταμῷ, by the river, Eze. x. 15; בְּעֵינַי in the eyes of=before the eyes of one (ἐν ὀφθαλμοῖς, Il. I. 587). In this sense it frequently indicates motion (Lat. ad), to, unto: it differs, however, both from אֶל to, towards, and עַד unto, usque ad, since it denotes that the object towards which the motion tends is actually arrived at (which is not determined by the use of אֶל), and yet does not fix attention specially upon this point, as is done by עַד. Gen. xi. 4, a tower רֹאשׁוֹ בַּשָּׁמַיִם whose top may reach to heaven. Hence, it expresses the relation of verbs of motion (and others analogous to them) to their objects; e. g. אָחַז בְּ to lay hold on, נָגַע בְּ to touch, שָׁאַל בְּ to ask at, to consult, קָרָא בְּ to call upon, רָאָה בְּ to look upon, שָׁמַע בְּ to hearken to. Verbs having the signification of the last two, often include the idea of the pleasure or pain with which one sees or hears anything. Gen. xxi. 16, I could not witness the death of the child! Hence, in a tropical sense, in respect to, on account of, as שָׂמַח בְּ to rejoice on account of, i. e. to have joy in something.

† For fuller information, Gesenius's Lexicon must be consulted.—Tr.

With the idea of vicinity, nearness, that of accompaniment, and of help, instrumentality (with) readily connects itself. Gen. xxxii. 11, with my staff (בְּמַקְלִי, I passed over this Jordan. Ps. xviii. 30, by thee בְּךָ, have I rushed upon troops. Verbs of coming and going, with אֵת (to come, or go, with) express the idea of bringing; e. g. Judges xv. 1, Samson visited his wife with a kid, brought her a kid. Deut. xxiii. 5.

b, עַל signifies upon (on) and over (up); very frequently of motion (down) upon or over—(up) upon or over a thing. In the sense of (resting) upon, (coming) upon, it is used after verbs signifying to be heavy, i. e. burdensome, afflictive (prop. to lie heavily upon), Is. i. 14; Job vii. 20,—to set or appoint over (commission), as עַל־פִּי,—to pity, to spare, as עַל־בָּנִים (prop. to look tenderly upon). With the primary idea is connected that of occasion (conceived as a laying upon) and of conformity, after, according to (with reference to the rule or pattern upon which a thing is laid to be measured or modelled), and of cause (ob quam, on account of) (prop. upon something as ground or motive), although. In the signification over, it is often used with verbs of covering, protecting שָׂם עַל, נָתַן עַל, (prop. to place a covering, a shield, over); and so also with those of kindred meaning, as עָמַד לְ to contend for one (prop. in order to protect him), Judges ix. 17. It is used for at, by, chiefly in cases where there is an actual elevation of one of the related objects above the other, conceived as an impending over; e. g. עַל־יָם by the sea [or, as we may literally render it, on the sea]; but also where this is not the case, as עַל־יָד, like our on the side. Hence, it expresses the relation of motion to the object at which it terminates,—to, towards, so that in the later Hebrew style and in poetry it is often used for אֶל and לְ; e. g. Job vi. 27; xix. 5; xxii. 2; xxxiii. 23.

c, מִן (§ 102), indicates motion, removal, away from anything. Its fundamental signification is separation from a whole, derivation, descent. As constr. st. of the noun מֶן part, it properly means part of, hence of, from, used at first with reference to the part which is taken from the whole, as to give, to take part of = from. This fundamental signification appears plainest, when it expresses some (more rarely one, of); e. g. מִזִּקְנֵי יִשְׂרָאֵל some of the elders of Israel, מִדָּם some of the blood (Fr. du sang). It has the same signification when (apparently pleonastic) it is connected with the words one, none, in the so often misapprehended idiom of the Hebrew and Arabic non ab uno, i. e. not any one, and the least, prop. not even a part, a piece, the least portion, of one. Lev. iv. 2; Deut. xv. 7; Exc. xviii. 10.

In its most ordinary use, with reference to motion away from, it forms the opposite of אֶל, עַד, and is employed not merely after verbs which express actual motion, as to depart (from), to flee (from), but also those of kindred signification, as to be afraid, to hide, to beware: comp. in Gr. and Lat. φοβοῦμαι ἀπό, cavere ab. In its tropical use with reference to time, it may mean either from (a time) on, in which case the reckoning is to be made from the beginning, not from the end of the period specified (like ἀπὸ νυκτός, de nocte, from the coming on of night), as מִנְּעוּרָיִךְ, Job xxxviii. 12, from the beginning of thy days onward; or it may mean next from, i. e. immediately after (ἐξ ἀρίστου, ab illinere), as מִשְּׁנָתוֹ, Ps. lxxiii. 20, immediately after awaking. Gen. xxxviii. 24, מִשְּׁלֹשׁ חֳדָשִׁים after three months. Hos. vi. 2.

For the use of it to denote rest on the side of an object, where the idea is that of near distance, of being just off from (the prope abesse ab, pendere ex aliqua re), see § 150, 1. For its use in the expression of comparison, see § 119, 1.

d, אֶל, אֵל (prop. regions, directions, hence towards), denotes motion, and also merely direction towards (with reference both to material objects and the operations of the mind), whether one reaches the place towards which the motion is directed or not.* In the former case it is equivalent to עַד, e. g. אֶל־פִּיהוּ even unto his mouth, Job xl. 23; sometimes it means even penetration into a thing, equivalent to אֶל־תּוֹךְ, e. g. בּוֹא אֶל־הַתֵּבָה to go into the ark. ●

It is certainly an unfrequent and improper use of this particle (though sustained by unquestionable examples) when it is employed to denote rest in a place at which one has arrived. Jer. xli. 12, they found him אֶל־מַיִם רַבִּים by the great waters in Gibeon. It is so used especially in the formula אֶל־הַמָּקוֹם at the place, Deut. xvi. 6; 1 Kings viii. 30; אֶל הָהָר on the mountain, 1 Sam. xvii. 3. Compare the Gr. εἰς, ἐς, for ἐν, e. g. ἐς δόμους μένειν, Soph. Ajax, 80. The German use of zu in zu Hause, zu Leipzig, is quite analogous.

e) לְ (an abbreviation of אֶל, but more commonly used in the tropical significations), to, towards, denoting motion or merely direction, either of physical objects or of the mind: hence, employed as a sign of the dative, and also of the genitive of possession (§ 115, 2), and then with the signification with respect to, on account of, in behalf of. Such a dativus commodi is used pleonastically (especially in the language of common intercourse and in the later style) after verbs of motion, as to go, to flee, especially in the Imperative, e. g. לֶךְ־לְךָ go, get thee away, בְּרַח־לְךָ flee (for thy safety); but also after other verbs, as דְּמֵה־לְךָ be thou like, Cant. ii. 17. It is a solecism of the later style (common in Syriac) when active verbs are construed with לְ instead of the accusative, as אָבַל לְ, Lam. iv. 5. [Compare Ex. xxvii. 3, Num. xxxii. 15.]

Very often also, especially in poetry, it denotes rest in a place,—hence at, or in, with reference to place and time; as לִימִינְךָ on thy right, לָעֶרֶב at evening. On the use of it after passive and other verbs to denote the efficient cause or author, see § 143, 2.

f) כְּ (as an adverb, about, nearly), as a prep. as, like to; for denoting similarity it is doubled כְּ—כְּ as-so, and also so-as in Gen. xliv. 18, in later authors וְכְּ—כְּ; according to, after, from the idea of conformity to a model or rule; as a designation of time, about (circa). A pleonastic כְּ or Kaph veritatis, as the grammarians called it, is nowhere found with certainty. In all cases the comparative force applies. כִּמְעַט is indeed=מְעַט little, but prop. as a scrap; Neh. vii. 2, for he was כְּאִישׁ אֱמֶת as a true man must be.

4. In the poetic parallelism, a preposition which stands in the first member may (like the negatives, § 152, 3) be omitted in the corresponding place in the second member; e. g. בְּ, Is. xlviii. 14, he will do his pleasure on Babylon (בְּבָבֶל), and his power on the Chaldeans (כַּשְׂדִּים for בְּכַשְׂדִּים). Hab. iii. 15, Job xii. 12. So also לְ Job xxxiv. 10, Is. xxviii. 6; מִן, Is. xxx. 1; תַּחַת, Is. lxi. 7.

Sect. 155.

THE CONJUNCTIONS.

1. The Hebrew language, considered with reference to the number of its conjunctions, frequently consisting of several words combined, and its ability to form still others from most of the prepositions by the addition of אֲשֶׁר and כִּי (§ 104, 1, c), exhibits no small degree of cultivation and copiousness, compared with its usual simplicity. But writers often neglect the means which it furnishes for accurately expressing the relations of sentences and members of a sentence, contenting themselves with less perfect modes of connexion:* hence the various significations which certain conjunctions in frequent use (particularly וְ, בְּ, אֲשֶׁר) either actually have, or at least whereby they must be expressed when translated into our Western languages, where we are not permitted (see No. 3) to retain the loose and indefinite connexions sometimes made by these particles.

Of the most extensive application is וְ, § 104, 2, :*

a, Properly and usually copulative (and), connecting single words as well as whole sentences. When three or more words stand in connexion, it is used either before every one after the first (2 Kings xiii. 5), or before the last only (Gen. xiii. 2); rarely after the first only (Ps. xlv. 9). In certain phrases it is commonly omitted, as yesterday (and) the day before=heretofore, Ex. v. 8. The tone of animated description or narration may also occasion the omission of it (constructio asyndeta); as Judges v. 27, at her feet he bowed, he fell, he lay. Job xx. 19; Cant. ii. 11, v. 6; Is. xxvi. 17.

As connecting words, it is often explicative (like isque, et quidem). 1 Sam. xxviii. 3, בְּעִירוֹ וּבְרָמָה in Ramah and (=even, in his own city, 2 Sam. xiii. 20, Amos iii. 11, iv. 10; even when the second idea is subordinate to the first, and would properly be expressed as the genitive after it (the hendiadys of the grammarians), 2 Chr. xvi. 14, וּבְשָׂמִים מְגֻלָּחִים spices and sorts, in the sense of all sorts of spices.

As connecting clauses or sentences, it denotes either continuation (for then), hence before the apodosis (like German so in da—so) and after absolute designations of time—(see Gen. iii. 5; Ex. xvi. 6; Prov. xxiv. 27, וְאַחַר בְּנֵה בֵיתֶךָ afterwards, then build thy house); or enhancement, as in Job v. 19, in six troubles he will deliver thee, yea, in seven no evil shall befall thee); or comparison, as in Job v. 7, man is born to trouble, and so the sons of lightning fly on high, for just as these birds of prey fly high: xii. 11; xxxiv. 3; Prov. xi. 16; xvii. 3; xxv. 3, 25. But the Vau is also—

b, Adversative 'and yet, while yet,'; Judges xvi. 15, how canst thou say I love thee וְלִבְּךָ אֵינֶנִּי and yet, thy heart is not with me (i. e. while yet)? Gen. xv. 2; xviii. 13; Ps. xxviii. 3.

c, Causal 'for, because,'; Ps. v. 12, let them ever shout for joy, because (when, since) thou dost defend them. Is. xliii. 12, ye are my witnesses וְאֵל and I (am) God, that I am God.

d Inferential 'then, so then, therefore,'; Eze. xviii. 32, I delight not in the death of him that dies— וְהָשִׁיבוּ therefore turn ye. In this sense it may stand even at the beginning of a sentence, when it implies an inference of some kind from circumstances already mentioned; 2 Kings iv. 41, and he said וְקִחוּ then take meal; Ps. ii. 4, וְעַתָּה then know ye; ii. 10; 2 Sam. xxiv. 3.

e, Final 'in order that, so that,'; in this sense chiefly with the cohortative or jussive (§ 128).

Of scarcely less extensive application are the two relative conjunctions (prop. relative pronouns) אֲשֶׁר and כִּי=in, quod, quum, that, because,—running almost parallel with each other in their applications, except that כִּי occurs as a conjunction far more frequently and in a great variety of senses, while אֲשֶׁר is generally a relative pronoun, and takes prefixes.

Both are prefixed, like quod, to a whole clause, standing in place of an accusative, and governed by the preceding active verb as its object. אֲשֶׁר is even preceded by the accusative particle אֵת; Josh. ii. 10, אֵת אֲשֶׁר הוֹבִישׁ יְהוָה we have heard (id quod exsiccavit) that Jehovah hath dried up—more commonly אֵת כִּי, and still oftener כִּי. 1 Sam. xxiv. 11, 19. Hence the following uses of כִּי: a, it is employed before words directly quoted, like the Gr. ὅτι (very seldom

* See further particulars on the use of Vau copulative, in Gesenius's Thesaurus I. p. 393 et seqq.

אֲשֶׁר, 1 Sam. xv. 20); b) it is temporal=ὅτε, prop. (at the time) that, (at the time) when, sometimes passing over to the conditional power of אִם [Eng. when=if, differing only in the form of representation], Job xxxviii. 5, comp. vs. 4 and 18 (seldom אֲשֶׁר, Lev. iv. 22; Deut. xi. 6),—but often with an accurate discrimination between the two, well illustrated in Ex. xxi.; c) causal, eo quod, because, fully יַעַן אֲשֶׁר, יַעַן כִּי, propterea quod, also for=γὰρ; repeated (כִּי—כִּי, Is. i. 29, 30, וְכִי—כִּי because—and because, Job xxxviii. 20), when more than one cause for the same thing is assigned; d) adversative (in which sense כִּי only is used) either, α) after a negative, but,—prop. but it is because, e. g. thou shalt not take a wife for my son from the daughters of the Canaanites—but a Hebrewess, =for thou shalt take a Hebrewess, the former being prohibited because the latter is to be done; or, β) where negation is only implied, e. g. after a question which involves denial (§ 153, 1, 2), when it may be rendered no, but,—but no,—for surely (ἀλλὰ γὰρ) Mic. vi. 3, what (injury) have I done to thee? . . . for surely I brought thee up, etc. Job xxxi. 18. See on כִּי אִם below, in No. 2, i.

2. We now arrange the remaining conjunctions according to their significations, and in the case of those (very many in number) that have a variety of senses, exhibit together the different uses of each as it first occurs. We must, however, confine ourselves here to a brief general notice, leaving the more complete view, with the references and proofs, to the Lexicon.*

a) Copulative: besides ו, וְ, the properly adverbial forms גַּם also, and אַף intensive, there is added, wholly, even, once combined וְאַף־גַּם and even also, Lev. xxvi. 44. The first is often used with plural forms emphatically, to include all, e. g. גַּם שְׁנֵיהֶם both the two, גַּם כֻּלָּם all together. It also merely gives emphasis to the following word; Gen. xxix. 30, and he loved גַּם־אֶת־רָחֵל Rachel (not, also Rachel) more than Leah; 1 Sam. xxiv. 12.—אַף כִּי is prop. add that, hence not to mention,—according to the connexion, much more, much less.

b) Disjunctive: אוֹ or (etym. free will, choice, hence prop. vel, but also aut exclusive, 2 Kings ii. 16). Sometimes it stands elliptically for אוֹ כִּי or (be it) that, or (it must be) that, when it may be rendered unless that, e. g. Is. xxvii. 5;—hence the transition to the conditional sense, if, but if, Ex. xxi. 36 (the LXX. ἐὰν δέ, Vulg. sin autem), if haply, 1 Sam. xx. 10, which has been contested without reason (comp. on אוּלַי, § 150, 3, Note). Repeated, אוֹ—אוֹ, sive—sive, it is the same as אִם—אִם.

c) Temporal: כִּי, אֲשֶׁר=ὅτε, quum (see above), for which more rarely is used the conditional particle אִם (Is. iv. 4; xxiv. 13); עַד, עַד אֲשֶׁר, עַד כִּי until that, also עַד אִם, עַד אֲשֶׁר אִם until that when, עֹד also during, so long as, בְּעוֹד, the same, אַחֲרֵי אֲשֶׁר after that, מֵאָז (for מֵאָז אֲשֶׁר) since that, בְּטֶרֶם and טֶרֶם before, קֹדֶם for קֹדֶם אֲשֶׁר before (Ps. cxxix. 6).

d) Causal: (besides כִּי and אֲשֶׁר, No. 1, c, e) עַל כֵּן אֲשֶׁר because, or merely עַל כֵּן, with the omission of אֲשֶׁר (§ 104, 1, c), Ps. xlii. 7; xlv. 3. כִּי־עַל־כֵּן (Gen. xviii. 5; xix. 8; 2 Sam. xviii. 20) and אֲשֶׁר עַל־כֵּן (Job xxxiv. 27), for עַל־כֵּן כִּי, עַל־כֵּן אֲשֶׁר †; עַל דָּבָר אֲשֶׁר, עַל אוֹדוֹת אֲשֶׁר, prop. for the circumstances that=for this cause that, and emphatically עַל־כָּל־אוֹדוֹת אֲשֶׁר for the very cause that, בַּעֲבוּר אֲשֶׁר, יַעַן אֲשֶׁר (prop. on the account, that), and תַּחַת כִּי (therefore, that), eo quod, because עֵקֶב כִּי (prop. as a reward that), that.

e) Final: לְמַעַן אֲשֶׁר to the end that, בַּעֲבוּר אֲשֶׁר in order that (also causal), ו that=in order that (see above), perhaps ל, 1 Kings vi. 19. With a negative force: אַל, פֶּן that not, lest (§ 152).

* See especially Gesenius's Heb. Lexicon, translated by Dr. Tregelles.

† See, on these groups of particles, Gesenius's Thesaurus II. p. 682.

f) Conditional: principally אִם and לוּ (for which rarely אִלּוּ), if. The first (which is also a particle of interrogation, § 153, 2) is purely conditional, leaving it uncertain whether what is expressed by the verb is actually so, is actually done, or not (rather the former),—as, if I do—have done—shall do: on the contrary, לוּ expressly implies that it is not so, is not done (if I should do—had done), at least that it is very uncertain and even improbable. Hence אִם may properly stand where לוּ would express the thought more accurately (Ps. l. 12; cxxxix. 8; Hos. ix. 12); but לוּ cannot be used for אִם. Especially in solemn asseveration, expressed under the form of conditional imprecation, אִם is used; Ps. vii. 4—6, אִם־עָשִׂיתִי זֹאת—יִרְדֹּף וגו׳ if I have done this—then let the enemy persecute me, etc.; Ps. xliv. 21; lxxiii. 15; cxxxvii. 5.

What has been said of אִם and לוּ holds good, also, when they are connected with the negative, as in לֹא אִם, לוּלֵא, and לוּלֵי. It must be observed further, that אִם, after forms of swearing, e. g. חַי יְהוָה as Jehovah lives, has the force of a negative (hence לֹא אִם is affirmative), 2 Sam. xi. 11; xx. 20. There is here an ellipsis, which is sometimes filled up, as in 2 Sam. iii. 35, כֹּה יַעֲשֶׂה־לִּי אֱלֹהִים וְכֹה יוֹסִיף כִּי אִם so may God do to me and more also, if—. Hence generally after verbs of swearing and adjuring, אִם stands for not, Cant. ii. 7, iii. 5, also elsewhere in poetry, as Judges v. 8, Is. xxii. 14. On אוֹ, כִּי, אֲשֶׁר, as passing over into conditional particles, see above, in No. 2, b, and No. 1, e.

g) Concessive: אִם, with the Pret., even if (= though) I am, Job ix. 15, with the Fut. (though one were), Is. i. 18; x. 22; עַל (for עַל אֲשֶׁר), although, Job xvi. 17; גַּם כִּי even when, although.

h) Comparative; כַּאֲשֶׁר as, quemadmodum, with כֵּן in the second member, as—so, Is. xxxi. 4; lii. 14, 15.—כַּאֲשֶׁר may be omitted in the protasis, Is. lv. 9; Ps. xlviii. 6, and כֵּן in the apodosis, Obad. 15. Exact conformity is expressed by כְּלִיעֻמַּת שֶׁ in all points as, Eccles. v. 15.

i) Adversative: (see on the adverbs, § 147, 3). Decidedly belong here, אֶפֶס כִּי only that—but, nevertheless, and the difficult combination כִּי אִם, prop. that if, for if, most frequently but if, in the sense of כִּי explained under letter d, but united with אִם to form a connexion with the verb. Ps. i. 1, happy the man who walks not (if he walks not) in the counsel of the ungodly . . . . vs. 2, but if (כִּי אִם) his delight is in . . . . . Then simply but, Ps. i. 4; Gen. xxxii. 29, but if, but when, Gen. xxxii. 27, and merely but=except (after a negative), xxxix. 9; xxviii. 17.

k) On the interrogative particles, see § 153, and—

l) The optative particles above, under letter f.

3. A certain brevity and incompleteness* of expression (see No. 1) appears, among other things, in this, that instead of the compound conjunction, by which the relation is fully expressed, may be used one or the other of those composing it. Thus, instead of the full form יַעַן אֲשֶׁר on the account, that=because, we have the shorter יַעַן or אֲשֶׁר; instead of כַּאֲשֶׁר as (conj.), כְּ, Is. lxi. 11, and אֲשֶׁר, Ex. xiv. 13; 1 Kings viii. 24.

---

* More rare is pleonasm, or an unnecessary fulness of expression; e. g. כִּי אִם, for if, Ex. xxii. 22, comp. old Germ. wenn dass (prop. if it is that) and old Eng. "if so be that." On the contrary, a degree of pleonasm in the particles is quite at home in the Chaldee; e. g. כָּל־קֳבֵל־דִּי (Germ. all dieweil) wholly—for—that=because, כָּל קָבֵל דְּנָה just for this=therefore. Emphatic, not pleonastic, is the repetition of the conjunction in יַעַן וְכִי־יַעַן because, even because, Lev. xxvi. 43. Like the German sintemal und all dieweil.

4. This brevity of expression is sometimes carried so far, that the conjunction, which is required to show the relation of one sentence or part of a sentence to another, is omitted altogether. This occurs—

a) In conditional clauses: Gen. xxxiii. 13, drive they them hard, then they will die, —for, if they drive them hard they will die. Job vii. 20, (if) I have sinned, what do I unto thee? Gen. xlii. 38.

b) Where comparison is expressed: Ps. xiv. 4, אֹכְלֵי עַמִּי אָכְלוּ לָחֶם who devour my people (as) they would eat bread, prop. (as) those who eat bread. Job xxiv. 19, drought and heat bear off the snow-water, שְׁאוֹל חָטְאוּ (so) Sheol (those who) sin. Jer. xvii. 11.

c) In members which are usually dependent on the relative conjunctions. Gen. xii. 13, say אֲחֹתִי אָתְּ thou art my sister, commonly כִּי אֲחֹתִי אַתְּ. Ps. ix. 21, that they may learn, they are men. Is. xlviii. 8, for I knew, thou art utterly faithless. Ps. xvii. 3, I have purposed, my mouth shall not sin. In all these cases, the second member stands properly in the accusative; comp. § 142, 4, Rem. 2.

Sect. 156.

THE INTERJECTIONS.

The interjections which correspond to our ah! oh! alas! woe! expressing denunciation as well as lamentation (אֲהָהּ, אוֹי, הוֹי), are connected with the object of the threatening or lamentation either by the prepositions עַל, אֶל, לְ, or without any of these particles, as אוֹי לָנוּ woe to us! הוֹי גּוֹי woe to the people! Is. i. 4; הוֹי אָחִי alas, my brother! 1 Kings xiii. 30.

On the construction of הַגָּה with the suffixes, see § 100, 5.

HEBREW READING BOOK:

BY

BENJAMIN DAVIES, PH. D., D.D.

HEBREW READING BOOK

PREFACE.

THIS Reading Book is designed as an introduction to the translation of Hebrew, and based upon special and constant references to the forms and rules of Gesenius's Grammar. It is well known that by such a plan the difficulty of learning the inflexions and constructions of a language may be effectually lessened. This advantage is here intended to be secured to the Hebrew beginner.

In selecting and arranging the portions for translation, great pains have been taken to make them progressive (from short and easy to more difficult), and also as diversified as the limited space would allow,—so covering nearly the whole ground of the Grammar with the references.

In the Notes, the main object has been to furnish the learner with those references to the Grammar, by which he will be able to understand the forms and the constructions, and so to make himself master of its principal contents. Other help is given where needful, especially in the first exercises; but care has been taken to leave suitable scope for the skill and research of the student, lest he should become too dependent on such assistance. The experienced teacher, also, will find sufficient scope for his vivâ voce instruction, while conducting the student through the portions.

In order to avoid a mechanical committing to memory, the teacher should go over each new Paradigm with the scholar, and orally explain the deviations from the Regular Verb, and the normal forms indicated by the asterisk. In this way the memory will be greatly assisted by a perception of the analogy and structure of the language. Thus, for example, if the scholar perceives in Parad. G. how the 3rd pers. Pret. סָבַב, סָבְּבָה is a model for the 3rd Pret. plur. סָבְּבוּ, and how סָבּוֹתָ is a model for all the remaining forms of the first and second person, he then has in reality but three new forms to learn for the whole Preterite. If he further perceives how all these verbs fundamentally follow the same analogy, he is less deterred by the multiplicity of the Paradigms, which he can thus reduce, in effect, to but one, greatly to the assistance of the memory and the facility of finding out doubtful forms.

In connexion, however, with the foregoing lessons, and during the first weeks of instruction, something should be read and translated (such as the Scripture Phrases in this Reading Book), to afford the teacher the opportunity to explain the Article and Particles, the construct state, etc., of Nouns, and to exercise the student in the inflexion of Verbs. The teacher should take care that in these exercises the pupil reads with fluency, without stumbling and stammering. For this end, it is best to read aloud and repeatedly what one already understands. Besides the readiness in reading, there ought to be expertness in writing the characters, so that they may be distinctly legible to others.

As a further exercise in the Irregular Verbs, it is especially recommended to write out the inflexions of a few chapters after the outset of the Exercises, and has in the same study from recollection. Then the student may work a select a writing exercises in part, follow more than one [illegible] of [illegible]. In many this will be found necessary, a still more fully as the study of those sections of the Grammar which impart the requisite information, and even a notice the exceptions in the Remarks.

With the Principles of Nouns, the same course may be followed; but it is necessary, moreover, that the learner should be accustomed to trace back the noun to the stem-word or root. Indeed, these two points affecting the noun, viz., its derivation and its inflections, must be constantly attended to in acquiring the language.

As soon as a good knowledge of grammatical forms is gained, there must be a systematic effort to acquire the no less important knowledge of words. The memory must, of course, be tasked for this purpose, just as in learning any other language. It is an injurious plan to require of the pupil but seldom or never the effort of committing to memory. Tantum semper, quantum memoria tenetur.

The perusal of the Syntax may sometimes be left to the student without oral instruction; and so also may the complete mastering of the whole Grammar. But this leads us to another point, viz., the introduction of many lessons (grammar, which give us a rough sketch of the forms and structure of the language. A full Grammar should be used at once, in which the more important parts, usually printed in larger type, should be learned first, leaving the rest in smaller type for after study.

As appropriate Exercises in Hebrew composition, the student may be required to re-translate from memory what he has just translated from the Hebrew; to read and point some unpointed text; and also to revise our Hebrew translations to be examined by the teacher, with reference to the inflexion and pointing of the words, and also to their syntactical construction.

To the above suggestions by Gesenius, it may be well to add, that the blackboard may often be used with advantage by a teacher who meets a class in a lecture-room. It was so employed by the great Hebraist himself, in lecturing to his large classes of students.

No pains have been spared to ensure perfect accuracy in this production, as well as in the Grammar. It is confidently hoped, therefore, that there will be no room to complain of typographical or other errors.

III. EXTRACTS IN POETRY.

CHARACTERISTICS OF HEBREW POETRY.

BEFORE the student begins to translate the following Extracts, it is proper in a few brief statements to call his attention to the subject of Hebrew Poetry. Those who may desire fuller instruction are referred to Lowth's Lectures on Hebrew Poetry, especially Lecture xix.; Herder's Geist der Hebr. Poesie; De Wette's Einleitung in die Psalmen; Ewald's Poetische Bücher, I.; and Nordheimer's Hebrew Grammar, §§ 1120—1130.

The greater part of the Old Testament is poetical in its composition, though only the Psalms, Job, and Proverbs (technically called אֱמֶת, from the first letter in the Hebrew name of each) are generally termed poetical books. The style of these writings is, however, very unlike what is called poetry in most other languages. It does not consist in metre, like the versification of the Greeks, the Romans, and nearly all other nations; and much less does it exhibit rhyme (see below), like most of the poetry of modern Europe and Asia. In its form or structure, the poetry of the ancient Hebrews was distinguished from prose, chiefly if not solely, by brevity of expression, and by impressing the sentiments in the way of repetition, comparison, or contrast. Hence, it has some characteristics of language, viz., the use of peculiar words, forms of words, etc., as explained in the Grammar, § 2, 4. But the grand characteristic, which in fact constitutes its rhythm, is a proportion or correspondence in thought and expression* between the clauses of a sentence, which accordingly, in its simplest form, consists of only two members (δίστιχον).

Hence the poetry or rhythm of the Hebrews is generally termed parallelism,† as consisting in a mutual correspondence between the members of a period. And the different modes of exhibiting this

* Sometimes the proportion or correspondence appears only in expression, while the thought runs on in the common way of prose, as in Job ix. 2, 3, 4.

† It is very often of essential service to the interpreter of Scripture to notice this parallelism. There are numerous expressions and passages to the meaning of which a clue may thus be obtained. For example, in Ps. lxxvi. 3 (his tabernacle is בְּשָׁלֵם, and his dwelling place in Zion) it has been doubted whether בְּשָׁלֵם means in peace or in Salem; but the doubt can scarcely remain when one considers the corresponding clause, where in Zion stands parallel to the term in question, and determines it to mean in Salem.

parallelism mainly constitute the varieties of the poetic style, of which these are the principal:—1. Lyric Poetry, consisting chiefly of such compositions as the Psalms, distinguished by the effusion of pious sentiments. 2. Epic Poetry, as in Job—at least the style of this book resembles the epic more than any other production of the classic muse. 3. Didactic Poetry, as in the Proverbs. 4. Pastoral Poetry or Idyls, such as the Canticles. 5. Prophetic Poetry, which is best exemplified in the earlier prophetic books (Joel, Isaiah, Habakkuk, etc.), for in the later (e. g. Ezekiel, Haggai, Zechariah), it scarcely differs from prose.

Parallelism is generally distinguished into three sorts, according to the relation in sense between the corresponding members, which relation may be synonymous, antithetic, or synthetic.

1. Synonymous Parallelism.—In this the second member is more or less a repetition of the first. These examples may serve to illustrate the correspondence:—

Prov. vi. 2.

נוֹקַשְׁתָּ בְאִמְרֵי־פִיךָ
נִלְכַּדְתָּ בְּאִמְרֵי־פִיךָ׃

Thou art snared in the words of thy mouth;
Thou art taken in the words of thy mouth.

Job v. 6.

כִּי לֹא־יֵצֵא מֵעָפָר אָוֶן
וּמֵאֲדָמָה לֹא־יִצְמַח עָמָל׃

For affliction comes not forth from the dust;
And trouble springs not forth from the ground.

Sometimes each member of the parallelism consists of two parts, so that we have four clauses, as in

Gen. iv. 23.*

עָדָה וְצִלָּה שְׁמַעַן קוֹלִי
נְשֵׁי לֶמֶךְ הַאְזֵנָּה אִמְרָתִי

כִּי אִישׁ הָרַגְתִּי לְפִצְעִי
וְיֶלֶד לְחַבֻּרָתִי׃

Adah and Zillah, hear my voice,
Ye wives of Lamech, hearken to my speech;
For I have slain a man to my wounding,
And a youth to my hurt.

As another instructive example of this parallelism with four clauses, we may adduce Ps. xix. 8

תּוֹרַת יְהוָה תְּמִימָה
מְשִׁיבַת נָפֶשׁ
עֵדוּת יְהוָה נֶאֱמָנָה
מַחְכִּימַת פֶּתִי׃

The law of Jehovah is perfect,
Reviving the spirit;
The testimony of Jehovah is sure,
Making wise the simple.

It may be remarked in general, that under this synonymous parallelism, which is the most frequent form of the Hebrew rhythm, we find an exceedingly great variety of constructions.

2. Antithetic Parallelism.—In this the idea of the second member stands in opposition or contrast to

---

* This passage strikingly exhibits rhyme as well as parallelism. The same is found in many other poetic sentences; e. g. in Job vi. we find it six times, viz., in vs. 4, 7, 9, 13, 22, 29. But there is no satisfactory proof that in these or other cases the rhyme was (as De Wette, etc., suppose) designed by the poet. On the contrary, it is almost certain that the poet had no such design. For, if he had, he might with perfect ease have given in Job vi. ten more rhymes, e. g. in vs. 8 there might be as good a rhyme as we find in vs. 9, by a very simple change in the arrangement of the words; thus, instead of the present order—

מִי־יִתֵּן תָּבוֹא שַׁאֲלָתִי
וְתִקְוָתִי יִתֵּן אֱלוֹהַּ׃

he might, without affecting the sense, have written—

מִי־יִתֵּן תָּבוֹא שַׁאֲלָתִי
וְיִתֵּן אֱלוֹהַּ תִּקְוָתִי׃

As another proof that rhymes in Hebrew Poetry are undesigned, we may point out the fact, that they consist in the recurrence of like suffixes or terminations in the inflexions of nouns and verbs, so that they actually often appear also in the plainest prose, e. g. Josh. xxiii. 11—

וְלִשְׁמַרְתֶּם מְאֹד לְנַפְשֹׁתֵיכֶם
לְאַהֲבָה אֶת־יְהוָה אֱלֹהֵיכֶם

that of the first. This construction is specially frequent in the book of Proverbs, where very many of the sentiments are thus illustrated or impressed by antithesis; e. g. Prov. x. 1:

בֵּן חָכָם יְשַׂמַּח־אָב
וּבֵן כְּסִיל תּוּגַת אִמּוֹ׃

A wise son maketh a glad father;
But a foolish son is the heaviness of his mother.

For other examples, see Ps. i. 6; cii. 27, 28; cxlvii. 6; Is. i. 3.

3. Synthetic Parallelism.—In this the idea of the first member is enforced not so much by repetition or antithesis in what follows, as by expansion and modification; e. g. Ps. xxvii. 4:

אַחַת שָׁאַלְתִּי מֵאֵת־יְהוָה
אוֹתָהּ אֲבַקֵּשׁ
שִׁבְתִּי בְבֵית־יְהוָה כָּל־יְמֵי חַיַּי
לַחֲזוֹת בְּנֹעַם־יְהוָה
וּלְבַקֵּר בְּהֵיכָלוֹ׃

One thing I ask from Jehovah,
It will I seek after,—
My dwelling in the house of Jehovah all the days of my life,
To behold the beauty of Jehovah,
And to inquire in his temple.

 In most editions of the Hebrew Bible, the poetry is not given (as in the above examples) in lines according to the parallelism, but appears in the same form as the prose (except in Ex. xv., Deut. xxxii., Judges v., and 2 Sam. xxii). The accents, however, serve to indicate the divisions or lines. Thus, a simple parallelism is divided into two members by Athnach (֑) or Merka with Mahpakh (֥); and in a compound one the subdivisions of the members are usually made by Zaqeph-qaton (֕) and Rebhia (֗).

NOTES.

I. SCRIPTURE PHRASES AND SENTENCES.

N. B. For the derivation of Nouns, the Lexicon must be consulted; but this necessity can occasion no difficulty, even to the beginner, now that he can have Gesenius's, with the words in alphabetical order.

1. P'rī' ghō-dhĕl lē-bhā'bh.* Fruit-of greatness-of heart, i. e., boasting. P'ri' is a noun masc. sing. in the constr. state (see § 89), and belongs to Class or Parad. VI. i. (§ 92): the ב has Daghesh lene (see § 6, 3, § 13, 1, § 21, 1). Ghō'dhĕl noun masc. sing. constr. st., Parad. VI. c: the ג without Dagesh lene (§ 6, 3) because preceded by a word ending with a vowel and closely connected (see § 21, 1, at the end). Lēbhā'bh, noun masc. sing. absol. st. (see § 89, 1, at the close), Parad. IV. a. This example shows, a) that the relation of the genitive case, or what is called the constr. state in Hebrew, is indicated essentially by mere closeness of connexion between words as uttered, for there is no change whatever in the form of p'ri and ghodhel though each is in constr. state (see § 89, 1, and Note †); b) that there may be several successive nouns in the constr. state depending on each other (see § 114, 1): see also below, in No. 3.

2. D'bhă'r hăm-mā'-lĕkh hăg-gā-dhōl. Word-of the great king. D'bha'r, noun masc. sing. constr. st. of דָּבָר, Parad. IV.—Here notice how the close connexion in utterance, or the constr. state, occasions a change of the vowels (see § 89, 1). Hămmā'lĕkh noun masc. sing. absol. st., Parad. VI. a; with the article (הַ·) prefixed (see § 35). Hăggādhō'l, adj. masc. sing. with article; on ג with Dagh. forte, see § 13, 3.—Observe how the adj. stands after the noun, and agrees with it in gender and number (see § 112, 1), and in taking the article (see § 111, 2).

3. Y'mē' sh'nē' chăy-yē' 'bhō-thā'ī. The days-of the years-of the life-of my fathers. Y'mé, noun masc. plural, constr. state; the sing. יוֹם, irregularly inflected (§ 96). Sh'né, noun fem. pl. constr. state; sing. שָׁנָה (§ 95, Parad. B. a) but here with masc. plural (see § 87, 4). Chăyyé, noun masc. pl. constr. st.; sing. חַי, Parad. VIII.—the plural form used with sing. sense (see § 108, 2, a). אֲבוֹתַי noun m. pl. (but with feminine form, § 87, 4), with suff. 1 pers. sing. (ַי for ָי because of pause, Silluq, § 29, —The sign (׃) at the end is Sōph-pāsūq, which is always preceded by the accent Silluq (§ 15).

* For the sounds of the consonants and vowels, as here employed to express the Hebrew pronunciation, see § 6 with Notes* on pages 17 and 20, also § 10.—On Hebrew syllables, see § 26.

4, a): sing. אָב, irreg. inflexion (§ 96).—Observe here the succession of three nouns in constr. st. (§ 114, 1), and the effect of the close connexion in utterance not only changing the vowels (as in No. 2), but also eliding or slurring over the consonant ם (יָמֵי for יְמֵים, etc., according to § 89, 2, a).—Observe also the absence of the art. before the nouns, owing to their being in the constr. st., and as such not needing the art. (see § 110, 2); comp. our expression God's word for the word of God (see Note *, p. 185).

4. Zĕ'-khĕr tsăd-dī'q llbh-rā-khā'. The memory-of a righteous (man) for a blessing, i. e., is blessed. Zĕ'khĕr, Parad. VI. b; article omitted (§ 110, 2); constr. state without any change (see above, No. 1). Tsăddī'q, adj. masc. sing., agreeing with אָדָם man, which is understood. Lĭbhrākhā', noun fem. sing. absol. state, Parad. B. c; with prep. לְ to prefixed (§ 102, 2), here with short Chireq (לִ) according to § 28, 1.—Observe the ellipsis of the copula (i. e., the verb to be), according to § 144.

5. Āt-tā' Y'hō-vā' tōbh v'săl-lā'ch. Thou, Jehovah (art) good and forgiving. Āttā', pronoun personal or separate, 2 pers. sing. masc. (see § 32). Y'hōvā', pr. name: for the signification and the pronunciation of this word, see Lexicon. Tōbh, adj. masc. sing., agreeing with אַתָּה. V'sălla'ch, adj. masc. sing., with conj. וְ and prefixed (§ 104, 2).—Obs. ellipsis of copula (art) according to § 144.

6. Tĭq-tōl 'lō'h rā-shā'. Thou wilt slay, O God, the wicked. Tĭqtōl, verb 2 pers. sing. masc. fut. Kal; root קָטַל, Parad. B. אֱלוֹהַּ, noun masc. sing., Parad. I.; the הַּ with Mappiq (§ 14) and Pathach furtive (see § 8, 2). Rāshā' (on omission of ע, see p. 16) adj. masc. sing., agreeing with אָדָם understood; art. omitted in poetic style (see p. 184).—Observe the arrangement of the words (§ 145, 1).

7. Mī yĭsh-kō'n b'hă'r qŏdh-shĕ'-khā. Who shall dwell in the mountain-of thy holiness? i. e., in thy holy mount. Mī, pron. interrog. (§ 37) used of persons. Yĭshkō'n, r. שָׁכַן, Parad. B. B'hă'r, noun masc. sing. constr. st., Parad. VIII. a; pl. הָרִים for הֲרִים, because ר excludes Daghesh forte (see § 22, 5). Qŏdhshĕ'khā, noun (קֹדֶשׁ, Parad. VI. c) with suff. 2 pers. sing. masc. (§ 91, 1), joined by means of (־) because of the pause, Silluq (§ 29, 4, b).—Obs. subst. used to express adj. (see § 106, 1); and for the position of the suff. ךָ, see § 12P. 6.

8. Kā-bhĕ'dh hā-rā-ā'b bā-ā'rĕts. Heavy was the famine in the land. כָּבֵד, verb 3 pers. sing. masc. pret. Kal (see Parad. B.), agreeing in gend., numb., and pers. with its nominative (§ 146 at beginning). הָרָעָב, noun (Parad. IV.) with art. הָ (see § 35, 1). בָּאָרֶץ, noun (Parad. VI. a) with prep. בְּ prefixed with Qamets because it displaces the art. and takes its pointing (בְּ for בְּהָ, see § 102, 2, b, and § 23, 5); see also § 29, 4, a, § 93, Rem. 1, for the (־) instead of (־) under א. The arrangement is the same as in No. 6.

9. Ăy-yĕ' sō-phĕ'r ĕth-hăm-mĭgh-dā-lī'm. Where (is one) counting the towers? Sōphĕr, act. part. masc. sing. Kal; r. סָפַר, Paradigm B. אֶת־, sign of the definite accusative (see § 117, 2, and Note *), here followed by Maqqeph (§ 16, 1) and hence with (־) shortened to (־), see § 27, 1. הַמִּגְדָּלִים, noun masc. pl. absol. st., Parad. II., with art. prefixed (§ 35); in accus. case, governed by sōphĕr (see § 135 and § 138).

10. Tsĕ'-dhĕq mĭsh-shā-mă'-yĭm nĭsh-qā'ph. Righteousness from heaven looked down. מִשָּׁמַיִם, noun masc. plur. but seemingly dual (see § 88, 1, Rem. 2), with prep. מִן prefixed (§ 102, 1); on plur. form in this noun, see § 108, 2. נִשְׁקַף, verb 3 pers. m. sing. pret. Niphal, r. שָׁקַף, Parad. B.; here with (־) for (־), because of the Silluq (§ 29, 4).—Observe, the proper sense of this verb in Niph. is reflexive, viz., to bend one's self forward (see § 51, 2, and the Lexicon under שָׁקַף).

11. The iniquity of his fathers shall be remembered. יִזָּכֵר (yĭz-zā-khĕ'r verb (r. זָכַר) 3 pers. sing. masc. fut. of Niphal, which has here a passive force (see § 51, 2, d), Paradigm B. עָוֹן ('vō'n, not 'ō'n, because the cholem requires a consonant before it, which must be the ו, and not the ע which has the Chateph-Pathach, see § 26, 1) noun in constr. state (Paradigm III.), governing the verb in gend., numb., and pers. (see § 146). אֲבִיָו (bhō-thā'v, see § 8, 5) compare on No. 3; there scriptio plena, here scriptio defectiva (§ 8, 4).—The arrangement is according to § 145, 1, a.

12. Who hath tried the spirit of Jehovah? מִי (see § 37, 1). תִּכֵּן (thĭk-kĕ'n, ת without Daghesh lene, because the preceding word ends with a vowel and is in close connexion, § 21, 1) verb (r. תָּכַן) in Piël, which has here intensive force (§ 52, 2, a), Parad. B. אֶת־ sign of accusative here before a noun made definite by the constr. state (see on No. 9). רוּחַ (rū'ch, with Pathach furtive, § 22, 2, b), noun in constr. st. (Parad. I.).

13. Honour thy father and thy mother. כַּבֵּד, verb (r. כָּבֵד, see on No. 8) 2 pers. sing. masc. imper. of Piël (here causative of Kal, § 52, 2, b), agreeing with אַתָּה thou (see No. 5) understood; Parad B. אֶת־ (twice) before a noun made definite by the suffix (see on No. 9). אָבִיךָ (ā-bhī'-khā), noun irregular (אָב, § 96, 2) with suffix 2 pers. sing. masc. (§ 91, 1, Rem. 1). וְ copulative conj. prefixed with Sh'va (§ 104, 2). אִמֶּךָ noun (אֵם, Parad. VIII.) sing. fem. with suffix, here appended by Seghol instead of Sh'va, on account of the pause accent Silluq (see § 29, 4, b).

14. His blood from thy hand will I require. מִיָּדֶךָ (mĭy-yā-dhe'khā', second syllable with Methegh (§ 16, 2), to show that the vowel-sign ֶ stands for ā not ĕ, see § 9, 12, Rem. 1, a) noun fem. singular (יָד, Parad. II.), with prep. מִן prefixed (§ 102, 1) and suffix appended. אֲבַקֵּשׁ, Parad. B. On the arrangement, see § 145, 1, c.

15. I was stolen from the land of the Hebrews. גֻּנֹּבְתִּי verb (r. גָּנַב, Parad. B.) 1 pers. sing. com., pret. of Pual (the passive of Piël, § 52, 2). מֵ, prep. (מִן) prefixed according to § 102, 1. הָ art. (see No. 8).

16. He has made heavy my chain. הִכְבִּיד, 3 pers. sing. masc., pret. of Hiphil (causative of Kal, § 53, 2); r. כָּבֵד. Ne'chŏsh-tī (נְחֹשֶׁת, § 95, Parad. D. b).

17. Upon Jehovah I was cast from the womb. הָשְׁלַכְתִּי (hŏsh-lā'kh-tī) 1 pers. sing. com., pret. of Hophal (passive of Hiphil, § 53, 2); r. שָׁלַךְ, Parad. B. רָחֶם, noun, Parad. VI. (here with ֶ on account of the pause accent, § 29, 4, a, and § 27, Rem. 2, c).

18. I will keep myself from my iniquity. אֶשְׁתַּמֵּר, 1 pers. sing. c. fut. of Hithpaël (with reflexive force, and here with transposition of ת, see § 54, 2, a, and 3); r. שָׁמַר, Parad. B. מֵעֲוֹנִי (see No. 11, and No. 15).

19. And now let your hands be strong (lit. shall be strong.) תֶּחֱזַקְנָה (tĕ-ch'zā'q-nā, ת has Daghesh lene, because a distinctive accent, P'sīq (׀), precedes, § 21, 1), 3 pers. pl. fem. fut. Kal, r. חָזַק, Parad. D. (or verb Pe Guttural);—fut. used for imper. according to § 127, 3, c. יְדֵיכֶם, dual of יָד (יָדַיִם, see § 88) with suff. 2 pers. pl. masc.—On the use of a plur. verb with a dual noun, see § 146, 5.

20. The generation of the upright shall be blessed. דּוֹר, noun constr. st. Parad. I. יְשָׁרִים adj. pl. masc. (agreeing with אֲנָשִׁים men understood), Parad. IV. יְבֹרָךְ, 3 pers. sing. m. fut. Pual (see Parad. E., but here with ֶ because of Silluq), agreeing in gend., numb., and pers. with the subject.

21. Because thou hast forgotten the God of thy salvation. שָׁכַחְתָּ, (shā-khā'-chāt, see § 28, 4, Note ‡), 2 pers. sing. fem. pret. Kal of שָׁכַח (verb Lamedh Guttural, Parad. F.). אֱלֹהֵי, constr. st. pl. of אֱלוֹהַּ (the ה loses both Mappiq and Pathach furtive, because it ceases to be final, § 22, 2, b): on the plural use of this word (pluralis excellentiæ) see § 108, 2, b. יִשְׁעֵךְ, noun, Parad. VI. e, with suffix 2 pers. sing. fem.

22. A wise son will gladden his father. On position and agreement of adj. and subst., see No. 2. אָבִיו, see § 96, 2.

23. Jehovah will keep thee from all evil (lit. all of evil.) יִשְׁמְרֶךָּ (yĭsh-mŏr'-khā', § 9, 12, 1, a; § 10, 1, at end; § 21, 2, c) 3 pers. sing. masc. fut. Kal with suffix, 2 pers. sing. masc., see Parad. C., and § 60. כָּל (here כָּל kŏl, because followed by Maqqeph, which takes away the tone of the word and so makes a closed unaccented syllable, which cannot have a long vowel, see § 26, 5), prop. a noun

(but commonly rendered as an adj.) in constr. state, Parad. VIII. c. רַע, with ֶ for ֵ according to § 29, 4, a.

24. Cause me to walk in thy truth and teach me. הַדְרִיכֵנִי (r. דָּרַךְ, Parad. E.), 2 pers. sing. m. imper. Hiphil, with suffix 1 pers. sing. com., see Parad. C. and § 61. בַּאֲמִתֶּךָ (אֱמֶת, see Lexicon), noun fem. sing. (Parad. D.) with prep. בְּ (here with ַ according to § 102, 2, a) and with suffix, 2 pers. sing. masc.

25. When you hear (lit. according to your hearing) the voice of the trumpet. כְּשָׁמְעֲכֶם (K'shŏm-'khĕm), inf. Kal of שָׁמַע (Parad. F.) with prep. כְּ (§ 102, 2) and suffix 2 pers. plur. masc., see § 61, 1, and § 65, 2.—On the use of כְּ before infinitive, see § 132, 2.

26. This (has been) thy way from thy youth, for thou hast not hearkened to my voice. זֶה, see § 34. וַדַּרְכְּךָ, noun sing. masc., Parad. VI. a, with suffix, 2 pers. sing. fem. נְעוּרַיִךְ, see § 91, 2, and § 108, 2, a. Observe the effect of prep. בְּ on the sense of שָׁמַע, which here means to hearken = obey, but without the בְּ (as in No. 25) it means simply to hear = perceive sound.

27. They encompassed me like bees, they were extinguished like fire of thorns. See § 67, Parad. H.; with suffix, 1 pers. sing. דְּעָכוּנִי. Pual, Parad. E.

28. The door will turn on its hinge, and a sluggard on his bed. תִּסּוֹב, 3 pers. sing. fem. fut. Kal of סָבַב (verb עַ"ע, Paradigm H.), agreeing in gend., numb., and pers. with דֶּלֶת. מִטָּתוֹ, see § 91, 4

29. Then they began (lit. it was begun) to call on the name of Jehovah. הוּחַל, 3 pers. sing. masc. pret. Hophal of חָלַל (Paradigm H.): see § 137, 3. בְּ with Daghesh lene, because of the distinctive accent (Tiphcha ֒) under the preceding word, see § 21, 1.

30. Ps. cxix. 69. See on No. 23. אֶצֹּר, 1 pers. sing. com. fut. Kal of נָצַר (verb פ"נ, Parad. G.).

31. Gen. xiv. 21. תֵּן, 2 pers. sing. masc. imper. Kal of נָתַן (Parad. G., and § 66, 1). לִי, § 103, 2, a. נֶפֶשׁ, noun singular, but here with collective force, § 108, 1. קַח, 2 pers. sing. masc. imper. Kal of לָקַח (treated as a verb פ"נ, Parad. G., and partly after Parad. F.; see § 66, Rem. 2). לָךְ for לְךָ on account of pause, § 103, 2, a.

32. Judges xiii. 16. תַּעְצְרֵנִי, 2 pers. sing. masc. fut. Kal of עָצַר (Parad. D.) with suffix, 1 pers. sing. com. (§ 60). On the position of the negative, see § 145, 1. אֹכַל, 1 pers. sing. com. fut. Kal of אָכַל (verb פ"א, Parad. I., see § 68, 2); here with ַ instead of ֶ on account of the conjunctive accent, Munach (֒), § 68, 1. See on No. 7.

33. Jer. xvii. 14. הוֹשִׁיעֵנִי, imper. Hiphil of יָשַׁע (verb פ"י, Parad. K.). אִוָּשֵׁעָה, 1 pers. sing. fut. Niphal of יָשַׁע, with He paragogic (§ 48, 3): see also § 29, 4, b.

34. Job xiv. 1. יְלוּד, pass. part. sing. masc. Kal of יָלַד, in constr. state, according to § 135, 1. On the construct state of the adjectives קָצַר and שָׂבַע, see § 112, 2. Conjunction וְ prefixed with Shureq, before simple Sh'va, according to § 104, 2, b.

35. Genesis xxviii. 12. מֻצָּב, part. sing. masc. Hophal of יָצַב (verb פ"י of 3rd class, § 71) or נָצַב (verb פ"נ, Parad. G.). אַרְצָה, אֶרֶץ with He paragogic or ancient case-ending for the accusative, § 90, 2: so also in last word. מַנִּיעַ, part. sing. masc. Hiphil of נָגַע (after Parad. G. and F.).

36. Is. xxxvii. 23. חֵרַפְתָּ, Piël, Parad. E. On the next word the accent (֥) Zaqeph-qaton, § 15. הֲרִימוֹתָ, Hiphil of רוּם (verb ע"ו, Paradigm M.). קִ, with Daghesh forte conjunctive, § 20, 2, a.

37. Judges xiv. 14. מֵהָאֹכֵל, part. sing. masc. Kal of אָכַל, with article הָ (§ 35, 1) and preposition מִ (§ 102, 1). יֵצֵא, verb פ"י and לא, Paradigms K. and O.

38. 1 Sam. ii. 27. הִנָּגְלֹה infin. absol. Niphal of גָּלָה (verb ל"ה, Parad. P.), with He interrogative prefixed, according to § 100, 4 (see its use in § 153, 2): this infin. stands before the finite verb to make it emphatic, according to § 131, 3, a. בֵּית, constr. st. of בַּיִת (Parad. VI. h.).

39. Ps. xxxi. 14. לָקַחַת infin. Kal of לָקַח (Paradigm H., § 66, Rem. 2), with preposition לְ prefixed according to § 102, 2, c, and § 142, 2. וְמָמוּ verb עָשָׂה (Paradigm H.) inflected here as regular (after Paradigm B., see § 67, Rem. 10, also § 29, 4, b).

40. Num. x. 30. מוֹלַדְתִּי noun fem. sing. (segholate, Parad. D.) with suffix. אֵלֵךְ (Parad. K.) from יָלַךְ or הָלַךְ, see § 69, Rem. 8.

41. Prov. vii. 1. וּמִצְוֹתַי (ū-mĭts-vō-thāi, see on No. 11) noun fem. plur. (Paradigm A.) with suffix appended (§ 91) and conj. וְ prefixed with Shureq before the labial מ (§ 104, 3, b.) אִתָּךְ for אֶת־ךָ (prep. אֵת § 103, 1, Rem. 1), see on No. 31.

42. Jer. xliii. 9. קַח see on No. 31. אֲבָנִים noun common gender (§ 107, 1, c) plural (אֶבֶן Paradigm VI.), governing גְּדֹלוֹת in fem. pl. (§ 112, 1) but the suffix of the next word in the masc. וּמָטְמַנְתָּם (lit. and thou hast hid them) pret. for imper. according to § 126, 6, c.

43. Ps. civ. 24. מָה prop. interrog. pron., but here an adverb of interrog. (lit. as to what? then how? see § 100, 2, e, and Lexicon sub voce). רַבּוּ (Parad. H.) pret. for present, according to § 126, 3. Under מַעֲשֶׂיךָ (Parad. IX.) Methegh and the accent Athnach ֑ (§ 15). מָלְאָה, Parad. O., § 74, Rem. 1; see also § 138, 3, b. הָאָרֶץ, always so for הָאָרֶץ for the sake of euphony with the art. (§ 35, 1, and § 93, Rem. 1).

44. Judges xiv. 18. See § 37, 1, Rem. for מַהּ and מָה. מִדְּבַשׁ noun m. (Parad. VI., § 93, Rem. 4) with prep. מִן (§ 102, 1) which here denotes the comparative (see § 119, 1).

45. Gen. ix. 20. וַיָּחֶל 3 pers. sing. m. fut. apoc. Hiphil of חָלַל (Parad. H.), with Vav conversive (see § 48, 2) giving to the fut. the sense of the pret. (see § 129). וַיִּטַּע from נָטַע (Parad. H. and F.).

V. 1. וַיְהִי fut. apoc. § 75, Rem. 3, e) with Vav conv. (§ 49, 2), used for tense of narration (§ 129, 2). בְּהַעֲלוֹת Hiphil of עָלָה (see § 132, 2, and also § 133, 3). בַּסְּעָרָה (§ 10, 2, Rem.—comp. בְּסַעֲרָה in verse 11) with Chateph-Qamets irreg., which is noticed in the margin הס בחטף קמץ, i. e., the ס with Chateph-Qamets. הַשָּׁמַיִם (No. 10, p. 270; § 118, 1).

V. 2. שָׁבֶ־נָא, see § 130, 1, Rem. חַי־יְיָ וְחֵי נַפְשְׁךָ (lit. living is Jehovah and the life of thy soul) as Jehovah liveth and by the life of thy soul, a form of oath: חַי const. st. § 89, 2, a. אִם if=not, see Lex. C. 1, c. בֵּית־אֵל (also in the next verse) in the adverbial accusative, § 118, 1.

V. 3. הַיּוֹם prop. the day=this day, see § 109, at nning. אֲרֻכָּיִךְ plur. excel. (§ 108, 2, b). חָשָׂה. . 5. בְּיָדְיחוֹ, prep. בְּ prefixed, according to § 102, 2, a. הֲיָדַעְתָּ, pret. for pres. (§ 126, 3); see § 153, 2.

V. 6. הָיַרְדֵּנָה, § 109, 3, and § 90, 2. שְׁנֵיהֶם their two=both of them, § 97, Rem. 2.

V. 7. Construction of the numeral, § 120, 2.

V. 8. לָקַח, see above on No. 54. אַדֶּרֶת noun fem. (Parad. D.). נָכָה, see above on No. 63. וְ conj. with Qamets, see above on No. 47. בְּ prep. with art. (§ 35, 2, B. b, and Rem. 2).

V. 9. בְּעָבְרָם inf. with suff. and prep. § 132, 2, (see also above on No. 25). וְ and=that after וַיְהִי. וְיְהִי־נָא פִי וגו then (וְ inferential, § 155, 1, d) shall be, pray, a portion of two in thy spirit to me, i. e. may I have a double portion (twice as much as any one else) of thy spirit (comp. Deut. xxi. 17): פִּי, see § 96.

V. 10. הִקְשִׁיתָ לִשְׁאוֹל lit. thou hast made hard to ask, i. e. thou hast asked a hard thing, see § 142, 4, Rem. 1. לָקַח for מְלֻקָּח, see § 52, Rem. 5.

V. 11. Lit. and it was, they walking to walk and to speak, that lo! a chariot, etc.: see § 134, 2, a or c, and § 131, 3, b. וַיַּעַל fut. Kal of עָלָה. הַשָּׁמָיִם adverbial accus. (§ 118, 1).

V. 12. וְ according to § 28, 2. מְצַעֵק part. Piël, § 64, 3. רֶכֶב יִשְׂרָאֵל וּפָרָשָׁיו Israel's chariot and his horsemen.—Observe, that in Hebrew two or more nouns cannot be in the construct state before the same genitive (see Note * on § 114, 1): e. g. רֶכֶב וּפָרָשֵׁי יִשְׂרָאֵל would be scarcely admissible in this place, and hence the language required either the expression of the genitive after each noun (רֶכֶב־אֵשׁ וְסוּסֵי יִשְׂרָאֵל וּפָרָשָׁיו, as in verse 11, אֵשׁ) or the use of the possessive pronoun after the second noun (as exhibited in this verse), or the periphrastic construction (see § 115) which expresses the genitive in the manner of the dative (הָרֶכֶב וְהַפָּרָשִׁים לְיִשְׂרָאֵל the chariot and the horsemen to Israel).—There are some apparent exceptions, as in Jer. xxvi. 9, where we find תֹּפְשֵׂי דֹּרְכֵי קָשֶׁת handlers of—benders of—the bow; but the two nouns in the construct state are here in apposition, just like בְּתוּלַת בַּת־מִצְרַיִם virgin daughter of Egypt, in verse 11 of the same chapter (see § 116, 5).

* כָּל has both vowels unchangeable (see page 157, No. 4, Rem.)

III. EXTRACTS IN POETRY.

1. Part of the Song of Moses.

Deut. xxxii. 1—4.

 In this Extract, the parallel members are clearly exhibited in separate lines.

V. 1. Article before vocative, § 110, Rem. 2. וְאֶרְבֶּרָה, § 128, 1; § 29, 4, b.

V. 2. תִּזַּל, verb פּוּן. עֲלֵי, § 103, 3.

V. 3. הָבוּ, verb פּי. לְ prep. (§ 102, 2, a).

V. 4. הַצּוּר the rock, i. e. Jehovah, case absol. (§ 145, 2).—Large צ (so the marginal notice calls it) to mark out the word as having a peculiar use or mystic sense attached to it by the Masoretic authors (see § 3, 2).

---

2. Parable of the Degenerate Vineyard.

Isaiah v. 1—7.

V. 1. אָשִׁירָה נָּא (§ 128, 1, a). לִידִידִי concerning my beloved, i. e. Jehovah.

V. 2. נָטַע with double accus. (§ 139, 2). בָּנָה, § 75, Rem. 3. קָוָה, § 75, Rem. 9.

V. 3. יוֹשֵׁב and אִישׁ collectives (§ 108, 1, c) and hence with verb plur. (§ 146, 1).

V. 4. See § 132, Rem. 1, 2.

V. 5. יָדַע with two accus. (§ 139, 1). עֹשֶׂה part. for fut. (§ 134, 2, b). הָסַר and פָּרַץ, § 131, 1, Rem. לְבָעֵר lit. for to eat up=to be eaten up.

V. 6. וְעָלָה וגו (§ 126, 6) and it shall go up (i. e. grow) briar and thorn (§ 138, 1, Rem. 2). מֵהַמְטִיר lit. from to rain (§ 132, 2).

V. 7. Observe the striking paronomasia or alliteration between מִשְׁפָּט and מִשְׂפָּח, and between צְדָקָה and צְעָקָה, which we can partly copy in translation, thus,—he looked for right, and behold might! for weal, and behold woe!

3. Praise of a Good Wife.

Prov. xxxi. 10—31.

V. 10. אֵשֶׁת, § 96, 2.

V. 11. Pret. for present (§ 126, 3).

V. 12. גְּמָלַתְהוּ (§ 59, 1, a, and Rem. 3).

V. 14. מִמֶּרְחַק (kŏ-mĕrh-yŏth, see page 28, No. 2, Rem.).

V. 15. בְּעוֹד, either as noun (in continuance of) or as infinitive (in continuing of, § 132, 2), while it is yet night. Fut. with Vav convers. for present (§ 128, 3, a).

V. 16. זָמְמָה, see above, on No. 39. Q'ri נְטָעָה referring to the wife; but K'thibh either נָטַע referring to the husband, or נִטַּע (Niphal, is planted), agreeing with כֶּרֶם as subject.

V. 18. Sense of Q'ri and K'thibh is here the same.

V. 20. לֶעָנִי, § 102, 2, b.

V. 21. לָבֻשׁ, pass. part. with accus., § 143, 1.

V. 27. צוֹפִיָּה, § 75, Rem. 5. Q'ri הֲלִיכוֹת, but K'thibh (with the same sense) הֵילִיכוֹת; the latter probably derived from יָלַךְ, but the former from הָלַךְ.

V. 29. רַבּוֹת, adj. put before the noun either for emphasis, many women, etc., (see § 112, 1, Rem. 1), or as predicate, many are the women who, etc. (see § 145, 1, b). כָּלָּנָה for the usual כֻּלָּן, see § 91, 1, Rem. 2.

V. 30. אִשָּׁה יִרְאַת יְיָ a woman fearing Jehovah, put prominently in nom. case absol. (§ 145, 2).—Observe, the crowning praise of a good wife is the fear of the Lord or piety. See § 54, Rem., at the end.
