

L'Admiral French brig Privateer, is arrived, and anchored at St. Raphael, on Friday afternoon.

The Ady, in an exceedingly fine yield, of three hundred tons burr, mucosally fine filler, means eighteen bush, net carries two hundred tons.

Mr. Roper, Alder, and Brown, who refer to the vessel, were taken by the Admiralty, and were on board of the privateer, loaded from her on Friday.

We understand that the persons captured by the French privateer were taken to the great city and kindly by Captain Mousier and his officers.

Mr. Mousier's friends, Mr. Secretary and Duffier, and the Hon. Sir C. G. Calder, were the only vessels remaining at St. Raphael on Thursday.

SUPREMACY COURT.

At an Adjourned Session held on Monday 11th, Mr. John Gurney, a Cadet on the Bengal Establishment, at the instance of the Hon. Mr. Justice, was ordered to be fully and meticulously sitting on the bench during the day, at the instance of the Hon. Mr. Justice.

Mr. Gurney was assigned the 1st and 2nd divisions of the Bench.

The indictment being read, Mr. Simpson, Attorney General, opened the case for the Crown.

Mr. Smith, Advocate General, advised the Jury in a short but eloquent speech. He began with offering a free and full view of the facts of the case, and then proceeded to address the Jury on the law.

The Advocate General delivered his address to the Jury. He opened with a reference to the facts of the case, and then proceeded to address the Jury on the law.

Mr. Gurney, in his defence, stated that he was not guilty of the offence charged against him. He offered evidence in support of his defence.

The Advocate General, in his reply to the defence, stated that the evidence offered by the defendant was not sufficient to establish his innocence.

The Jury, after hearing the evidence, returned a verdict of guilty. The Advocate General, in his closing speech, stated that the law was clear and the evidence was overwhelming.

The Advocate General, in his closing speech, stated that the law was clear and the evidence was overwhelming. He concluded by stating that the law was clear and the evidence was overwhelming.
