On the 14th April last, being off the Island of Comoro, he went on board in his boat with the 3 seamen for water; on his return night came on and he lost sight of his ship, which he did not detect till 10 o'clock the next morning, when he found immediately afterwards, the vessel then cleaving for the Island; at P. M. the flood and he never saw her again; after this he returned on shore where he remained 18 or 20 days and then, related to attempt making Johanna, in this however he failed; the current running from against him to that he was obliged to steer for the Coast of Africa, and on the 20th May, he made the Island of Ibo, where he found lying the BOA VISTA—which on Comoro he took his subsistence was Coconuts and water given them by the Natives.

PARTICULARS relative to the above-mentioned American Ship HANNAH, and corroborating the circumstances above stated &c. &c.

"After waiting, and sailing for sixteen days round the Island, expecting the return of the Boat, and during the whole of that time, seeing nothing of it, the Ship was obliged through stress of Weather, to leave the Island,—and after being 45 days at sea, the whole of the persons on board, being Mr. Follenbie, (the Captain's Brother) a Mate, two Seamen, and one Boy, the Ship arrived at Trincomalle, on the 3d. of June 1803, leaking much, and in great distress.

"The Cargo was so much damaged, that it was necessary to land it immediately, and put it into the Government Stores.
After Survivors of Carpenters from His Majesty's Ships, on the Ship, and also of Merchants of the first respectability, and appointed by the first Magistrate of the place, on the CAUSE—it was adjudged that the Voyage was safe; and the Ship and Cargo, were in consequence Condemned, and Sold by Auction, at Trincomalle, for the benefit of all concerned, on or about the 25th. of July 1803. FRENCH NEWS PAPERS.

The following is stated to be the full newspapers in Paris. The papers in circulation are—

Per D
The Moniteur, which publishes nearly	204
Journal de Paris	15,000
Publiciste	14,000
Journal des Debats	12,000
Journal des Defendeurs de la Patrie	10,000
Ciel du Cabinet	6000

There are also the Journal de Commerce, Journal du Soir, le Cyprien, le Français, Gazette de France, &c. each of which publishes but few. But there are Les Petites Affiches, which is like a Daily Advertiser, and for advertisements only. It publishes at least 30,000 daily, and all by subscription, which is about 300. a year. The net profit of the Moniteur is supposed to be a halfpenny sterling on each paper, which profit, owing to the extensive sale, is enormous. Roederer, the Counsellor of State, is proprietor of the Journal de Paris; and MR. BONAPARTE, is sole proprietor of the Moniteur, and prop-rietary of the Journal de Paris.

A Gailor was lately asked the meaning of a Flying Squadron? Why, a Squadron, to be sure, that the enemy will fly from.—The flying Squadron of Sir Sidney Smith and Sir Edward Pellew will, we are persuaded, exactly answer to this description.

Extract of a Letter, dated Camp 25th, October.

"You have I hope already heard of the success which has attended Colonel Stevenson's detachment, in taking Enderbury, and in the capture of the former is a very strong town, and was Scinde's principal Arsenal; it was evacuated by the Troops, amounting to 10,000 Men, the day before Colonel Stevenson arrived there. It is said that property to the amount of 5 Lacs of Pagodas was found in Assad Ghur."

FALL OF AGRA.

On Saturday last a Royal Salute was fired from the Garrison of Fort St. George, announcing the Capture of the important Fortress of Agra, by the British Forces commanded by His Excellency General Lake.

Fort William, 25th, October.

A dispatch, of which the following is a Copy has been this day received by His Excellency the Most Noble the Governor General from His Excellency the Commander in Chief.

To His Excellency the Most Noble the Governor General, Madras.

Wellington, 25th, October, 1853.

My dear Sir,

I have the pleasure to inform your Lordship that the important fortress of Agra, situated on the banks of the River Jumna, has been captured by the British Forces, under the command of His Excellency General Lake, on the 16th inst.

The only terms required by the Garrison were protection to their Persons and private Property, which was agreed to on my part.

I attribute the early surrender of this place to the great impetus our Breaching Batteries, which opened yesterday morning within the walls, and which would have caused a practicable Breach in a few hours more.

To Colonel Horsford of the Artillery, and Captain W. M. of the Corps of Engineers, and to every other Officer in those two Corps I feel myself under great obligations, for their unremitting exertions on this occasion, and to which I principally attributed my early success against this place.

I have the pleasure to say, on this fine day, that the Breaching Batteries, which have been working since the 10th inst., have been successful in breaching the walls, and three Gunboats killed, and the only casualties.

A return of the Ordnance, Stores, &c. found in the Fort, I shall have the honor to forward for your Lordship's information to-morrow.

(Signed) G. LAKE.

The gross revenue of the Mogul Empire, according to an authentic record transmitted from Bengal to England, in reign of Akbar, amounted to 36,000,000. Rialtis. Rialtis.

HANOVER, 3d June.

On receipt of the intelligence that the French Army was advancing in three columns a large detachment of our regular Troops moved to the Frontiers of Westphalia, in order to occupy the advantageous position and to oppose the progress of this Army.

The Company of the Comte de la Roche War has set off for Osnabrück, all the Battalions of Infantry are to be completed to 900 men.

It appears that our Army, is to take a military position on the Banks of the Weiser; it consists of 25,000 regulars viz. 24,000 Infantry and 800 Cavalry.

BERLIN.—A report has been circulated, that our Court has entered into a definitive treaty with France, according to which the party attacked is to be assisted by the other with 20,000 men.

The French have declared themselves either to defend, or the worst enemies to Holland.

From the manner in which the Myneers exert themselves at being reluctantly and innately drawn into the new contest, it is easy to perceive in which of these relations they consider their greatest advantage.

The Indians of Louisiana have been informed, that they are to be treated with great kindness, the French, will treat them with great kindness. Whenever these promises are made by the Great Nation, they generally are—in such only.

PELLIER'S TRIAL.

The doctrines which have been maintained in Pelletier case of LIBERT, have given a just and ferocious alarm to the real friends of the British Constitution; and if the assertions of lawyers are not corrected by the exertions of jurists, they will extend to such an extent as to be fatal to the liberty of the press.

A LIBEL is a crime, according to Blackstone, only as "a breach of the public peace, by stirring up the objects of it to revenge, and perhaps to bloodshed." In this point of view, a criticism on a public man, however gross, cannot possibly be a breach of the peace in this country, since the object of it is out of reach. The remedy in this case, is in the hands of the foreign potentate himself, by prohibiting the circulation of such libels in his own dominions. Only couple this doctrine with another, which has also been lately introduced in our courts, viz. "that a libel may affect the dead as well as the living," and then it will be ground for an information, to arraign the cruelty, tyranny and ambition of Louis XIVth.

Carry the doctrine a little farther, and suppose the Press might have initiated a prosecution for libel, in an English court of justice, and where would our reformed Religion now have been?

But this, thanks to the wisdom and spirit of our ancestors, was not the doctrine of the times, which established the English Church, and the English Constitution. A well-known and rather trite anecdote will serve to convince us of what was the doctrine of those times.

When Lord Moleworth published his celebrated account of Denmark, many passages were found extremely offensive to the reigning monarch, who, by his ambassador, complained of the insult, and demanded from our William III. the Head of the author. "Tell his Danish Majesty," said King William, "that I cannot by my own authority dispose of the usage of my subjects; nor of the religion of my subjects; my redress, except that I can communicate to Lord Moleworth the nature of this application, who will, I dare say, infer it in the next edition of his book."

IRELAND.

Combinations and poverty, intoxication, rapine and disease, continue through Ireland to proclaim the reduced price of woe. Every public house is become a seat of legislation, where the industrious are denounced, and the person precluded from an exercise of his trade who disobeys the mandates of his Committee. No man is permitted to work who does not combine, nor can any master employ him; whilst famine mangles the families of these law-givers, and their wretched, ill-tutored slaves.

There is a person in the county of Tipperary, respectfully connected, and of tolerable hereditary property, against whom (in the figurative language of the neighbourhood) there is a cart-load of indictments. This man, whose blood is mingled with the noblest of his race, is a desperate rascal, though charged with every enormity, has for several years for the laws at defiance, and still ridicules the idea of a Police by parading with arms through the country in the face of day. The recent robbery of the Mail Coach near Clonmel is attributed to him; but it is a circumstance, that it is by the increase of wealth, augment his confidence, and judging of the future by the past, his security also.

Much to the credit of our military discipline, it appears that our language has no word to express the crime of desertion, and are obliged to adopt the harsh one of desertion, which, after the French conquest, and is a member of the same family with treason, &c.

We are sorry to learn, that the emigrations from the Highlands of Scotland continue to a great extent, and that some persons from the Buck State of America, have been induced, for the purpose of seducing these credulous people from their homes.

The Royal Humane Society (of which the King is Patron) for the recovery of person apparently dead by drowning, suffocation, and other accidents, have been obliged to receive kingdom in 1774; and since that period, has been the providential means of restoring no less than 2679 persons, who otherwise would, in all human probability, have suffered a premature interment.

The French Ambassador at Madras is in a most disagreeable situation.—The British Officers avoid him; and the Natives, for fear of giving offence to the gallant garrison, that protects them, do not indulge in their natural inclination—Hospitality to Strangers; so that Fiat, an outcast from Society, must with return to France, the Land of Equality.

The unredressed interest on money throughout France must soon be felt injurious to the monied markets of England, where no one can legally receive more than five per cent, while in Paris, the lender is authorized to receive whatever he can exact; so that he, at this moment, makes his money five per cent, on funds advanced upon bond, or bill of exchange.

The author of the paper lately read before the Royal Society, on the Trade effects of this member in Women is endowed with more irritability than any other organ of the body.

To the Officer Commanding opposite Madras Ghore.

His Excellency GENERAL LAKE, Esq.

We have the honor to inform your Excellency, that the important fortress of Agra, situated on the banks of the River Jumna, has been captured by the British Forces, under the command of His Excellency General Lake, on the 16th inst.

The only terms required by the Garrison were protection to their Persons and private Property, which was agreed to on my part.

I attribute the early surrender of this place to the great impetus our Breaching Batteries, which opened yesterday morning within the walls, and which would have caused a practicable Breach in a few hours more.

To Colonel Horsford of the Artillery, and Captain W. M. of the Corps of Engineers, and to every other Officer in those two Corps I feel myself under great obligations, for their unremitting exertions on this occasion, and to which I principally attributed my early success against this place.

I have the pleasure to say, on this fine day, that the Breaching Batteries, which have been working since the 10th inst., have been successful in breaching the walls, and three Gunboats killed, and the only casualties.

A return of the Ordnance, Stores, &c. found in the Fort, I shall have the honor to forward for your Lordship's information to-morrow.

(Signed) G. LAKE.

Aggra, October 18, 1853.

The gross revenue of the Mogul Empire, according to an authentic record transmitted from Bengal to England, in reign of Akbar, amounted to 36,000,000. Rialtis. This was the estimated value of the gross produce of the lands, as collected in the provinces, together with the amount of some few taxes, which were levied on certain articles of merchandise and other movable property; but the net revenue, which was transmitted in cash to the treasury at Delhi, did not amount to more than 20,000,000. Rialtis.
