

THE COURIER.

TUESDAY, MAY 14, 1811.

APPOINTMENTS, &c.

Mr. Robert Boyd, Register to the Court of Chancery in Hillsborough.
The Rev. Morgan Davis, Chaplain, to do duty at the Chapel in the Black Town, in the room of the Rev. John Kerr, deceased.
Lieutenant High Story, of the 70th Regiment, Native Infantry, to be Adjutant General of the 5th or commanding the army, during the absence of the Commandant in Chief, and Lieutenant Henry Jones, of the 20th Regiment Cavalry, to be Adjutant General of the 1st Regiment Cavalry.

the gale, as well as of all hands on board. The Pasquhar, Schooner, also foundered, and only two of her crew were saved.
We have made mention of the P... and cannot learn that any later news from Europe has reached the ears of friends here who we are already in possession of. The party of Buenos in Portugal seems to be the last News from the Quarterly.
Extra Business, one of which we are informed was the Phœnix, that arrived the beginning of February from England. The Master of the Schooner had been in the bay, and was ordered to sail about 6th April on account of the 20th of the month, and was ordered to leave when that service was performed.

and signed by the Collector or Deputy Collector, under penalty of confiscation.
Not ship or vessel to be permitted to sail by the main of the Port, without producing at his office a certificate from the Custom House signed by the treasurer that all its duties have been paid.
It is ordered in respect of a plea of ignorance, that all sailors shall furnish themselves at the Custom House with copies of these laws, which shall deliver to the captain or commander of the ship, on their going on board, under one hundred dollars penalty.
By order: A. BAKER, Chief Secretary to Government.

point, as they are reported to have been delivered to the Grand Jury, assembled under the commission for trying Colonel Despard, and his associates; on the evidence of a conspiracy to kill the King—Anno mississis &c.—that it is a probable guilt was brought before them: it would of course be their duty, to submit it to the ulterior investigation and decision of their proper tribunal—He says, that it was only necessary to act, in order to obviate any misconception on the subject, which might affect the discharge of their own statute duty; that to refuse to sign the various degrees of credit to testimony derived from accounts of pirates, would be to render the crime of the conspirators, and the extent of the conspiracy, the effectual means of its own entire prevention and its annihilation, a principle of justice which he observes would be fully repugnant to the obvious dictates of common sense, and the ordinary rules, by which criminal justice is administered.

the loss of the French in killed, wounded, and privates is estimated at 18,000 men, a sum accounts for 12,000. The English Cavalry had 70,000 men on the engagement. It is asserted that they were between Albania and the French army.
England Donatario was brought from Malta to London on board the Phoenix Frigate. It is said, he will have the option of remaining there, or of proceeding to America.
The papers contain a few articles, of local intelligence, which, when translated, shall be laid before our readers. If the gentlemen to whom we allude, and who are named, should spare them for a further period.

The Charge delivered to the Grand Jury at the last Sessions, by the Honourable Sir JORS Lord.
After the Grand Jury had been sworn, Sir JORS addressed them in nearly the following words.
Gentlemen of the Grand Jury,
I am happy to observe that the annual tax which you are to impose, is a tax which is a large sum to inform you, that the crime with which they are charged, are of no great magnitude, and as I cannot anti-judge any difficulty in point of fact, which are likely to occur, in the course of the investigation of them, I shall not take up your time by making observations, which your own experience can amply justify.

I have only further to observe, on this occasion, that as some of the Depositions relating to it, (which are laid before you) contain facts, which your Honour does not speak to from his own knowledge, but from what he has heard from others, that such evidence cannot be received by you, as legal proof of any fact which it is your duty to establish before you, the Law of England requiring that all evidence shall be given upon oath.
With these remarks I shall leave this indictment to your usual discretion and good sense, confident that you will do justice. (I thought that you may have heard on this Court, and either find or reject the Bill by what is now alleged and proved before you, and then you cannot fail to testify, in the trial, for the cause.

Mr. Assistant Surgeon W. Jones, will attend his office at the establishment of Pimento on board the Fortitude.
Surgeon Smitser, attached to the Royal Artillery, has arrived on board to do the duty of the Regiment's 50th Regiment, embarked on board H. M. Ship Illbruck.

GAZETTE OF THE ISLE OF FRANCE, WEDNESDAY 13, MARCH 1811.
ORDER.
That within twelve hours after the arrival of any ship, or vessel in the Port, the Porser, Supercargo, or Owner if either of them be on board, if not, the captain shall deliver at the Custom House, or at the Custom House, a bill of lading for his cargo under a penalty of 500 Dollars.

2d. ARTICLE.
Immediately upon the arrival of any ship, or vessel in this Port, a Custom House Officer shall go on board and remain there, until the arrival of the Porser, and who shall produce a certificate signed by the Collector or Deputy Collector of the Customs, that the necessary papers have been deposited; unless the Officer may have cause to suspect fraud, in which case he is to remain on board until the ship or vessel is cleared out.

This statute has been held to extend to this country, and under it, two things are to be observed. First, that the owner of the goods was intended to part with them by the pretence used, and that a man by the pretence created the immediate injury. And secondly, that the crime was in fact, because if it is not, and he parted with his property without deception, although his loss may be recompensed by a civil action, it cannot be made the subject of a criminal prosecution.

On Saturday last, Major Gen. Peter, Commanding the Army, paid a visit of ceremony to His Highness Arden of Dook, 7th Viscount of Carnarvon, and received a salute of 15 Guns on entering, and departing from, Chequap Gardens.

No ship or vessel shall land any part of their cargo, without a permit signed by the Collector or in his absence the Deputy Collector, of the Customs, under penalty of confiscation.

3d. ARTICLE.
No merchandise or goods shall be landed except on the merchants wharf under penalty of confiscation.

I shall now submit some observations to you, on the scandalous and frequent commission of the highest of all crimes, that of murder, by Europeans in the Colony; as the Colony however continue to charge of that description at present. (which I fear is an unusual circumstance) you may be surprised I notice this offence to you now, which is the subject of this article, because I think these remarks will come with more propriety at a time, when there is no more, to whom they can be supposed immediately to refer, who may be the cause to which this is allied. I can state to the authorities of the late Ascot General of Calcutta, that out of 20 Europeans tried there during the last year, but only in four cases, forty were accused of the crime of murder.

On Saturday afternoon anchored in the Pond, the Arab Ship Seloushan Shaw, of C. Schmidt, Commandeur from Pango, on the 20th.

4th. ARTICLE.
If it is expressly prohibited to land any goods or merchandise on Sunday. On other days nothing shall be landed except between the hours of 5 and half past 11, in the forenoon, and between one o'clock till ten in the afternoon, unless an especial permit be granted.

6th. ARTICLE.
It is expressly prohibited to land any goods or merchandise on Sunday. On other days nothing shall be landed except between the hours of 5 and half past 11, in the forenoon, and between one o'clock till ten in the afternoon, unless an especial permit be granted.

I shall now take the liberty of submitting to you, the opinions of the present learned and honorable Chief Justice of England upon this case; but as your duty is only to see, that a probable ground of guilt is made out, I should think you would not require it to the same extent as the Jury who are finally to determine the case.

By this opportunity you are sorry to learn that a violent fire broke out here this evening at the late of France & its neighborhood about 20th March last. Many vessels had been driven ashore, but not materially damaged. At the same time, a great number of the buildings of the Gun-ship Steamer had not been saved at the Gale. The Melville Frigate with a part of the Madras Volunteers, had been blown away, having lost her Mizen Mast and main and fore-top masts. The Brig, Duchess of York, from Madagascar, with a part, had been detached to Calcutta, and the late H. M. Ship Fort was taken possession of by a few French posts, who had French Prisoners taken on board. With these and other news we are sorry to hear of the British, and we are concerned to announce her loss in on which the lot fell on a cold blood, shot the first unfeeling and unprotected labourer they see with the fields, the rest standing by (in the language of the law) and doing nothing. In consequence of this they were sent as they wished to Calcutta, but miserably were they deceived in the result. For instead of having their offence regarded in the same manner, they found that they had perpetrated it to themselves, four out of the five were doomed by the upright verdict of their own country to pay the forfeit of their lives to the British nation. Their blood was shed in vain, but that their fate will impress the minds of those here, with a full sense of the nature of the Law of England in affording protection to the honest as well as the highest individual who is subject to its care: May it also correct that false and horrible opinion, which denounces the execution of every Justice who dares to do the duty of a crime, from which our nature, would of itself recoil.

I cannot discuss you on this occasion, without making some comments on a subject which has occupied the attention of every Justice who is recalled to mind in this place. You will I am sure understand me to allude to the offence of Perjury, which is in its excess at least, recalcitrant to the Nature of Justice, and as it is so strongly, that when I say there is an insensibility among them to the obligations of truth: Important as this must be, in every relation, in which man can be placed in society, it is peculiarly so in its place, where you cannot get at the truth or falsehood of the facts, which are disputed, without considerable reliance on the testimony of witnesses: In this case of a private act, I will say nothing, but the relation of the party injured to guide your judgment; the want of confidence therefore which we have in the relation of the Native, does in a great measure, tend to retard the benefit of the Trial by Jury which was intended to be given by our mother country to this, as her choicest and best inheritance.

Whatever can be done by punishment, should be used to criticize, and not to think of anything will be done effectually 'till we can reach the minds of the Natives and convince their understandings of the impropriety of the offence: This is the purpose of the lectures of the Professors and Teachers, (who Mr. Barke elegantly designates "their guides through life and consolation to death") to enforce a doctrine, which cannot exist in the mind of an uneducated Native, while he must strengthen every, which gives security and happiness to society.

I ought to apologize for having so long detained you from the Court, which exclusively belongs to you, the administration of Criminal Justice, permit me only to remark that, that you as well as the Court have in the Law of the Land, one and the same guiding guide, to assist you in the discharge of them, and while we adhere to that, neither can you wrong, but if ever we are led to substitute our own discretion in the place of the Law, we are led astray by the influence of authority, or what is perhaps worse, the voice of popular clamour, we turn that, which when fairly and wisely administered, is the best blessing of society, into its destruction and curse, and the government of laws is no longer a government of liberty, then while its enactments are known and inviolable.

I now take leave of you, in the full conviction, that you will afford equal protection to all, and that in the emphatic words of your oath, you will present no man from prejudice or power, or leave anything unperformed from fear, favour or affection; but faithfully execute every thing as it comes to your knowledge, according to your oaths.

We apprehend that there is some mistake, as to the date, in the late Intelligence received overland, relating to the movements of the Army on the 14th of November.—We have had considerable pains to ascertain the date of the latest Intelligence received by the Reinforcements from Lenoir, and find that it extends to the 17th of that month, at which time both Armies remained stationary.

A London Paper of the 1st of Dec. was on board the Rein-force, which falling in a sea with the Majesty's Brigate, Captain Duncanson, in a letter requested a few late Papers, which was cheerfully complied with, not conceiving that Intelligence of that date could be of interest in this country.

From this channel it appears that Parliament had met according to adjournment on the 29th of November, when Ministry had again proposed another adjournment for a fortnight, which was not only carried, but a motion for opposition had been carried—the number however which divided on the question we have not been able to procure.

The Bullsion on his Majesty's health were held to merit the same language as those we have published.

This Paper contained a short dispatch from Lord Wellington, dated the 17th of November, stating that Massena had made two or three attempts to cross the Rhine, but all had failed—and that the Army in which he bore the same position as at the date of his last dispatch.—Our Readers will perceive this does not impair the Intelligence we have published, regarding the bridge over the Zeger, having given way and the capture of the Enemy's Artillery.—It might have occurred at a later date—as likewise the Retreat, which from the above it appears, Massena had in contemplation.

The same paper contains a Letter from Massena to the Minister at War in Paris, dated the 23d of November, and copied from the Monitor, its contents are stated to be very important.

The Storm did not extend with violence beyond Palatka to the Northward, Covoulog to the Southward, and Cosengeron to the Westward.

The Ship which appeared in the Roads on Saturday last and stood out again, was spoken by the Vancouver, and proved to be the Indian from Botany Bay, bound to Calcutta.

CIVIL APPOINTMENT, APR. 25, 1811.

Mr. George Chester, Acting Commercial Resident at Malda.

BENGALESE INSURANCE SOCIETY.

At a numerous and respectable meeting of Merchants, members of the Bengal Insurance Society, held in the beginning of the month of April, the following gentlemen were elected of the Committee, for the ensuing six months:—J. J. Sackie, Thomas de Souza, Edward Fitzsimon, and J. B. Huson, Esqs., and Messrs. Stephen and Pierre Tavernier.

At the same meeting, Messrs. Stephen and Pierre, Captain were elected Secretaries to the Society.

CANTON, FEBRUARY 27, 1811.

Our prospects at present are not encouraging, the Commodore Gooden is more particularly so. He has fallen considerably, during the last two months. The Cargo imported per Aurora, Gough, only 20,000 lbs. of Opium, and 1000 lbs. of Bengal Cotton Goods, and very few more, would sell for more than 13s. 6d. to 13s. 8d. Opium is very dull of sale, both at Whampoa and Macao.—It may be got there only at 17/0.

CHINA, MARCH 1, 1811.

An affair lately occurred at Canton, of which very probably an account has not reached you. It became the subject of general discussion at China, where the business of Government being conducted with more serenity and official respectation, and the Mandarines on earth, the slightest opposition or remonstrance against any of its measures, however unimportant, excite a high degree of interest. The opinions of the various Mandarines, on the earth, the slightest opposition or remonstrance against any of its measures, however unimportant, excite a high degree of interest. The opinions of the various Mandarines, on the earth, the slightest opposition or remonstrance against any of its measures, however unimportant, excite a high degree of interest.

At Canton, on the 13th instant, the Hydrocote of 400 tons and upwards, belonging to the British Company, sailed from that place for Madras and Bengal, and had a pleasant passage to Calcutta, where she arrived with the intention of completing her cargo with Pepper. On the 13th instant, 2 P.M. the weather seemed a very threatening appearance, the wind suddenly shifted from West to East, and began to blow with an extraordinary force, Thunder, Lightning and extreme high wind.

About 5 o'clock, which was most terrific in aspect, appeared (from the decrease of time between the lightning and thunder to approach) a heavy shower of rain, which fell directly over the ship.—A tremendous flash accompanied instant with the most awful Thunder, struck the main mast and shivered it from top to bottom. The rigging scattered in all directions, the planks, and the lower part of the masts, were shivered, and the ship was left in a very precarious situation. The main mast was split, and the mainmast was shivered in several places, and the mainmast was shivered in several places, and the mainmast was shivered in several places, and the mainmast was shivered in several places.

A PASS-ENGINEER.

April 27th—Arrived Great Calcutta, Nagoldah Corro, from Tellicheery, Dido Munegott Patterson Boat, Srangah Baladon, from Surate, 23th Dido Blownay Patterson Boat, Srangah Baladon, from Srangah.

The popular report of the Chinese that the extraction of the Grand Chop, was the act of Mr. Williams, a seaman of one of the Company's ships, accused some time ago of killing a Chinese Cooly, was not unfounded; but at bottom, it was no more than an article of the Mandarines to exact from the Spaniards good consideration, to facilitate their application, in consequence of the above, the Spaniards intend to have principally to have participated.

A SEAMAN'S POETRY.

The following lines are the production of Edward Brinford, Gunner's mate on board H. M. frigate the Clonidine...

ODE TO MAURITIUS.

Owe India vast long time the flag did show,
Tincture with sunset tints your banner flew.

For ere, from Asia's coast your foe appear,
To pluck those Emerald you have long worn.

With pleasure now we view the rising tide,
The lovely Valleys, now mark'd as our own.

For ere poor Tatters, Britain's sons in view,
In one dear cause united firm and free.

No deep loud merriment vultures to engage,
Nor more the Indian's your suffer ill.

No private plots to fill our country's side,
The cause of England cheer our Zeal's heart.

No longer shall we shakle the low cad,
Mourne falls into the hands of men.

Oh on those seas triumphantly you're sail'd,
And towed the captive vessel proudly here.

Your bounden Parts that guard the far side,
Where long the red-colored flag has flown.

Eu Africa's zone, who here benighted the night,
Oh your oppressing chains, to long have laid.

Blush now ye Gauls, when o'er the Indian Isles, Britannia's flag, triumphant floats in air.

They shall all praise each Briton tread again,
Tipt India's Ocean without stain or stain.

And crown'd Europe hail'd as the bring man,
Oh ev'ry Piree shall bid his hand.

Unit cheer my countrymen, let one and all,
United and drive the hated foe away.

And ye, ye sons of India in our cause,
United with Britons and go hand in hand.

That crown has on our most happy face,
Which have the straited by a foreign hand.

That crown has on our most happy face,
Which have the straited by a foreign hand.

REPEAL OF THE UNION.

Meeting at the Royal Exchange, Dublin, September 18, 1810.
PETITION ADDED.

To the Right Hon. the Commons of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, the Petition of us, &c.

ration the consequences resulting from the legislative Union which in the year 1801, was enacted between Great Britain and Ireland.

Your Petitioners consequently entreat the Honorable House to inquire whether the measure, which has now been put to the decisive test of experience, has in any degree been fulfilled...

That your Petitioners humbly renounce a revival and repeal of the Legislative Union between Great Britain and Ireland...

Because the Government of England, which it could control the proceedings of the Irish Legislature, have proposed or recommended to the consideration of the Legislature...

Because the measures which have been proposed to the consideration of the Legislature, have been such as to excite the indignation of the people of Ireland...

Because the Parliament of Ireland, being delegated to make Laws & Legislators, could not transfer their legislative authority without the express sanction and approbation of their constituents...

Because the Irish improvement of Ireland under an independent Parliament, together with the annexed statement, must demonstrate that the interests of the country were much better understood, and its resources better managed...

The debt of Ireland, in 1793, was to the debt of Great Britain as one to one hundred, and is now as one to seven.

And your Petitioners cannot but conceive this statement the more irresistibly conclusive in favor of the Union, inasmuch as the warmest advocates of that measure ever maintained the avowed and notorious corruption of the Irish Parliament...

tical management of Irish resources and a still more enlarged understanding of Irish interests, are not to be expected from a reformed Legislature...

Because the Imperial Parliament (composed of Members, five-sixths of whom have never visited Ireland or acquired any personal acquaintance of the genius and character of its inhabitants...

Because the promises officially announced to this country by the British Minister, at the treaty of Union, which he contracted to propose...

Because the dangers and distresses of Ireland have since taken their chief rise from the following circumstances:—the want of a regular and systematic Union between the two countries...

That your Petitioners, in conclusion, wish to state to this Honorable House, that having from 1793 to 1800 experienced the beneficial effects resulting from a resident and independent Parliament...

MISERY OF THE SOUTH OF IRELAND.

We are sorry to state, from authentic sources, that very general distress prevails throughout the South of Ireland, and more particularly in the district here named...

The price of land has particularly suffered, indeed this event was long expected, and the price had notoriously and unreasonably risen to an enormous rate, too high to be endured...

Hence, the high rents are rapidly declining in the course of the year. Limerick, Cork, Waterford, and Kilkenny, Glendal, that brought 4 last year, will not now bring 50s. per acre from any solvent tenant...

To the latter tenantry, it is difficult to count the recent addition of 50 per cent. upon their window tax, exclusive of 3d. per pound sterling upon their several rack rents and tithes...

It is not required that the Officers of the Army should wear any other mourning, on the present occasion of the death of her late Royal Highness the Princess Amelia...

INDIA GAZETTE,

MONDAY, APRIL 29, 1811.

The whole of the third division of transports, proceeding on the expedition from this port, we are happy to understand, has at length got to sea. The Windham, the last ship of this division, reached Kedgerree early in the course of last week; and, after receiving on board her proportion of troops, sailed in prosecution of her voyage.

The remainder of the fleet of transports, which conveys the detachment of between 5 and 600 men, who began to embark at Barrackpore on the 17th current, are now working out of the river, ship by ship, as they are ready. The Venus and Charlotte left Kedgerree on Friday. The Ann had not reached that station, at the date of the last report from thence.

The principal packets of the H. C. ship City of London, will be closed and despatched from the Post Office, this evening. The ship, however, is not expected to sail before the 15th or 20th proximo. And letters will probably be in time to overtake her, by the after packets, or by the inland dawk to Kedgerree, for a fortnight to come.

INDIA GAZETTE EXTRAORDINARY,

APRIL 29, 1811.

His Majesty's Ship Fox, whose arrival we noticed in our regular number of this morning, sailed from Madras on the 21st current.

The Hon. Lieutenant Elliot has returned to this Presidency in the Fox, in a state of severe indisposition.
