RADHAKRISHNAN - THE TEACHER

R. Vijayalakshmi, I.R.S.,

The late 19th century and early 20th century saw the emergence of verily a tribe of giants on the Indian scene, scientists, statesman, religious leaders and finally, philosophers. Sarvepalli Dr. Radhakrishnan was such a giant, a veritable genius, but with such a well-rounded and remarkable personality that he extended his greatness to those around him rather than make them appear wanting. In short, a born teacher, destined to shed light and lustre wherever he was. His life itself, simple but with the richness of intellect and humanism is a lesson in itself.

Born in 1888 at a place near Tirutani, Radhakrishnan received his early education at Tirutani, Tirupathi and Vellore and at the Madras Christian College for his degree course. After a brilliant academic career, he joined the Presidency College at Madras as an Assistant Professor of Philosophy. The young man made his mark immediately; his lofty diction, at choice of words and phrases and clarity of thought kept the students gazing in ever increasing awe and admiration. The abstruse subject, philosophy adorned with gems culled from other branches of learning as well and the dazzle would remain long after the lecture had ended.

It was a common sight to see students from other faculties attending these lectures, such was the magnetic pull of Radhakrishnan's eloquence. His old students from Madras, Mysore and Calcutta testify to the sonorous voice, choice of words and expression and clarity of thought and the flow of ideas which exerted such an irresistible pull on the listeners. Soon his fame carried him on to the Mysore University and thence to the Calcutta University. Meanwhile he was invited to give guest lectures in England and the U.S.A., where the audience marvelled at his mastery of subject and the language and his masterly exposition.

M. Yamunacharya, a former student at Mysore recalls with nostalgia, the thrill and admiration for the man whom he taught. He recollects him as a 'God intoxicated man'. He distinctly remembers his frequent exhortation to the students, not "to lose their foothold on earth while sweeping the skies." His wonderful eloquence, the warmth with which he taught an abstruse subject philosophy won him many admirers. Radhakrishnan's teachings did not merely end with eloquent lectures. He established tender human relationship with his students and was ever ready with kind words, encouragement and meaningful guidance. Thus he won himself an admiring crowd of followers who installed him in a carriage and dragged the carriage themselves to the railway station, when he left for Calcutta to accept the King George V seat of Philosophy.

Radhakrishnan has the distinction of being made the Vice-Chancellor of the University when he was fifty years. He served as Vice-Chancellor of Andhra and Benares Hindu Universities and both saw the emergence of Radhakrishnan, the administrator. Those were the days of student unrest and violence.

While a staunch patriot himself Radhakrishnan maintained a sane balance between the pressures of administration and students' aspirations. He kept the University campus free from the inroads of governmental authority on the one hand and infiltration of political parties as such on the other. While he inspired by his personal conduct and example the love of freedom and a passion for integrity in conduct and academic achievement amongst his juniors and students, he showed in high degree, to put in his own words, "an almost uncanny knack of putting myself en rapport with any individual, high or low, old or young."

As Fyzee recalls one such incident, while Radhakrishnan was Vice-Chancellor of Benares Hindu University. It appears that there was a sports meet at Benares and some wrong had been done to some one in the team from Bombay. The team from Bombay was highly incensed and decided to give practical shape to the virtuous indignation felt by everybody in the team. Fyzee being a strong man and a martinet, was elected to meet Radhakrishnan. He was asked to see the Chairman and discuss the agenda. "His sunny smile, his gentle laughter, his wisdom and moderation won me over. I protested against the silken web that he was weaving around me, but love and wisdom and moderation are stronger than Krupp's steel. Fyzee went on to become "an ardent admirer of Radhakrishnan."

Such then was Radhakrishnan, the teacher, faultless memory avid curiosity, capacity to analyse, clarity of thought and eloquence there were but the means. But the essence of the man lay in his humanity and love for his fellow beings, a dispassionate approach to problems but a compassionate approach to human beings. This was the magic formula which made Radhakrishnan, the great teacher, remembered vividly by his students everywhere.

Tamil Thenral Thiru. Vi. Ka.

put District. He was the sixth child among the eight to his father through his second wife. His parents were Viruthachala Mudaliar and Chinnammal.

Tamil Thenral Thiru. Vi. Ka. worked indefatigably for the betterment of Tamil, labour, religion, politics, and society. He was a selfless, outstanding leader of the Tamils.

When he retired from active life, he started working in the Press with his elder brother Ulaganatha Mudaliar and took up writing.

He was the founder-editor of the Tamil daily "Desabakthan" and credit must go to him for writing editorials containing even complex ideas, in a simple, easy style.

In those days a majority of the leaders used to address political meetings in English. Breaking the tradition, Thiru. Vi. Ka., started addressing political meetings in chaste Tamil winning appreciation.

He introduced new ideas in his works written in a beautiful style which is noteworthy. Two among his works namely 'Pennin Perumai' and 'Gandhi Adigal Varalaru' are worth mentioning.

Thiru. Vi. Ka. studied with intense interest literature in Tamil as well as English. In English he studied the works of all poets like Milton, Shakespeare, Wordsworth, Keats, Shelley, Karl Marx and Leo Tolstoy, Blavatzky, Annie Besant and Bernard Shaw. Being a great thinker Thiru. Vi. Ka. analysed all that he read and heard including the style and formed his own. The growth in his style is astonishing.

As a close follower of Mahatma Gandhi and at the same time a vigorous worker and a leader of labour movement, he spread the ideals of Gandhi and Karl Marx. He not only read the age old books of the world but took great interest towards modern books. Particularly Gandhism and Marxism. He studied them deeply. He found little difference between them. He thought that their principles will be useful to Indian circumstances.

Though he worked hard without caring for his health and facilities at the age of 66 he became blind and he was confined in his house for the rest of his life.

On 17th September 1953 he died after prolonged illness at his residence at Royapettah, leaving behind him no high ambitions, because all that for which he laboured were fulfilled.

Many people strived for the development of Tamil language and literature in Tamil Nadu. One among them was Tiruvarur Viruthachala Kalyanasundaram, popularly known as Thiru.Vi.Ka.

Thiru. Vi. Ka. was born on 26th August, 1883 at Tullam a small village in Saidapet Taluk, Chengal-

But never forget we have been independent for only 40 years now. We have been victims of a cruel colonial exploitation—economic, social, cultural and political. LET US PRESERVE THE UNITY AND INTEGRITY OF OUR COUNTRY

The 42nd Independence Day was celebrated all over Tamil Nadu with usual gaiety. The Governor Dr. P.C. Alexander was received by the Chief Secretary Thiru M.M. Rajendran near the Fort Ramparts and conducted to the saluting base on Rajaji Salai. The Chief Secretary also introduced to the Governor, the General Officer Commanding ATNKK area, the Commander of Tamil Nadu-Kerala Sub-area, the Naval Officer-in-charge, Madras, the Air Officer Commanding, Air Fort Station, Tambaram. The Director-General of Police, The Commissioner of Police, The Inspector General of Police (L & O) and The Sheriff of Madras.

After taking the salute, the Governor inspected the Guard of Honour provided by the Indian Air Force Personnel. On entering the Fort, he was received by his Advisers, Thiru G.V. Ramakrishna, I.A.S. and Dr. A. Padmanabhan I.A.S. near the steps on the South of the Ramparts and conducted to the Flag Mast.

The Governor unfurled the National Flag at the Fort Ramparts. He addressed a gathering in front of Fort St. George.

The Governor in his speech said:

I said this is a day of rejoicing and thanks giving and also a day of Introspection and self-assessment. If there is one thing of which we feel proud on this Independence Day, it is that we have not only preserved our freedom but also preserved our Democracy. Freedom without democracy is only freedom from external domination, but it will still be domination of a few over many. Over 50 countries gained their independence with the collapse of colonialism immediately after Indian Independence, but if we take a headcount of these countries today, we will find that freedom in many countries has not meant freedom for the ordinary man and woman. The lights of democracy—freedom of speech, freedom of the press, independence of judiciary, elected legislature, and civil service selected on merits have been blown out in many countries which became free along with us, and most of them are now under some crude variant of dictatorship or theocracy wearing the robes of democracy.

There were many who thought India with large number of princely States, wide variety of languages and sub-cultures, disparities in development among different sections of the people, differences based on caste and religions will never be able to retain our national cohesion and identity after the departure of the British. Over the last 41 years, we have proved all the skeptics wrong and have emerged as a united and integrated nation proud of our ancient heritage, confident of our future destiny.

I said that we have emerged as a united and coherent nation. But on an occasion like this, it is good to make a careful look at our strength and cohesion as a nation. 41 years after Independence, we paid the heavy price for freedom through partition and bloodshed, we now hear shrill cries of secession and subversion, separation and terrorism fuelled by money and weapons from across the borders and supported and financed by certain misguided elements living in the comforts of certain affluent countries of the West. It is, of course, only a microscopic minority who think that by mindless murder, mayhem and butchery of innocent people in market places or forms they can cause another partition of India. While we remain committed to the tasks of preserving the unity and integrity of our country whatever may be the cost, we should not ignore the seriousness of the foreign involvement in these nefarious activities of a few. The answer to those who entertain such dreams about destabilising or disintegrating India is the renewed commitment and resolve of 800 million people of India to the Unity and integrity of the motherland.

Our young Republic has also to safeguard itself from the cancerous growth of disintegrating forces from within the body politic which often masquerade themselves as loyalty to a region, a language or a caste. We in India respect all religions; and unlike some other developing countries have not proclaimed the primacy of exclusively of any particular religion or sect. The basic tenet of our secularism is freedom of worship and faith for all and respect for all religions. In democratic India, there is no room for conflict of loyalties based on religion, culture or language. All the languages are languages of India, India take pride in her composite culture, a grand mosaic into which different sub-cultures blend harmoniously enriching the whole without losing the identity of the part. This unity of culture, retaining its rich variety and diversity has indeed been the main strength of our nation.

I wish to convey my greetings to the countless farmers and workers of India and to our brave soldiers, sailors and airmen who are engaged in defending the territorial integrity of our motherland.

On this great day, let us renew our irrevocable commitment to the basic tenets of our Nation, which have been our strength and pride namely—Secularism, Socialism and Democracy. And what better way we can do it except through the immortal words of Jawaharlal Nehru whose birth centenary we will be celebrating this year.

I quote from Nehru's message to the Nation of 15th August, 1947.

"We shall never allow the torch of freedom to be blown out, however high the wind or stormy the tempest."

JAI HIND! VANAKKAM!

The Flag hoisting ceremony over, the Governor distributed food packets to the poor and physically handicapped children assembled at the Fort.

Progress in 40 Years high lighted

The progress, achievements, challenges and the problems in various spheres of development during the 40 years of independence were highlighted at a symposium on 40 years of Freedom, organised in Madras on August 15th by the Directorate of Information and Public Relations.

In his presidential address, Thiru P.K. Sethuraman, Judge of the Madras High Court, said 40 years was too short a period in the life of a nation. Yet, India had achieved significant progress in diverse areas.

He said there were still some veteran freedom fighters who could personally describe the spirit and events of the freedom struggle. But a time would come when the people would have to know how India won its freedom only from history and the books.

The Director of Collegiate Education, Dr. P.S. Subramanian, welcoming the gathering, said that as part of the "Freedom 40" celebrations, the Government had organised this symposium to assess the developments by representatives from different disciplines.

Thiru S.T. Kasirajan, I.A.S., spoke on Cultural Development, Thiru S.V. Chittibabu on Science and Technology, Dr. Avvai Natarajan on Education, Dr. S. Vijayalakshmi on Rural Women and their Progress, Tmt. Sivasankari on Women's Development, Thiru V.O.C. Subramanian on Industries and Thiru Anbu Vedachalam on Strides in Agriculture.

The curtain on the two-day celebrations put up by the various Government departments came down with a variety entertainment programme by students of different schools and colleges at the Kalai-varan Arangam.

A MAN OF MANY PARTS

A.P. JANARTHANAM

I was attracted to Anna in 1937. Since then he had been my affectionate elder brother in public life.

With his amiable disposition, tact, sobriety, statesmanship, brotherly feelings for his party associates and compassion even for his opponents, Anna endeared himself to one and all. He stood for stability, order and progress in the South. He was claimed by all India. He championed the cause of the poorest of the poor.

Anna was a versatile genius who moulded the destinies of great people. A staunch follower of Periyar Ramasami, he became the Rising Sun of Tamil glory.

He reigned supreme for over three decades as the greatest orator of Tamil Nadu. He drew the biggest crowds. His oratory was relished as much as the music of M.K. Thyagaraja Bhagavatar and the nadaswaram of T.N. Rajaratnam—the timbre and rhythm of his voice was such. He was the Tamilian Demosthenes. Alliteration, vast erudition, penetrating insight, fine anecdotes and choice parables marked his speeches.

Anna was a great journalist, a fine novelist and a noted playwright. As editor of Viduthalai, Dravidanadu, Kanchi, Home Rule and Homeland he wrote page after page, week after week, for over 30 years. He distilled the essence of the great Sangham literature in his writings. Bharathi Dasan, the great revolutionary poet, influenced him very much.

He was a master of history. He wrote history—and made it. References to British, Greek, Roman, French, American and Russian histories abound in his writings. The Buddha, the Tamil Sidhars, Bradlaugh and Ingersoll, all inspired him.

He was a voracious reader. To the last he was a great lover of books. He mastered all great political thinkers and economists. He studied with great interest the working of democracy in underdeveloped countries. He had a keen insight into Indian conditions and problems. With his breezy style and humour, Anna made hard facts and dry statistics palatable.

Anna was a talented playwright and a gifted actor. 'Kalki', the well-known Tamil writer, compared him to Shaw, Ibsen and Galsworthy. Anna conducted many campaigns through his plays. He encouraged talented artistes.

Anna was a great statesman. He rose above party, encouraged his followers to appreciate the good in others. He did not harbour malice or ill-will. He spoke well of India in America and Japan.

He was a staunch believer in democracy and Socialism and always accommodated the Opposition's point of view. The smooth deliberations of the Tamil Nadu legislature during his time bear this out.

He was a brilliant administrator. The rupee-a-measure scheme was proof of his great concern for the common man. He stuck to Prohibition. His prosperity brigade serves the people very well.

His budget speeches are fine examples of Tamil prose. He presented the dream of Tamil thought to the delegates who attended the Second World Tamil Conference.

Anna's performances on the floor of the Madras Assembly and Council were remarkable. The packed visitor's galleries were hypnotised by his ready retorts, flashes of wit, devastating satire and masterly analysis.

In short, he was the watch dog of Tamil rights, the great ambassador of goodwill, the focus of anti-Hindi sentiment, the architect of the United Front which brought about the big change in 1967 and the leader of the Dravidian Movement.

Periyar the first Professor of Tamil Nadu

—ANNA

Many years ago I wrote an article for 'Dravidanadu' Annual Number. When I wrote about the poets and professors of various countries in that article, I referred to Periyar (E.V. Ramasami) as 'the first professor of Tamil Nadu.'

His services to society are indeed great. The people of the country have not attained intellectual fertility to such an extent as to accept his ideas and ideals.

The growth of a crop depends upon the fertility of the soil.

Likewise people of good intellectual capacity only can grasp and foster his ideas and ideals.

We cannot say that his service does not do any good. After his forty years social service, intellectual revolution has achieved success in Tamil Nadu. None can deny it. We know well how powerful and potent his rationalist propaganda is.

When he began his propaganda, certain classes of people were considered unfit for learning. Even those poor people believed it to be true.

Fifty Years Service

The service that Periyar has taken up is a laudable service. The country needs his most useful service. Periyar only has that rare ability to do it.

Rationalist Propaganda

The education that we give to our students in schools and colleges is theoretically useful to them, when they leave the institution. It is not useful to them either rationally or practically later in life. Schools should do the propaganda of learning whereas Periyar should carry on the rationalist propaganda. Only with these two things we can reform society.

PERIYAR—OUR SAVIOUR

Caste system has been harming our nation. It is caste system that has segregated millions and millions of people and held them in degradation. Periyar Ramaswami has been fighting valiantly against caste system to eradicate its root and branch. For over half-a-century, he has been fighting social evils. He has won laurels in many a battle field. He is a Saviour.

—Babuji JAGJIVAN RAM.

Gold is not obtained in bars, immediately after the earth is dug. After so many hardships, the glittering gold is got. Just like that the task of social reforms has many obstacles to overcome.

(Speech delivered by Anna on December, 19, 1967 while declaring open the Periyar Ramasami Educational Building)

GANDHIJI'S LETTER TO THANTHAI PERIYAR

"Mahatma Gandhi wrote to me twice. On the first occasion, he wrote a letter commending my work. The second letter was written when I was suffering from pain in my hand. In the letter he said "the pain may be due to your spinning of charka continuously. So, it is better you stop spinning till the pain subsides." The Civil Disobedience Movement was at its peak. Thousands of men and women who participated in this movement courted arrest. At this juncture, Sir Sankaran Nair convened a peace conference for peaceful negotiation with Indian Government in order to create a calm atmosphere in politics. He wanted that the agitation be withdrawn before the peace talks commenced. Gandhiji did not accept this pre-condition..... Addressing the peace conference Gandhiji said "The withdrawal of the agitation is not in my hands. It is in the hands of E.V. Ramasami's sister and his wife in Erode."

There is reason for such statement of Gandhiji. After my wife was arrested for participation in the agitation, many followed her to prison. My family in Erode enjoyed good reputation. Besides, I had also served as the chairman of Erode Municipality. No wonder that more number of people-friends and supporters courted arrest.

Coconut Trees Felled down

In those days I was a protagonist of Prohibition. I felled down coconut trees in my farm in order to make Prohibition a success. Following me, my friends also cut down the coconut trees in their farms. A critical situation arose in 1924 whether or not the Congress should participate in the elections. My argument was that it should not participate in the elections. But Gandhiji gave permission to the Congress to join the elections. Subsequently I suggested an alternative. I said that, if it is to participate in the elections, 50% of the seats should be reserved for Non-Brahmins and the rest be shared among all sections.

I brought it as a resolution before the Provincial Congress Conference held at Kancheepuram in that year. My resolution was not admitted. I also quit the Congress. When I was taking rest in Bangalore, Gandhi invited me to pacify me.

Ramanathan and myself met him. But I did not accept his explanation.

In later days Gandhi advocated three ideas that I could accept viz., (1) Congress should be dissolved; (2) formation of Secular Government; and (3) Brahmins should confine themselves to religious activities and allow others to get education and occupy offices.

I was the first President of the newly formed Khadi Board for five years.... I bought buildings in important places and set up Khadi stalls and increased Khadi sales. K. Santhanam was then the Secretary of the Board. We had differences of opinion over appointments. To some extent, Gandhi made a compromise of our differences. The Khadi Boards then were merged with the Akhil Bharath Charka Sangh, formed on all India basis. As a result the Provincial Khadi Boards were deprived of their powers. I was not happy over it."

BHARATI'S DREAMS REALISED

To Sri Lanka we shall build a bridge
Or raising Siam make a road;
And cultivate the hinterland
With overflowing Bengal floods;

Weapons we shall make and paper,
Establish factories and schools;
Tireless, upstanding, heads erect,
We shall speak Truth and dare and do Deeds heroic.

Umbrellas we shall make, and ploughs,
Jute-bags and iron-nails; vehicles
That run and fly; and mighty ships
That see the whole world trembling.

Great poems we shall write, paint fine pictures, foster arts and raise Rich forests, factories, furnances,
Rejoicing in all kinds of work.

Like nectar we shall cherish Tamil
Avvai's words: "Two castes alone
There are-the Noble who are just
And ever ready to help others;
And the Base who are not."

"The New Rattler-Singer". II

Prof. Dr. N. SANJEEVI

In this brief paper we shall try to understand Bharati's integrated personality of new visions and missions through a single poem of his titled as 'The new rattler-singer' which is rightly identified and acknowledged as the most original and a first experiment in form and content. The form of the poem full of sound and sense is typical of its simplicity and strength of appeal since it is just the most common sight and sound of a rattler-singer moving about wearing multicoloured clothes in the streets, lanes and by-lanes of a town or a village, in early morning after his frightening fierce mystic worships in the nearby burning-ghat and singing to the accompaniment of his small rattler sound the fortunes and misfortunes of the people especially of the well-to-do in the locality and collecting rice and clothes later in the day from the people. This technique of adopting the character of one who instills awe and fear simultaneously in one and all in the society, good or bad, rich or poor, old or young, educated or illiterate by his sooth-saying to tell the future of the very nation in curt and crisp terms is indeed a memorable illustration of the poet's ingenuity and innovation with an eye on the possible impact that will surely cause on the mind of any one and every one in the society. The following free translation of the poem 'the new rattler-singer' that is so simple and so sharp will speak for itself more of its intent and content and its potentialities for impact and inspiration than any further elucidation of it at this point.

THE NEW RATTLER-SINGER*

Kudukudu Kudukudu Kudukudu Kudukudu
 Good time comes; good time comes
 Castes merge, conflicts collapse
 Cry out, cry out, Sakthi! Maakaali!
 Tell out good fortune to the people of Vedapura(m)
 Poverty goes out; riches comes in Education expands, sins sink
 If the literate indulges in conspiracy and sin
 Certain is his disaster with the cries of 'alas'
 Trade and commerce develop in Vedapura(m)
 Industry increases, the labourer lives well
 Sastras raise, subtilities revealed
 Machines multiply; mechanics mature
 All manthras arise! O! arise!
 Kudukudu Kudukudu Kudukudu Kudukudu
 Tell out, tell out, O! Malayala Bahavathi!
 Anthari, Viiri, Sandikai! Suli!
 Kudukudu Kudukudu Kudukudu Kudukudu
 All gentlemen get courage!
 their pot-bellies shrink and slim!
 their briskness brighten!
 All the eight varieties of wealth(Ashta Lakshmi) ascend!
 Sciences advance; castes diminish!
 eyes open; Justice seen!
 The old madness suddenly cracks down!
 Hercism 'heightens; Excellence achieved!
 Tell out O! Sakthi Malayala Bahavathi!
 Dharma triumphs! Dharma triumphs!

TILAK OF THE SOUTH

Dr. P. Varadarajulu Naidu (1887-1957) popularly known as "Tilak of the South", entered the nationalist movement in 1906. He was a medical practitioner, great journalist, politician and patriot.

Born into a poor family, to Thiru Perumal Naidu and Kuppaammal on June 4th, 1887 at Rasipuram (Salem District) in Tamil Nadu, he lost his father at eight and at twelve his mother.

His early education was at Coimbatore. Later, he did a two year course in Indian Medicine at Culcutta National College. He joined the Medical Education Department at Burma.

He set up practice at Tirupur. Later he gave up his practice and joined the freedom movement.

He was married at the age of 24. His wife Rukmani encouraged his ideals.

As a Politician

Writing about his political entry, in his daily 'Tamil Nadu' dated 26th September, 1936, he said that he joined the National Movement, when he was 19 in 1906. That he was blessed by National poet Subramaniya Bharathi, when he met him at Puducherry in 1916.

The Justice party was started in 1916, to oppose the Congress Party. "The credit goes to Naidu to nip the efforts of the Justice party gaining strength in Tamil Nadu" - observed Thiru. Vi. Ka.

The Madras Presidency Association was organised in 1917 and Dr. Naidu was elected as one of the executive members. In 1925, he was elected the President of Tamil Nadu Congress Committee.

Freedom Movement

He toured all over Tamil Nadu to spread the National Movement by his fiery speeches.

In 1918, the British Government had banned public meetings within 10 kms. around the Madurai Harvey Mills, where the labourers were on strike. Dr. Naidu supported their cause with his fiery speeches.

The Government filed a suit, under the Indian Criminal Law, section 124A, 153A, against him for his anti-Government speeches. The Law and order situation in Madurai got out of control and the Government had to bring in the army. Meetings were held daily and agitations took place resulting in shooting.

Exploiting the situation the Congress Committee conducted public meetings and raised funds. "Subramania Siva participated in these meetings. Rajaji and other leading advocates appeared for Dr. Naidu. In spite of Rajaji's brilliant arguments Dr. Naidu was sentenced to 18 months imprisonment. They appealed against the judgement in the Madras High Court, and Dr. Naidu was free, because of brilliant law point made by Rajaji.

Though he had accepted Gandhiji's policy of Ahimsa in principle, Dr. Naidu felt that weapons should also be used in agitations. He had emphasized this point in an editorial "Freedom Struggle" in Tamil Nadu dated: 3.9.1921, "India should take up arms to achieve freedom". This editorial was considered seditious by the then British Government. At the trial in the Salem Court, he was convicted to 9 months imprisonment.

With Mahatma

Gandhiji stayed at Dr. Naidu's house, when he visited Tirupur in 1920 and in Salem in 1921. During the visit Dr. Naidu handed over all the jewels worn by his wife to Gandhi.

When Gandhiji was arrested in 1922, he adopted a novel method to oppose it. He refused to pay his taxes and said that he would pay his taxes only after the release of Gandhiji. The Government seized his land and car for auction. But nobody came forward to buy them.

Dr.Naidu's letter to the Government refusing to pay taxes was published in Gandhiji's, 'Young India' and Tilak's 'Maratta'. This was appreciated by Desabandu C.R. Das.

In 1921, the Indian National Congress had decided to boycott the reception to the Prince of Wales. Dr.Naidu took a leading part in successfully holding hartals and agitations in connection with the boycott in Madras. He addressed a public meeting at the beach along with Thiru.Vi.Ka., and V.V.S.Iyer. Dr.Naidu was known as the "Tilak of the South".

The INC held its annual sessions on 26th December 1927 in Madras and took a decision to boycott the Simon Commission. His fiery speeches against the Simon Commission made the boycott a great success.

The great October Revolution in 1917, in Russia encouraged the leftist party in India. He paid tributes to the new efforts taken by Soviet Russia in Annie Besant's 'New India in 1917'.

Post Independent India

Dr.Naidu was elected to the Upper House in 1951 unopposed. In 1952 he was returned to the Assembly from the Salem Constituency. His speeches in the Assembly reflected the welfare of the working population.

Dr.Naidu was the ardent supporter of the Labour movement. He had an important role in establishing the South Indian Railway workers Union.

Labour Movement

While presiding over the Second Conference of the Madras Presidency Workers Union held on 16.2.1924, he paid tributes to the revolutionary leader Lenin for setting up a Socialistic Republic.

In 1926, Dr.Naidu was a member of the All India Labour Union. At the Labour Conference held at Coonoor in 1930 he raised the revolutionary idea that the land must be nationalized.

Dr.Naidu had taken keen interest in social reforms even before his entry into politics. He worked for the uplift of the Harijans. He conducted temple entry with Harijans.

In 1924, V.V.S.Iyer was running a 'Gurukula' Ashram where the Brahmin boys and Harijan boys were segregated in the dining room. Dr.Naidu was incensed at this treatment meted out to the Harijan boys and strongly opposed it. The segregation of the boys was given up.

Dr.Naidu's political entry was through the daily 'Prapancha Mitran'. He bought the newspaper which was running at a loss. His writings were arousing and fiery. In 1919 he started 'Tamil Nadu' a weekly. In 1926, it became a daily. It ceased publication, when he entered into active politics. It was Dr.Naidu who first started the 'Indian Express'.

Dr.Naidu's heroic life came to a close on 23.7.1957.

Tamil version of Constitution released

The authentic Tamil Translation of the Constitution was released by His Excellency the Governor Dr. P. C. Alexander, under the presidentship of the Hon'ble Union Law Minister Thiru B. Shankaranand on 13th August, 1988 at Rajaji Hall.

The Governor presented the first copy of the Tamil Constitution to Thiru S. Ratnavel-Pandian, Officiating Chief Justice of the Madras High Court.

V. O. C.

The Beacon Light

V.O.Chidambaram popularly known as V.O.C. is one of the architects of modern India. He was an erudite scholar in Tamil, a prolific writer, a social reformer, a great organiser, a fiery speaker, a Trade Union Leader and a dauntless fighter in the cause of the freedom of the nation.

When Chidambaram was practising law in Tuticorin his interest in shipping was aroused. Tuticorin was then a buzzing port with great commercial activity, with Britishers having the monopoly of shipping interest. During those dark days of ruthless repression of our national interests by the British rulers, V.O. Chidambaram dared to form a Swadeshi Shipping Company. The cult of Swadeshi fired the imagination of the people. One of the first attempts in the direction of self reliance was made. The swadeshi movement ultimately shook the very foundation of the British rule in India.

A friend of the poor man, V.O.C. organised labour union in the Coral Mills at Tuticorin. The strike organised by him in this mill broke the tranny of the British capitalists, who, in the end, agreed to enhance the wages and reduce the working hours.

Chidambaram was one of the contemporaries of dynamic leaders like Tilak and Bipin Chandrapal. He gave up his legal profession and threw himself in the struggle for swaraj and galvanised the masses by his eloquent speeches and powerful writings. The Government who were watching the activities of V.O.C. with obvious fear and suspicion prosecuted him for sedition.

He was sentenced to 40 years of transportation. On appeal the sentence was reduced to 6 years of rigorous imprisonment.

After serving a long term of imprisonment, Chidambaram came out of jail, penniless and broken hearted, with despair and anguish as to how to find his feet in life. Extreme hardships in jail had completely shattered his health. He saw only the ruination of the Swadeshi Shipping Company, which he had so fondly nurtured. To go back to law was his only recourse. But his sanaad had been forfeited by the British rulers. Thanks to the help of Judge Wallace he got back his sanaad. But he found that he could not make both ends meet. He gave up practice and turned his attention to literary pursuits.

V.O.C. had the sanctifying association of Poet Bharati who was then known widely as the Bard of Freedom. The stirring songs of Freedom began to ring through the words and work of Bharati. V.O.C. was an ardent admirer of Bharati. Bharati became a powerful associate of V.O.C.

V.O.C., Bharati, and many others, stirred Tamil Nadu to its depths. The sacrifices they made, the sufferings they endured, the hardships they encountered, the odds they met, the obstacles they crossed, became the watch word and the bye-word of political thoughts and action.

V.O.C. stood out on an eminence of patriotic persons, a scholar who broke stones and drew the oil mill, a labour leader who became the champion for the working class, an intellectual who led the way for freedom struggle, V.O.C. is hallowed by fame and name. His renunciation was great. He showed the path. He gave the philosophy of national service. He was a beacon light. He had left a tradition of scholarship and national service. His voice has become still. But he lives in the minds and hearts of our people and will continue to inspire this generation and succeeding generations for the evangelical mission of serving the cause of the people and of making India good, great and glorious.

SON OF THE MOUNTAINS

Govind Ballabh Pant, called a son of the mountains by Jawaharlal Nehru, was born to Manorath Pant and Govindi on 30 August 1887, at Khunt, near Almora, nestling on a crest of the Himalayas.

Till the age of ten, Pant was educated at home. In 1897 he was sent to the primary school of the local Ramsay College.

Pant was nearly 18 when he joined the Muir Central College, Allahabad and stayed at the Macdonnell Hindu Boarding House in 1905.

The political atmosphere was then surcharged with agitational and nationalistic feelings due to the partition of Bengal. In February 1907, in a public meeting at Allahabad presided over by Motilal Nehru, Gokhale advised the youngmen to devote themselves to the service of the motherland. The speech had a salutary and profound effect on young Pant. He accepted Gokhale as his political Guru and preceptor. Pant also came in personal contact with Madan Mohan Malaviya and was very much influenced with the magnanimity of his personality. He started making public speeches which annoyed the University authorities and he was debarred from taking the B.A. Examination but later was permitted to appear at the examination. He stood first in the Law examination in 1909 and was awarded the coveted Lumsden medal.

Pant was a voracious reader. Bankim Chandra Chatterjee's Anand Math had a profound effect on him. He also read the writings of Joseph Mazzini, which turned him into an ardent fighter for freedom. Mill's famous essay on Liberty shaped his future outlook. Lajpat Rai's personality and ideas also influenced him.

Pant was married in 1916 to Kala Devi daughter of Tara Datt Pandey at the age of 30. He had one son and two daughters.

He started his career as an advocate in 1910 at Almora and in due course of time he became the most adroit and successful advocate by sheer dint of his merit. He made a great name for himself in the law courts.

The qualities which he inculcated as a lawyer formed the foundation-stone of his future success as a statesman and administrator. He had a good grasp and command over every detail in the most complicated cases. He had the capacity of a powerful and effective cross examiner.

Pant was at the Zenith of his legal career in Kumaon in 1922 when he suddenly but silently decided to give up his lucrative legal practice. The Kakori conspiracy case, in which he led the defence, speaks of his skill, ability and patience.

He soon gained immense local reputation and became a member of the municipal board of Kashipur in 1916. It was due to the effort of Pant that Uday Raj College was founded at Kashipur in 1914. It was also due to him that free and compulsory education scheme was implemented in Kumaon in 1922.

Pant purchased the maximum shares of the Deshbakthi Press and started a new weekly 'Shakti' in October 1918 which became the battle flag of Kumaon.

Kumaon was very sensitive to the waves of nationalism and the history of national movement in Kumaon is associated with the establishment of the 'Kumaon Parishad' in 1916 in the formation of which Pant played a great part.

The Home Rule Movement had become a great force. Tilak and Mrs. Annie Besant founded the Home Rule League at Poona in April, 1916.

It was in 1919 that the notorious Rowlatt Bill was passed which subjected the liberties of the people to the mercy of the bureaucracy. It supplied the necessary fuel for an upsurge in India. Gandhi posed an emphatic protest through his new peaceful non-violent movement the great motive force of Ahimsa. Pant became an ardent supporter of the non-violent movement.

He was elected President of the Zila Parishad of Nainital in 1920 but gave up his office in 1921. Pant's achievements as President of the District Board made him very popular. He also took a prominent part in the Coolie Begar Movement in Kumaon. It was abolished in 1921.

Pandit Pant attended the momentous 36th Congress session at Ahmedabad in December 1921. Pant was very much impressed by the speech of Gandhi. He decided to devote himself entirely to the programme of hand-spinning and weaving, communal harmony, eradication of untouchability and prohibition.

In the election of 1923 Pant fought the election as a candidate of the Swaraj Party from Nainital and won the election.

Motilal Nehru came to Lucknow from Allahabad for the selection of the leader of the Swaraj Party. He was impressed by Govind Ballabh Pant, as he felt that this youngman was to play a decisive role in Indian political life.

Pant suffered lathi blows during the boycott of the Simon Commission but he felt proud of it.

Pant fought incessantly for the abolition of prostitution among the Nayak.

The Lahore Session of the Indian National Congress of 1929 put a ban on the Congressmen to contest the elections for the Councils and asked the sitting members to resign the memberships and Pant also resigned his membership.

Pant was comparatively an unknown figure in the provincial politics till 1923 but in the very first session of the council he won for himself a distinguished place in Indian politics. His oratory, his debating skill, his intellect and his

Nehru and Pant alongwith several of their companions received serious injuries. Describing the incident Nehru wrote, "we held our ground, and as we appeared to be unyielding, the horses had to pull up at the last moment and reared up on their hind legs with their front hoofs quivering in the air over our heads. And then began a beating of us, and battering with lathis and long batons both by the mounted and the foot police. Pant suffered the most and sustained severe injuries. Nehru wrote about him, "many of our companions were less fortunate, and were badly injured. Govind Ballabh Pant, who stood by me, offered a much bigger target being six foot odd in height, and the injuries he received then have resulted in a painful and persistent malady which prevented an active life.

resourcefulness made him an ideal leader of the Legislative party. He always inspired confidence in his colleagues and friends in the party and enjoyed respect even of his opponents. As a parliamentarian of great gifts, he came over to public notice as a leader of the Swaraj Party in the U.P. Legislative Council. Nature had gifted him with eloquence and intellectual grasp, the two essentials for a successful parliamentarian.

He said, "history has repeatedly proved that there is a limit to the capacity for forbearance even of fallen and oppressed people, and when tyrants become too bold and aggressive their victims shake off their lethargy and raise their heads against their oppressors.

On May 25th, 1930 Pant decided to make salt. He was arrested the following day and was sentenced to six months rigorous imprisonment for defying the Salt Laws. He was sent to Dehra Dun Jail and after some time he was shifted to Bareilly. Before his arrest Pant gave explicit instructions to the volunteers to keep the candle of non-violent resistance burning.

In 1931 Pant was elected a member of the Congress Committee and he continued in that post until his death. In 1934 he held the posts of Member of the Parliamentary Board, Member of the Parliament and Deputy Leader of Congress Party.

In 1937 he served as the leader of the Legislative Party and later as Chief Minister of Uttar Pradesh. Within two years he brought in social reforms such as removal of untouchability and uplift of Harijans. He underwent imprisonment in the Satyagraha agitation in 1940 and the Quit India Movement in 1942.

In 1945, after his release he participated in all the talks held in connection with India's Independence.

On 14th June 1947 the resolution for the partition of motherland was moved by Pant and Pandit Nehru and Sardar Patel seconded it.

Pant was elected as the Chief Minister of Uttar Pradesh in 1947 and he guided the destiny of Uttar Pradesh for the next eight years.

Home Minister :

G.B. Pant was given the assignment of Home Ministership in the Union Government and he took oath in January 1955. He was also Rajya Sabha member and leader of the Rajya Sabha. For his distinguished services he was conferred the Highest honour of 'Bharat Ratna' in 1957.

While he was amongst discussions with officials on 20th February, 1961, he suffered a stroke, caused by cerebral thrombosis from which he never recovered. On 6th March the mighty heart was still. He fought throughout his life and fought bravely with death for 16 days. Paying him tribute Jawaharlal Nehru said : "Great Captain of our people during the days of struggle for freedom, great in leadership after freedom came, child of our beloved Himalayan mountains, carrying with him something of their calm and imperturbability, rock of stability and light house to people's mind and path.
